Hon. John E. Iglehart,
Evansville, Ind.

My dear Judge Iglehart:

I am hastening to send you a copy of the article to which your correspondent evidently referred, No. 12 of the series. Naturally, I should like to have elaborated this point, but, as you see, the character of the article forbids it.

I am glad you are developing your theme. I am convinced of its importance, and I shall be watching for your address when it appears. Of course I am pleased that you found my letter of sufficient interest to use.

As I said to you before, if there is any error or mistaken inference in what I have written here I shall be most glad, dear Judge Iglehart, if you will call my attention to it. These articles are to go into book form and if I have the correction soon I can make it. It may be that there is something in your forthcoming publication which you would like to have noticed. If so, it will be a satisfaction to me to do it.

Very sincerely yours,
