ALLEGHENY DEBATERS WIN CONTESTS WITH DICKINSON

College Has Record of Ten Consecutive Victories

A double victory over Dickinson College on Thursday evening, April the nineteenth, on the subject, "Resolved, That the United States and the several states should establish industrial courts analogous in principal to the Kansas Industrial Court," raised the total number of Allegheny's consecutive debating triumphs to ten. The contest at home was held in Ford Memorial Chapel, the Honorable Frank J. Thomas presiding.

The affirmative team of Dickinson, Holt, Stoner, and Henning, with Witwer as alternate, placed their reliance almost entirely upon two questions which they defied their opponents to answer in a manner other than satisfactory to the affirmative point of view: "If a dispute should arise between Labor and Capital involving the welfare of its citizens, has not the state a right to protect its citizens by demanding a settlement?" and "If it has that right, by what method can it accomplish the result other than by such a proposed court?" They furthermore produced data to show that the court had been successful in Kansas; that strikes were prevented there while in other states they wer costing thousands of dollars.

The delivery of the Dickinson debaters especially the first speaker, Mr. Holt, was good, and their plea was well received. But the logical and well presented attack of the home team interested the listeners throughout. Leeper and Ross maintained their former well-earned reputations. Mr. Bozic, having resigned because of illness. Mr. Sutton, whose place as alternate was taken by Mr. Bartlett, proved himself a worthy member of the Allegheny trio.

The negative contended that the principle of the court has three defects; that it is: (1) Unsound, because it is based upon external force; (2) Impracticable, because it failed in Kansas where conditions are unusually favorable; (3) Less desirable than other forces now at work, (employee representation, profit sharing, etc.,) and would hinder those forces by preventing cooperation. They also came back with a good rebuttal and upon the affirmative's complaint that their first question had been entirely ignored, Ross silenced them with the reply that the issue was not, whether the state has the right to enforce a settlement of such a dispute, but whether it is advisable.

The judges were Mr. F. T. Chamberlain, Principal of Gridley High School, Erie; Mr. John C. Diehl, Superintendent of Schools, Erie; and Mr. Edgar D. Diehm, Instructor in Public Speaking, South High School, Youngstown, Ohio. While their decision was being prepared and also during a short intermission preceding the rebuttal speeches, Mr. Gehrhart, accompanied on the piano by Miss McCafferty, pleasantly entertained with a vocal solo.

After a few introductory remarks, the chairman loudly cleared his throat to announce the result of the debate. The audience, keyed up by uncertainty, began to titter, but immediately quieted down. The verdict was read and Bentley's bell announced a unanimous victory.

Late that night it rang again. Messrs. Demmler, Hammett, and Larson, with Wright as alternate, had won a two-to-one decision on the same subject from Dickinson College at Carlisle.

SENIOR HOP AT ARMORY A SUCCESS

One of the most enjoyable all-college functions ever held is the verdict of about 100 couples who attended the Senior Hop held last Friday evening, April 20, at the State Armory.

Dancing commenced shortly after eight o'clock and from then on until midnight everyone joined whole-heartedly in making the last all-college dance of the year a long-to-be remembered occasion. While there were enough people present to insure the success of the event, the crowd was not so large that dancing was made unpleasant. A gentle breeze blew through the hall during the entire evening, but nevertheless, after each dance there was a general movement toward either the punch-bowl or the cool air outside. The punch was delicious, and it is not to be wondered that everyone partook generously of it. Scarcely a person remained inside during the intermission; the majority took advantage of those few minutes to take refreshments at the down town parlors.

Gage's Collegians furnished the music and were at their best for this occasion. Each number was very enthusiastically received and encored again and again.

The headband was prevalent in the dress of the girls, and several "King Tut" gowns were in evidence. The varied colors of the dresses added cheer and gaiety to the scene.

The committee in charge of the Hop, Messrs. Vernon Wise, Gerald Prather, and John Bozic, are to be complimented upon the splendid manner in which this annual affair was conducted. Everything tended toward a good time, and needless to say—everyone had it.

The dance was very ably chaperoned by Miss Alice Spalding, Dr. and Mrs. H. W. Church, and Professor and Mrs. J. L. Russo.

PRES. HIXSON SPEAKS AT Y. M. C. A. MEETING

COMMITTEES FOR COMING YEAR ARE ANNOUNCED

"They that are with us are greater than they that are with them," was the text around which President Fred W. Hixson built a most helpful talk last Wednesday evening at the meeting of the Y. M. C. A. in Cochran Hall.

When danger from evil sources threatens, destruction is all that is visible. The strength of the enemy seems at first glance to be greatly overpowering. However, there are forces to combat evil which are not readily seen. Deliverance can be found only by seeking God in prayer, and by putting faith and trust in Him.

The forces against right often seem so much stronger than those for it; and, although evil often has its reign, no matter how powerful it may appear, the right will always assert itself. The enemy often misjudges our strength for he fails to consider that God will always be on the side of right—and who will dare to combat Him?

Nothing contributes more to the peace, safety, and comfort of life than belief in God. Everyone should be thankful that his eyes have been opened to see that there is a force so much greater than evil. Although despair and discontent are often present, one of the greatest joys is lost from life when one thinks that He is no longer near. God is always close at hand—He sees the task and understands—He knows all the affairs of the world—it is always safe in His hands.

The committees announced for the fiscal year beginning April 15. 1923, are as follows: Attendance, Mr. Russell Dennison; Program, Mr. Boyd Miller; Publicity, Mr. John Pratt; Social, Mr. George Archbold; Music, Mr. Eugene Hartzell; Americanization, Mr. Robert Leeper; Deputation, Mr. Milo Mook. Mr. Ralph Demmler was appointed editor-in-chief of the Student Manuel for 1923-1924.

Dr. F. G. Henke, Dr. I. R. Beiler, and Mr. C. W. Gill were appointed on the faculty advisory board.

FRENCH LECTURER TO SPEAK HERE TOMORROW

M. FIRMIN ROZ, LITERARY CRITIC, TO ADDRESS STUDENTS TOMORROW AT ALDEN HALL

M. Firmin Roz, eminent lecturer and literary critic, appearing under the auspices of Le Petit Salon, will give the second lecture of the year on the Sturtevant Foundation, tomorrow afternoon at 4:30 o'clock in Alden Hall.

M. Roz has, for a score of years, been one of the principal contributors to "La Revue des Deux Mondes" and similar important publications in France. As a reviewer and literary critic he has attained to considerable prominence, and his essays appear regularly in the leading reviews. For his literary achievements he was made a Chevalier of the Legion of Honor and a member of the French Academy, which has crowned several of his works.

As an active member of the "Comite France-Amerique" and editor-in-chief of the revue "France Etats-Unis" he has done a great deal to promote a spirit of amity and understanding between France and America.

In 1915 he held the position of French Secretary of the American Relief Clearing House, an institution established by the American ambassador, and also aided the American Red Cross materially in furthering its work in France.

At the invitation of the Bureau of Information at Washington, in the spring of 1919, M. Roz made an inspection of embarkation ports, recruiting stations, first line ranks, and other details of American military organization. From information gained in this investigation he prepared and delivered a series of lectures designated to acquaint the French people with the magnitude and importance of America's participation in the war.

These lectures attracted wide attention among influential people in France, and did much to engender there a spirit of gratitude and friendliness toward the United States.

Since 1919 M. Roz has been engaged in arranging the exchange of French and American students and professors, and in caring for their interests at various universities. He also has arranged lecture courses at the Sorbonne on American customs and ideals.

LIT MONTHLY DEPARTS FROM USUAL CONTENT

GOOD-NATURED SARCASM FEATURES PUBLICATION

Flashing with a brilliant vermillion cover, the April number of the Literary Monthly appeared last Saturday morning. This issue, entitled "The Bat," has attracted attention not only by its significant color but by its spectacular contents as well. A fierce and unremitting barrage is directed against intelligence tests. Every poem, essay, play, and editorial impresses upon the reader by witty satire the absurdity and unreasonableness of such tests. In spite of its red color and sarcastic tone, this issue is very clever and most amusing.

A brief poem entitled "The Simon-Binet Test" gives a sarcastic and prophesying introduction in its three short stanzas.

"Little Boy, How Old Are You?" is an informal essay by Jerome C. Hixson. Masterful in technique and subtle in wit, Mr. Hixson begins the attack on the "I. Q."

In the "Moron's Moan," another short poem of the doggerel type, the "A" student is represented as having flunked his intelligence test and is ready to jump in the Cussy.

"Paradise Lost Again," as recounted by Miss Bowman, is a satiric one-act play. The plot lies in the requirement to pass an intelligence test in order to get into Heaven. Among the authors who supposedly took this test, Harold Bell Wright had the best paper, while Shakespeare, Burns, Cowper, and Sandburg flunked and were sent to Hell.

The editorial is written in an earnest and thoughtful style and criticizes the impossibility of determining the intelligence of a person merely by subjecting him to the solving of certain puzzles in the brief period of fifty minutes.

The "Further Adventures of Alice," written under the pseudonym of Patsy Laird, is a modern fairy tale stressing, once again, the ridiculousness of intelligence tests.

In a terse and concise form the poem, "When I Am Dead" relates in mournful tones the moron's willingness to die.

"The Cuckoo," another attempt at poetry, repeats in content and essence the now oft expressed lament of the brilliant student whose I. Q. showed a great lack of grey matter.

IDA M. TARBELL ADDRESSES CAPACITY COLLEGE AUDIENCE

College Observes One Hundred Eighth Anniversary in Fitting Manner

Miss Ida M. Tarbell, LL. D., of the class of '80, distinguished author, editor, and publicist, one of America's most illustrious women, delivered the address for the Founders' Day celebration at Ford Memorial Chapel yesterday morning.

The chapel service, which was deferred until 11 o'clock, and the rest of the morning was devoted to a program in commemoration of the arrival, at Meadville, on April 24, 1815, of Timothy Alden, the founder and first president of Allegheny. The program was opened with a song by the Men's Glee Club.

In introducing Miss Tarbell, President Hixson revived the salient circumstances in the founding of the college. He called attention to the unusual personalities and the lofty type of mind of the founders and to the generosity of those who contributed to its support.

"The distinguishing characteristic of the college," he said, "is that it is a private institution, established through the beneficence of friends of higher learning." He spoke of the indebtedness of the college to alumni, who have given their allegiance, and have justified the founding of the college. "Now the destinies of the college are with the students, who must increase its scope of power and widen its reach of influence." Dr. Hixson then read greetings from Mr. Arthur W. Thompson, of the Board of Trustees, Mrs. Sarah B. Cochran, Mr. Frank A. Arter, and several other noted alumni and benefactors of the college.

In opening her address Miss Tarbell lauded the economic ideals of Timothy Alden and his co-workers in the founding of the college. In contrast she spoke of present day cynicism and said that our problem is to try to realize and put into practice Timothy Alden's ideals. The man who best exemplifies these ideals, she pointed out, is Abraham Lincoln.

No other man has made of democracy so much of a reality that the man of the street sees its meaning. In the great war just ended the appeal to Lincoln's ideas and expression of those ideas was constant. Lincoln is not only accepted as the wisest and most practical of democratic leaders; he is honored for spiritual leadership.

The practical question for us, considering our obligation to carry on the principles basic to this college, is how to make Abraham Lincolns. How can we build up in men that large tolerance, that patience, humor, humility, understanding, that was behind the achievement of this man? What made him? Through labor he learned to realize the economic basis of man's life is labor. He learned through labor to be a gentleman, neither servile nor arrogant.

But this life of manual labor was only productive because there went with it a full mental life. He learned to think as his hands were busy; and all that he thought he tried to put into words. The information that he acquired in his youth was haphazard, unrelated; he picked it up where he could. We would pity ourselves if we had had that experience, but I am inclined to think that many of us who have all those things about us, which we pity him for not having, are the ones to be commiserated.

Lincoln was getting in these early years something more than intellectual grip. He was getting moral grip. Lin-

PI DELT CONTEST STIMULATES WRITING

COMPETITORS AWAIT DECISION OF JUDGES ON MERITS OF CONTRIBUTIONS

With all contributions for the Pi Delta Epsilon contest, which closed on Thursday, April 17, in the hands of the judges, the announcement of the winners is being anxiously awaited by both competitors and those taking a more active part in the literary work on the Hill.

Pi Delta Epsilon has conducted this contest solely for the purpose of promoting college journalism in Allegheny, and it will undoubtedly serve to create a keener interest in this branch of activity, the effects of which will be reflected in the college publications.

Besides a suitable prize which will be awarded for the best contribution, it is the purpose of the journalistic fraternity to give recognition to a number of the other good compositions in a manner to be announced later. The decisions, which are being made with the utmost care and consideration by the judges, Dr. S. S. Swartley, Dr. J. R. Schultz, and Prof. R. W. Thomas will be made public very soon.

CHANGE IN CHAPEL SERVICE INSTITUTED

GENERAL APPROVAL GREETS BRIEFER MORNING DEVOTIONALS

Taking effect on last Thursday morning a change was inaugurated in the order of chapel service, with the purpose in view of conducting the exercises with more promptness. At the sound of the second bell at 10:08 the chimes are played for two minutes during which time the faculty and student body take their places. The monitors are expected to take the roll as the music from the chimes stops, and then without further announcement the morning hymn is sung. At the conclusion of the singing of the hymn regular devotionals are conducted after which the announcements are made and Chapel is dismissed. Under ordinary circumstances there will be sufficient time left before the 10:40 classes for meetings of the student body or college organizations. Although this new system has been in operation but a few days, it has been found to possess marked advantages over the old method and has met with general approval.

LAWRENCE NUNN ELECTED MANAGER OF BASKETBALL

PREPARATIONS ALREADY UNDER WAY FOR NEXT YEAR

At a recent meeting f the Athletic Board of Control, Laurence Nunn, '24, was elected basketball manager for the coming year. Acting as assistant to Manager Kinny during the past season, Larry proved himself almost capable understudy. Nunn is well acquainted with the duties and routine of his new position, and encouraged by the unanimous approval of his selection, for he was generally expected to succeed Kinny, satisfactory service is assured. Preparations are already under way for next winter's campaign; the manager elect has taken hold with a will that fulfills the prophecy of his ability.

Many fine examples for the present college student to follow can be taken from the address given by Miss Ida M. Tarbell at the one hundred and eighth anniversary of the College, celebrated yesterday morning. In her address Miss Tarbell brought out the fine qualities and virtues of Abraham Lincoln's character, and the great need for these same characteristics in the life of the present day. Miss Tarbell showed a keen insight into the mental life and character of America's greatest statesman and in a very able manner placed the results of her study into words. Miss Tarbell took the early life of Lincoln and clearly pointed out that the intellectual and moral life of the man—"the supreme man"—was built upon the characteristics acquired during the days of toil and hardship of this early life. Thus can the college student of today apply these simple facts learned from the life of Abraham Lincoln. Miss Tarbell's delightful personality stood out during her entire address, and her appearance here will be long remembered.

On the coming Saturday Allegheny's track season will open with the dual meet with Thiel College at Montgomery Field. Allegheny's track representatives have been working hard during the past few weeks and expect to have a successful season. In past years track has received little support from the student body and because of this lack of interest the past few seasons have not been greatly successful. An attractive schedule has been arranged for the runners this year, and in order to win these contests the team needs the support of the students. Everybody at Montgomery Field on Saturday and start the team off with a victory!

With the winning of both ends of the debate with Dickinson College on last Thursday evening, Allegheny debating teams increased their total to ten straight victories. The last victory was a brilliant finish to an extremely successful forensic season and reflects great credit on the team and the coaches. The Dickinson team were primed for the Allegheny debate, having debated the same question several times before meeting the Allegheny team. A unanimous decision was given the home team at Ford Chapel and a two to one decision was rendered in favor of Allegheny's representatives at Carlisle. Allegheny should feel proud of this enviable record made by her debating representatives, and due credit should be given to each member of the team.

A loyal, cooperating, and thoroughly interested alumni body can account in a very large measure for the fine progress and remarkable achievements our old college has made. Allegheny has enjoyed a wonderful career, and she can experience even greater accomplishments in the future; she has laid a good foundation. But this cannot come without the whole-hearted, unwavering support of her graduated sons and daughters. Allegheny is most desirous of maintaining a very close contact with her great family of alumni.

The feature of the "Lit" this month is "The Monkey Norm," a satirical play written by Mr. Whitcomb of Dartworth and Prof. R. W. Thomas of Allegheny for the Dramatic Club of Blake School of Minneapolis. The sarcastic tone is predominant not only in thought and content but also in the characterization of the personnel. It reiterates with finality the uselessness of intelligence tests and accomplishes this purpose with amusing and entertaining cleverness.

The "Drunkard's Tale," in which an istelligence test drove a brilliant college student to drink, is a fitting climax to complete this unusual number.

Departing from the staid and dignified form in which it has been accustomed to appear, the Literary Monthly has taken a decided step forward in literary production.

Student astronomers at Syracuse University will have a telescope for their exclusive use as soon as a building can be erected to house the instrument donated several years ago by the Hon. Samuel R. Cathrop, widely known as an amateur astronomist. The observatory will be erected on the knoll west of the campus. The Cathrop telescope, a fine instrument with a five-inch refractor will be devoted almost entirely to the use of undergraduates in accordance with its donors wishes. The eight- inch telescope in the Holden observatory has been dismantled for extensive repairs and remounting.

IDA M. TARBELL ADDRESS

coln knew his Bible. From childhood he had pondered it, assimilated it. He worked out practically and very definitely the kind of man that the Bible aims to make. He had a certain idea of character: a man must be tolerant, truthful; he must prefer God to mammon; he must be cooperative and merciful. Very early you see in him a struggle to square up his practical life with his notions of Christian character. His defeats in political life were mainly due to his effort to be both a politician and a good man.

The solidity of the intellectual and spiritual training which he had so struggled to give himself comes out brilliantly in the fight he made from 1854 to 1858 to prevent the extension of slavery. He learned to saturate himself, never to be satisfied with what he knew, to understand that there are always fresh angles on any topic if you are willing to work incessantly over it. The result of this was that his arguments were always taking on new color, freshness.

His moral training came out splendidly in his controlled temper, his sustained seriousness, his unwillingness ever to allow the work to degenerate into partisanship or personality, and in the steady way in which he was able to drive the argument finally down into the solid basis of right or wrong.

It was when the attempt to break up the Union rather than to accept the segregation of slavery came, that something more, still further displays of the training he had given himself, are revealed. As he saw it, the hope of democracy lay in union, the hope of freedom for all men lay in union, therefore the union became the object of his efforts.

Here, too, as in the case of the great debate on the extension of slavery, you have steady growth in moral and spiritual qualities. Lincoln came out of the war not only the recognized apostle of freedom, but the recognized spiritual leader of his time.

His achievement was the logical result of the steady, consistent cultivation of the ideals of mind and of spirit which he worked out with infinite pains in his youth. These ideals were basic in the men that founded this college. They are our chief inheritance. They are the best things that the past has given us so far. The most solemn task that we have in life is to extend and interpret them in our day as Abraham Lincoln did in his.

FRENCH LECTURER TO SPEAK

In his criticisms M. Roz is making intensive study of French intellectual and social development, at the same time, is following attentively the trend of English and American thought. The wide information and keen insight that he will bring to his lecture should make it authoritative, and interesting to the students, especially since it will deal with the problems of young people in France today. The specific topic is, "Ceux qui ont vingt ans" (Those who are twenty years of age).

The lecture which will be free of charge will be delivered in French.

In the evening Le Petit Salon will entertain their distinguished guest at a banquet at the Lafayette Hotel.

BETTER DRAMAS BEING GIVEN IN MEADVILLE

That better dramatic productions are being brought to Meadville is evidenced by the fact that several of the best plays both on the stage and screen have been presented to the local patronage. This is an encouragement to those who are interested in the highest type of performances and is viewed with interest and enthusiasm by the higher class of theatregoers.

Such plays as "The Bat" and "Robin Hood" are bound to promote increased interest in stage activities and doubtless this interest will be maintained for in the near future the student body as well as the town people will have the opportunity of seeing several more excellent dramatic productions in "Lightnin'," "R. U. R." and the "Cat and the Canary." These plays have scored remarkable success wherever they have been staged and students who seize this opportunity are certain to be well entertained.

ESTIMATE IS MADE ON STUDENTS TIME'

AVERAGE STUDENTS WORK NINE HOURS A DAY AT DARTMOUTH

Various estimates have been worked out showing the division of time of the average undergraduate. Such an estimate as this has been made on the basis of the schedule of two hundred students at Dartmouth College. The result shows that the average undergraduate works nine hours a day and sleeps eight and a quarter hours. Time spent in recreation is put at five and one-half hours daily. The remaining quarter hour was not accounted for. Not all of the nine hours allotted to work are spent in the classroom and study. An item described as "fraternity effort" is included, besides time for self-support and compulsory athletics. Of the five and one-half hours passed in recreation the Dartmouth student spends one hour and a half in conversation, three-quarters of an hour in physical recreation and reading not demanded by his courses, an hour and a half at the motion pictures, half an hour in attendance at games, and twenty minutes at card playing. Girls claim only five minutes of his day, but then Dartmouth is not a co-ed school. On the whole this is not a badly balanced day for the average young man.

Tell your physics prof. that this cap defies gravity

SHAVING cream caps have an uncanny habit of chumming with gravity. That's why the Williams' Hinged Cap shown here is so remarkable. You can't persuade it to roll down a drain pipe. It refuses to go near the bathroom floor. In brief, it defies all previous laws governing the behavior of shaving cream caps.

Williams' Shaving Cream, in the same way, upsets all traditions about shaving. First of all, it exceeds every known speed limit for softening the beard. You can get your face ready for shaving in less time with Williams' than with any shaving cream you ever used.

In the second place, Williams' has a positive effect for good on the skin. Your face, with the wholesome care which Williams' gives, is kept in better condition and made more comfortable.

Test out these advantages which Williams' offers. Start with Williams' to-morrow and see what a time saver it is and how it helps make shaving more enjoyable.

Notice the hinged cap. You can't lose it—and the tube hangs up!

MR. C. C. GRANT, '11, SUPERVISES CONSTRUCTION OF AMERICAN SOLDIER CEMETERY

In a letter to Miss Rowley, dated from Paris, France, March 16, Charles C. Grant, '11, describes his work with the American Graves Registration Service.

Mr. Grant was sent to France last year by the War Department as Resident Engineer supervising the construction work on the American cemetery at Chateau Thierry. There are 2200 American Soldiers, who fell near Belleau Wood in the Battle of the Marne, buried in this cemetery.

The construction work being done by the War Department in connection with the eight American cemeteries in France, Belgium, and England is being done to beautify these memorials to our soldier dead. It consists of the design and construction of ornamental gates and fences, monuments, and concrete roads, the planting of trees and shrubs, and many other necessary improvements.

Believing that every American on an European tour will want to visit at least one of these cemeteries, as well as some of the battlegrounds, Mr. Grant has offered to see and advise any Alleghenians who plan to visit France this summer in order that they may avoid any travelling difficulties.

ALUMNUS SUCCESSFUL AS SPECIALIST IN NEUROSIS

Dr. Alfred T. Livingston, '70, of Jamestown, N. Y., died recently in the John Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, Md., at the age of seventy-four.

OXFORD TRACK STARS TO CONTEST AMERICANS

AMERICAN COLLEGE RUNNERS MEET OXFORD STARS IN PENN RELAY CARNIVAL

Five Oxford University track stars who will compete against the pick of American college runners in the Penn relay carnival next Friday and Saturday arrived aboard the steamship Berengaria.

Captained by W. R. Mulligan, a member of the Oxford-Cambridge team which captured the two-mile Penn relay race championship in 1920 in world's record time, the Oxford runners also included L. R. Miller, E. P. Heweston, C. E. Morgan, G. R. Renwick and W. E. Stevenson, the former Princeton star, who has been in this country for several weeks.

The runners were met in New York by a committee representing the University of Pennsylvania.

One of the really great theological seminaries of the country.
WALTER DILL SCOTT, President
Northwestern University

"With intimate acquaintance of most of the seminaries of the United States, extending from the time when I was president of the Federal Council, I wish to offer my testimony that no church in American Protestantism has, taking it by and large, any higher grade of seminaries than has Methodism. In development of curricula, modern scholarship, and general progressiveness, I think they are in the very van of theological education and in the matter of supervised field work they have made a distinct place for themselves. Of the Methodist group Garrett stands in the forefront."

TRACK SEASON OPENS HERE ON SATURDAY

ALLEGHENY AND THIEL TO CLASH ON LOCAL CINDER PATH

Allegheny students will have their first opportunity this season to see the 1923 track team in action. The initial meet of the year comes this Saturday afternoon, and is between the Blue and Gold cinder path and field men and Thiel College. The first event will be called promptly at 2:00 o'clock. The reason for beginning early is to allow Thiel to return to Greenville the same day.

Much interest is being shown in this first contest. It is Thiel's as well as the Allegheny team's first appearance this season. According to the dope neither team will have any great advantage for Thiel is reported to have some very good material, and Allegheny will be trying out some of its new men.

Coach Hammett, the captain, and the entire track and field squad are anxious for the support of the student body not only at this first meet of the season, but at every home contest. From reports it would seem that Allegheny is going to have a team that will be equal to those of the past several seasons. In that case every track meet will be interesting from the first to last event on the card.

While Allegheny has never been a leader in track it is imperative that it will soon establish such a reputation. All branches of athletics will have to be kept on an equal basis in order to put the college "on the map" in an athletic way. The student body is a big factor in helping in track perhaps more than in any other athletic contest.

Winning a track meet is in practically every instance the result of individual effort and the meet sometimes hinges on one or two events. If the student body is behind the men in each event—that is if the stands cheer them on—it gives the runner or other contestant the necessary energy to carry him on to victory. It is support that counts. When a man knows his college is behind him he can give all for the institution.

The Allegheny student body has been rather weak in giving the necessary support to track in past years. It is, however, never to late to begin—both the men and women of the college can show their spirit on this coming Saturday. Thiel will not be an easy opponent, the team will require the backing of every student in the college.

Parnell was a thriller at "tossing" the football over 50 and 60 yards—the college will have its opportunity of seeing him handle a javelin, shot, and discus in much the same manner. He has a "mean" right arm.

Judd, the giant of the college, can pole vault nearly twice his height, and high jump, well, come out and see—he is a wonder.

Every man on the team is a star—such a galaxy of stars never went to make up a more wonderful constellation than Allegheny has in its track and field team this season.

Trials for the Allegheny team were held last Saturday. The results were as follows:

100 yard dash—1, Taylor; 2, Montgomery. Time 10 4-5 seconds.

Mile Run—1, Little; 2, Mackintosh; 3, Merrill. Time 5:10.

220 Yard Dash—1, Dunmire; 2, Steenken; 3, Montgomery. Time 24 seconds.

120 High Hurdles—1, Miller; 2, Ellsworth; 3, Loomis. Time 17:5 seconds.

440 Yard Run—1, Wimmer; 2, Dunmire; 3, Nelson. Time 53 7-10.

Two Mile Run—(7 laps) 1, Beyer; 2, Bliss; 3, Bogardus. Time 8 minutes, 27 seconds.

880 Yard Run—1, Wimmer; 2, Mackintosh; 3, Little. Time 2 minutes, 9 1-5 seconds.

Shot Put— 1, Judd; 2, Agnew; 3, V. Wright. 34 feet, 4 inches.

Discus throw—1, Judd; 2, Reid; 3, Agnew. Distance 103 feet, 2 1-2 inches.

Javelin Throw—1, Judd; 2, Piper. Distance 135 feet, 7 inches.

Hammer Throw—1, Byham; 2, Judd; 3, Walker. Distance 99 feet, 6 inches.

Pole Vault—1, Judd; 2, Weining. Height 10 feet, 6 inches.

High Jump—1, Judd; 2, Agnew Height 5 feet, 4 inches.

No trials in broad jump, relay, or 220 hurdles.

Officials—Coach C. E. Hammett, Professor K. F. Bascom, and Professor H. W. Gilmer.

THIEL SWIMMERS MEET ALLEGHENY SATURDAY

VARIED EVENTS FEATURE TANK CONTEST

Allegheny's tank squad will clash with the Thiel swimmers in the local pool at 8 o'clock Saturday night, April 28, instead of Friday night as originally announced. This will be the first of two meets with the Greenville institution, the return contest being scheduled in Greenville the night of Saturday, May 5.

The events to be run off are as follows:

1. 160 yard relay.
2. Plunge for distance.
3. 40 yard dash.
4. 40 yard breast stroke.
5. 40 yard back stroke.
6. Fancy dives.
7. 100 yard free style.

Both men and women students will be admitted to the meet upon the presentation of their athletic ticket, and the admission charge to the general public will be 25 cents.

The team consisting of four of last year's swimmers, re-enforced by four new members, has been practicing daily for the contest and present appearances augur well for a repitition of last year's tank success.

CAMP MEAD ATTRACTS INTEREST OF STUDENTS

STUDENTS ARE ORGANIZED FOR CITIZEN'S MILITARY TRAINING CAMP

According to Chuck Hammett, Clarence Ingram, Davenport, Judd, and Hobaugh, who have attended the Citizen's Military Training Camp at Camp Mead it is quite the experience. They tell of plenty of good eats, hard work, and excursions to Baltimore, Washington, and Annapolis. Truly a month well spent, and all expenses paid. What more could one ask?

Keen interest is being shown by the men of the college and already Judd, Ingram, Hobaugh, Hill, and Fieldson have signed up for this coming summer. Several others are quite interested and are expected to sign up in the next few days. All those who have not heard of the proposition should see Dr. K. F. Bascom for further information and details concerning the summer camp.

MANY CONTESTANTS COMPETE IN TENNIS TOURNAMENT

This week the tennis tournament to decide the contenders for places on the varsity will be played off. The first and most of the second rounds were finished Monday and Tuesday. If the weather remains favorable the eliminations will be completed by Saturday and the winners will get down to practice for the first match May 5, with West Virginia University. Most of the courts at the various fraternity houses are in shape and preliminary practice has been going on during the last few days.
