

Good Season

Detailed Review of Basket Ball Season—One Defeat.

The 1912 basketball season, viewed from the standpoint of victories and total scores, might easily be said to be one of the best at Allegheny. A total of eleven games were played in which only one defeat was recorded, and that at the hands of Ohio Wesleyan. To counter balance this defeat is the victory over the Buffalo Germans, the world's champions for several years, and the total of 428 points to opponents 191.

Allegheny 41—Ohio Wesleyan 11.
Some little comment was heard as to the advisability of opening the season with the team that had administered the first defeat in 9 years on the local floor last season. However Allegheny team was determined to make amends for that defeat and this was most effectively done by the large score shown.

Allegheny 75—Geneva 11.
Geneva's contributor to the Pittsburgh papers last fall mentioned the fact that Geneva would be in position this year to give even the best teams in the league a chase for the championship. After their first visit to Meadville, however, they found that their hopes had been groundless, for Allegheny proved so much superior that the game was practically a farce so far as the spectators were concerned.

Allegheny 33, Carnegie Tech 11.
Carnegie Tech was the third consecutive team to reach the total of 11 points in their scoring. The game was featured by rough playing on the part of both teams and a number of fouls were called on both sides.

Allegheny 11, Buffalo Germans 10.
The best game that has been seen in the local gymnasium in the memory of this college generation was that with the Buffalo Germans on February 12. The score at the end of the first half was 4-0 for Allegheny, this being the first time in the history of the visiting team that they had failed to tally in the first period. Near the end of the game, the Germans took a brace and the blowing of the whistle relieved the strain of the crowd. The Germans suffered their biggest surprise in this game but complimented Captain Hawk and the team on their excellent passing and team work.

Allegheny 36, Hiram 24.
Captain Hawk's team administered defeat to Hiram on the night preceding the college dinner. Hiram put up the best game of any college team that visited Meadville this year and their clean playing was a feature of the game and season. The score at the end of the first half was 20-9 but in the second half the visitors were strong and held the gold and blue defenders to a 16-15 score for the half.

Allegheny 39, Pitt 15.
Persons who expected to see a good game were disappointed when Allegheny and Pitt met. Football tactics were resorted to more or less by both teams and the game was far from the usual standard seen here.

Allegheny 28, Mt. Union 16.
The first game away from home was played at Alliance against Mt. Union college. The game followed the usual run of those against the teams of smaller colleges and was indicative of the fact that the Allegheny team was able to play basket-

BEETRAM WEBBER GIVES GOOD ORGAN RECITAL

Accomplished Pittsburgh Musician Charms Large Audience in the Chapel.

A large and appreciative audience of the music lovers of the town and college were the guests of Die Deutsche Gesellschaft at an organ recital by Mr. Bertram Webber on Thursday evening in Ford Memorial Chapel. In addition to Mr. Webber, Miss Helen DeArment, of this city, sang several selections.

Mr. Webber is one of the most talented and finished artists who have appeared in Meadville for some time. He has studied under Harrison Weiss of Chicago and Guilman at Paris and at the present time has charge of the music in St. Andrew's Episcopal Church of Pittsburgh. He is ranked with Carl and other prominent organists as one of the best interpreters of the organ in this country. The numbers which he played were from the great composers, he rendering a number of Guilman's most famous compositions.

Miss DeArment's numbers were enjoyed by the audience. Her rendition of "Welcome Sweet Spring" by Cadman, and the "Boat Song" especially delighted her hearers. Miss Charlotte Marhoefer accompanied her.

Following the recital a reception was given for Mr. Webber at the Phi Delta Theta House by the German Club to the patrons and patronesses of the concert. On the receiving line were: C. V. Calvin, Miss Ethel Bayard, Professor Dewey, Miss DeArment, Mrs. Porter and Mr. Webber.

CONTEST AT PITT.

The oratorical contest of the Pennsylvania Arbitration and Peace Society, in which Allegheny will be represented by R. J. Piersol and C. E. Vogel, is to be held at the University of Pittsburgh on Friday evening, April 5, the last day of college before the Easter recess.

ROOSEVELT THE FAVORITE.

According to the result of the straw vote asked for in The Campus of last week, Roosevelt is the choice of the Allegheny students for the next president. A total of 86 votes were cast which were divided as follows: Roosevelt, 38; Wilson, 22; Taft, 16; LaFollette, 6; Clark, 4.

HAMILTON HOLT TO LECTURE

Mr. Hamilton Holt, managing editor of The Independent, has sent word that he will deliver his lecture on "The Federation of the World" at Allegheny on Thursday evening, April 18. This lecture was to have been given here last month but Mr. Holt was forced to cancel the engagement at that time. His coming to Allegheny will bring one of the best lectures of the college year.

The Team

Appreciation of the Men on Basket Ball Squad.

The team which represented Allegheny in basketball this year cannot be termed a team of stars but rather a team of good players who knew how to work together. One of the most pleasing features of the games this year was the absence of any individual starrng. Rather the men developed into a machine of five parts each of which was necessary to the other. Another marked and very commendable feature of this year's team was the fact that all of the men of the team were gentlemen both on and off the floor. It was a great team in every sense of the word and they truly deserve the name of "Allegheny's Big Five."

Hawk.

Perhaps no man did more for the success of this year's team than did its captain and coach "Louie" Hawk, one of the best basketball players who have ever represented Allegheny. "Louie" was seen again at his center position and once more played that whirlwind game which has gained an enviable reputation for him throughout the state. His playing not only meant much to the team, but it was due to his cool headed leadership, inspiring confidence into the men at all that times, that Allegheny was able to beat such a team as the Germans. He was the pivot of this year's team and played a wonderful game in spite of the fact that in nearly every game he was closely guarded. Incidentally it might be mentioned also that this is the first year that Louie has ever been out of the game for a minute and the only reason that he broke his record this year was to allow another man to earn his letter. "Louie" will be a tower of strength to the team next year.

Mates.

In "Jim" Mates Allegheny had one of the hardest working forwards who has ever played the game. "Jim" was in the game with all that he had from the first minute to the last and his hard, fast work meant much to the team. In several of the games this year he gave some good exhibitions of passing and shooting and at all times he played a hard fighting game. Jim will be with the team again next year.

Nicholls

Undoubtedly the greatest surprise of the year in basketball was "Jont" Nicholls one of the best shots who have represented Allegheny. "Nick" led the team in baskets this year and played a mighty clever floor game at all times. He was another man who used his head at all times and remained cool. He with Mates made a team of forwards that would be hard to beat.

Thomas.

"Puss" Thomas, who last year developed into one of the best guards in the business, was in the game

COMEDY OF ERRORS BY DUZER DU ON THURSDAY

Annual Play of Dramatic Club to be Given in Academy of Music, March 28.

The Duzer-Du Dramatic Club is making the final preparations for the staging of "The Comedy of Errors" which is to be given in the Academy of Music next Thursday night. The cast has been working under Miss Eliza Warren, of Cleveland, O., during the past week and rehearsals will continue under her direction until the night of the play. Miss Warren's ability as a coach of a college dramatic production was shown in the performance of "The School for Scandal" last year; and it is probable that the play next Thursday will even eclipse the effort of the club last year.

"The Comedy of Errors" is admirably adapted for production by a college club. It is full of humorous situations and the whole play has a light and easy way that is characteristic of Shakespeare's comedies. No expense is being spared in costumes and scenic effects, so that the staging will be a feature of the performance.

A number of new men will appear for the first time in a Duzer-Du performance on Thursday evening, as only three men will appear who took part in any of the plays of the preceding years. The men in the cast have shown ability and Miss Warren is delighted with the prospects for the play. There are only five female roles on which a great part of the comedy is dependent. Following is the cast:

Solinas, Duke of Ephesus
.....R. W. Thomas
Aegeon C. S. Burwell
Antipholus of Ephesus.....O. C. McLean
Antipholus of Syracuse.....H. J. Wieler
Dromio of Ephesus.....L. W. Wells
Dromio of Syracuse.....W. H. Wells
Balthazar B. R. Beisel
Angelo M. P. Jeffrey
First Merchant.....B. B. Breckenridge
Second Merchant.....L. Pappenhagen
Pinch R. D. Mosier
Abess R. H. Downing
Adriana J. M. Miller
Luciana E. P. Daniels
Luce H. J. Hartman
Lesbia R. H. Boyd
Officer G. A. Shaner
Guards.....Hamman, Ramsey, Denison

The humor of the play centers about the two sets of twins—the Dromios and the Antipholi—who do not know of the existence of their twin brothers. The Dromios are in the service of the Antipholi and when the Duke of Syracuse and his servant comes to Ephesus the mistake in the identity of both servant and master takes place. The Antipholi will be played by Wieler and McLean, who on account of their similarity in build and height might easily be mistaken for one another. The Dromios will be played by Hugh and Louis Wells

Pittsburg Defeated

University of Pittsburg Team Is Defeated in Last Game.

Allegheny closed the basketball season for 1912 last Saturday night at Pittsburg by defeating the University of Pittsburg by a score of 35 to 15. This was the second game of the season with the two teams, Allegheny having defeated them earlier in the season here in a 35 to 19 contest. The game was played in the gymnasium of the Westinghouse club at Wilkesburg and a special feature was the large number of Allegheny rooters present. L. C. Harris, cheer leader last year, attended both the Pitt and Tech games and led the cheering so that Allegheny alumni almost outrooted the home rooters in both cases.

The game with Pitt was looked upon by the local team as the hardest remaining on the schedule after the Ohio Wesleyan game. Pitt had promised to come back strong in the return game and the football tactics tried here made the Allegheny team somewhat doubtful as to the outcome.

The game was one of the best played of the season, the refereeing of Davis, Central league referee, having a great deal to do with its speed. Allegheny took the lead in the start and had no trouble in keeping ahead of her opponents. In the middle of the last half Capt. Hawk read a telegram that had just come from Meadville, saying: "Remember the debate last night." This put fresh spirit into the team and they went after the Pitt team with even more vengeance than they had already shown. During the latter part of the game Ramsey, Lindberg, and Dotterrer took the places of Nichols, Hawk, and Mates, respectively.

The first game of the trip took place at Beaver Falls Thursday night, when Allegheny defeated Geneva by the score of 52 to 9. This contest was not characterized by any specially fast playing. On Friday night Carnegie Tech was met at Pittsburg for the second time this season. The score in this game was 30 to 23. Allegheny played a stronger game in the last half of each of the three games on this trip.

whom a number of college people have difficulty in telling apart so that this set of twins will look their parts. Wieler has been on the cast of the various plays ever since he has been in school.

"Bim" Thomas, who made a hit last year in "The School for Scandal" as Sir Peter Teazle, will appear in the role of the pompous Duke of Ephesus. As the leader of the town he is always willing to assert his authority.

The part of Adriana, the wife of Antipholus of Ephesus and the leading female character, will be played by "Jimmie" Miller. Jim spent last year at the University of Pittsburgh and took the part of the leading lady in the annual production of the Cap and Gown Club of that institution.

The record of the basket ball team during the past season has been exceptionally good. Of Do We Need a eleven games played, Basket Ball ten were won, and Coach? one was lost, that being on a foreign floor.

Especial commendation is due the men on the team because they have worked without the help of a coach. Captain Hawk has done at the same time the work of captain and coach in a manner which is beyond criticism. In this connection it may not be out of place to say that, everything considered, it seems that this system of working without a coach is the best system for the Allegheny basket ball team. For several years before Coach Stewart's advent, the basket ball fives worked without the assistance of a coach, thus producing good teams and making good records. With all respect to Coach Stewart, it is doubtful if the team could have made any better record this year if he had been here. And in the same way, we believe the basket ball team each year would produce good results, if allowed to work independently of the coach.

PHI PSIS ENTERTAIN SOPHOMORES.

Last Wednesday night the Sophomore members of Phi Kappa Psi entertained the Sophomore class at the local chapter house on North Main street. The commodious dining room and the living room were thrown open to accommodate the crowd. Numerous games were played and story tellers were given a chance to relate some tales. A number of songs and yells were given under the leadership of O. A. Parmenter, the cheer leader of the class. The party broke shortly before eleven with an "Angry mob" for the Phi Psis, which was lead by the cheer leader. Among the special guests present were, Miss Lucy Crawford and Miss Pauline Avery, of Goucher College, and Jas. S. Wicks, ex-'14, president of last year's Freshman class. Following is a list of the names of the hosts of the evening: B. R. Beisel, Richard Kahle, Joy Richards, Paul Robinson, H. K. Henry and Jas. S. Wicks. Professor and Mrs. S. S. Swartley acted as chaperones.

COMMITTEE APPOINTED TO NOMINATE Y. M. C. A. PRESIDENT

The Y. M. C. A. prayer meeting last Wednesday night was given over to the reports of the delegates who went a short time ago to the District Convention at Bradford, Pa. Talks were given by J. G. Lane, '14, and A. A. Rea, '13, who were present at the convention. Following these talks, the following were appointed as a nominating committee to make the nominations for the cabinet for the coming year: L. B. Angus, chairman, Frank Amon, R. W. Thomas, W. R. Hofelt, P. W. Johnston, N. L. Ramsey and B. R. Beisel. This committee will report at some meeting in the near future.

The Adventurer

The Adventurer has discovered a truth of human nature which has doubtless always existed but which has been unknown to him until very recently. He has learned that all earthly persons who serve as ideals and models have, each in his own way, deficiencies and limitations, and that when once an ideal has been broken, it can never entirely be put together again.

The Adventurer has had many ideals shattered in this way and has learned to expect deficiencies, even faults in the best and most model-like person on earth. This truth is akin to that which one learns when he discovers that great men are, when seen close at hand, very much like all other men. Some times the disillusionment is cruel but it is always enlightening.

One ideal which the Adventurer recently placed very high was that unique and in many respects mystifying personality, Robert Louis Stevenson. He had always seemed to be of a very high moral character in his writings, for in even such wild books as "Treasure Island" he teaches that right will triumph and wrong will fail. His prayers have a sincere religious tone. And yet Stevenson was habitually addicted to cigarettes and wine, which indulgences are hardly in keeping with the commonly accepted standard of high moral character. This has been the perplexing point in Stevenson for the Adventurer. How could he sincerely and consistently write as he did and at the same time live as he did? The explanation, of course, is that Stevenson's habits were consistent with his ideas of morality and did not seem wrong to him. Whether or not cigarettes and wine are wrong is, of course, another question, but certainly the highest moral character can not be attained by one who has such habits. It seems that either Stevenson was woefully inconsistent in his life and his work, or that he was insincere in his morally high writing.

And in this same way the Adventurer has seen more than one ideal fall. Sometimes he has almost lost faith in men. Now, however, he is prepared to see faults, limitations and failings in men who seem at a distance to be ideal; and he is therefore not so much losing faith in men as he is, perhaps, coming to understand them better.

HUNT PLAYS DETECTIVE.

A peculiar as well as humorous incident took place in the Chapel on Thursday evening, March 15, when the affirmative debating team was practicing for the contest with the University of Pittsburgh on the following evening. H. R. Hunt, captain of the team was in the very midst of his rebuttal, the last of the debate, when, of a sudden, he espied a man in the rear of the Chapel. Knowing that the Pittsburgh team was already in the city and fearing that the intruder might be a spy, Hunt rushed down from the platform and hurrying back to where the man was standing, with a young lady, who was unobserved at first, he demanded in tones far from gentle if the man was from Pittsburgh. For some minutes there was a considerable amount of parleying, which was especially exasperating to Hunt because the man seemed to take the affair as a joke, and to all questions as to his origin, merely laughed and said that he was all right. With affairs in this condition the man departed with his lady. After a consultation with the others, Hunt decided that the matter was too serious to drop, and that the only thing to do was to follow the couple, who by this time were well on the way toward Hulings Hall. Hunt and his sleuthful associates followed them to the door of Hulings Hall and there requested the maid to ask the man to appear. The supposed spying intruder then came forth, and seeing the seriousness of the debaters informed them that he was a Meadville man, and, giving his name, said that he was acquainted with certain members of the Faculty. In this way he established his innocence and quieted Hunt who had declared that "if you're from Pittsburgh, there'll be no debate tomorrow night."

History of Basketball

Origin and Development of the Game At Allegheny.

On account of the extraordinary class of basket ball teams that are turned out from Allegheny each year it has generally been considered that the floor game has been played here longer than it really has. The first record of anything like a basket ball team is in 1895 when H. G. Burdge, the athletic coach and physical director of the college, organized such a team. That was before the time of the Allegheny gymnasium and practices were accordingly held in the parish house of the Episcopal church. The game as first played here required the use of seven men: two forwards, a center a right and left center and right and left backs.

No games were played the first year as the team had been simply organized for playing in the college, but in the following year outside schools were played. Edinboro Normal was one of the early rivals in this line of sport and the new game attracted considerable interest about college and in town. In 1897, the rules of the game were changed so that the number of men was reduced to five, they filling the positions of the modern game. From 1899, Allegheny's real history in basket ball begins. In that year ten games were won out of the fourteen played, and a number of strong teams from other schools were met. In 1901, a total of 15 out of 16 games were won, Yale suffering defeat that year by a score of 21-12. In 1902 a total of 497 points was scored against opponents 234 with a record of 12 out of 13 games won. In 1906, Yale was again defeated in what must have been nearly as exciting a game as that with the Germans this year, for the final score was only 18-16. The ball which was used in this latter game has been preserved as a souvenir and is in the trophy room with the result of the game painted upon it. In 1908, a perfect record was made by the team, as not a game was lost either at home or abroad and the total scores were 460 to opponent's 188.

The records of the last three seasons are comparatively fresh in the minds of the majority of students. In 1909, Ohio State, the Cleveland Collegians and Bucknell were defeated, while Penn State and Oberlin won by close margins. Last year Oberlin was the chief opponent and they suffered defeat both at Meadville and Oberlin, a margin of no more than two points determining the final results. The record of the 1912 team is also of the sort that will fit beside the last few years of victories.

PRESIDENT CRAWFORD REPORTS TO STUDENTS.

The appearance of Dr. Crawford in chapel last Wednesday morning, after a long absence, elicited cheers from the student body. In a short speech the president told of the difficulty under which the work of raising the endowment was proceeding. He said that the trying part and the real test of what could and what must be accomplished was still ahead in the five weeks that are left.

The Pittsburgh district, which has heretofore responded well to the appeals of the college for financial aid, has up to the present done comparatively little in the way of contributions. This is due to the financial depression which exists about Pittsburgh. President Crawford said he still had high hopes that something would come from his efforts in that section. He spoke facetiously of the possibility of closing up the college for a week and letting the students raise as much as they could to help the good cause to its completion. His remarks were met with applause.

PHI DELTA THETA FOUNDER'S DAY.

Last Monday night the local chapter of Phi Delta Theta held its annual founder's day banquet at the chapter house on Highland avenue, celebrating the anniversary of the founding of the local chapter, Pennsylvania Delta. A six course dinner was served to the members of the active chapter and the town alumni. After the dinner Prof. C. F. Ross presided over the following speakers: W. F. Maxwell, '12; W. R. Hofelt, '13; F. H. Callahan, '12, and Dr. W. A. Elliott.

Besides about thirty students, Professor and Mrs. S. S. Swartley were present. Dainty refreshments consisting of sandwiches, tea and cocoa were served.

Miss Margaret Beebe, '10, was the leader of the Wednesday evening Y. W. C. A. prayer meeting. She began her talk by a suggestion for a type of Bible study known as word study, and took as the subject for a few minutes' thought the word "hand" as found in the Bible. Throughout her talk the hand of the Creator was emphasized as contrasted with the work hand of man.

In the issue of the Campus for March 9, Dr. L. H. Bugbee, the pastor of the Center M. E. Church in Malden, Mass., was referred to as "a professor in Allegheny from 1875 to 1882." This was an error. The Dr. L. H. Bugbee who is now located in Malden, Mass., is a son of the late Dr. L. H. Bugbee who was not only a professor in Allegheny but president of the college from 1875 to 1882. The younger Dr. Bugbee was a pastor of the Stone Church for a time. A recent letter from P. M. Hillman, '11, who is now a student in Boston University, states, after calling attention to the above error, that Dr. Bugbee has been invited to become an honorary member of the Boston Alumni Association.

The Mutual Nourishment Society enjoyed its first annual banquet last Saturday afternoon in the Tea Rooms on North Main street. The entire membership of sixteen was present. Mrs. C. J. Ling acted as toastmistress, and toasts were responded to by Miss Gertrude Hammond, Miss Marion Carroll, Miss Cella McClure and Miss Jane Lockwood.

The Y. W. C. A. meeting of last Sunday was led by Miss Dorothy Sansom, '13, who took for her subject, "Readiness for Service." She suggested a division of service into service for ourselves, service for our friends, and service to God. Misses Arlene and Velma McKinney, '15, played a violin duet, "The Angels' Serenade," accompanied on the piano by Miss Beatrice Mullian, '15.

A number of members of the two Christian Associations visited the County Poor Farm last Sunday afternoon. The party together with Miss Edith Rowley and Miss Shepherd of Hulings Hall, left about 2:30, returning in time for supper. A large box of carnations was taken along and each of the inmates was presented with one. A brief song and prayer service was held for those who were able to attend, and special attention was given to some who were unable to move from their rooms.

THE TEAM.

stronger than ever this year. His work at the guard position was the subject of the most favorable comment wherever seen and any man who passed him this year or was able to get more than a couple of baskets from him, had to be exceptionally good. "Puss is undoubtedly one of the best guards that has ever defended Allegheny's goal and his work this year counted a great deal in the list of victories.

Graham.

"Fats" Graham was the only Freshman to make the team this year and he showed by his work in every game that he truly deserved his place. He rapidly developed into an excellent guard and, with Thomas, made a pair of guards who were practically impassable. He plays a close, heady game at all times and gives all promise of developing into one of the best guards Allegheny has had in years.

Ramsey.

Roy Ramsey, the little fighting guard, once more rendered the team most valuable service as a substitute and whenever he was given the opportunity, played a hard, fast game. He is another man who will be with the team next year.

Lindberg.

Although he was injured in the early part of the season Lindberg came back strong later, and on the Pittsburgh trip he filled Hawk's position in good style. He plays a fast, hard fighting game and he, too, rendered the team invaluable service as a substitute in several of the games.

Dotterrer.

No man on the squad this year deserves more commendation for faithful, consistent work than does "Chuck" Dotterrer. In spite of the fact that he was not able to gain his letter and in spite of the fact that he was not taken on the first trip, "Chuck" stuck to the team every day and the service he rendered them in practice and as a substitute whenever given the chance deserves the greatest commendation.

DELEGATES TO NEW YORK AND WASHINGTON CONVENTION.

At a meeting of the Modern Problems Club, held last Tuesday evening, delegates were elected to represent the Allegheny organization at the General Convention of the Inter-collegiate Civic Club. The assembly convenes April 11th in New York City, to discuss informally the problems of the present day and also to find out what means the different clubs are using in conducting their meetings and work. H. J. Wieler, '13, and R. W. Thomas, '12, were elected as the regular delegates. W. F. Dalzell was elected a conditional delegate, and W. E. Sheffer, '12, and A. A. Rea, '13, as alternates.

The representatives will go, after the New York Convention, to Washington, D. C. While there they will meet and interview President Taft, the judges of the Supreme Court and various cabinet officers.

GOWNS RETURNED.

The Senior caps and gowns, which were stolen from F. H. Callahan's room before the college dinner and which have been missing since that time, were found on Sunday morning in the rostrum of the chapel, by Professor Dewey. The second theft of the gowns occurred soon after the punishment of the six Freshmen for the first offense, and it was first thought that these same men were the guilty parties. However, they declared their innocence and the search was given up for a time. Several weeks ago an anonymous letter was received by Mr. Callahan, which is given below:

"Dear Callahan

The gowns will be back in a few days. Nothing personal was intended and we apologize to you for the worry it has probably caused you"

After the receipt of this letter all search was abandoned, in the hope that the gowns would be returned, but no clew was found until their reappearance on Sunday. The thieves had entered the chapel through a window which was partly open and had simply put the gowns there as the safest place to avoid detection. The gowns were unharmed so that no loss was caused by their disappearance except the fact that the owners were compelled to borrow substitutes for the college dinner.

An interesting fact in connection with the reappearance of the gowns is that Dr. Dutton called the men who stole them the first time before him on Thursday of last week and explained the seriousness of the offense. The gowns were placed in the chapel only three days after this and while these men are not blamed for the second theft, it is thought by some that they may have known something of the particulars.

NEW CATALOGUE ISSUED.

The catalogue for 1911-12 is now in the hands of the faculty and students. Six graduate students are registered, 61 Seniors, 77 Juniors, 89 Sophomores and 130 Freshmen, besides 6 special students, making a total attendance of 363 persons. A considerable change has been made in the rates for board and room at Hulings Hall, and in the method of payment. No distinction is now made in the prices of the front and rear corridor rooms.

KALDRON NOTICE.

If you haven't answered last week's questions do so at once. Be sure to get a Who's Who Outline and answer it, especially the Familiar Sayings. Thank you.

KLEE-O-KLEET TRY-OUTS.

The tryouts for positions on the cast of "The Miser," the play to be staged this year by Klee-O-Kleet, were held Thursday and Friday of this week before Miss Alice Colter and it is probable that the full cast will be announced next week. As soon as the final selection has been made the rehearsals will begin.

The March Lit

Good Number of The Literary Monthly Is Issued.

The March number of The Literary Monthly made its appearance at chapel time yesterday. This issue contains more than the usual number of articles, none of them, however, being of very great length. The number was edited by Miss Florence Griswold, one of the associate editors.

After "March Winds," a little verse by Miss Florence Griswold, which opens the number, comes "The Deserted Village," by P. H. Nichols. This writer, a Freshman, appears for the first time in the monthly, but with this half sketch, half story, he has made a very graceful and creditable debut.

"The Long Way" comes next. It is written in a very unusual and unique style by Miss Ethel Bayard. Whether it is an allegory or not is hard to determine. It is hazy and indefinite but for all that, its artistic style is worthy of commendation. Miss Bayard has frequently contributed to the monthly in the past.

Thomas Hughes appears this time, writing in the role of a girl who finds herself in a city without money enough to take her home and sets about securing it by a plan which is original and interesting. The story is called "For Lack of Money."

O. A. Parmenter is a new contributor, appearing for the first time in "A Broken Pledge," a story of a brother's love which remained true to an undeserving brother. It verges on the melodramatic.

The next two stories, "The Victory of the Curls," by Miss Beulah Grauel, and "The Intervention of Fate," by C. Sydney Burwell, are short stories of interest but of rather less merit than the usual run of The Literary Monthly stories.

Child stories are permissible, now and then, in a college monthly and so Miss Elizabeth Ling's, "A Matter of Tastes," finds a justifiable place in the table of contents. It is a story of school children and their ideas about teachers.

"Gal Brune," who made his first contribution to The Literary Monthly last month, presents an interesting and instructive paper on "Frederick Remington, N. A." In both of his articles, Gal Brune, as he calls himself, has chosen his subject well, each one having been a character sketch of a prominent American painter.

The Editorial departments are of more than usual breadth of scope in subject matter. The poetry is very apropos and the magazine, all round, is a very pleasing number. The most serious criticism of it would be that there is too much monotony of stories, not enough variety in the nature of the articles. There should be more sketches, essays and at least one article of a serious nature.

ADVERTISING DISCUSSED BY MANAGERS.

Last Monday night the regular monthly meeting of the Quil Club was held in the Library. The program was in charge of the managers of three of the college student publications, and took up the subject of advertising. W. D. Dotterrer, '13, manager of The Campus, read a paper on the "Commercial Value of Advertising." H. S. Leitzel, '12, who was manager of last year's Kaldron, told some of his experiences under the head of "The Adventures of an Advertising Manager." G. H. Davidson, '12, who has charge of the business end of The Literary Monthly gave an account of "The Tactics of Advertising." The program was interesting throughout.

A LECTURE RECITAL.

An effort is being made by the Department of English and the Department of Public Speaking to secure Prof. P. C. Pearson, head of the department of Public Speaking at Swarthmore, and noted as a Chautauque lecturer, for a series of three lecture-recitals to be given some time during April. Professor Pearson has a high reputation as a reader and lecturer, being especially effective in his reading of works of Mark Twain, James Whitcomb Riley, Eugene Field, and Paul Lawrence Dunbar. While at college he was a close friend of Dr. Lockwood.

SMITH SAYS

THAT he wants every student of Allegheny College to come down to the Toggery and study up on CLOTHES. The fellows all seem so busy with their studies up at school that they are badly neglecting their clothes. If you knew the great bargains we are offering on Smith's kind of clothes, you surely would make a rush that would win out in any foot ball game. Wake up, fellows, and come down and get acquainted. All clothing and furnishing reduced. Spring goods ready in a few days.

GOOD SEASON.

Ball away from home as well as on the home floor.

Allegheny 17, Ohio Wesleyan 28.

The only defeat of the season came the following night at Delaware, O. Wesleyan played a consistent game throughout and outplayed Allegheny. Both Graham and Thomas were injured to the extent that it was necessary for them to go out of the game in the second half. The score at the end of the first half was 10-9 with Allegheny in the lead.

Allegheny 28, Mt. Union 19.

The final game at home was played on March 8 and was only a fair specimen of the work of the Allegheny team. The regular lineup was changed and it was not until near the close of the game that Captain Hawk took his regular position at center.

The Pittsburgh Trip.

The team left on Thursday, March 14, for a three day trip to play Geneva, Carnegie Tech and Pitt. The result was a clear sweep for Allegheny, the Geneva game ending 52-9, the Tech game 30-22 and the Pitt game 35-15. Captain Hawk did not play in either of the first two games, he resting for the Pitt game which was considered the hardest of the trip. However, the ability of the local team was shown in this trip as at no other time, as 120 points were scored to the opponents 45.

The difficulty in arranging games this year was responsible for the poorer class of teams that were played. The larger schools, which Allegheny has been accustomed to meet, were unable to play here this year, as both Ohio State and Oberlin refused games with Allegheny.

THETA DELTA PSI FOUNDER'S DAY.

Last Saturday night Theta Delta Psi held their eighth annual Founders' Day banquet at the chapter house on North Park avenue. Chas. Hasely, '12, acted as toastmaster. H. B. Storer, '13, toasted the "Lure of the College Girl." W. G. Hayes, '14, responded to "Fraternity First," and N. C. Sackett, '15, to "Freshmen Anticipations." F. P. Brown, ex-'10, representing the alumni, spoke on "College Days." The out-of-town guests were F. B. Brown, ex-'10, S. H. French, ex-'09, and I. D. Ford, '11.

This evening in the high school chapel Dr. M. J. Lichty, of Cleveland, will deliver a lecture on sex hygiene. While in the city Dr. Lichty will be the guest of Dr. F. C. Lockwood.
