Crispin Eyewitness At Hungary

by Yvonne Reed

November 3, 1956, is an especially memorable day to Dr. Robert L. Crispin, associate professor of modern languages here. On that day, when refugees began streaming out of war-torn Hungary, Dr. Crispin happened to be in Nickelsdorf, Austria, a town on the Austria-Hungary border.

The people of central Europe were extremely apprehensive of the Hungarian situation and regarded it with even greater concern than the Suez crisis, Dr. Crispin found. Austria was afraid that her neutrality would be violated when open hostilities broke out across her border. Nonetheless, Nickelsdorf was the scene of great confusion on November 3, for no organization had been set up to take care of the fleeing Hungarians.

Impressed by the speed with which the Red Cross stepped in to provide food, medical supplies, clothing, and shelter for the homeless refugees, Dr. Crispin stated that it is in a situation such as this that one realizes the tremendous importance of such a group. "One Red Cross worker I talked to hadn't slept for 72 hours," he remarked. Students also rushed to the aid of the refugees. At Christmas the American students at the University of Innsbruck gave a party for some 200 children at a Displaced Persons camp. Dr. Crispin remarked that the Hungarians were the most recent arrivals; some people had been there since 1946. "That's a long time to be without a home," he commented.

Dr. Crispin talked to several refugees and he says that he will never forget the words of a Catholic Priest who told him, "They (the Communists) can have us dead, but they can never again have us alive." This statement, he felt, epitomized the whole spirit of the revolution.

Commenting on the situation at the border while he was in Nickelsdorf, Dr. Crispin stated that the Communists had not yet closed the border and refugees seemed to be coming into Austria without difficulty. The Hungarian police were stationed about 10 kilometers within the actual border, creating a buffer. It was possible to get into Hungary, he said, but the difficulty was to get out again. Red Cross trucks were not permited to enter the country, with the result that supplies had to be left at the border where they were piling up. Thus, only refugees could be given aid while those within the country in need of help were unable to receive it.

Dr. Crispin left the United States for Europe at the end of August last year. Most of his stay was passed in Germany and in Austria, where he studied German literature at the University of Innsbruck.

As to his travels in Germany, Mr. Crispin said, "I was quite impressed by the remarkable recovery of Western Germany and the tremendous amount of building that has taken place and is still going on." He said, that he found the Germans very friendly and, for the most part, "quite pro-Western".

Ross Elected Prexy Of Community Fund

Dr. Julian L. Ross, Dean of Instruction, has been elected President of the Community Fund of Western Crawford County for this year. The election was made known at a reorganizational meeting, Wednesday, February 13, by the new Board of Directors of the Community Fund.

As Chairman, Dr. Ross will organize numerous committees and will be in charge of the campaign for raising money.

Dr. Ross graduated from Allegheny in 1923, received his Master of Arts and Doctoral degrees at Harvard and has been a member of Allegheny's faculty since 1927. Dr.

Ross was Secretary of the Faculty from 1942-49. Since that time he has been Dean of Instruction, as well as professor of English since 1944.

In the Meadville community he has been a Community Fund Board member and Chairman of the Budget Committee. At present, he is a Director of the American Red Cross, of which he was formerly treasurer.

Of the appointment, Dr. Ross comments, "I am happy to do this work for the Community Fund, because I think the closer the relationship can be between the college and the city, the better for everyone."

Lit Mag Seeks New Freshman Talent; Announces Annual Writing Competition

by Ginny Perrine

For a long time there has been a commonly held opinion that the Literary Magazine is a "closed" group, a group made up of people who hold themselves aloof from the rest of the student body because they feel they have been blessed with some extraordinary talent. While they may be a group composed of talented people, they do not hold themselves aloof and they do not consider the magazine to be a "closed" organization. In reality the magazine is made up of people who think that they can use each other's help in order to better develop any creative talent they may have.

If you were to ask any member of this group why they belonged, the most often voiced opinion would be that it gave them an opportunity to learn new things outside the class room—things that are vitally important to them, and it is this latter fact that makes the idea of a "closed" organization an erroneous one. The opportunity to learn would be quite limited for all the present members were they to remain a "closed" group.

As proof this is not a "closed" group, the Literary Magazine announces its annual Freshman Writing Contest. The contest is open to all forms of creative writing—original poetry, short stories, essays, and so on. There will be two prizes of five dollars: one awarded for the best prose contribution, and one for the best contribution in poetry. No prizes will be given, however, if the judges do not consider any entry worthy of an award. All entries must be typewritten and double spaced. The writer's name must not appear on the manuscript, but should be placed in a separate envelope attached to the entry. Entries must be marked "Freshman Writing Contest" and left at the main desk of the College Union on or before April 15, 1957, so that they may be judged in time for inclusion of the winners in the magazine's second issue.

It is the sincere hope of the present staff that this contest will provide interested freshmen, who have the desire to learn more about creative writing, with the opportunity to find an organization whose members will be more than glad to teach them what they have learned, at the same time learning something themselves.

Noted Speakers Talk On Reporting Of News

by Bev Wilkinson

Mr. Charles Shaw, Alumnus in Allegheny's Class of 1932, and currently news director of Station WCAU in Philadelphia, the nation's largest non-network news operation, will deliver two lectures on mass media and the dissemination of news at 3:30 and 7:30 p.m. in the Chapel, Wednesday, February 27.

Shaw is scheduled to arrive here Sunday evening, and on Monday will meet with the Campus staff and Publications Board at 4:30 p.m. in the CU. Anyone interested is invited to attend this open meeting. The remainder of his busy stay will include visiting the radio classes on Tuesday morning and meeting with the Senior Seminar at Mr. Hulburt's home at 7:30 p.m. Shaw will culminate his visit on Wednesday with an afternoon lecture and an evening lecture, shared with Mr. Robert S. Bates, Editor of the Meadville Tribune. Mr. Bates will discuss the role of the newspaper, while Mr. Shaw will discuss the dissemination of news through other mass media.

Shaw's career has been an eventful one. At one time, he was a reporter for the McKeesport Daily News, then for the Pittsburgh Press. After holding the position of Editor of the McKeesport Daily News, he became news editor for Station KTSA, San Antonio, Texas.

Injured in France while working as a war correspondent for CBS in World War II, this job also took Shaw to England, Norway, and Denmark, where he finished. He is distinguished as the first American correspondent to broadcast from Denmark while the Nazis were still in control near the end of the war.

While attending Allegheny, Shaw was Campus Editor in 1932 and a classmate of Allegheny coach, Robert Garbark, and Arctic explorer, Paul Siple. Also, he was President of Phi Gamma Delta Fraternity in 1931.

AUC Appoints Ten To Fill Open Posts

The AUC Meeting Sunday, February 17 was highlighted by the election of ten persons to fill committee vacancies and the approval of Monte Levitt as Editor of The Campus.

The nominations approved for committee positions include: Publications Board—Doug Bedell, chairman and member, Sue Treadwell; Citizenship Committee—Linda Wilson, chairman and members, Dick Butcher and Jim Bair; Assembly and Public Events Committee—member, Rod Grossman; Activities Board—members, Bob Adams and Jim Linaberger. The nomination of Sarah Lucas for AUC Office Secretary was also approved at this time. Jim Kweder was directed to set up the Freshman Seminar Program for next semester. The Council will take up the possibility of changing the by-laws of the Constitution to create the post of Director of the Freshman Seminar Program.

Dr. Howard Kee, Religion-in-Life Week speaker, visited the meeting, and during his stay, delivered a short address to the Council.

After a lengthy discussion of the Citizenship Committee's study of the alleged practice of the Student Admissions Committee, it was decided that nothing further could be done until the return of Mr. Sherman, Director of Admissions.

From the recent meeting of the Academic Committee and the President's Committee came the idea of an additional convocation to present several honors now given on Class Day. This Honors Convocation would probably fall in March and would include a procession of the faculty in their academic robes, as well as the students to be honored. Class Day would still be continued, with moving up exercises, but wouldn't include a number of awards usually presented then.

A light meal for Cochran and Brooks Halls will take place Wednesday, February 27. At this time, students may make contributions which will be added to the money saved on the meal and will be sent to aid the Hungarian Students. Clothing for the Hungarians may still be given, if anyone had the opportunity to collect any articles at home over Christmas or semester vacations.

There seems to us to be an undue amount of confusion and anger over what the Student Activities Committee may or may not be doing about sending Negro students to interview prospective students. The situation seems to us to be subtle, yet simple.

It appears quite likely that the Committee does not have a definite policy of discriminating against Negroes—but even this is not the crucial point. What AUC must realize is that the crux of the matter is that whenever people join a group whose purpose is only broadly seen as being an aid to the school, they will bring with them there own particular — and probably unconscious — prejudices. What the Council must not do is investigate and punish or chastize people for doing only what they thought best for the College.

What AUC should do is decide upon what the specific goals and methods of the Committee should be, and then publish them. Any present members who find themselves in opposition to these goals would then naturally drop off the Committee, and any future members would know what attitudes and practices would be expected of them.

Only when AUC undertakes to come to grips with this problem will it find how easy and valueless it is to blindly criticize — and how difficult, but rewarding, it is to forge a set of principles for such a committee.

Tact, Humility, and Efficiency

We have always thought it somewhat hypocritical for humans to live fifty-one weeks out of the year one way and then suddenly proclaim one week to be Brotherhood Week or Honor-Your-Milkman Week, or what have you. But perhaps it is in the nature of things that concerted drives are needed to bring important concepts into focus. However that may be, we feel that the Religion-In-Life Committee is deserving of hearty congratulations for a job well done.

They handled the whole week tactfully, produced a handsome booklet, a beautiful design, and arranged for everyone to have an opportunity to meet with religious leaders, either in groups or in personal conferences in a span of only three days. The events all ran smoothly and the bull sessions proved to be very stimulating.

The success of Religion-In-Life Week can only be judged personally, in our hearts, but the achievements of the Committee may well stand as examples to other groups.

A Time For Words

We have been deeply disturbed by a letter received from the Florida State University (reprinted in the next column). The letter is unsigned and unclear in places, but it has the ring of bitter truth.

We urge AUC to immediately investigate the situation. If it proves to be as it appears, our course is clear. We have shown, by the presence of representatives of minority groups in the student body, what our attitude is. Let us tell Florida State University what it is.

We sent a stirring telegram to Hungary during the October uprising, knowing it was futile. Now we have a situation in our own backyard. Let us speak out as stirringly now when the force of words and moral suasion will have an effect.

Noted Without Comment

The minutes of the AUC meeting on January 13, 1957 state: "Dean McCracken asked that students who feel that they have been unjustly charged with a vacation cut should first see the professor of the class and then bring a note from the professor to the personnel office. Classes slept through will be charged as vacation cuts."

Views and Reviews

Many letters arrive in the post office each week addressed to The Editor, School Newspaper, Allegheny College. Most of them are routine or incidental, but a letter was recently received which was difficult to put down and harder to forget. It is reprinted in full here.

Florida State University
January 30, 1957

We are in the midst of a struggle which directly involves you and the rights of universities throughout the country. A grave injustice has been committed on our campus; an injustice which we feel must be made known if the rights of all Americans are to be protected and preserved.

On January 26, John Boardman, a graduate student in theoretical physics was suspended from the Florida State University for exercising a right inalienably granted by the Constitution of the United States; the right of free speech and assembly.

Mr. Boardman extended an invitation to attend a Christmas party to three foreign students from Florida A and M University, a Negro University, on behalf of the International Student Club of Florida State University. The three students, two from the Bahamas and one from Panama, were well received by the president of the University who was in attendance, remarked at that time, that, "the presence of Florida A and M students was perfectly all right, and that he, (President Campbell) imagines that it will all blow over." Nothing more was said concerning the situation. He was not informed of any violation of a University regulation.

Since this incident, which was the main charge against Mr. Boardman, he has been active in the support of integration, as ruled on by the Supreme Court in May, 1954. His activities consisted of:

A. Support of a Negro minister, Reverend King Solomon Dupont a candidate for city commissioner. Reverend Dupont is the first Negro candidate for public office in Leon County since reconstruction.

B. Mr. Boardman has been outspoken for compliance with decision of the Supreme Court and has urged the implementation in the schools and bus systems.

C. Mr. Boardman, intimidated with the threat of expulsion has maintained his convictions and refused to allow the actions of narrow men to thwart his belief in the promulgation of human rights.

D. Mr. Boardman has attended meetings of the Inter Civic Council, a Negro organization which has been campaigning for equal rights under law for some nine months in Tallahassee.

For these and other heinous crimes which are all in direct lawful support of the Constitution of the United States of America, Mr. Boardman and fellow students have been intimidated and pressured by University officials.

We are a small minority here working for equal individual rights and human dignity. We feel that our fellow students and college administrators would be impressed if some show of support were forthcoming from University students and administrators like yourselves, who, I am sure, also feel that if the rights of one are violated, so will the rights of all be violated.

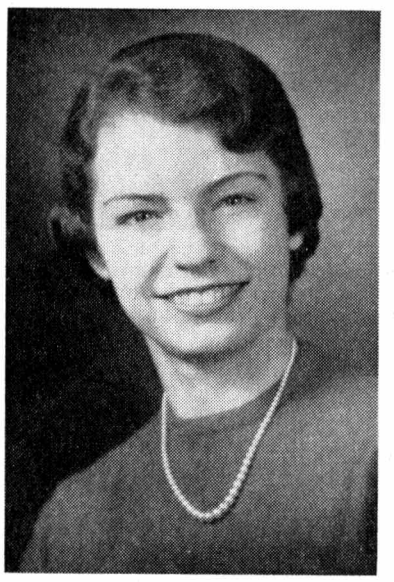

You must hear our plea! Every attempt to bring this issue to the American public has been covered up by the University Administration and the unsympathetic press. You must, as students and Americans raise your voices in protest to this shameful action by those who seek to further their ends with no consideration of the rights of others. If you, the present and future leaders of our country do not respond, our cry for democracy and freedom will go unheard.

Please direct all protests to:
Office of the President

Letters To The Editor

Dear Sir:

There is a much discussed and little done about problem on this campus. This is what should couples be allowed to do around the campus. An article appeared in last week's Campus stating that these couples were not appreciated in Brooks. This was a fine rule for the girls of Brooks but it put this Hall, along with the Union and other places, on the restricted lists for couples.

It seems to me a normal rule that the couples are going to date and want to be together. For years this college has followed a conservative policy until many of the faculty and students no longer seem to see that dating has a place in college life.

By way of a suggestion, I would like to see many of these Dark Age philosophies done away with and restrictions lifted. Couples should also have their place on the college campus with every other valuable part of college life.

Dear Sir:

When one tries to handle a rather complicated subject, such as modern furniture and decorating, in a half hour talk, it's possible that a little distortion may occur. When these remarks are then boiled down to two or three sentences in a newspaper report, there is even more chance for remarks to receive undue weight or emphasis, or to be altered in some odd way, or strangely recombined. I don't recognize myself in the opinions attributed to me in last week's article covering the AWS sponsored "Home Program."

Furthermore, the remarks are re-

Twelve Faculty Members To Receive Summer Study Grants Totaling $3,000

by Arlene Busse

Twelve faculty members have been named by the Allegheny Faculty Council as recipients of a total of $3,000 in summer study grants ranging from $500 to $125.

Dr. Frederick H. Steen and Dr. Joseph C. Lagey will be doing work in Widener Library at Harvard University this summer. Dr. Steen, professor of mathematics and chairman of the department, plans to compile and organize course materials in mathematics. An assistant professor of sociology, Dr. Lagey has received his grant to make an inquiry into crime and delinquency in Colonial Boston.

Hoping to complete their Ph.D. dissertations this summer with the aid of their grants are James F. Day, assistant professor of philosophy and religion, and Alfred B. Carlip, assistant professor of economics. George A. Test, instructor in English, Philip P. Robbins, assistant professor of economics, Mrs. Dorothy L. Ferencz, instructor in secretarial studies, and Frank S. Badger, assistant professor of mathematics, plan to continue work toward doctoral degrees.

Assistant professor of English, Alfred M. Kern plans to use his grant to help defray revisions of a manuscript. Participating in the international Design Conference at Aspen Institute in Colorado as a result of summer grants, will be Carl F. Heeschen, professor of art, and H. Douglas Pickering, assistant professor of art, W. S. Wright North, assistant professor of music has been given a grant for voice study and teaching methods.

This program of summer study grants is made possible by a grant of $2,000 from the Board of Education of the Methodist Church which was matched this year by $1,000 from College funds.

Pins 'n Sins

by Pogie Ziegler

'Peers to me, this has been an unusually "ill" week on Allegheny's campus.

If a play were to have been staged this week, the main action might well have taken place at one of the more popular places on campus, Hammett Health Center. Background noise would have been provided by the crowded infirmary consisting of a series of coughs, sneezes, nose blowing, loud laughs and constant chatter. Moving through this abode full of students with flu and bad colds, would sturdily stride the central character of our mythical play, Dr. Dalrymple, and his three house nurses, administering to an ill student here and admonishing a noisy one there.

I certainly hope action on campus centers around a more normal atmosphere next week.

Pinned this past week were Sara Phipps and Bud Mann.

Election of officers was recently held by two sororities, Kappa Kappa Gamma and Alpha Xi Delta. The following girls were named as officers: The Kappa's; President, Sally Roessler; Vice-President, Penny Thompson; Treasurer, Ann Hunter; Recording Secretary, Jan Houghton; Corresponding Secretary, Sally Roth. The Alpha Xi's; President, Irene Milliron; Vice-President, Pat Mornel; Treasurer, Sally Jewell; Recording Secretary, Joanne Russell; Corresponding Secretary, Judy Quinn.

Word has it that after AWS' action last week on the Pine Room, the fellows at Cochran are considering requesting that the TV room in the Union be reserved for TV.

Allegheny Fund Drive Projects Under Way

A meeting of the Fund Drive Committee has been called for this evening by Sylvia Liberati, newly appointed chairman of the group, to discuss their money raising projects.

Their present project, which is in progress now, is keeping the Grill open on Saturday afternoons from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. and on Sunday afternoons from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m.

Planned for the future are the Carnival, scheduled for March 23, for which Gale Cheney and Carol Mason have been chosen co-chairmen, and the Faculty Variety Show which is tentatively scheduled for March 15th.

Also planned for the future, but without scheduled dates are the faculty-student basketball game, with an added attraction of women students vs. women faculty, and the Annual Auction, for which Mary Lou Carlton has been chosen chairman.

Ruth Malte Wins Place On Magazine's Board

Allegheny College will be represented for the third consecutive year on Mademoiselle's national College Board by Ruth Malte. Ruth, a junior, competed with 650 students from colleges all over the country to win a place on the board.

As a member of the Board, she will report of the college to Mademoiselle. Ruth will also compete for one of twenty Editorships by completing two assignments that will help her explore her interests and abilities in writing, editing, fashion, advertising or art. The Guest Editorships will be awarded by the magazine at the end of May.

If Ruth should win an Editorship, she will go to New York City for four weeks in June to help write, edit and illustrate Mademoiselle's 1957 College issue. She will receive a salary, as well as transportation expenses.

In addition to working with Mademoiselle, Ruth will have an opportunity to interview outstanding men and women in their chosen fields.

Ruth is first vice president and song director of Alpha Chi Omega Sorority, and a member of the Allegheny Singers and the AWS Activities Board.

If anyone is interested in an opopportunity to work with Mademoiselle, they should contact Ruth, and she will provide the information necessary for entering the contest.

"Langnages Are Like Bananas"

by Jim Sandford

"Languages are like bananas; you learn Spanish, pretty soon you understand the Latin languages; you learn Russian, and you catch on to the Slavic languages," says Joseph Schilling, assistant janitor here for five years.

Schilling has been in several countries and speaks various languages. He declined to say how many, but said they grow in bunches.

"In Europe," he said, "you don't hear so much talk all the time of the dignity of man; there you hear of the humility of a man. But just like Americans are cockeyed optimists, the Russians are cockeyed pessimists."

"I suppost optimism is good," he said. "It has given American people many things. Mark Twain once said, 'You come here with a dollar in your pocket and the next day you owe two thousand'."

"In Europe, when a man says he is rich, he means he has many things and much money. When a man says he is poor, he means he is poor. He has nothing. In America it is different. You see a man in an expensive automobile, smoking a fine, big cigar. You don't know; he may be an asset of ten thousand dollars, or a liability of ten thousand dollars."

Americans are arrogant, Schilling said. They must find someone to feel superior to. It is no surprise to find them shooting Negroes in the South. They need to feel class superiority.

Americans keep their dignity by classes; in India they have the Caste System. In Russia it is similar. There is the superiority of nobility. A hereditary noble will not condescend to a titled noble. A titled noble will always be aware of the inferiority of the peasant. "They do not know the humility of a man They know only the dignity."

As an example of American arrogance, Mr. Schilling told of an experience he had in Mexico City, where he was a salesman. A young peasant boy, barefooted and in rags, asked him where a certain street was. "I'm sorry," Mr. Schilling said, "I'm a stranger and can't tell you." The boy bowed his head. "Thank you, Senor," he said and walked away.

Some time later, in Pittsburgh, he was asked the same question by a gang of boys. "Hey, guy! Hey! You!" they yelled. "How do you get . . . ?" The contrast is striking to a foreigner, Schilling said.

Holder of Varied Jobs

Mr. Schilling was born in Lithuania. He came to America in 1906 and has held differnt jobs. In Pittsburgh he worked in a steel mill and went to school at night. In Cleveland, he worked as a translator in the history division of the Western Reserve library. While at Allegheny, he translated books from Russian for a former Allegheny chemistry professor.

He has been married for fifty-one years. "I can't divorce her," he said. "She speaks six languages. Where would she go? Who wants a woman who can speak six languages?"

At present, he lives out of town where each day: "I can go outside and shout 'Hello . . . how are you . . . ?' and everytime the echo comes back, 'Fine . . . how the hell are you . . . ?' "

Chapel Choir To Give Concert In Cleveland

Next Monday Mr. North, Chapel Choir members, and soloist, Joan Sesnick will give three concerts of contemporary music in Cleveland. The choir will sing for two assemblies at Cleveland Heights High School in the morning, followed by free lunch and a concert at Collinwood High.

The girls will then be given time for sightseeing before dinner at one of Cleveland's plush restaurants. In the evening they will attend a rehearsal of Stravinsky's Symphony of Psalms with Robert Shaw conducting the Cleveland Chorus and Orchestra.

Mr. North commented, "It is part of the college's program to interest talented young musicians in becoming students at Allegheny by bringing them music of a high standard.

IT'S FOR REAL! by Chester Field

LOUIE, THE LOUSE

He strolled through a keyhole into my house,
A dignified, well-bred upper-class louse;
He smiled in a most superior way
And said, "Man has just about seen his day.
If you'll take my advice for what it's worth

Capacity Crowd Sees Tankers Humble Westminster 47-20; Lose To Grovers

by Jack Mandel

Bill Hanson's powerful swimming team made its portion of the Alumni Day program a successful one with its impressive 47-20 victory over Westminster. High point men in the meet were team captain Alex Hill, with first places in the 200-yard Butterfly and the 200-yard Breaststroke, as well as a leg on the winning medley relay team, and All-American Ray Cox who took first places in the 220-yard free-style and the 200-yard backstroke.

Allegheny took the first event, the 400-yard Medley Relay with the fine swimming of John Perreca, Hill, Tom Smith, and Warren Billings. After Ed Sergi followed Ray Cox to an Allegheny one-two finish in the 220 free style event, Westminster could never quite catch up.

Gator Briefs: The packed gallery was thrilled as freshman Sam Campbell sprinted the final two laps almost catching veteran Ed Sergi in the gruelling 440-yard distance event. Campbell, although finishing third, took better than twenty seconds off his previous best time and is highly thought of in Coach Hanson's future plans . . . Ray Cox, although never having swum the 220 free style in a meet previously, came within seconds of Carter White's two year-old college and pool record. Spectators lined the pool, sat on the team benches, getting drenched at every start and turn.

In another swimming meet this week Allegheny suffered their fourth defeat of the season, their second at the hands of Grove City, 59-26 in the victor's pool. The Wolverines took seven first places to Allegheny's three.

Two records were broken, the Grove City Medley Relay Team set a college and pool record with the time of 4:13. The team included Smith, Vandervolk, Steller, and Haller. Ray Cox of Allegheny broke his own record in the 200-yard back stroke with a time of 2:16.

The other two Allegheny firsts were Alex Hill in the 200-yard butterfly and freshman Bix Bixler in the diving.

Grapplers Drop 19-13 Decision To Edinboro

by Don Anderson

Better than 500 A-Day wrestling fans witnessed the inauguration of the grunt and groan sport in David Mead Field House, but went away disappointed as the Edinboro Red Raiders edged out the Gators 19-13 last Saturday.

The meet, the first of an all-day sports program in the first of a series of an annual mid-winter A-Day event, was closely contested with the less experienced Allegheny squad coming out on the shorter end of the score. Allegheny's record now stands at one win, two losses, and one tie.

Don Bruschi of Edinboro sweated through three periods of wrestling to edge out Bob Williams 12-10 in the first event. Don Swander lost his first Allegheny match, 5-2, to Mike Weber of Edinboro and Karl Ellis lost a 6-2 decision to the Raiders' Jim Yoder to put the visiting squad ahead 14-5.

Dave Hilbert pinned Cliff Eckman in 2:23 of the third round. Dick Dunn regained winning form for the Gators by pinning Ed Stonner with an arm lock and body press at 1:15 of the second period in his match.

Dave Sawhill, still undefeated in intercollegiate competition at Allegheny, decisioned Dave Passerotti 3-0 for the last Gator score. Sawhill, a sophomore, has never lost a match in two years of Allegheny wrestling.

Campus Clashes

The Interfraternity basketball loop has been full of action this last week as the Field House was the scene of six hotly contested ball games.

Last Thursday night the Phi Psis and the Sig Alphs tangled in one of the most crucial games of the season. The Phi Psis, led by Carmen and Maldonado, who scored 9 and 8 points respectively, edged out the Sigs Alphs in the final seconds 31-29. SAE Don Robbins took scoring honors for the night with 16 points. Reb Riley tallied 8 for the losers.

In the second game of the night, the Independents edged the Chi Rhos 42-39 in a thriller. Gerty and Spaulding tallied 10 for the winners while Sambol led the losing cause with 23 big tallies.

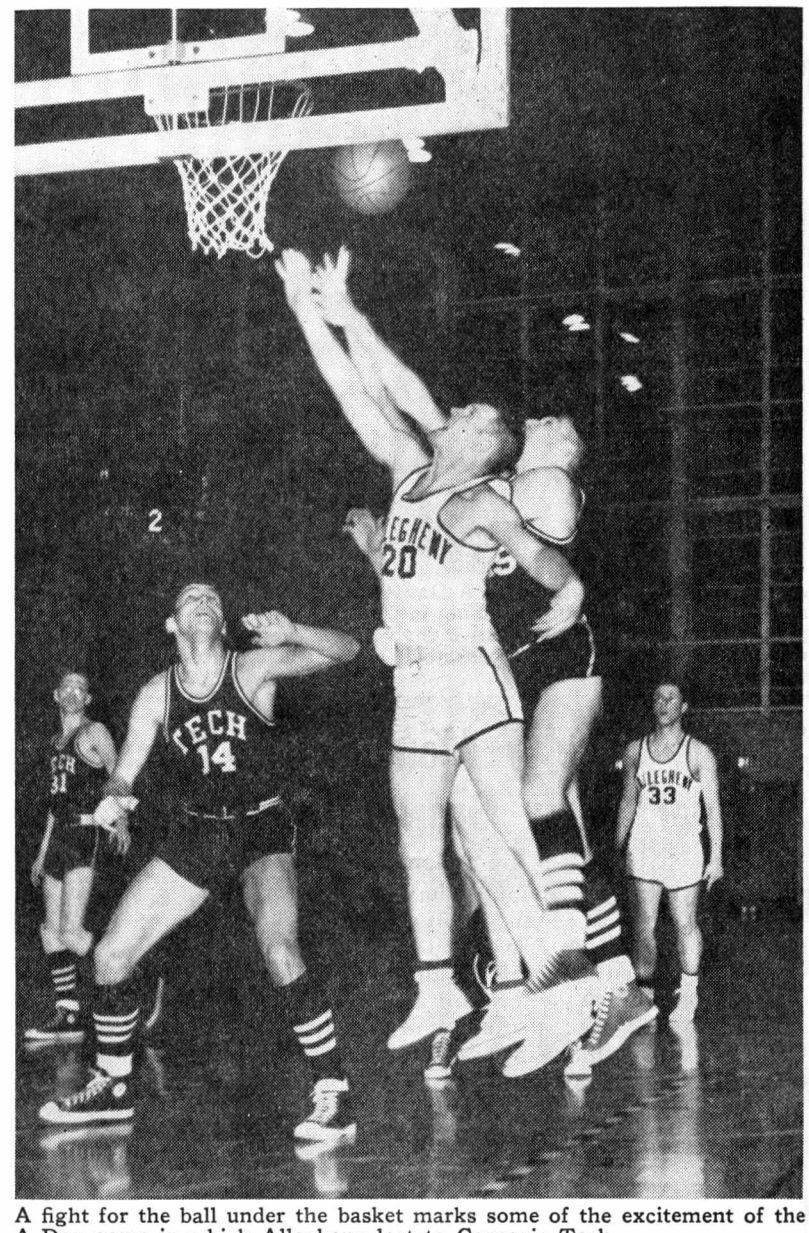

It was an exciting evening as the Phi Delts upset the Phi Gams 31-29 in the third contest. Young led the victors with 14 points. Moyer and Light tallied 8 for the Phi Gams.

Wednesday night the Phi Gams bounced back into the win column by defeating the Independents 40-27. Garvin scored 10 and Light 8 for the Fijis as Girsh tallied 14 for the Independents.

The Phi Delts kept to their winning ways by crushing the Chi Rhos 53-27. Once again it was Young leading the Phi Delts, this time with 18. Sambol was held to 9 but that was enough to lead the Chi Rhos.

In the final game of the night SAE trounced the Delts 59-25 as Don Robbins turned in his best performance of the year, scoring 26 big points. Vance lead the Delts with 10 markers.

The league schedule is past the half-way mark and the winner is far from decided. Many exciting games are on tap for the coming weeks, and if you want to see some good, as well as some exciting basketball, attend these Interfraternity games. They are played on Wednesday and Thursday nights and start at 7:00 p.m., with three games scheduled for each night.

Gators Crushed By Grove City 78-44 Height, Experience Tell The Story

by Jack Hazlett, Sports Editor

After putting up a pretty good fight, but losing to Carnegie Tech on "A" Day, the Gators fell apart before a powerful Grove City quint, Tuesday night, and ended up on the very short end of a 78-44 score. It could have been a lot worse, as the score was 52-15 when the Grover's first five retired from the game early in the second half. The loss was the worst of the season and no comparison to a respectable nine point loss earlier in the season.

Allegheny could do nothing right. In the first half they took 27 shots from the field scoring on two for a percentage of 7, possibly the lowest in Gator history. The score at half time read 43-13.

Jim Newton started the Gators off on the right foot as he sank two foul shots which gave Allegheny their only lead of the night at 2-0. Jim Passilla, using his smooth one hand jump shot, hit for four field goals and the game was over as the Wolverines went on to build up a 23-7 lead. The Gators hit for nine of 14 foul attempts to get into double figures as the first half ended.

The second half picked up where the first half had left off. Everything went wrong for the Gators. They couldn't work the ball in through a tight Wolverine zone defense, they missed several layups on fast break attempts, their passes were intercepted, the ball was stolen and they couldn't buy an offensive rebound. All in all it was a night to forget.

However, there was a bright side to the evening. When the score read 52-15 both teams began to empty their benches and the Gators came alive. In the second half the Gators hit for 12 of 35 field goal attempts for a respectable 35 per cent and ended up at 22 per cent for the night.

Against the Wolverines second five the Gators put up a good fight. As a matter of fact in the last 15 minutes Allegheny outscored Grove City 29-26, led by Norm King, who ended up high scorer for the Gators with 11 points.

The showstealer was a Grove City ballplayer by the name of Gary Peters. Peters took top scoring honors with 16 points but he put on a real show with his fancy and accurate passes and effective play making.

Just as a sidelight, there were a lot of players playing against each other Tuesday night who used to don the same uniform. Peters, McElrath, Fisher, King and Hoffman are from Mercer while Passilla, Sbrocco, Kress and Crabbe hail from Meadville.

Last Saturday evening saw another very successful Cage Dance taking place in the College Union. Art Blank brought together four of the best musicians in this area who, together with Art, provided music for listening and dancing. Everybody seemed to be having an enjoyable time until the girls were told they had 12:00 permissions.

Between semesters a good many Alleghenians found plenty of fun and work in redecorating the small dining room in the College Union.

There was much work to be done and Ducky Travis, Phyllis Gillespie, Adam Bortz and Edie Boyer tore the old bulletin boards off and "sized" the walls while Mike Temkin, Bill Joseph, Chuck Hawkins and Stan Gloeckner painted the woodwork. Soon after, Leslie Aranha, Phil Waddington, Sandy Milne, Steph Williams and Ish Lang found themselves pasting and cutting wallpaper for Ray Stark, Bill Severn, and Mr. Cooper to hang.

The volunteers had lots of fun and are really proud of their accomplishment. Even the piano in the game room got painted by Sue Tucker. So if anyone is bored, and wants to be useful and still have a good time—volunteer, there's always use for a helping hand around campus.

FSLP Director Harris Heard By Alleghenians

Mr. James T. Harris, director of the Foreign Student Leadership Project and past president of the U.S.N.S.A., was on Allegheny's campus last Saturday. Mr. Harris, who has traveled extensively and spent considerable time in Egypt, spoke with a small group of our foreign students and with those working on Allegheny's Foreign Student Leadership Committee. These were informal meetings in the College Union.

On his last visit to Allegheny he stated, "By and large, the effect of student interest in foreign students is neutral at its best and very harmful at its worst." But on his visit last week he felt that "Allegheny's contributions to the N.S.A. program have been of enormous value and I personally am very happy that Allegheny has supported it."

Upon being asked his opinion of our school, he said; "Allegheny is one of the most impressive of the small liberal arts colleges that I have seen in my visits around the country in terms of interest and concern for student activities which have a vital relationship to education, and in the enthusiasm and support which faculty and administration provide for student leadership."

Summer Program Held For Science Teachers

High School teachers from Pennsylvania, Ohio, New York and West Virginia will be attending the Summer Institute for High School Teachers of Science, which will be held at Allegheny this year from July 1 to August 23. A total of thirty teachers will take part in the program, which will also include outside speakers.

Courses will be offered in the fields of biology, chemistry, physics and geology. The teachers may take two of the four courses offered. The purpose of the program is twofold: to give the teachers more subject matter and to give them new ways to present material to their students.

Two years ago there were three such institutes in the United States. Last summer there were twenty-five, and next summer there will be ninety-five.

ported as if they had been a collective statement by Mr. Kleeman and myself. We made individual statements, not a collective one. Mr. Kleeman's main point was quite the opposite of the remark attributed to him (me, whom?) in the Campus. He advised one to pick a painting for its quality, and not to worry about the furniture or color scheme. The painting and what it means to one is of greater importance. How does this fit with the report that "modern furniture should be accompanied by, perhaps, Picasso or Dali works, and not by painting by the old masters?"

To be sure, I called for consistency in furnishing, but I did not relate this to Picasso, Dali and the old masters, because Mr. Kleeman had been given that assignment. The statement quoted above is a foolish statement, and I wish to take this opportunity to dissociate myself from it. Mr. Kleeman feels the same way.

Yours truly,
Carl F. Heeschen

Dear Sir:

Apparently the equal chances offered to all students at Allegheny have not been carried to their ultimate and logical end. The title of last week's editorial was "Two Views on Sports," but somehow I failed to see one side of the picture presented. Perhaps that's for next week.

Surely a college must benefit financially, to some degree, by having 90,000 people in the stands on Saturday afternoon but I failed to find this even hinted at in your article. And what about the traditional "well-rounded" personality? I am just ignorant enough to believe that sports do play a definite part in building the type of man America wants.

True, dire consequences can, and will, result from an over-emphasis on sports. But somehow I cannot bring myself to believe that Allegheny is on the verge of destroying her educational plant for the sake of athletics. In fact, the danger lies in the opposite direction! You mentioned wresting scholarships from the hands of deserving students and giving them to athletes. There were other examples offered which were equally ludicrous. Such conditions do not result from a fair balancing of education and athletics.

We have a fine stadium which must have been quite an expenditure. We have a new field house which also must represent a substantial financial outlay and there are rumors of a new pool. It seems a misallocation of resources to do half the job! But perhaps the desired goal here is the happy medium of fine facilities and mediocre teams.

Some say that it doesn't matter whether you win or lose as long as you play the game clean and hard which is true, to an extent. But this statement seems to imply that winning is possible. It does absolutely nothing for a man's morale to go out to each contest knowing that he is outclassed.

You say, "We sleep better this way." But I think that Allegheny has been asleep far too long. I'm not asking that it come fully awake, but I would like to see it roll over once or twice.

Sincerely,
Glenn Gardinier

Dear Sir:

Many students complain that they do not have an opportunity to participate in student organizations. They volunteer their services only to be turned down. For these students here is the opportunity that they have been waiting for. The Human Relations Sub-Commission needs personnel to help them gather material on significant human relations problems. This material, in the form of case studies, discussion outlines, and short articles will be sent out to the colleges and universities in N.S.A. Some of the problem areas we are working on are:

1. The intergroup relations of fraternities and sororities.

2. The adjustment of foreign students on our campus.

3. Student faculty relations, and many more.

There will be a meeting of sub-commission members Saturday, February 23 at 1:15 p.m. in Room B of the College Union. Any interested students are urged to attend.

Sincerely yours,
Bob Meredith

Faculty Committee Plans Changes In Convocation Week

Graduating seniors are to be guests of the Allegheny College Alumni Association at the annual Commencement luncheon, Saturday, June 8, Philip M. Benjamin, chairman of the Faculty Commencement Committee, announced yesterday.

The innovation is intended to welcome the graduating class into alumni ranks, and to give them an early contact with alumni affairs, Mr. Benjamin explained.

In order to accommodate the approximately 200 senior guests, the luncheon has been shifted from its traditional site in Brooks to David Mead Field House. A professional catering service has been retained to provide a buffet.

Incorporation of seniors into alumni activities was planned last week at a meeting of chairmen of the 41-member faculty committee on the 1957 Commencement.

The committee also approved a general schedule which includes class reunions, the President's Dinner, fraternity dinners, a Playshop production of "Iolanthe," and the All-College Commencement dance on Saturday; Baccalaureate services at Stone Methodist Church, the Sinfonietta and Singers concerts, and the President's Reception on Sunday. Graduation ceremonies will be staged on Bentley lawn Monday morning.

Commencement will conclude with the graduation luncheon in Brooks at noon Monday, June 10.

Increased emphasis on the entry of seniors into the Alumni body, and a centering of interest on the graduate and his guests will feature all events, Mr. Benjamin said. The forthcoming observance, June 8-10, will be Allegheny's 142nd Commencement.

Religion-In-Life Week Comes To Close; Co-Chairmen Find Events Well-Attended

Wednesday marked the end of the annual Religion-In-Life Week, an eventful occasion for students on campus. Co-chairmen for the occasion were Jane Wicker and Don Kimmelman.

Jane noted that ". . . the communion was one of the highlights of the week and was well attended," and that the week, as a whole, was also well attended and successful.

"I think it started people thinking, searching, and questioning their beliefs and perhaps strengthening them," she added, and that ". . . some people have found the answers to their questions."

Said Don Kimmelman, "I think that the week did stimulate the religious thinking on campus, particularly in the bull sessions."

He also said that he hoped any constructive comments will be given to Jane or himself to aid in the planning for the events in the coming year.
