

Hôtel Vouillemont,
Rue Boissy-d'Anglas,
PARIS.

July 1st. 1926.

Clarence Carrigan Esq.,
American Consul,
MILAN.

My dear Mr. Carrigan,

Just before I left New York some weeks ago, Mr. Cassell, of the State Department, gave me a letter of introduction to you, and, as I was expecting then, to go directly to Milan, advised me that it would be proper to have mail or cables sent there in your care.

My plans have changed, however, and although I expect later to spend some little time in Milan, I am going now to Rome, so that if anything for me has come to your office, may I beg you, dear Mr. Carrigan, to forward it, C/o the Banca Commerciale Italiana. I shall greatly appreciate this service.

Very truly yours,