Mr. Henry B. Rankin,
Springfield, Ill.

Dear Mr. Rankin:

I was so gratified to know that you liked the Foreword. It was the best I could do, under the circumstances, and it is a great reward to have you speak so kindly of it.

I have made some verbal corrections which I think you will agree are an improvement. I have a question about the last line. When I wrote it it seemed to round it out, I am not sure but it is a line too much. I leave it to you whether it shall be put in or not. I said practically the same thing at the start, you know.

With all good wishes,

Faithfully yours,
