New York.

Dear Miss Tarbell:

I am in receipt of Miss Wolfe's letter, with your suggestion that I send my novel, "BROTHER TO THE OX," which you will find time to read.

I shall try to repay this generous gift of your time by my devotion to the cause of human justice, which I know lies close to your heart (as well as mine), and prompts this great kindness.

If in your opinion the novel enclosed herewith has marketable possibilities, please give me your advice as to prospective publishers who would not be prejudiced against a book based on Henry George principles.

When you are through with it, please return EXPRESS COLLECT.

Thanking you warmly for your generous interest,

Sincerely yours,
