THE GENTLEMAN FROM INDIA

PROFESSOR SEN, OF CALCUTTA, LECTURES.

An Interesting Review of Indian Educational Methods.

The students who took advantage of Professor Sen's visit to the college on Thursday afternoon by hearing his lecture on Education in India, enjoyed a rare treat. Professor Sen comes from the Presidency College at Calcutta, India. As a speaker he is fluent and interesting. His slight Indian dialect instead of detracting added to the interest of his lecture. The subject on which he addressed the students was one with which he was thoroughly at home. He came directly from the center of the educational world of India, and its success in the past and its hopes for the future were a part of the man himself. Though much of his talk must necessarily be of a statistical nature, yet in his vivacious, fluent manner of address it was of deep interest to his audience.

No attempt to give a brief of the many good things that he said could do justice to the speaker. He first outlined the beginning of the modern educational system of India. Shortly after the supremacy of the queen's arms over India in 1857 the University of Calcutta was founded. This institution has only one professorship—a lecturer on law—its function being purely that of an examining body. This university lays out the courses of study to be followed in the collegiate departments, and gives the examinations to the students who are applicants for the degrees.

The ancient Sanskrit learning was a great memory system. To store knowledge up in books was as little as theft to the Indian mind. To acquire all the learning wrapped up in the Vedic literature would be a superhuman task when a man must commit all to memory. So it became necessary for the student to be a specialist.

This was the condition of things that England had to face in 1857. Two parties arose—one advising the encouragement of the Oriental learning in its own line, the other urging the introduction of western methods and language. Ultimately it was the second party that won out, and today all learning is advanced through the medium of English.

India today has something like fifty thousand primary schools, seven thousand high schools, and one hundred and forty-five colleges. The high schools stand in the relation of a preparatory school to the college. The first great feature of this school work is the use of the English language. The study of English is taken up when the student is about six years of age and is very difficult because he cannot study it to any great extent as a spoken language. The lines are so closely drawn between the English and Indian people that it is impossible for the Indian student to converse with those who speak English fluently and correctly. In the first two years of college work the student must study English Literature, History of Science, Logic, Mathematics and Sanskrit. At the end of this course comes the intermediate examination. Then follows a course consisting of English Literature, Philosophy, an elective modern language, and an elective in history or mathematics. In these courses there is a total absence of religious teaching as the government takes a neutral stand in matters of belief. This, of course, leads to an intensely secular mind in the educated Indian of today.

In closing Professor Sen gave an interesting statement of the facts in the attempted reform of Lord Curzon. Professor Sen's views of the case were very clear and keen. He spoke very highly of Lord Curzon, but thought the whole trouble was of no great import to the progress of education in India.

PRECOCIOUS FRESHMEN WILL EAT HUMBLE PIE.

Upper-Classmen Pass Blue Laws For the Class of Naughty-Nine.

The Green Caps Will Soon Appear on the Heads of Verdant Freshmen—Sophomores Also Will Adopt Class Headgear—Mass-meeting of Upper Classes Institutes Rules and Regulations for the Observance of Freshmen.

The Rules.

I. Freshmen must take their seats in Chapel at once and must not loiter in the lobby or on the Campus in front of the Chapel.

II. No Freshman is allowed to use tobacco in any form on the street.

III. Freshman colors must not be seen until February 22, 1905.

IV. All Freshmen shall touch their caps to upper classmen, and lift their caps to members of the faculty, and in all ways show due respect to upper classmen.

V. Freshman boys are required to wear green caps all the year excepting during the winter season. Freshman girls are required to wear white tamoshanters. Time of wearing, 8 a. m. to 6 p. m. for the five school days of each week.

VI. No Freshman is allowed to walk to or from Chapel with a Co-ed. And must be a rooter and cheerleader at all athletic contests.

Rules I, II, III, IV and VI go into effect October 18, 1905, at 10:10 a. m.

Rule V goes into effect October 24, 1905.

Any violation of these rules, submitted by a grievance committee to an executive committee, will be punished to the full extent of upper classman law.

At a mass meeting of the student-body held in the college chapel on Wednesday afternoon the three upper-classes passed the above rules for the observance of the Class of 1909. The Freshmen were allowed the privilege of being present at the meeting and turned out in full force, but were denied the right of making any comment on the proceedings. The six rules recommended by the upper-class committee were unanimously adopted amidst cheers from the older classes and groans from the Freshmen. C. A. Wilson, president of the Senior class, acted as chairman, and A. W. Comfort, of the rules committee, read the proposed ordinances, which were voted upon singly. A committee was appointed to have the rules printed and copies of them distributed in the Freshman section the following morning at chapel. The Sophomores also expressed their intention of adopting a suitable and uniform headgear.

Kappa Alpha Theta At Home.

Delightful Reception on Tuesday Evening at the Home of Mrs. Walter Bates, on Randolph Street.

The spacious residence of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Irving Bates, on North Randolph street, was the scene of a brilliant reception on Tuesday evening given by the girls of Kappa Alpha Theta.

The house was finely decorated with college and fraternity pennants.

Each gentleman was presented with a card which gave his identity in the shape of an enigma. It afforded great amusement for the gentlemen in finding the cards belonging to them. Miss Stolzenbach added much to the enjoyment of the evening by singing several delightful selections. Elegant refreshments were served in the dining room, where Mrs. C. P. Woodring and Miss Mary McClintock poured.

In every respect, it was a delightful reception and characteristic of the girls of Kappa Alpha Theta.

Theta Sigma.

A very pleasant little social affair was given by the young ladies of the Theta Sigma sorority last Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hendershot on Park avenue.

Many forms of amusement were indulged in, and refreshments were served in the prettily decorated dining room. Dainty souvenirs in the shape of the sorority letters were presented to each guest.

Under President Roosevelt's influence the six coaches of Harvard, Yale and Princeton have pledged themselves to work for the honorable fulfillment of the spirit as well as the letter of the foot ball rules to prevent unnecessary roughness.

Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., who entered Harvard this year, failed to make the Freshman foot ball team. He was trying for right end.

Allegheny Scores on W. and J.

BLUE AND GOLD CROSS OPPONENT'S LINE IN SEVEN MINUTES OF PLAY.

Rickey's Warriors Tally Six Points Against the Strong and Speedy Washington and Jefferson Eleven—Final Result 23-6—Marked Improvement in Local Team.

Allegheny's foot ball team conclusively demonstrated its ability to play a most creditable game when pitted against one of the strongest and fastest teams in Western Pennsylvania by scoring six points in straight foot ball against the Washington & Jefferson team, and allowing the visitors only four touch-downs. The wonderful improvement of the work of the team over that of last Saturday, when Westminster rolled up her heart-breaking score, speaks eloquently of the work of Coach Rickey and the men on the team during the week past. If the development of the team during the past week were used as a basis to forecast the future success of the team, there would not be found a game on the remainder of the schedule with the balance of the score on the wrong side. Allegheny can and must beat Westminster at New Wilmington on November 4.

Although the game was marred by some little wrangling between the captains of the teams and the officials, the playing of both teams was of spectacular order. At times either team seemed to gain at will; but often both were held for downs or thrown back for a loss. The defence of the locals has improved in manner nothing short of the miraculous. W. & J. at no point succeeded in getting her runner free from Allegheny's watchful ends and half-backs.

It might be said in all fairness that the off-side playing of the visiting team was a great factor in their effective defense. The officials were so very negligent in exacting penalties for this offense that twice the Allegheny boys threatened to leave the field; but rather than be called quitters they continued to play.

The day, the game, the rooters, and last, but not least, the band, combined in giving the large crowd in attendance a good exhibition of an ideal athletic contest. When Allegheny crossed her opponent's goal line for the first touch-down of the game, the spectators gave vent to their unqualified approval by dancing a highly entertaining first-goal dance around the team.

Not a substitute was made on the team until the last three minutes of play and it would not be beyond the truth to say that every man played his very best. The game in brief is as follows:

W. & J. kicked off to Allegheny's ten yard line. Aiken received the ball and returned it twelve yards. On the third down Allegheny punted and W. and J. fumbled. Rossiter and Stidger made gains and Ginn cut off forty yards around right end. Stidger and Rossiter again advanced the pig skin,

The Team.

The general burden of an unqualified depression which up until last Saturday afternoon rested heavily on the shoulders of a discouraged team and a pessimistic student-body, was in the space of two short hours most completely and irrevocably removed—the essence of its removal consisting in the crossing of a certain white line by eleven men who wore blue stockings with gold stripes around them. Because the wily, the resourceful, the invincible team of Washington and Jefferson College, whose line holds like adamant and whose backfield rushes like the whirlwind, has been scored upon by an eleven which a week ago was without honor even in its own country, the foot ball atmosphere has been clarified, and all college hill throbs with new energy and enthusiasm.

And it is no wonder that this should be the case. Coach Rickey and his men have in seven days accomplished nothing short of the miraculous. Although beaten by a team which ordinarily would be regarded as no more than their equal in foot ball strength, they have so developed in the course of a week's practice as to score upon and hold to four touch-downs a team far outclassing both themselves and their previous conquerors. The unflinching and indomitable spirit shown by the team in affecting this marvellous change cannot be reckoned. Something of the secret of it, however, can be seen in such a display of heroic emotion as was involuntarily shown by one of the players in Saturday's game. Such a spirit it is impossible to eulogize in mere words. It must be felt in order to be appreciated. One thing, however, is certain—the whole team is pervaded with it.

Here's to the team!

President Welch, of Ohio Wesleyan, says he hopes for the ultimate adoption of the honor system in that institution.

ALUMNI NOTES.

Last Wednesday, October 18, was given over to a discussion of education by the club women of Pennsylvania at the Hotel Rider, Cambridge Springs. The real sensation of the day, crowded with most excellent features, was the address made by Miss Ida Tarbell, class of '80, at the evening session. Miss Tarbell's subject was "The Necessity of Training Boys and Girls to Higher Ideals in Business and Daily Life." She spoke first of the seriousness of the problems of education, the mental, moral and physical training of boys and girls, the great responsibility of which falls mostly on women; and referred to the English criticism of the feminization of American schools. Miss Tarbell defined true education as the instilling of a definite notion of their responsibilities into all boys and girls. Many great men, she said, are only half educated. Miss Tarbell sketched the careers of Aaron Burr and Napoleon Bonaparte as instances. "Napoleon carried human achievement to its highest point," said the speaker, "and left his marks all over Europe. His failure lay in two things, he did not consider his own limitations and did not consider the other man." Miss Tarbell denounced election methods, corporations, and railroad rebates. "The keystone of corruption in the United States," she said, "is the state of Pennsylvania." This deplorable condition she attributed to a failure on the part of public men to think out problems to their ultimate conclusions and then to fit their actions to those honest conclusions.

Miss Schoenfeld, '97, and Miss Charlotte Borrell, '01, were visitors at the college on Saturday.

R. G. Freeman, '04, has been elected president of the senior class of Princeton Theological school.

Fred and Herbert Stockton, both of the class of '04, were in the city last week to be present at the funeral of their mother.

C. R. Hayes, '04, is in the employ of the B. & O. Railroad company at DuBois, Pa.

Rev. David L. Thoburn, '85, of North India, died of cholera at Lucknow, India, Auust 5. This sad news came by cablegram to New York city a short time ago. After graduating from Allegheny the Rev. Mr. Thoburn went to Boston University. In 1893 he sailed for India to devote himself to missionary work. He was a nephew of Bishop Thoburn, '57. In all his work in India he was a devoted and successful man and he will be greatly missed.

W. A. Stenger, '90, now successfully engaged in the oil business in Louisiana, has the distinction of owning a well which has produced more oil of its own accord than any other well in America.

Exchange Department

The Bucknell students desire a new room suitably fitted up to display their trophies.

The Freshmen won the track meet at Syracuse.

Prof. Charles W. Kent in writing of the "honor system" of the University of Virginia, protects against the word system. He says it is not a system proposed by rules and resolutions of either the faculty or students, but a spirit evolved in the growth of public opinion. All cases of violation of the code are dealt with by the students and the penalty is immediate and absolute withdrawal from the institution. The professors, however, see to it that the students are not subject to any unnecessary temptations.

Curiosity is aroused at Syracuse over the rumor that a new secret society, the Simple Life Club, has been organized. All that is known of its purpose is what is indicated by the name and even the faculty has not yet been able to get a list of its members.

The grand chorus for the Oratorio has been organized at Syracuse and will present Mendelsohn's "Elijah."

TWO VIEWS ON FOOT BALL.

College Publications Out With Interesting Articles.

Here are two interesting views on foot ball from college publications. The following is from the "Lafayette":

The team of Engl'sh "Association" foot ball players now visiting this country are not at all satisfied with the way we play foot ball. They are very anxious that we give up the American game and learn to play "Association" foot ball, so that international matches can be arranged. With the usual British tendency to think their way is the only r'ght way, they do not approve American foot ball methods. American college men would like to oblige our English cousins, but the American temperament demands strenuous recreation as well as strenuous work. Foot ball is a manly game for men, and has obtained too great a hold on our college life to be superseded by the milder form of "Association" foot ball. However, there is no reason why we should not learn "Association," and beat the English at their own game.

Says the "Princetonian":

Foot ball as played among the colleges today has reached a stage where it is losing its element of sport and is becoming work of the hardest kind. The men on the squad are willing and determined to bend all their energies to make this work count for success. In other words, foot ball is not play, it is work. Foot ball is not sport, it is business. The players do not enjoy the game, they play from a sense of duty, from devotion to alma mater. Abolish foot ball? By no means. We love the game too much for that, but, as President Woodrow Wilson declared two or three years ago, unless foot two or three years ago, unless foot ball is reformed it is doomed, and that is why we bespeak hearty cooperation with President Roosevelt in his efforts to save the great American college game.

The Class of '80 Boulder

Spes sibi quisque
Sophomores
Of Class 1880.

It is much larger than would appear from what can be seen for since '78 through change and improvement it has been buried little by little. But it still allows a fair estimate of its real size.

It was during the spring of '78 that the stone was placed there. The class of '80, then in its Sophomore year, determined to leave on the campus some mark of its sojourn in college and to this end some of the boys took upon themselves the responsibility of the plan. And so one night not long before commencement week, procuring a four-horse team, they set out for the hills above the college to bring back with them a large boulder, whose whereabouts was already known to some in the party. With the greatest difficulty it was loaded upon a stone-boat and brought to the college campus.

But the least of the work had been done. Of course the Sophs. were admired by many of the student-body for their progressiveness, but others of their contemporaries had just push enough in them to be desirous of knowing whether or not the Sophs. were really in earnest and whether their plan was actually the outgrowth of class spirit or merely an appeal for notoriety. So to this end a few of the upper classmen dared the Freshmen to roll the stone into the hollow below. The dare seemed unusually agreeable to them, for on the next morning the stone was seen lying in the gravel at the bottom of the ravine much to the amusement of the student-body and the chagrin of the Sophs.

Of course this put the Sophs. on their mettle. One of two courses lay open to them: Either they must own their defeat or beat down all opposition at their own game. They chose the latter alternative. Consequently, block and tackle were procured from what is now the Erie Railroad company and at about 10 o'clock, while the Freshies were away at a band concert at Island Park, the Sophs. began their work. All sound was muffled, the tackle was applied and the stone began its slow climb up well greased planks to its former resting place. By three o'clock the work was done.

Next morning not a trace of the work was to be seen. The students were amazed at the sight. It was so unexpected and surprising to the Freshmen that they did not know what to do. But nothing could be done. The Sophs. had determined not to be molested again. And so, until after commencement, a guard armed with shot guns, and with barracks in Bentley Hall, patrolled the campus adjacent to the stone every night. No further interference was thought advisable.

The stone is seen today just as it was replaced except that the inscription has since been put upon it. It is no longer a mere boulder, but a sacred monument to the unconquerable spirit of the class of '80.

Miss Ada Palm, '03, who is teaching at the East Pittsburg high school, has recently had her salary raised to $100 per month. Miss Palm is one out of many Allegheny graduates who are making a success of teaching.

ALLEGHENY SCORES ON W. AND J.

then Bridges carried it for eleven yards, fifteen yards and over for a touch-down. Bridges kicked goal. Time 7:10 minutes.

W. and J. received the kick off from Allegheny; but fumbled. Bridges advanced the oval for ten yards. Allegheny was held for downs. W. and J. made small gains until Ginn threw her back for six yards and four yards. W. and J. punted. Allegheny punted on her third down. W. and J. got through three times for five yards each then McFarland made a quarter-back run for eighteen yards. Wright crossed the goal line for W. and J.'s first touch-down. Wright missed goal. Time 11:22 minutes.

Stidger received the kick off and carried the ball twenty yards. Allegheny was forced to punt. W. and J. broke through for steady gains and Wright again crossed her goal line for the second touch-down. He kicked goal. Time 5:28 minutes.

Allegheny received the kick off on her 25 yard line. Bridges made two gains when time was called for first half with the ball on Allegheny's thirty yard line. Score—Allegheny 6, W. and J. 11.

Allegheny opened the second half by kicking to W. and J. By a series of end and quarter-back runs, W. and J. fast advanced the pig skin. She was penalized for five yards but Wright crossed for another touch-down. He kicked goal. Time 5:25 minutes.

Prospects then brightened for Allegheny. On the kick off Aiken carried the ball ten yards. Robinson and Aiken made five yards apiece. Stidger and Ginn each added fifteen yards. Allegheny punted on third down. W. & J. was twice penalized for five yards and was compelled to punt. After some gains a fumble turned the tables and W. and J. pushed James over the line. Wright kicked goal.

Allegheny's goal line was again threatened by the visitors, but the ball was luckily secured and punted into the center of the field. After a few minutes of play the game was called in order that the W. & J. players might catch their return train. Score—W. and J. 23, Allegheny 6.

An Innovation in German Department.

Dr. Mulfinger Organizes a German Club to Supplement Work in German Department, and to Foster Conversation in German.

On Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock, about forty students met to organize a German Club under the direction of Dr. Mulfinger. Nothing of the kind has ever been successfully established before in Allegheny, although there has been a long felt want for such an organization. German is of no practical use to a student unless he can converse in it. Dr. Mulfinger desires to give every member of the club a practical knowledge of German conversation.

An election of officers was held and Dr. Mulfinger chosen president and Miss Helen McClintock secretary. It was decided to hold meetings on every other Friday at 4 o'clock.

Dr. Mulfinger in a short talk stated that at the various meetings lectures would be given by German professors from other colleges and by prominent German residents of Meadville. At the close of each lecture an informal chat in German with reference to the lecture will be held. All resolutions, secretary's minutes, etc., are to be written in German.

The next meeting will be held Friday, October 21, when a constitution will be adopted, and various committees appointed.

Dr. Mulfinger is to be congratulated for supplying the long-felt want, in the shape of a German Club, and all students interested should consider themselves fortunate to be able to enjoy its privileges.

The Seniors at Ohio Wesleyan have decided to get their caps and gowns at once and wear them to chapel once a week.

Mr. Reynolds also has the distinction of being Meadville's first mayor.

Quill Club.

Delightful Meeting Held at the First Presbyterian Church.

The Quill Club held its first regular meeting of the year on Thursday evening in the First Presbyterian church parlors. The session proved very delightful from a social standpoint and was enjoyed by all present.

After a dainty supper had been served by the young ladies of the church, Mr. Darrow, as chairman for the evening, presided over a very interesting program. Dr. Smith, in speaking of Quill Club's history, referred to its doubtful and struggling existence in the early days when the club limited itself to matters of journalism only, and to its prosperous and steady growth since the social and literary features introduced by Dr. Lockwood had become predominant.

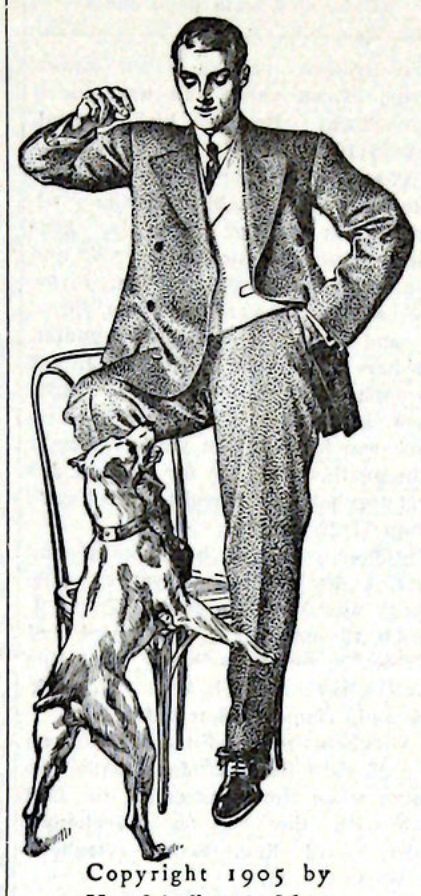

Prof. Brown, who spoke on the club's future, painted a most charming and effective word-picture of the future literary affairs of the college, and their relations to the organization in question. With unaffected candor he touched upon the present defects and imperfections of the club, yet expressed a belief that its energies, if directed in proper channels, would eventually result in the betterment of all forms of literary activity in the college. Prof. Brown's address was heard with the keenest interest from start to finish.

Mr. Swanson then addressed the club briefly on Quill Club and its relations to the college publications. In a short business session the officers of the club for the ensuing year were chosen, and Miss Thorn and Mr. Houser were elected to membership.

There once was a sculptor named Phidias,
Who chiseled some statues quite hideous.
He made Aphrodite
Without any nighty,
Which angered the ultra-fastidious.
