Miss Ida M. Tarbell,
North American Newspaper Alliance,

My dear Miss Tarbell:—

I have just read your list of America's 20 most useful and capable women citizens now living, and am greatly interested. However, I am at a complete loss to know how it happens, or on what basis, that the name of Dr. Amelia Henry Reinhardt, President of Mills College, former president of the American Association of University Women, most able and magnetic orator, outstanding educator and influence in the matter of international understanding, was omitted.

I should greatly appreciate a reply to this question.

Dr. Reinhardt is, I am quite certain, the only woman who has ever been invited among the lecturers at the Virginia Institute on Political affairs, and she spent most of last winter in the Orient, on an important commission assigned to her by the President of the United States. She has countless other accomplishments.

I know her to be a person of tremendous influence for good not only all along the Pacific coast, but throughout the country.

Very truly yours,

Barbara Sells Burke

(Mrs. H. C. Burke, Jr.)
