

Elizabeth, Nov 26 1914.

Dear Miss Terbell;

My sight has become so nearly useless that I cannot read magazines by type; yet I have kept a general knowledge and approval of your work and do not care what you believe so long as you believe in real earnest as you do.

By a window-dork on light helps me in writing better than in reading.

During this year I have written and corrected proof of a small book with a ~~large~~ large title and large topics "The Making of the Universe, etc."

This book has been, I suppose, sent to the "American"; but will you review it? If you will I shall be endlessly obliged. Say just what you think without fear or favor as you do about most things

In a few days I am to have an article in an Elizabeth Innes's better brief treatment of my theory helped by the practical work on plants of Luther Burbank. I will send you that. It helps out the practical side of the theory.

If you can take the time to help me in this - which is my main life work in the thought and study line (not let the book fall dead from the press) I cannot tell you how grateful I shall be. And I do so want feminine criticism. Women are more clear sighted than men when they do look at a problem in earnest. Do you know that I am now in the 2nd half of my 60th year. Years and eyes were good should feel young.
Ever your friend, A. B. Blackwell.
