CENTENNIAL YEAR BOOK NEARING COMPLETION

Editor-in-Chief Dunbar, '15, Makes His Final Announcement to Public.

The last copy for the 1915 Kaldron reached the printer on Friday of last week, after many weary months of toil and delay. Due to a little difficulty both at home and abroad the Kaldron copy reached the printer nearly two weeks later than we had expected. The firm, however, the Ziegler Publishing Co., of Butler, has considerably promised to have the book out on or about June 15th, as they had agreed, in spite of the fact that their contract called for all copy by the first week in May.

They say that forewarned is forearmed so the editorial staff feels that it might be well to make a press announcement before the book appears instead of having to make a "post mortem." If you will stop to consider you will realize the hopelessness of eight persons putting out a book satisfactory to everyone and free from mistakes of one kind of another. Our plea for aid earlier in the year fell, with possibly a half dozen exceptions, on deaf ears, so if the book is not all your fancy desires it to be, remember that a large share of the blame is your own. For the first part of the book the board is willing to stand responsible but for the kind of jokes or rather lack of jokes, we in no way feel obligated to take criticism from the "non-contributing public."

That there is a lack of material for the second part goes without saying and this has occurred for three reasons; first, because the board has spent the larger part of their effort in making the first part of the book what it should be; second, because limited to a definite number of pages by contract we sacrificed humor in order to make the first part what we felt it should be; and third, no six or eight persons can supply jokes for a student body of four hundred.

That there will be mistakes in the first part of the book is inevitable. Information is hard to glean and correct information is more so. If your name is left out where it should be, or is put in where it should not be, please bear in mind that the board meant well. As far as was possible you were entrusted to a fraternity brother or sister on the board. Our procedure was this: The Seniors were divided among the members of the board and each one was responsible for the writings given them.

The fraternities and clubs were all referred to a member of that fraternity, or club for correction, so if errors have crept in please accept them in the manner they were made—unknowingly.

If there is something in the latter part of the book which displeases you don't forget that the motto of the Kaldron never was "We aim to please." Furthermore, ask yourself if you wouldn't have laughed if it had been on some one else. If your name doesn't appear as often as you would like, don't blame us, for how could we know? And above all keep this in mind if you have failed to do your share in making the book what you think it ought to be, you have forfeited your right to criticize the book as we have made it.

Now that our scolding is done and you know that it isn't going to get you anything to "knock" and complain it might be well to give you some idea of what you are getting for your money.

The book is to be larger in every way than any Kaldron has been heretofore. The book is to be 8x11 inches, bound in smooth brown leather, stamped and lettered in gold. The book will contain in the neighborhood of two hundred and seventy-five pages of India text paper and the printing is to be in sepia ink. In the way of illustrations we have approximately three hundred and fifty cuts, of which about three hundred are confined to the first part of the book

CLASS OF 1911 TO HAVE CENTENNIAL PUBLICATION

Originators of "Whiskers" Promise to Again Thrill the College.

Announcement has just been made that the Class of 1911, one of the most progressive of Allegheny classes, are at work on a publication, "The Leaven," a magazine of Allegheny spirit, which will be issued during Centennial Week.

The class of '11 has always enjoyed a name above others for originality and spirit, and claim the fatherhood of several customs which have become college traditions. This is the class whose men attracted such wide attention with the "Whiskers" episode and whose attendant publication by the same name was reproduced and quoted by the press of the entire country, during the six weeks of its issue.

The writers who made "Whiskers" famous will be well represented in this new publication, which will combine humor and serious thought in an attractive furtherance of Allegheny spirit. It will have its appeal to every Alleghenian, past and present. The publication price will be ten cents, the low price being insured by the large edition which will be put out.

The publication committee of 1911 which has the publication in hand consists of Claire E. Hilborn, Lucy Loane Wolfe and G. W. Mead.

which takes up the first two hundred pages.

There will be two pictures of every Senior in college, a photograph and a snap shot (one of those snap shots which afforded you so much amusement and the editor so much trouble.)

We have pictures of every club in school, including the Riff Raff Club. We have individual pictures of the football, basket ball track and base ball men together with a short write-up of each man. Right here we wish to offer a word of explanation. The base ball and track pictures were taken nearly a month ago and it was necessary to pick the probable letter men entirely on "dope." As you all know the best-made dope goes wrong and so there will, unfortunately, be a number of mistakes in the personnel of these two teams.

About the last part of the book, we would rather remain silent but we can say this that we have about fifty illustrations which are all wool and a yard wide. And furthermore, we have had a splendid offer from the censorship committee, the last twenty pages are free from supervision so there will be that many pages which will be new to everyone, the committee included.

This I hope will give you some idea of what you are getting for your money. Just when the book will be put on sale is impossible to state at this time, but needless to say the "Jew" will let you know when you can get it at the book store.

In closing I ask you again to put yourself in our places, to plan as we have planned, to work as we have worked, to hope as we have hoped, to endure what we have endured and then if you still have the heart to knock, knock and be hanged.

—Donald G. Dunbar, '15, Editor-in-Chief.

On Thursday of last week, the alumni of Pennsylvania Beta chapter of Phi Kappa Psi and their families were the guests of the active chapter at an informal reception at the fraternity house on North Main Street.

Professor and Mrs. Trickey, Miss Marian Klingler, '18, Miss Agnes Smith, '17, Miss Iva Lewis, '15, and Miss Florence Peterson, '18, were dinner guests at the Phi Kappa Psi house Sunday.

Ex-Senator Critchfield, for the last twelve years Secretary of Agriculture for the state, was a caller at the Phi Kappa Psi house last Sunday.

MOVING-UP DAY A BIG COLLEGE HOLIDAY

Class Exercises in Chapel, Followed by Big Parade.

The celebration of Moving-Up Day, today, is one of the big events of the student life of Allegheny. Today the class of 1915 will take another step out on the plank, from which they will soon drop into the maelstrom of the world which awaits them. Today the class of '16 begin to assume that degree of dignity which they will henceforth consider the proper attitude of Seniors, while the members of the fair sex begin to wonder for perhaps the first time how they will look in a cap and gown. Today the Sophomores, now ranking as Juniors and upperclassmen, will concede that they are even a more important part of the college than they were yesterday. And today the Freshmen, no longer Freshmen, breathe a long sigh of relief and thanksgiving, and begin to plan the education of the coming class of 1919.

In past years, Moving-Up Day has been given a big place in the events of the year, and undoubtedly the same will be true today. With the example of former years for guidance and inspiration, the day will undoubtedly be celebrated in a manner fitting to its importance.

The formal chapel exercises may be counted upon to produce the same enjoyment and interest which they have afforded in past years. President Crawford will conduct the exercises as usual, and may be counted upon to make an address, appropriate to the occasion. He will also direct the moving up of the classes to their new seats.

The Senior class will give up their seats to the Juniors, who will in turn accept and occupy the same. The Seniors will then take their places in the balcony. The Sophomores will then be given an opportunity to petition for the seats which the Juniors had occupied, and in all probability the 1916 class will allow their claim. The Freshmen will thereupon ask for the seats formerly filled by their rivals, and the Sophomores will give the seats to them, although vigorously asserting, as usual, the unworthiness of the younger class to possess them.

The list of speakers for the classes is such that some very interesting and amusing speeches may be expected. The Seniors will be represented by H. S. Taylor. W. L. Scott and Homer Drake will do the speaking for the Juniors. Miss Vivien Diefenderfer and G. G. Witter will uphold the dignity of the Sophomore class, while W. A. Davies will manipulate the oar of the Freshmen class in the discussion.

The burlesque parade will undoubtedly, as in former years, be the big event of the day. There will be a large number of students in comic costumes, and the usual variety of "stunts" will be very much in evidence. The fraternities and other organizations of the college will be represented, while the dormitories will have their own special performances. The classes will take part with decorated floats and the College Band, of course, will be on hand. The usual line of march, down into the town will be followed.

MESSANGER ANNOUNCES PRIZE WRITE-UPS

Announcement was made last week of the students who won prizes for the best reports of the Biederswolf meetings. The first prize of $15 was awarded to Fred Gealy, '16, and second prize of $10 to J. L. Wise, '17. The winner of the third prize, a Bible, has not yet been selected. Several young women reported the meetings conducted by Mrs. Brake, and the best of these write-ups was from the pen of Miss Alice Chapin, '15, Miss Eva English, '18, being given the second award. The third award has not yet been announced.

CLASS MEMORIAL TO BE PRESENTED BY SENIORS

Formal Presentation to be Made During Commencement Week.

One of the features of Class Day, which is to be celebrated during Anniversary Week, is to be the presentation by the Centennial Class of a tablet to the memory of the men who made possible the founding of the college by their contributions. The tablet has been ordered through the Tiffany Studios, New York, and will cost $150. The committee, of which T. F. Smith is chairman, has not yet chosen the building in which it is to be placed. Mr. Smith will make the presentation speech.

The tablet is to be made of bronze and will be very nearly the same size as the Timothy Alden memorial in Bentley Hall. It will contain the names of about seventy-five men—the list being a duplicate of that which appeared on the early diplomas of the college. The presentation ceremony will take place on Class Day, Tuesday, June 22.

TENNIS MEETS POSTPONED ON ACCOUNT OF RAIN

Syracuse, Pittsburgh, and Geneva Meets Are All Called Off.

Bad weather played havoc with Allegheny's tennis plans last week, all three scheduled meets being canceled because of rain. The Syracuse University quartet was present in Meadville on Tuesday, and if the first matches were any indication of the outcome, the local racquetters would have had an easy victory. J. G. Castle, '18, played Worden, the captain and star of the visitors, and had no difficulty in taking his match, winning in straight sets, 6-0, 6-1. H. F. Brownell, '15, defeated Bullard, No. 4, of the New Yorkers, 6-0, but was unable to finish his match because of rain. No other matches were played.

On Thursday the tennis team composed of Manager H. F. Brownell, '15, R. A. Cox, '16, J. G. Castle, '18, and H. L. Castle, '18, journeyed to Beaver Falls where Geneva was to be played. Rain prevented the playing of any matches, as was also the case at the University of Pittsburgh the following day.

PREACHERS AND ENGINEERS TO PLAY BASEBALL

One of the features scheduled for Moving-Up Day which is attracting much interest is the base ball game between the Thoburn Club and the Engineers. This will take place on Montgomery Field, beginning at 2:30 and should be completed before dark. Both organizations are on edge and thirsting for blood, so that the hottest kind of a contest will no doubt result. A silver collection will be taken to pay for balls, any money remaining after the expenses are paid to be donated to the Swearer Fund.

Captain Sanner, '16, of the Preachers has expressed himself as being unwilling to divulge his battery, and it is being rumored that he has a surprise in store for the followers of the transit. The men who will form the team for the divines are: F. H. Sanner, '16, A. G. Curry, '16, A. H. Kemp, '15, W. A. Godsave, '15, H. J. Hartman, '15, M. B. Clendenien, '17, C. W. Flick, '15, H. E. Drake, '16, and R. N. Kendall, '16.

Either H. P. Rankin, '16, C. A. Miller, '15, or G. M. Runninger, '16, will assume the pitching burden for the Engineers, while N. C. Kramer, '16, will be behind the bat. The rest of the team will be chosen from Captain N. I. Brookmire, '17, A. E. Stanfield, '17, H. H. Pierson, '16, C. B. Baker, '15, C. F. Baker, '15, R. L. Rhodes, '16, and H. C. Wasson, '15.

Mr. Leroy Ramsey, '14, who is a student at West Theological Seminary in Pittsburgh, was a guest at the Delta Tau Delta house last week.

PAGEANT PRACTICE TO COMMENCE SOON

Music Work Under the Direction of Mr. Roepper Progressing Nicely.

With the arrival of Professor Baker, and the actual work of rehearsing the pageant only a little less than one week away, the preliminary preparations for the event are reaching completion, and the various committees are busy finishing the arrangement of such details as may be attended to before the active work begins. Under the leadership of Mr. Charles Roepper, of Harvard University, the singing of a number of the songs which will be used in the pageant has been progressing rapidly, and everything seems to point to the production of many striking musical effects in the great historical display. Mr. Roepper is very effective as a director, and may be trusted to have the chorus work in fine shape by Centennial Week.

The progress of the costume committee has been nothing short of wonderful. Under the direction of Miss Florence Harper, '92, the chairman of the committee, a large number of the costumes have already been completed, and the finished articles are of a character which will be one of the most surprising features of the pageant. The materials that are being used are of good quality, and the workmanship is so fine that many of the garments rival the originals, even upon close inspection. In the designing of the various costumes, such artistic taste and attention to details has been applied that many very striking effects have been produced. The military costumes in particular are extremely true to the originals, and will provide some very impressive group scenes.

The exact details of the costumes, or even the general color effects are not being revealed by the pageant committee, and probably will not be known except to the members of the committee until the final week. It will not be possible to add anything more to the little that has been stated here about them, except that there are very few, if any, of the students or alumni who have not seen the costumes, who can realize the great amount of effort that has been expended in order that they might be one of the most pleasing parts of the pageant. The general costumes are being made under the direction of Miss Harper in this city. The costumes for the leading characters will be provided by some out-of-town firm. No expense or effort is being spared to have the very best in this important branch of the pageant work.

In order to provide plenty of time for the rehearsals of the pageant songs, a very radical change in the schedule of classes for this week has been made. On Monday there were no classes. Today all classes were excused because of the Moving-Up Day exercises. On Wednesday morning, the regular Wednesday morning classes will meet. On Thursday morning, the Wednesday afternoon classes will be held. Friday morning will be given over to the regular Thursday morning classes, and on Saturday morning, the Thursday afternoon classes will meet.

A complete new schedule for classes and rehearsals was announced last Wednesday in Chapel by President Crawford. For the remainder of last week the Chapel services were lengthened for rehearsals every day. The following schedule is to be followed for the rest of the week, with morning, and no afternoon classes:

Wednesday — Regular morning classes.

Thursday — Wednesday afternoon classes.

Friday — Thursday morning classes.

Saturday — Thursday afternoon classes.

There will be rehearsals every afternoon from now on, men and women usually meeting together.

To provide a budget system for all the important college activities, is probably the only way by which they will be accorded the proper support. The student publications of the college are not supported by the student body at large. It can be said, without contradiction, that the subscribers of the Literary Monthly number less than one-fourth of the students of the college, while The Campus, supposedly the best supported of the publications, does not have many over one-half on its subscription list.

Before the athletic and oratorical budgets were adopted, these two worthy organizations could count only an unsatisfactory proportion of the students as their supporters. We all wonder that there should be such a lack of interest, such an unpardonable indifference to some of the most vital interests of our college life. Whether we understand it or not, there has been this lack of interest, and only the loyal few will continue to give of their time and money to the support of these worthy college institutions.

The object of this editorial is to suggest a solution for a problem which has confronted the managers of college publications in the past, and which will continue to confront them in the future, just as the officials of the athletic and oratorical associations were perplexed by its recurrence in the past.

If every student of the college were subscribers to The Campus, the Literary Monthly and the Kaldron, and the managers were sure, therefore, of their subscription lists, these three publications could be offered for what now the two publications cost, perhaps for even less. A budget system, figuring two and one half dollars for the three publications, would be a great saving to those who already subscribe, and those who are now indifferent and only disposed to criticize, would become more interested. Such a solution as this has been found practicable in a great many of our colleges and universities. At the recent meeting of the college editors in Pittsburg, it was the consensus of opinion that a budget system, with every member of the college body assessed, was the only efficient way in which college publications could be conducted.

The two track meets in which Allegheny took part this year proved that in this branch of sport, as well as in the other varsity sports, the team which represented the Gold and Blue was a credit to the college. The team this year tied with Carnegie Tech, and overwhelmed Geneva, which had beaten Westminster and Grove City by large scores. The Allegheny men showed fine form in all of the events, and every man gave evidence of long weeks of hard work.

Why is it that this team was given but two opportunities to compete with other college teams? The college would not think of asking the football men to work out for several months in order to play two games. It would be a very unusual occurrence if the basketball and baseball teams would practice and train faithfully throughout the season in order to take one trip and play one home game. And yet the college asks the track men to train as long a period as any other teams train, and in many cases much longer, and then expects the team to be content and even pleased with two meets.

The track "A" is particularly difficult to gain because it is necessary for the track man to win in order to get his letter. The men in the other major sports get their letters even if the team never wins a game. The standard for the track letter is a good one, but the men should be given more than two chances a year to make good. There have been numerous cases of men proving of great value to the track team, and yet not making their letter until perhaps the Senior year.

There is another angle of looking at this same question. If a track man can only enter in two college meets each year, the opportunities for gaining experience in his event are very poor. If the college wants a good track team, it ought to give the men at least a fair opportunity to gain experience.

Every year the college holds a big interscholastic meet, for the purpose of interesting track athletes in Allegheny. But what inducement is there to a man who is looking forward to making a success in track at college, to try for a place on a team which is allowed but two meets a year. For many of the events it is necessary to practice both fall and spring. It is not strange that in some cases men who should be of great value to the team do not consider the inducement sufficiently great. Last year, a man who had won his track "A" refused to come out for the team, and instead tried for the baseball team where he was not needed. Allegheny would have won the Tech meet if that man had run. But it was only natural that he should prefer to do less work and yet get a great many more trips and many more opportunities to compete.

If Allegheny considers track athletics worthy to be classed as a major sport, and if Allegheny really wants a good team, Allegheny can afford to give the team a fair chance to make good.

DR. COBERN'S MOST RECENT INTERVIEW.

In the Sunday magazine section of the New York Times of a week ago there is printed a lengthy resume of a lecture by Dr. Camden M. Cobern, '76, on his work and explorations in Egypt during his sojourn abroad two years ago. The sketch takes up a full page in the paper and is introduced by the unusual heading "The Ancients were Ultra-Modern-Archaeologist. Back from Egypt, Tells of Their Feminist Movements, American Jockey Methods, and Infallible Hair Tonics." The account is the result of an interview with Dr. Cobern by one of the newspaper men, and several parts of it are intensely interesting, as coming from an Alleghenian and showing so thoroughly his style and personality in them.

For instance: "The ancients were so modern that our own age has not been able to outdo them even in the atrocities of war. I recall an Assyrian tablet showing the home-coming of a victorious king. He is seated at dinner with his wife, and to show her the results of his victory he has brought home with him the defeated commander. A servant has ended the defeated man's suffering by deftly removing his head, which hangs over the table at which the king and his wife are eating.

"We think it remarkable to see 70,000 people out at a football game. I remember reading one Roman manuscript that told of 19,000 prisoners being surrounded by soldiers and forced to fight. Of course there were lives lost, but no mention is made of slaughter. They arranged their carnivals with an eye to dramatic effect. Not only their prisoners, but criminals who were condemned to death were used to provide entertainment for the populace. A woman's execution in this matter was a highly popular entertainment to the masses. The woman was attired in a bear's skin and sent to the arena with a lion. One dash of the lion's paw removed the pleasing fiction of a costume, and the lion then ate the lady.

"The first queen of history was likewise the first suffragette. She was Hatshepsu and she ruled over Egypt about 3,500 years ago. She was discovered by a friend of Dr. Cobern's, Edouard Neville, excavator of the temple of Deir el Bahari, and it has taken over twenty years to patch together an account of her career. Her reign is all the more interesting because her conduct so outraged her contemporaries that they destroyed most of her pictures and chiseled out the inscriptions telling of her greatness.

"This queen carried her ideas of woman's right to the extent of wearing a false beard, dressing in male attire, and calling herself 'him' in proclamations. Her mother was a royal princess, and after her death her father raised her to the throne with him and the two reigned together. After his death, she reigned alone for eighteen months. A palace revolution dethroned her, but marshalling her forces with the most influential men of the time, she succeeded in restoring herself to the seat of power.

"She immediately extended Egyptian foreign trade into Africa and encouraged commerce with some African powers. It is to be remarked that the first woman to rule devoted herself more to art and commerce than to war. Her age was one of the greatest in Egyptian history. Arts of all kinds flourished and botany as a pursuit began with her, extensive zoological and ethnological collections having been made by her on special expeditions."

"She was at the apex of a great movement for the advancement of woman. In earlier pictures, kings are drawn with tiny baby-like objects at their sides, which are meant to represent their wives. But after the reign of this interesting woman, an Egyptian Pharaoh is pictured in his chariot with his wife, full size and he is actually kissing her.

"A couple of centuries after this epoch of the first feminist movement came the era of Moses that changed the map of the world and furnished the foundation for all modern law. In our day he might have been left on a rich man's doorstep, but then it was different. Babies were set afloat in canals in which the rich came to bathe every day. Thus the baby would fall into rich hands.

"Moses was one of the overtowering figures of the past—a Napoleon, Blackstone, and Bismarck all in one. He unified the Hebrew race, and was a great administrator, his code of laws, as Blackstone says, being one of the pillars of modern law today. He stands midway between us and the remote past. Of the six great epochs into which Petrie has divided progress in art, three were before Moses and three after.

"At Mt. Sinai there are thousands of tons of refuse where the children of Israel worked copper mines. For thirty-seven years they were taught citizenship and self-government under Moses. Their doctors had to take examinations, and wrote their own prescriptions. One of these is an infallible recipe for growing hair. And in an entirely different handwriting was the notation: 'And it works.' They could tell the area of a circle in the snap of a finger, knew the signs of the zodiac, and I have read references to the moon as 'shining by the reflected light of the sun.'

"Other things were known at this time, particularly government ownership and monopoly. For instance, brickmaking was a prerequisite of kings, and workmen were graciously permitted to lay bricks for the benefit of their sovereign.

"The century before and after the beginning of the Christian era saw a social revolution in Rome. Famines were frequent and labor unions in the form of death benefit societies came into existence. The grain monopoly by the government was firmly established at this time. Yet there were some private dealers. For instance, there were two in Ephesus, one a century before Christ and the other a century after Him. A famine came up and both threw open their granaries for the use of the hungry citizens. The City of Ephesus caused two tablets to be erected to these men that example might be remembered and emulated."

The new Science Hall of Juniata College will be ready for use in the fall. Ground was broken Commencement Day, 1914.

COSTLY ERRORS LOSE GROVE CITY GAME

Local Baseball Team Outfits Down-
State Nine But Fields Poorly.

The old Grove City jinx was in evidence again last Friday, and Allegheny's base ball team met defeat at the hands of the Red and White institution by the score of 5-4. The contest was a novel one in regard to lost opportunities. When a team secures thirteen hits for a total of twenty-one bases (at the same time that their pitcher is holding the opposition to four safeties, no two in one inning, and then loses, it may be thought that the day of miracles is not past. Time after time the Gold and Blue athletes sent the sphere to the far corners of the lot, only to lose a chance to score by foolish base running, poor coaching or faulty selection of play.

As in all the previous games, Brookmire was the keystone of the defense. In some way he twirled the best game of the year, and in any event, his exhibition was worthy of a victory. His control was excellent, and not a man received free transportation, although three were hit by pitched balls.

The hitting of the locals was a source of gratification to their supporters, every man in the lineup meeting the ball at least once. Robinson was high man, securing three clouts, one of them being good for two sacks. C. Gilbert, the leading sticksmith of the team, connected for a three-base hit and a home run in four times at bat.

In the fielding end of the game, Townsend, C. Gilbert, and E. Gilbert put up good exhibitions. The last of these robbed Glenn of a hit in the eighth inning by a sensational catch.

Robinson and E. Gilbert hit safely in the opening inning, but were unable to score, while the Mercer County nine crossed the pan twice. After one man was out Penman was hit by a pitched ball and scored on Platt's double, on Robinson's error of Veach's tap, Platt tallied. Grove City came back in the second, registering by means of Robinson's error, a wild in the fourth frame when E. Gilbert pitch, and Shenefelt's error. Allegheny broke into the scoring column singled and went home on C. Gilbert's three-base smash. A squeeze play was signalled and the latter was an easy out when the batter failed to connect with the ball.

Allegheny counted again in the fifth, Mellon getting life on Thorn's bungle, advancing on an out, and scoring on Robinson's hit.

The sixth session saw the game put on ice for the down-staters. Veach, the first man up, hit safely and took second on Hoffman's error. Heckathorn was safe when Brookmire threw wild, Veach scoring. The former moved up to third on an out and brought in the winning run on a fly to C. Gilbert.

Campman's cohorts raised their total to three in the seventh inning when Townsend's safe on a "fielder's choice," scored on Robinson's double. The last run of the game came in the eighth, C. Gilbert driving the ball out of sight for the circuit.

Allegheny had a chance to win in the ninth, getting two men on bases with but one out, but lost by a piece of poor base-running.

TAU DELTS BEST PHI DELTS IN FAST GAME

The fast going Phi Delt base ball team received its first reverse last Wednesday afternoon, their defeat being charged to the Tau Delt, score 5-1. The contest resembled the national game far more than any of the previous ones, the losers approaching perfection so near as to pass through the seance with but one misplay. The victory can be attributed to the pitching of Scannell, '18, who allowed but three bingles and fanned eleven, and to the ability of the Delt to hit at opportune times. The fielding feats of the game were D. M. Dunbar's catch of a line drive and the all-round work of H. F. Brownell, '15, at short stop. The long hit sensations were produced by Scannell, Emery, Fox, and Peckham. The game consisted of but eight innings. The box score and summary follow:

ALLEGHENY'S TEAM HITTING WELL

A study of the batting averages of the individual members of the base ball team for the first five games reveals the fact that four of the regular nine are in the .300 class. C. A. Gilbert, '15, whose batting has featured every game, is far in the lead of his team-mates, holding the colossal percentage of .555. E. B. Gilbert, '15, D. R. Mellon, '16, and E. A. Robinson, '15, are the others within the charmed circle. Allegheny's athletes are hitting the ball this year as is evidenced by the fact that in every game but one they have secured more safeties than the opposition. The team average is .268. The individual averages including the Grove City game are as follows:

	At Bat	Hits	Av.
C. Gilbert, '15	18	10	.555
Drake, '17	2	1	.500
E. Gilbert, '15	21	7	.333

TRACK MEET RESULTS IN OVERWHELMING VICTORY FOR THE GOLD AND BLUE TEAM

Geneva College Outclassed In Almost Every Event—McKay, '16, Makes

New High Jump Record—Final Score, 74-43—Serious

Injury to Captain Fahr, '15

By overwhelming the representatives of Geneva College on last Saturday with a score of 74 to 43, the track team carried off the second and final intercollegiate meet of the year in first class form. The Allegheny team completely outclassed the visitors, carrying off nine out of the thirteen first places, and maintaining a heavy lead in points from the very start. The visiting team carried off first place in the pole vault, the low hurdles and hammer throw and tied for first place in the broad-jump, but otherwise were wholly unable to make any headway against the Allegheny team.

The meet was of unusual interest, inasmuch as a large number of points for the home team were scored by men who had not previously won their letter. No less than six men gained the much-coveted "A" for the first time by winning the required five points. The fortunate men were Long, '15, Witter, '17, McKinney, '17, Drake, '17, Kramer, '16, Ellis, '17.

There was only one record broken, due largely to the fact that in many of the events, the visitors did not push the winning men to any great extent. McKay, '16, went 5 feet 8 inches in the high jump.

In the first event of the meet, the 100 yard dash, Kinney, '18, carried off first place in 10:2 seconds. Kinney ran a fine race. Although beaten at the start, he pulled up slowly to the front, passing his man when only a few yards from the finish. Drake, '17, fought hard for second place, but was edged out by a few inches by McCarter, of Geneva.

The mile run was won by Witter, '17, who, although a new man on the team, finished with a good lead over the field. Witter judged his race well and finished strong. Ling, '16, carried away second place and Shyrook '17, finished third. The Geneva men were unable to stand the pace, both dropping out on the last lap.

The 220-yard dash was a close fight between Kinney and Drake, of Allegheny, and Martin, of Geneva. Drake led for most of the distance, but was passed by Kinney and Martin within a few yards of the finish. Kinney won in fine form, making the distance in 23.4 seconds. The three men who placed were only a few inches apart. Long, '15, ran a splendid race in the 120-yard high hurdles, winning the event in 17 seconds flat. Long got a poor start, but drew up on Wier of Geneva on every hurdle, passing him on the last. His victory was due to the perfect form in which he took every hurdle. Captain Fahr pulled a tendon early in the race, the injury making it impossible for him to finish.

All three places in the 220 yard low hurdles were taken by the visitors.

One of the prettiest events of the day was the 440-yard dash. This race was won by McKinney, '17, Drake finishing only a few inches behind. McKinney used splendid judgment, winning as much by his headwork as by his speed and endurance. Although the last man when only about 150 yards from the finish, he passed the entire field on the final sprint. The time was 53.3.

Ellis, '17, and Witter, '17, took the first two places in the half-mile in the order mentioned. Both of the Allegheny men were far in advance of the Geneva runners—Todd, who took third place being more than fifty yards back when Ellis crossed the line. The time was 2 minutes, 8:2 seconds.

Allegheny was successful in capturing the greatest number of points in the weights. The discus resulted in a victory for Dotterrer, '15, who achieved a distance of 105 feet 6 inches. Walkinshaw, of Geneva, and Kramer, '16, of Allegheny, took the second and third places. In the shot-put, Dotterrer again proved himself the best, Walkinshaw again being forced to remain content with second honors. Coulson, '18, carried off third place. Fee, of Geneva, won the hammer throw with 109 feet 9 inches. Coulson made good for second place, and Dotterrer carried off third. Dotterrer was the leading point winner for Allegheny.

In the pole vault, Downie, of Geneva, was the victor. Downie had a style of jumping all his own, but he succeeded in getting over the bar, which we understand to be the object in this event. He reached 10 feet 2 inches, Tarr, of Allegheny, pushing him close for second place. Powell and Kepner tied for third place. The Allegheny men all used fine form, and as all three of them are Sophomores, the team will undoubtedly be strong in this event in the next two years at the least.

The high jump was largely a contest between McKay and Kramer, who tied for first place, the event going at 5 feet 7 inches. Both of these men jumped in fine form and had little difficulty in defeating their Geneva opponents. McIsaac, of Geneva, took third place. McKay in a separate trial jumped 5 feet 8 inches, breaking the college record for the event, made in 1914 by himself. The former record was 5 feet 6¾ inches.

In the broad jump Geneva showed unexpected strength, McCarter tying McKay for first place, each man making 20 feet 2 inches. The event was very hotly contested but neither man was able to break the tie.

The conditions under which the meet was held were far from ideal. A day of almost continuous rain, and a shower even on Saturday morning, made the track woefully slow, and it is remarkable that the time in the various races was as good as it was.

The high point-winner of the afternoon was M. A. Dotterrer, '15, whose two first places and one third, all gained in the weights, were equivalent to eleven points.

Several men whose places have not been so firmly established heretofore, impressed their worth on the small, but enthusiastic crowd of spectators in a marked degree. Principal among these are Kinney, '18, and Witter, '17. The former of these made remarkably good time in the short dashes and was returned winner in both. The latter was the surprise of the day, winning the mile handily and taking second place in the 880.

After the loss of Fahr, McKinney, '17, and Drake, '17, assumed the responsibility for the quarter mile, the former winning by a step in 53 2-5 seconds.

But one college record was broken, this being the high jump. McKay, '16, who also held the former record at five feet, six and three quarter inches raised his mark to five feet, eight. He also tied with McCarter of Geneva for first place in the broad jump.

Kramer, '16, tied McKay for first position in the high jump at five feet, seven inches, but was defeated in the try for record.

Coulson, '18, proved himself to be the school's best hammer-thrower, taking second place in this event, and also placed in the shot put. He should be a good successor to the last of the Dotterrers next year.

A race of a fluke variety was the low hurdles. Geneva's two entries, believing in the value of a good start, crossed the first hurdle before the gun was shot, and were not stopped by the starter. Long and Drake, the Gold and Blue representatives, saw the futility of attempting to win and finished in a leisurely fashion. Following this a third runner of the opponents ran the course alone, and it was found that his time was superior to that of Long for third place.

One thing occurred which would have spelled disaster for the home athletes had Geneva possessed a stronger team. This was the injury of Captain Fahr in the high hurdle race. In attempting to make up ground after a poor start, he pulled a tendon which had been injured some time before and was unable to finish the race or compete in any of its other events. This accident will keep him off the track for several weeks, although it is possible that he may be able to run in the Inter-class meet in Anniversary week.

BUFFALO UNIVERSITY NEXT SATURDAY

After playing on foreign fields for over a month, the baseball team will be seen in action on Montgomery Field next Saturday, being opposed by the University of Buffalo. After this contest the players will be idle until June 19, when the Alumni nine will be met as the first attraction of Anniversary week. The Buffalo game will thus represent the last intercollegiate affair of the year, and because of the good record of the team, should be largely attended. Despite the reverses at the hands of Duquesne, Pitt and Grove City, the squad has made a remarkable showing, considering the fact that no team of recent years has been able to be returned victor as many times as the 1915 aggregation. The 2-1 victory over Pitt, which took place here on April 24, will remain long in the memory of those who saw it, for the brand of baseball exhibited by the local tossers on that day was equal to the fastest college nines of the country.

Buffalo has been played once this year, being bested by the score of 5-0, on their home field. On that occasion Brookmire allowed but five hits, while his team-mates played errorless ball behind him. The New Yorkers are said to have a fast organization and another well-played game should result.

The combination used in all the previous contests has proven a strong one, and will undoubtedly be used without change. Brookmire, '17, who has allowed an average of 5 3-5 hits in five games, will be in the box, and can be expected to continue his good work. Mellon, '16, will act as his receiver. The rest of the lineup will also remain unchanged.

KALDRON ELECTORAL BOARD ELECTED

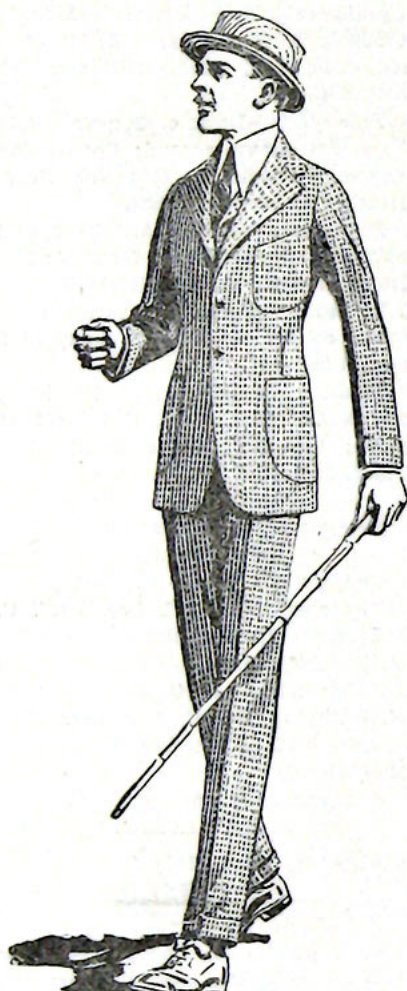

The annual election of the Kaldron electoral board was held in Bentley Hall last Wednesday morning, at which time five persons were chosen from as many groups of three each. The result was as follows: Miss Janet Ellis, '15, Miss Margaret Smith, '16, R. A. Blasdel, '16, D. G. Dunbar, '15, and W. J. Armstrong, '16. This board will meet in the near future to select the editor and manager for the 1916 year book. All students were eligible to vote for the electors.

DEPP, '16, LEADS

The regular meeting of the Y. M. C. A. last Wednesday, marked the close of the active work of the association for this year. The Y. M. C. A. has had a season which from every point of view has been eminently successful, and the officers and members are deserving of the highest praise for the efficient manner in which they have carried on the work, and for the unusually attractive program of meetings which they offered to the men of the college.

The last meeting was conducted in a manner which most fittingly closed the year's work. The speaker of the evening, Walter Depp, '16, gave a talk which in interest, skill of presentation and genuine value to the listeners, was not exceeded by any of the splendid addresses which have been given this year. His subject, "The Christian Armament," was handled in a very effective manner which held the attention of the meeting for the entire period.

As the speaker, himself, stated, the talk was an old-fashioned gospel message, which was intended merely to remove whatever doubts might fill the hearts of the members of the association, and to strengthen their faith. Mr. Depp, in a very straightforward, earnest manner set forth the standards which men should strive to maintain in their Christian life, and gave the message of the Apostle Paul which described the armor of defense and the weapons of offense with which the Christian should provide himself.

The meeting closed with a very live and interesting discussion of the topic from the floor, and the expression by a number of the members of the tremendous value and helps which the Y. M. C. A. had been to them during the past year.

CONCERT

An exceptionally fine concert was held in the Baptist Church last Thursday evening for the benefit of the Belgian Relief Society of Meadville. The concert was given by Mrs. Charlotte Heiner Sturtevant, '03, and Miss Alice Huntington Spalding, assisted by the Girls' Glee club of the college. Mrs. Sturtevant gave some excellent selections and Miss Spalding's readings were greatly appreciated. Both ladies responded to encores. The Girls' Glee club, too, rendered five selections and were heartily encored by the audience.

The following was the program:

5. (a) The Brook, (b) The Little Falls, from "The Three Springs" (c) The Great Water, Paul Bliss—Girls' Glee Club.

2. (A) My Lovely Cilia, Giles Higgins; (b) The Lass With the Delicate Air, Dr. Arne; (Old English Songs) Mrs. Sturtevant.

3. (a) Lethe (Cello Obligato by Mr. Lord) Booth; (b) The Star—Mrs. Sturtevant.

4. (a) Hunting Chorus, Hummell; (b) Goodnight, Parks—Girls' Glee Club.

5. (a) The Gunner (War Song), Haydn Wood—Mrs. Sturtevant.

6. (a) The Habitant's Jubilee Ode, William Henry Drummond; (b) When Albat Sang (Canadian French Poems)—Miss Spalding.

7. (a) The Black Bird Song, Cyril Scott; (b) Hare to the Hilands, Gilmore; (c) Bird Raptures, Schneider—Mrs. Sturtevant.

Mary Thorpe Graham leader of the chorus.

Arline Lane, accompanist.

Instead of the regular Y. W. C. A. meeting this week a business meeting was held Friday evening. At this time a new constitution which was drawn up by the Misses Leona Rial, '16, Helen McKenzie, '16, Martha Kelley, '16, Lulu Lydell, '16, Anna Strong, '16, Mildred Richey, '17 and Georgia Carr, '17, was read by Miss Leona Rial, '16, and accepted by the association at large.

The Y. W. C. A. meeting on Saturday evening was conducted entirely by the Freshman girls. Miss Jessie Howell, '18, the leader, spoke in a very interesting manner on the subject, "Looking Through Freshman Spectacles," and several of the other Freshman girls told of their first impressions of Allegheny and of the Y. W. C. A. here. A pleasing number on the program was the vocal duet given by Miss Isabel Freer, '18, and Miss Marion Miller, '18.

Thursday afternoon the active chapter of the Kappa Kappa Gamma entertained the faculty women, their town alumni, the mothers of the active girls residing in town, and the Senior girls of the other fraternities at a tea in their fraternity rooms, held in honor of Mrs. Parke R. Colbe, of Akron, O., who is the inspector of Gamma Province of Kappa Kappa Gamma. Special music was provided by Misses Marion Klingler, '18, and Esther Emery, '18, and Miss Helen Easterwood, '18.

GERMAN CLUB MEETS AT HOME OF MISS ELLIS

A very interesting and well-attended meeting of the German Club was held on Tuesday of last week at the home of Miss Janet Ellis, '15. One of the features of this meeting was the initiation of a number of the members who have been taken in recently. The initiation provided a great deal of interest and no little amusement for the members present. Following the initiation, the new officers of the club for the coming year were installed. The new officers are as follows: President, Leo McKay, '16; vice-president, Miss Elizabeth Best, '16; secretary, Miss Tillie Bitler, '16; treasurer, C. M. Miller, Jr., '17. Refreshments were served by the town girls. Miss Janet Ellis, '15, the retiring president, was given an appropriate gift by the members of the club.

QUILL CLUB.

The Quill Club meeting of two weeks ago was one of unusual interest as well as a meeting of information for those present. The program under the title, "War Correspondents," was in charge of J. B. Hutchinson, '15. Papers relating to the subject were read by Miss Georgia Roberts, '16, Miss Helen MacKenzie, '16, who read the paper prepared by Miss Arlene McKinney, '15, a paper which presented an instructive phase of the discussion; R. E. Hart, '17, and J. C. Weaver, '17. Mr. Hart's paper was especially timely, relating as it did to the work being done by an Allegheny man in the war zone, Frederick Palmer.

At this meeting the new booklet issued by the Quill Club was distributed for the inspection by members. The booklet contains the constitution, the traditions and a history of the founding of the club, the complete list of members since its founding, and the programs of the club presented since 1910. The booklet is neatly bound and well printed. It has been distributed among the alumni members. It is a fitting souvenir to present to the alumni and members at this time.

C. A. ECKELS, '13, ELECTED LEADER OF COLUMBIA UNIVERSITY GLEE CLUB

A new honor has come to Allegheny through the recent election of C. A. Eckels, '13, to the position of leader of the Glee club at Columbia University, where he is registered in the law school. The selection of Mr. Eckels for this position in a school of about five thousand is indeed an honor. For the past two years he has been chosen to represent the university on the male quartet and has traveled with this quartet through a great part of the East.

While at Allegheny Mr. Eckels was much interested in student activities, being a member of the Glee club and president of the Athletic Association and the Duzer Du Dramatic club. Having had considerable experience in glee club work both at Allegheny and at Columbia, Mr. Eckels will no doubt make a strong leader for the University Glee club.

The honor system is working with a vengeance at the University of Rochester. One man has been suspended and another has received a lighter punishment.

Lehigh will adopt soccer as a minor sport next year. They will also hold an interscholastic track meet to which all the schools of the state will be invited.

News Items

Dr. and Mrs. A. H. Harrop were Sunday dinner guests at the Phi Gamma Delta house.

Dr. F. C. Lockwood delivered the baccalaureate address to the members of the graduating class of the Girard High School on Sunday evening.

Professor and Mrs. Swartley, Miss Marie Howell, '15, Miss Jessie Howell, '15, and Miss Marie Jones, '15, were dinner guests at the Phi Beta Theta house Sunday.

The track team was scheduled to meet the University of Rochester athletes last Saturday but at the eleventh hour the New York team wired that they would not be on hand. Their reason as stated in the telegram was that their team had been weakened by men being placed on probation. All efforts to hold them to their contract were futile. The meet with Geneva was arranged on Friday.

The Senior class at Williams has voted that at none of its reunions will liquor be allowed at headquarters. This is the first class that has ever passed such a resolution.

According to statistics, twenty-two per cent. of the Senior class of Princeton asserted they had never kissed a girl. Some of these "never wanted to," a few refrained from "lack of material," two or three had "hygienic reasons," and about as many were "watchfully waiting."

Columbia University students are again allowed to play football under certain conditions. The game was abolished there in 1905. The conditions under which the sport is restored provides that no Freshman or graduate students are to participate, that all games are to be played on college grounds and on Saturdays and holidays, and that, for the present, games are not to be played with Princeton, Harvard, Yale, Cornell and the University of Pennsylvania.
