Dear Miss Tarbell:

I am glad you liked the little item.
The story with which the remarks was closed was taken from an article appearing in the October 1912, issue of Sunset, the Pacific Monthly by Charles S. Zane entitled "Lincoln as I Knew Him." This for your information.

Sincerely yours,

Miss Ida M. Tarbell,

New York City.

My Dear Miss Tarbell:

Dodd, Mead & Co. are publishing in the fall a study of mine on "Abraham Lincoln and His Relations to Railroads" and while in New York last week the subject of illustrations was brought up.
In as much as I have a chapter on his course in the state legislature 1836-37 we would like if possible to make use of the admirable map found in your biography page 135 "Map of Illinois" illustrating the lines projected at that session of the Assembly. How could that be arranged satisfactorily.
Was the map made exclusively for the volume or is it a general map on file somewhere. If not the latter, would you grant us permission to use it, or would we have to obtain it from the publishers.

I will thank you for any courtesy extended and the publishers have spoken of furnishing you with a complimentary volume for your opinion when issued.

Sincerely yours,

Jno. W. Starr Jr.
