Presenting your Kaldron, 1953

the 1953
KALDRON

PUBLISHED BY THE SENIOR CLASS OF ALLEGHENY COLLEGE
MEADVILLE, PENNSYLVANIA

Foreword

Here in your yearbook is the past year as you lived it . . . Here is the spirit and drama of campus activities—the classes, the clubs, the social life . . . Here is Allegheny in pictures for you, the student, and especially for you, the Senior . . . Take it, look at it, remember it . . . Let it stand as a symbol of your college days . . . Accept it as it is offered—as your yearbook.

The Class of 1953

THE SENIOR . . . he's at the top of the ladder . . . he faces a comprehensive . . . research . . . notes . . . late nights . . . aspirin . . . forty type-written pages . . . a deadline . . . relief . . . Some face practice teaching . . . those blasted little brats . . . others, graduate school exams . . . "I'll never pass that law test" . . . "surely the country needs more doctors" . . . Seniors play their last ball games . . . attend their last classes . . . dance their last dances . . . Seniors try on caps and gowns . . . reminisce . . . walk across a platform on a sunny day in June . . . clutch their sheepskins, a symbol of four years' work, a degree . . . Seniors look forward to life . . . to jobs . . . to homes . . . to families . . . And, they have fun.

Administration and Faculty

ASSURED ANSWERS to confused questions . . . Mighty words in classroom lectures . . . A stern glance, a friendly smile—their faces peering over desk tops . . . In offices, in classrooms, at dances and football games—always there, for us . . . Here are the guardians of many of our thoughts, and even some of our actions . . . Here is our administration, and here is our faculty.

Dr. Edwards, treasurer and business manager of the college, works with Mr. Rice, chief accountant. Miss Heil handles student loans, ledger records, and the Development Fund.

New students for Allegheny are found by Messrs. Sherman and Nomer. Mr. Sherman is Director of Admissions, Director of Placement, and Registrar. Mr. Nomer serves as Assistant Director of Admissions.

Under Mr. McFarland, the Publicity Department is concerned with special coverage of college events and brochures. Students cover and write the stories and Mr. Kern acts as faculty advisor.

Mr. Benjamin, Librarian, and Miss Painter, Assistant Librarian, manage Allegheny's 125,000 volume library. The library now cooperates with the Art Department on exhibits and is in its fifth season of 4:20's.

Working with various student committees, Dr. Picht, Allegheny's Chaplain, supervises religious activities on campus. A. C. A., Religion-in-Life-Week, and Sunday morning services in the Chapel are under his direction.

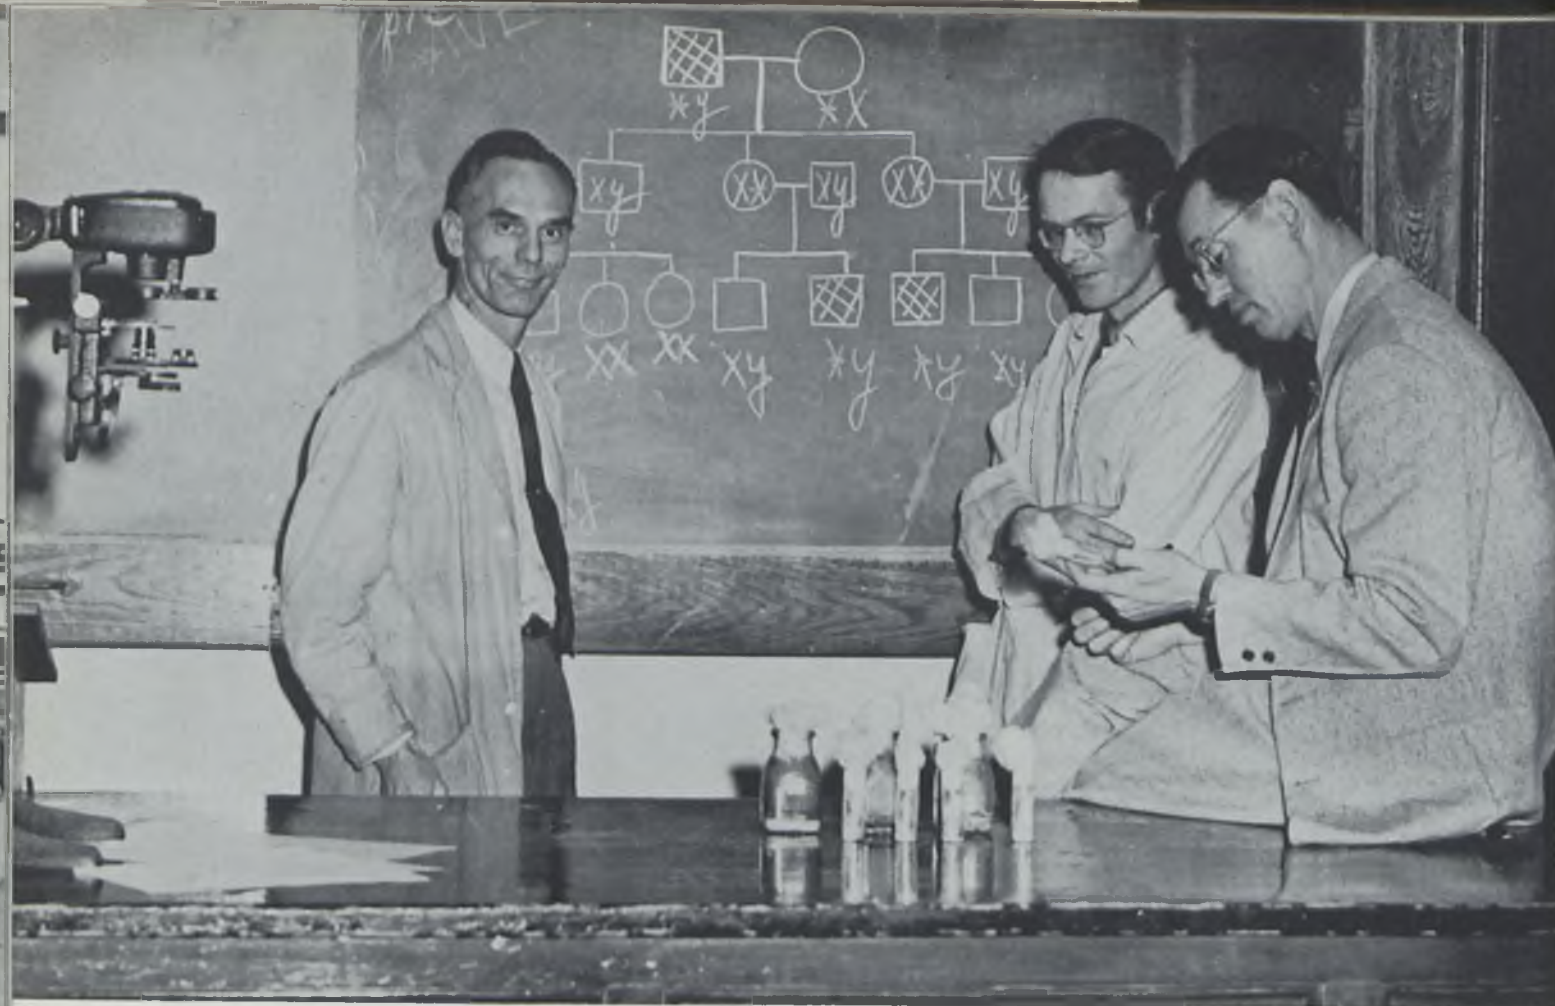

Mr. Rylander, Alumni Director, manages Allegheny's twenty-two alumni groups and edits the College Bulletin. The Alumni Council Formal was instituted this year in an attempt to establish an active alumni.

Faculty

Lt. Col. Brodie outlines to members of the A. F. R. O. T. C. staff next year's proposed course in political geography. M/Sgt. Parsons, Maj. Cook, Maj. Jones, M/Sgt. Holbert, T/Sgt. McKeeby listen.

Comfortably situated on and about Dr. Miller's desk are Mr. Heeschen, Dr. Miller himself, and Mr. Pickering. It looks like serious plans for something big.

Turned away from the genetics problem are members of the biology department: Dr. Bugbee, Dr. Curtis, Dr. Rogers.

Another rock specimen receives an explanatory glance from Mr. Parsons.

Quite at home in Wilcox Hall are physics department members Dr. Brown and Mr. Michener.

Economics department personnel seem engaged in an animated discussion. Could be a funny story, could be "this present situation"—anyway they're Mr. Cooper, Miss Schofield, Mr. Courtney, Mr. Bloodgood, and Dr. Rickard.

Dr. Miller, Head of the Education Department, seems to have something to say to his associates, Miss Higgins, Miss Stadtlander, and Miss Garvey. Looks like a "kid lit" display in the background, doesn't it?

"Bonjour," or whatever language you choose—French, German, or Spanish! Miss Ludwig, Mrs. Moessner, Miss Hansen, and Mr. Crispin look over Dr. Kalfayan's shoulder at a text.

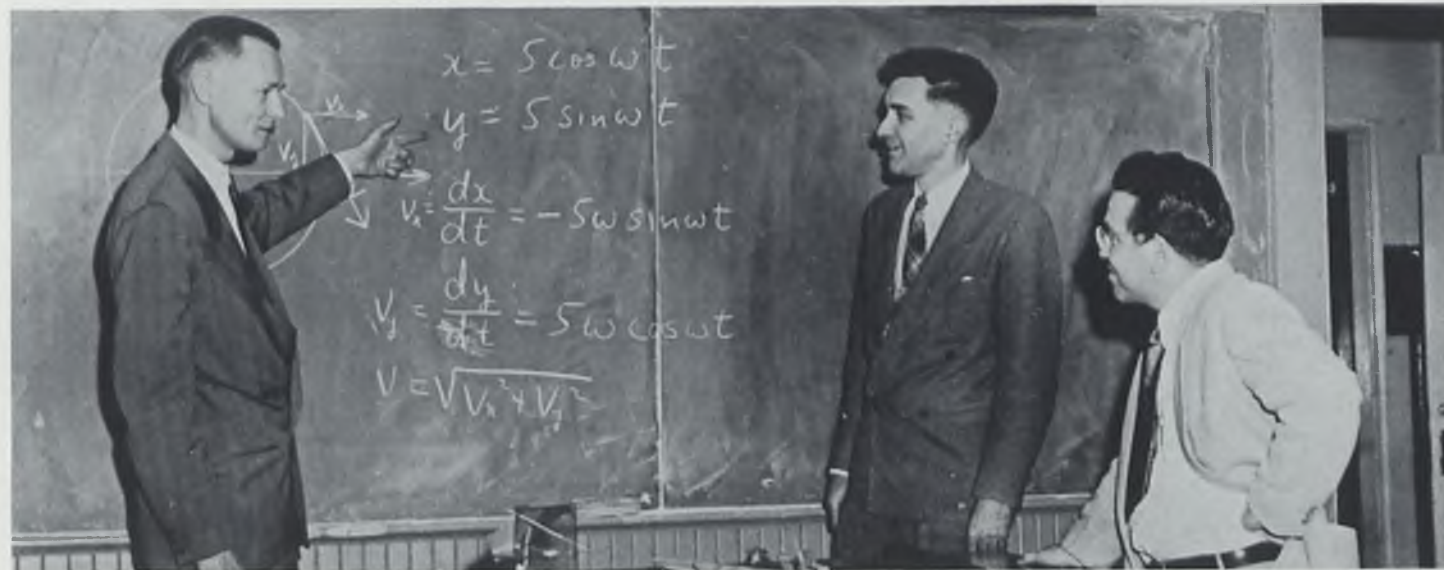

Faculty

Decorating this office in an informal manner are members of the English Department—Mr. Kern, Dr. Seely, Dr. Pommer, Mr. Katope, and Dr. Ross.

Before a background of maps stand history and political science instructors and professors, Mr. Zassloff, Dr. Driggs, Dr. Knights, Dr. Cares, Dr. Giddens, and Mr. Kidd. Their informality carries nicely into their classroom situations.

Mathematics Department personnel, Dr. Steen, Mr. Sturley, and Dr. Tanimoto appear to be amusingly involved in some of their own brand of material.

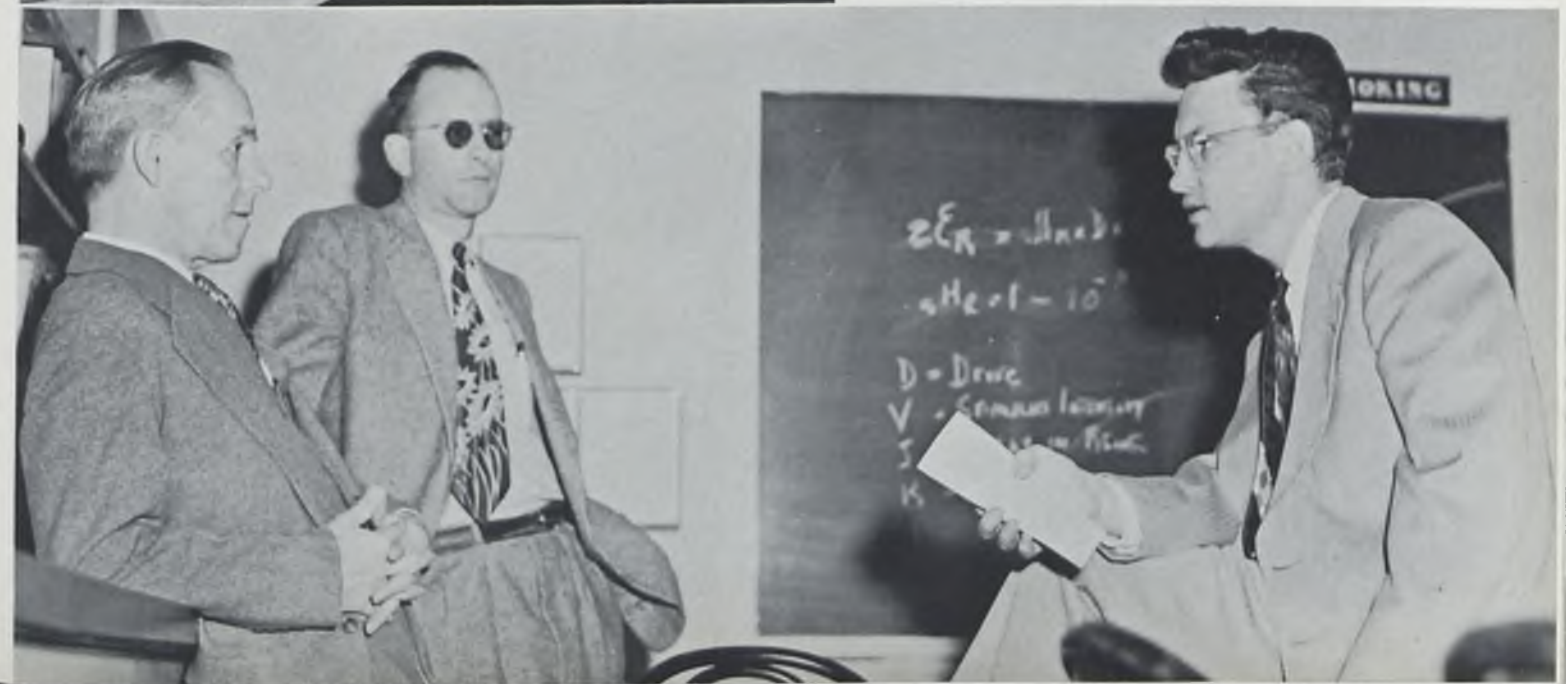

From a piano-string's-eye view, we can see Dr. Neurath and Mr. North looking over the shoulder of Dr. Luvaas.

Dr. Pincht and Dr. Lavelly seem to have looked up suddenly from a discussion—perhaps philosophy, perhaps some campus problem.

A moment between classes with the psychology department, while they trade chatter back and forth—Dr. Buckingham, Dr. Patton, and Mr. Davis.

Members of the Physical Education Department in their own habitat—Montgomery gym. Mr. Way, Mr. Hendersen, Miss Kirk, Miss Hershberger, Mr. Hansen, Mr. Garbark, and Miss Tanton compose the group.

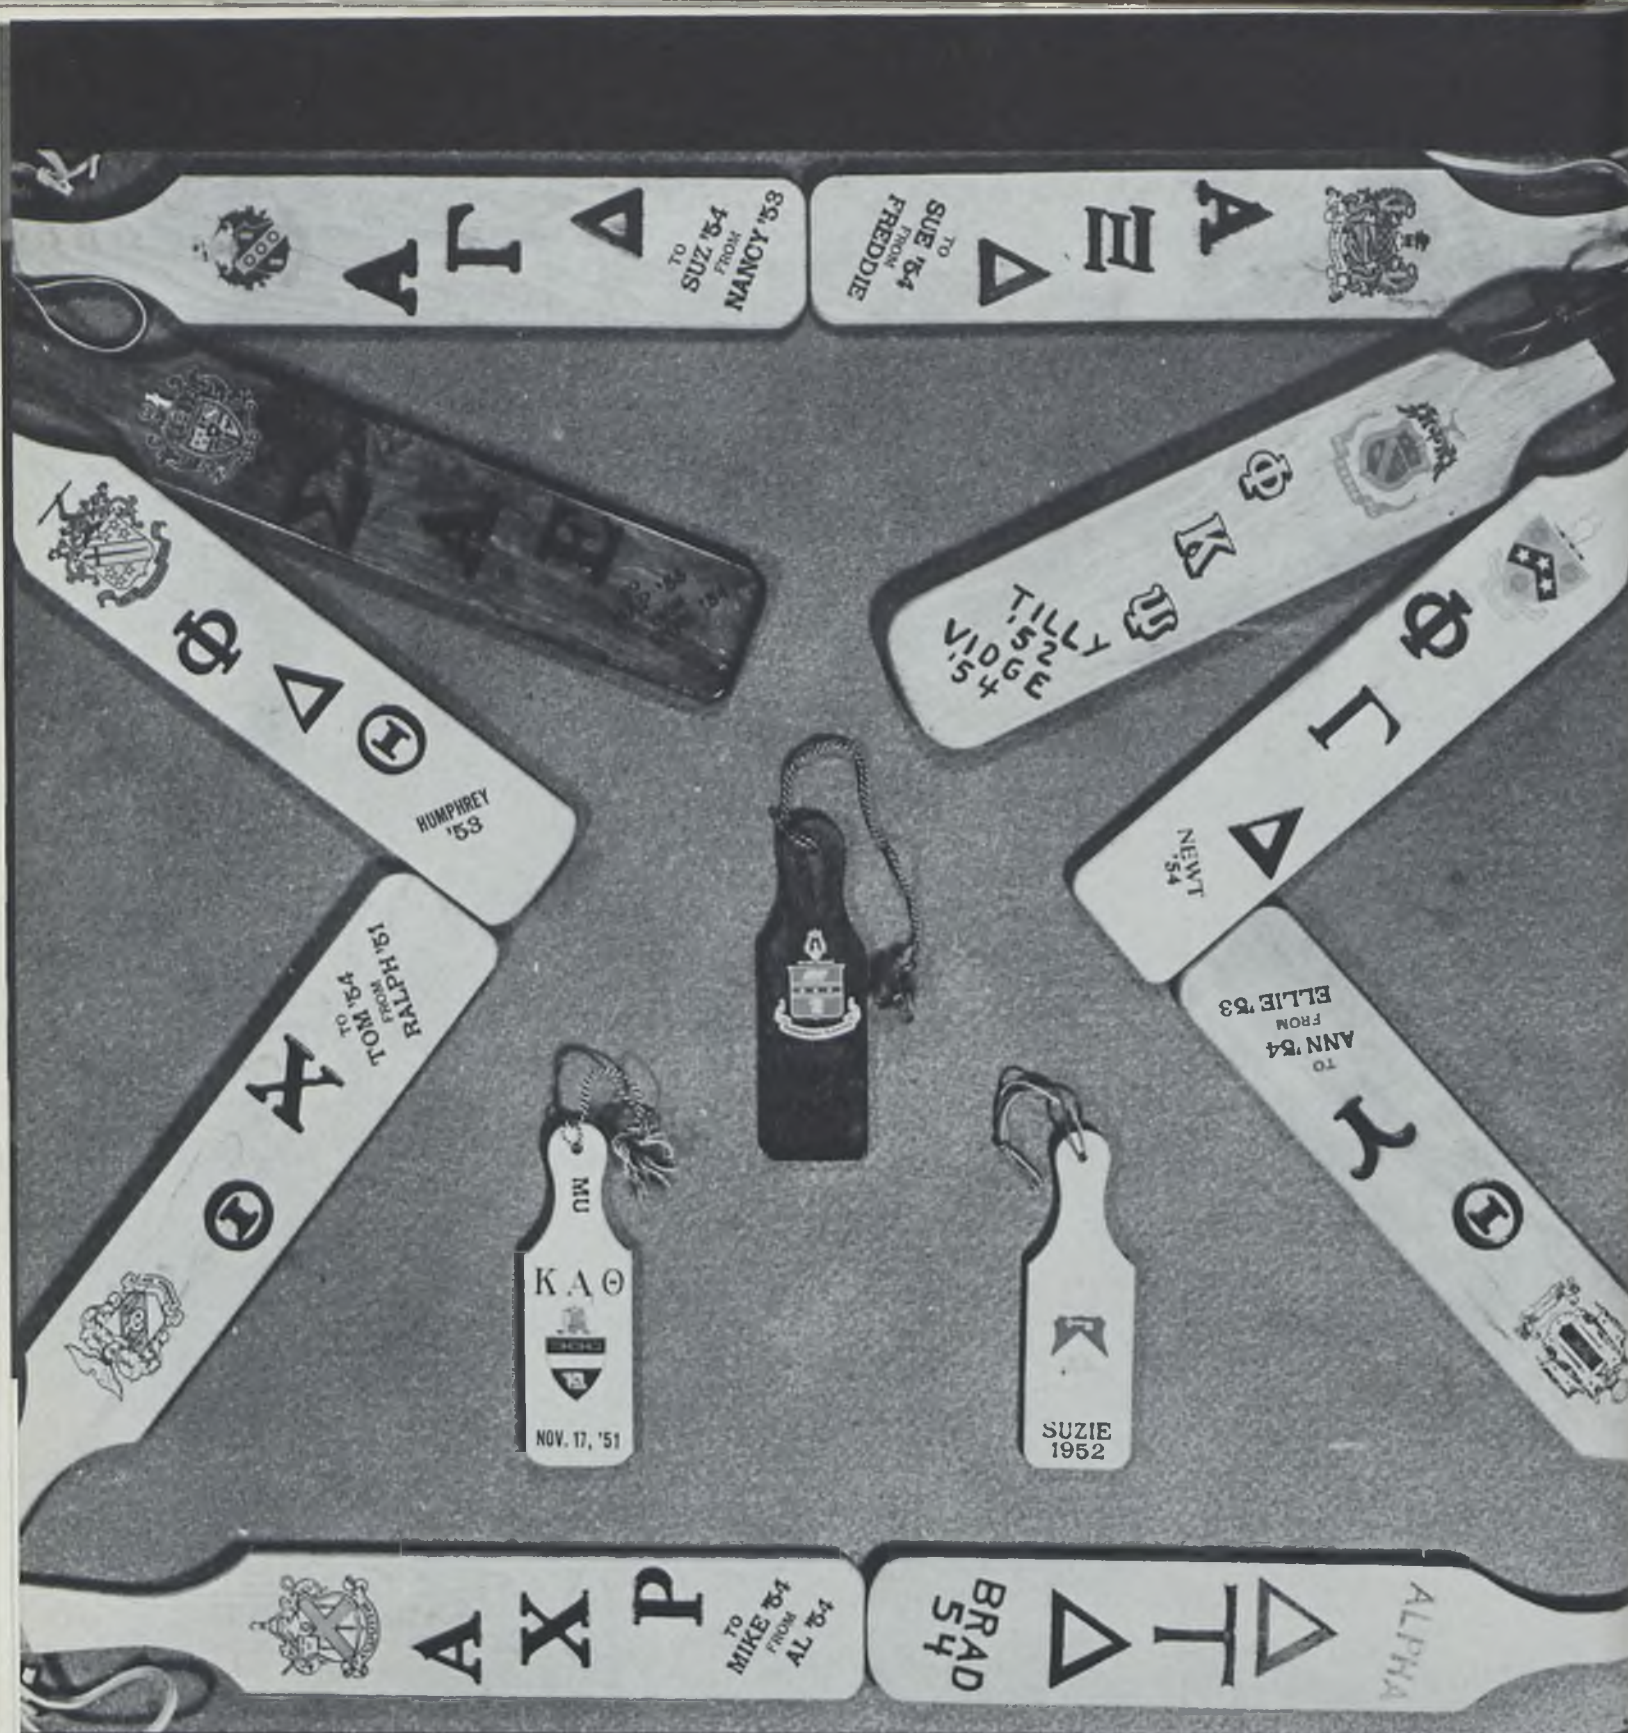

Faculty

Members of this group are such notables of the Allegheny Playshop as Mr. Cherry, Mrs. Darling, Mr. Hulburt, Mrs. McMillen, Mr. Hess, Mr. McMillen, Mr. Walton, Mrs. Bird, and Mr. Martin. All known on stage, off stage, and behind stage!

Representing the hands that steer the sociology department are Dr. Muller and Mr. Ricards. Each seems engrossed in a different point of interest behind us somewhere!

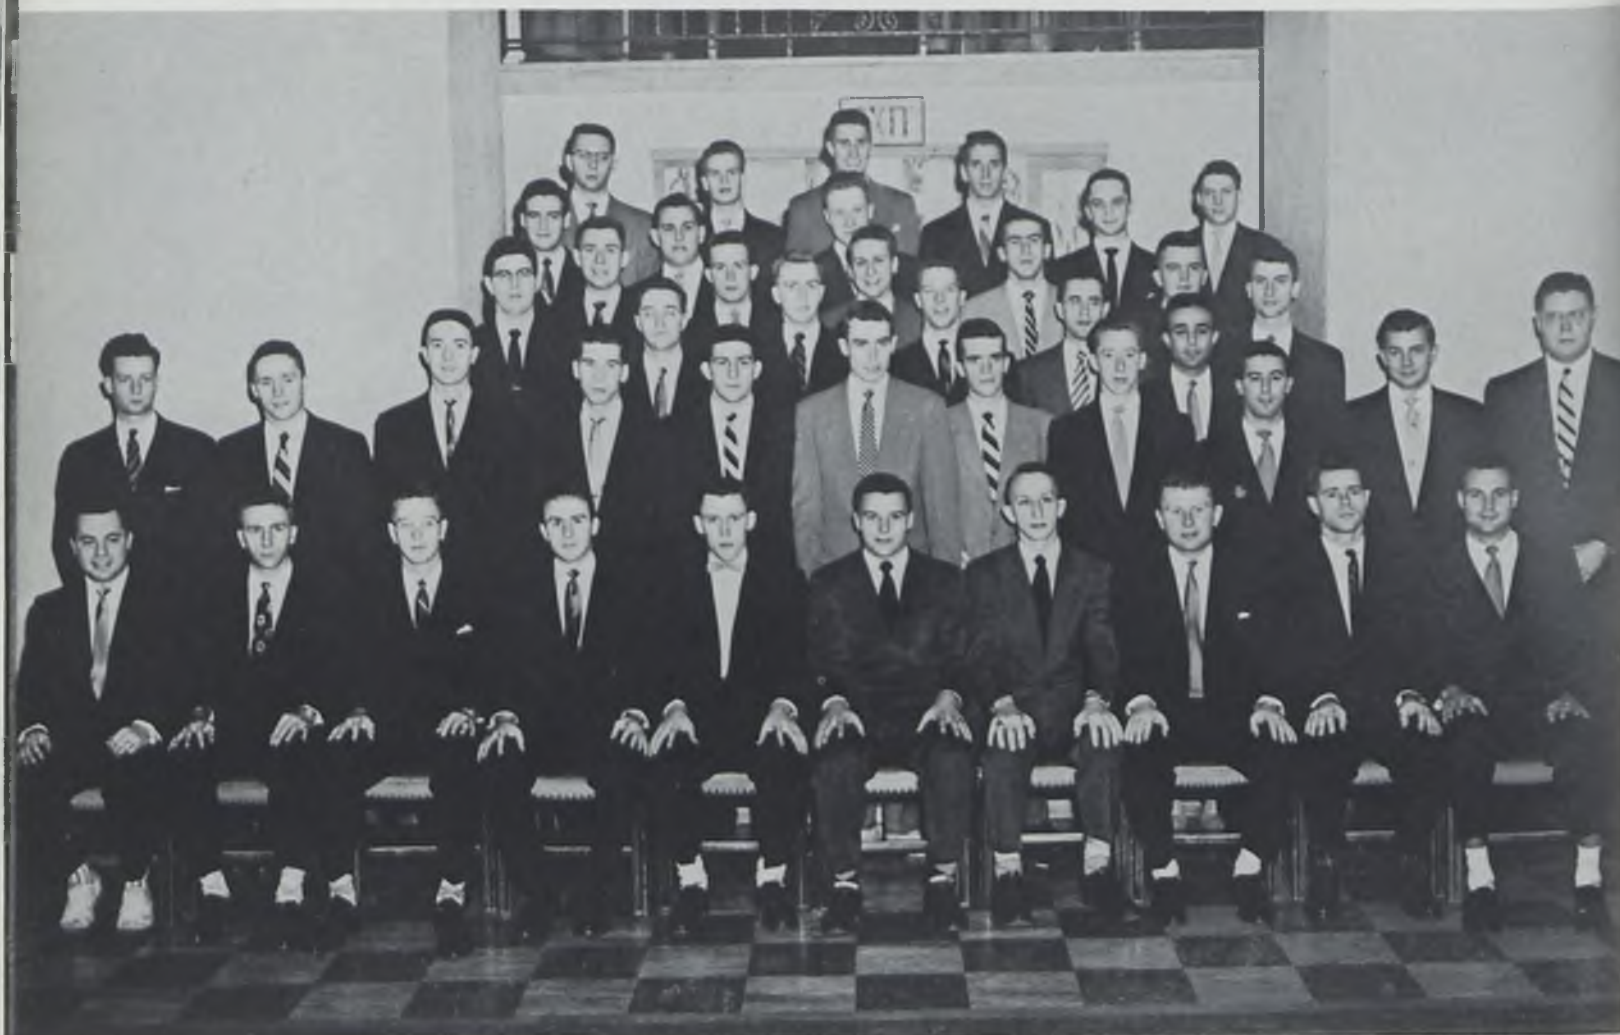

Fraternities and Sororities

FLAMING TORCHES fly across a darkened campus . . . a rustle goes thru the girl-covered balcony, a group gathers below . . . then, silence. Male voices ring out through the air . . . a girl in white answers in song. Another fraternity serenade has deepened the meaning of campus life . . .

A bond of fellowship in brotherhood or sisterhood . . . a sense of unity among all the Greeks . . . This is our fraternity life . . . Rush parties and dinners pledge paddles and dances, shiny new pins, songs and fun, and the most lasting of friends.

The Gator Drama

"NEAR THE VALE where Cussewago winds its silent way" . . . Here is the place we call home from September to June . . . Here in pictures are the eight-o'clocks we rushed for . . . the meals we went to . . . the tests we worried about . . . the activities we worked in . . . the "goodnites" we said at the door . . . and the parties we went to . . . Here is the harried life that seems but a mad whirl while we're in it . . . The life that will mellow into fond memories as the years go by . . . Here is Gator Drama.

Registration Lines

Registration . . . confusion . . . cards . . . ink-stained hands . . . exam group numbers . . . and, "Registration is not complete until all bills have been paid . . ."

Off to see Mr. Edwards and company . . . another line . . . the big blow . . . a hurried letter to Father . . . bankrupt again . . . Then off to the Grill . . . cokes, coffee, a blatant juke box . . . relaxation, conversation, and refreshment . . . a rest for weary feet.

Scrape, scrape . . . rasp, rasp . . .
 "who hid the septic pencil?"

"Mother warned me there would be days like this."

Arise, you begger of low degree.

Brook's 8:14 Club

The day begins

John line-up . . . breakfast in a lump
 . . . weather check—"Great Scott, it's dark" . . . ten minute, two minute, late again bell.

"Can I stay awake till he calls the role?"

Class Change

Out of Arter and back to bed . . . white bucks, quagmire, shoes shot . . . chapel bells . . . morning news, New York Times . . . on with the Blues and off to Drill . . . Dr. Ross and Socrates . . . stomach rumbles and Beethoven's Fifth . . . lectures end, classes close . . . lines form . . . Spanish Rice.

Allegheny bleeds

Temperature, pulse, blood pressure
 . . . wait in line, get your bottle, swab
 the arm, OUCH! Bottle filled, shaky legs, orange juice . . . bled again.

Moral support . . .

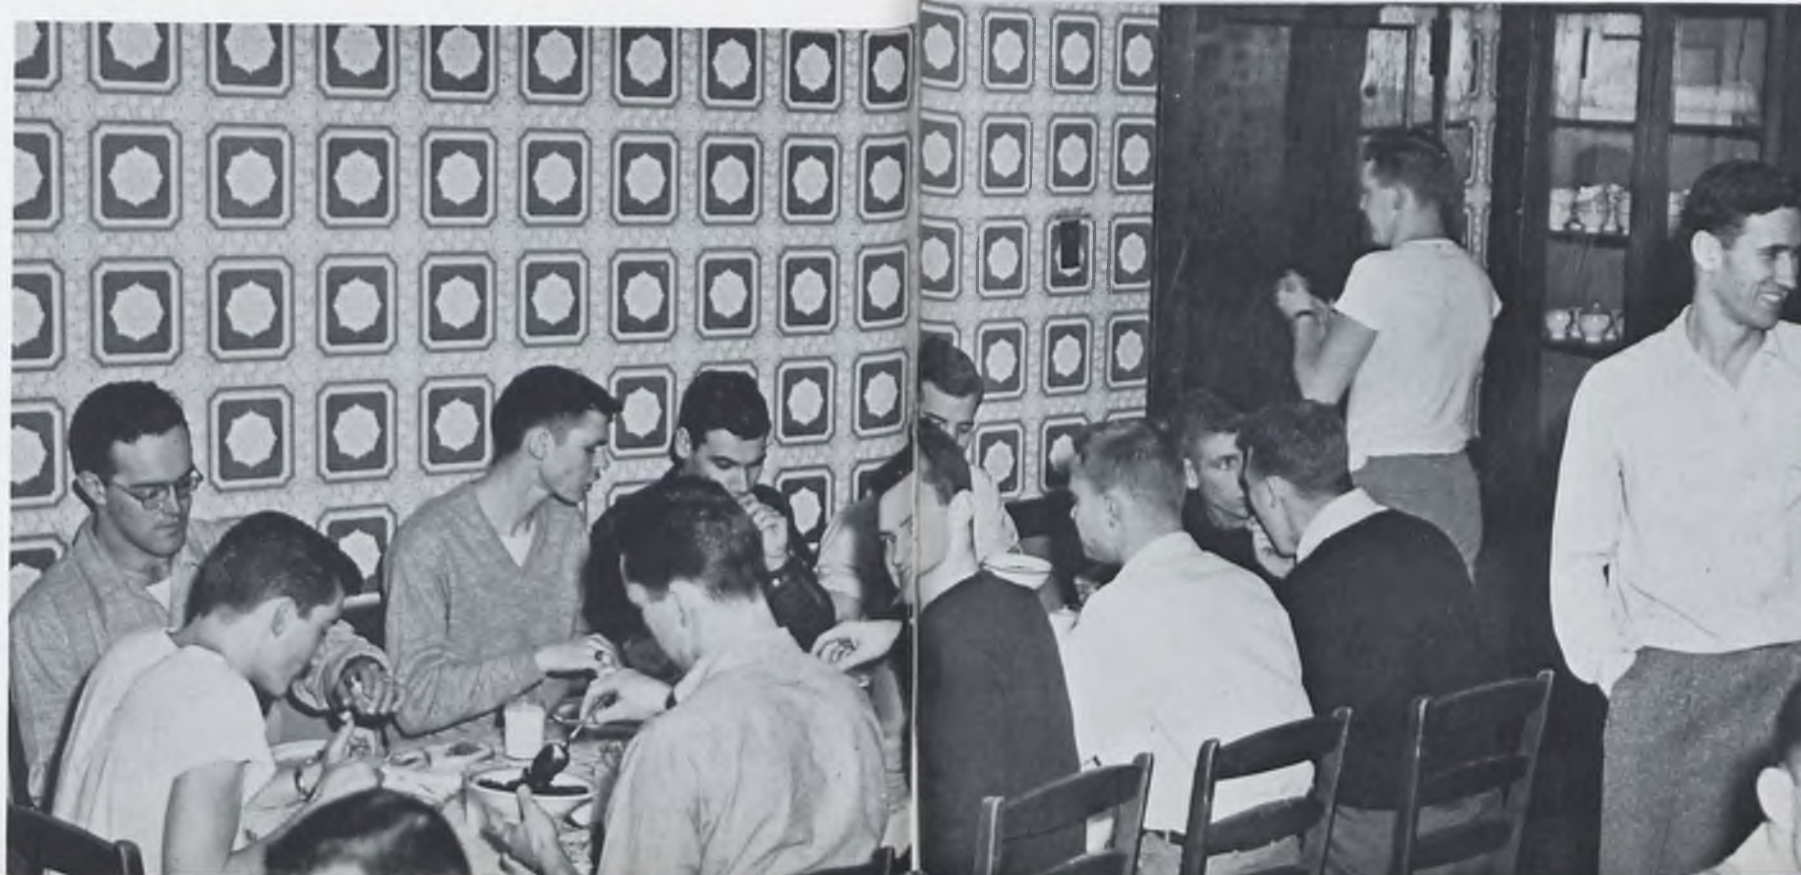

Support.

Lunch

Standing, starch and stomach aches . . . Seniors first, then fight for your life . . . The steward rings the bell, the rush is on . . . limas, leftovers and cheese souffle . . . Thank God for the peanut butter . . . Passez-moi de sel, s'il vous plait . . . Bread and basketball, cherry cobbler and chatter . . . "Fourth for bridge?"

These suits say a lot about two ways of life!

Take the suit on the left, for example. It is typical of the clothing available to a favored few in Russia. It's one of a collection shown by Bonwit Teller of New York.

Disregarding style, this suit just doesn't stand up to its American counterpart. Awkwardly cut from a stiff boardy fabric, it offers none of the quality and value we take for granted.

Yet, a drab garment like the one shown here is a prized possession beyond the Iron Curtain. In American dollars it cost about $126—almost a year's clothing allowance for a Russian typist or stenographer. And shoes, hats, coats, and accessories are priced proportionately!

This isn't the American way of doing things—ask any girl! She would tell you that the American-made rayon and acetate suit would be less than $50—and there would be plenty left over in her budget to provide any number of other pretty and wearable garments.

Rayon and acetate in the free hands of America's designers and manufacturers have made us the best-dressed nation on earth. In this, as in so many things—our system stands alone in the benefits it offers—and delivers! American Viscose Corporation, Meadville, Pa.
