My dear Dean Talbot:

I have been informed that the Home Economics Department of the Oklahoma Agricultural and Mechanical College is attempting the training of men to co-operate in the work of running the home, that you offer courses of training for them.

Could you, without too much trouble, tell me what these courses are. Are they the same that the women follow? Do men and women work together in the courses? How many men have you enrolled? And what percentage follow through?

I would be much interested to know any information that you can give me.

Thanking you in advance for the courtesy of a reply, believe me

Very sincerely yours
