

DUZER DU WILL STAGE "THE DICTATOR" IN THE ACADEMY OF MUSIC FRIDAY

Well Known Comedy by Richard Harding Davis to be Presented by Allegheny's Thespians—No Efforts Have Been Spared to Make the Play a Success

The annual production of the Duzer Du dramatic club will be staged in the Academy of Music next Friday evening, April 23. From preparations so far made, seats already sold, and practices held, all indications point to the biggest and most successful dramatic production Duzer Du has ever offered to a Meadville audience.

As has been announced in The Campus, the play being produced is "The Dictator," considered by many, the best of the stage works from the pen of Richard Harding Davis, one of the most prominent authors of the present day. The play is a comedy, full of satire on the frequent revolutions in Central America and the short-lived republics constantly springing up. Though written more than ten years ago, its satirical humor fits in in a peculiarly effective way in view of the disturbed conditions in Mexico at the present time.

The cast contains seventeen characters—a large number to fill well, but with the efficient and consistent coaching that the cast has had, there will be nothing lacking in the way in which the various roles are enacted. Among the characters three are women, and the rest men. Several of them are humorous in the extreme and lend effectively to the general comedy of the entire play. The part of the captain's wife, Mrs. Bowie, taken by F. D. Gealy, '16, is an amusing one. A giddy, emotional young bride, sailing with her husband to his new post as American consul at Porto Banos, Manana, a fictitious Central American port, she has eyes for no one but him and continually tells him in most extravagant language how much he can do and how greatly she loves him.

The role of the fierce Spanish woman, Juanita, taken by J. E. Isherwood, '18, is also good. She is a very high-strung, impetuous native of the port, ready for any circumstance and always able to get her way by threats and a free use of her dagger. The character of Duffy, the blustering, awkward detective, always blundering and assuming just enough to spoil his plans, played by J. L. Wise, '17, is also sure to please.

The part of the leading man is played by T. F. Smith, '15, in the character of "Mr. Steve," a New York sport, in a mix up in Central America, as he always was in New York. Mr. Smith has appeared before in college dramatics and handles his part well. The part of the leading lady is played by F. H. Sanner, '16, as Lucy Sheridan, a pretty American girl who has volunteered to marry the Rev. Mr. Bostlick, a missionary among the natives, because "a married man can do better work," but who changes her mind en route and finally accepts the ardent New Yorker, "Mr. Steve."

The costumes for the characters are ordered from a special costuming firm in Philadelphia. A representative was in Meadville two weeks ago to take measurements for the costumes and special effort is being made to reproduce the costumes as nearly as possible, in the male parts at least, as they were in the original production under Charles Frohman in 1904 in New York. The costumes from Philadelphia are expected to arrive the first of the week. The women's costumes are being made in Meadville under the personal direction of the coach, L. G. Williams. He has stated that they will be something distinctly new in the line of style, and will present the ladies of the play to the audience in the very latest approved gowns of Dame Fashion. The show will be a success as a fashion exhibit—a spring opening—from the costumes of the three female characters if for no other reason.

No expense is being spared to make the play a success. The scenic effects will be copied closely from the original. Several new scenes have been made specially for the local production.

The regular Academy orchestra will furnish the music and indications point to lots of college "pep" during the entire evening and a great deal of real "life" manifested by the members of the student body who will be in the audience. It is expected that the entire college will attend. The arrangements that have been made count everybody in attendance, so as to defray the large expense.

Already the members of the faculty and a number of prominent business men of the town have consented to act, with their wives, as patrons and patronesses of this popular annual college affair. Not only will the play produced be by far the most interesting and up-to-date ever attempted by Duzer Du, but the arrangements for its production and the provisions for its success already surpass any heretofore expended on a similar production and will ensure a "live" college play that will lo credit in its way to Allegheny.

The cast that will appear Friday evening has been changed in one part—E. W. Hickman, '16, will appear as Hyne, the wireless operator, in the place of R. P. Koehler, '15, who has been called out of town for the evening of the performance.

New Officers Have Charge of Meeting—Cabinet Announced.

The regular meeting of the Y. M. C. A. last Wednesday evening was the first under the new officers which were elected at the meeting just preceding the Easter vacation. President J. E. Burns, '16, opened the meeting and then called upon J. G. Lane, '15, the speaker of the evening. The subject of his talk was "A Time of Testing," and it proved to be one of the most effective and helpful addresses given before this Christian organization this year.

President Burns then took charge of the meeting. His first words were a recognition of the great task to be undertaken by the new cabinet and a tribute to the efficiency and wonderful record made by last year's cabinet. The new cabinet was then announced, which with a few changes and re-arrangements made since, reads as follows:

President—J. E. Burns, '16.
Vice-President—L. C. Drake, '17.
Treasurer—Harry Wissinger, '18.
Secretary—H. I. Titus, '18.
Fall Campaign—W. A. Brownell, '16.
Mission Study and Handbook—W. J. Armstrong, '16.
Bible Study—L. H. McKay, '16.
Neighborhood Work—F. H. Gealy, '16.
Gospel Teams—R. A. Blasdel, '16.
Religious Meetings—L. C. Drake, '17.
Social—A. D. Barnhart, '17.
Music—E. V. Askey, '17.
Publicity—M. B. Clendenin, '17.
Conference—Fred Powell, '17.

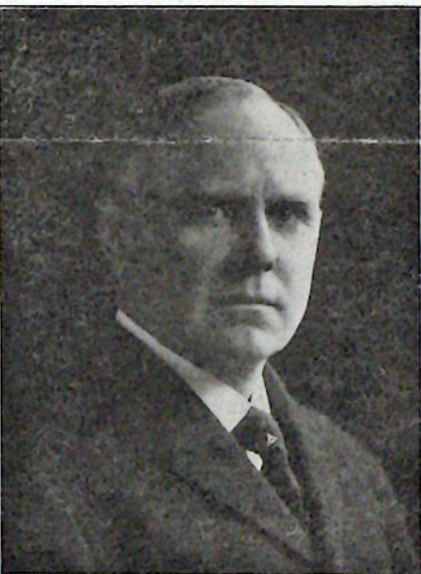

The marriage of Miss Esther Cousins, '13, to Mr. John Wolsey of Hadley, Pa., recently took place. Mr. and Mrs. Wolsey left immediately for an extended trip to California. Mrs. Wolsey was formerly a teacher in the High school at Hadley.

THE BUSY MAN OF THE CENTENNIAL CELEBRATION

A Brief Sketch of President Crawford's Work at Allegheny.

With the preparation for the pageant in June that is to present in a distinctive form the history of Allegheny in her one hundred years of life, the personalities of her earlier days and the characters that moulded her beginning and watched her early growth take the center of the stage. We naturally give first place in our own minds to the memory of him whom we call our founder, the founder of the Old Allegheny. But it is only fitting that we turn, as the pageant will itself bring us, to the present-day life of the college, and Allegheny as we know it today. In this connection a sketch of the founder of the New Allegheny, the moving spirit who is making possible the pageant, is not out of place in the writeups of the men who have made Allegheny famous.

President Crawford came to Allegheny as President of the college in June, 1893. He had been prominent in educational circles before that time and assumed his new position with an established record as an educator and an executive. He was born in Wilton Center, Illinois, in 1855 and went from there to Northwestern University, being graduated from that institution in 1884, and with an A. M. degree three years later. Ordained as a Methodist minister the year of his graduation, he served for five years in two Chicago pastorates, and in 1889 accepted a position as professor of Historical Theology in Gammon Theological Seminary at Atlanta, Ga. He was engaged in this work when, four years later, he was invited to become the President of Allegheny. The same year he was honored by his alma mater with the honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity.

With his coming to Meadville, the so-called New Allegheny came into being. As a survey of the last twenty years is made, it is more definitely seen that the decidedly progressive steps Allegheny has taken in keeping abreast with the educational world makes the popular term "New Allegheny" strictly true, as well. The conservative college of the old school, probably a trifle slow in the pace being set by other institutions around her, has become one of the best equipped, most generously endowed, and most progressive colleges of its size in the country. Twenty-two years ago three buildings comprised the entire equipment of the college. Culver Hall, which stood on the corner just below the Gymnasium, had burned some twelve or fifteen years previous, and Hulings Hall had been erected twelve years before that time. The other two buildings, Bentley and Ruter, housed all departments of the various courses. Wilcox Hall had just been completed that year, the gift of Mr. and Mrs. Robertson Wil-

Eight Bids Were Received—Work on Alden Hall Progressing.

Announcement of the successful bidder for the erection of the Carnegie Hall of Chemistry can be expected within the week. Last week the bids of the eight firms which sought the contract were opened but no definite decision was made. Of the eight bidding firms two were from Meadville, two from Erie, two from Pittsburgh, one from Philadelphia, and one from New York.

All of the bids were entirely satisfactory to the Building Committee of the Board of Trustees which opened them, but as the result of a slight misunderstanding as to internal arrangement of apparatus and the like, it was decided not to award the contract at that meeting of the committee.

The architect, Henry D. Whitfield, of New York, has been in the city for a number of days, preparing the plans and specifications for their submission to the contractors for bids. As the result of action taken by the Building Committee, Mr. Whitfield will confer with the firm which put in the lowest bid, and after a few minor details as to internal arrangement of equipment and other matters, the bidder will be announced and work on the building will be started, so that the plan to have Mr. Carnegie, chief donor of the building, for the purpose of laying the corner stone, may be carried out.

The Biology Building.

The work on the Biology building is progressing nicely. The foundation for the new part of the building is complete and the contractor is planning to have the entire building enclosed by June 15 so that a very definite idea of the finished work can be had by the Centennial visitors. The plans have been photographed and a cut of the George Street front of the building will be made for printing. The terra cotta is being made by a Chicago firm from specially prepared drawings to match the terra cotta over the North Main Street entrance on the old building.

Several changes in Ruter are already under way in view of the moving of the Biology department. The entire museum on the first floor has been rearranged under the direction of Professor Decker to give a better display to the contents, particularly the geological collection of minerals and agates. All the specimens in the collection have been relabelled and will be on exhibition in June. This collection as well as the rest of the museum will remain in Ruter on the first floor after the rest of the two departments have been moved to Alden Hall.

The Geology department will occupy one of the large second floor laboratories in the new building, and the second floor of Ruter will be remodelled into one or two large recitation rooms. The third floor will probably be occupied by the Engineering department, and it is likely that one of the departments from Bentley will be transferred to this floor.

MISS ILLINGWORTH, '98, TO SPEAK IN MEADVILLE.

This week a prominent alumnae of Allegheny College, Miss Charlotte Illingworth, '98, will be in Meadville to address several of the missionary societies of this city. On Saturday afternoon a reception will be held for Miss Illingworth in the Stone Church, to which all the college people are invited. On Sunday morning Miss Illingworth will speak in the State Street Methodist Church and on Sunday evening will have charge of the Y. W. C. A. meeting in Hulings Hall. Miss Illingworth has recently returned from Burma, India, where her success as a missionary is well known to Alleghenians.

PROFESSOR BAKER WILL BE HERE THIS WEEK

Will Read Pageant Book Before the Local Pageant Committee.

The first definite step towards the staging of the much-heralded pageant for Centennial Week will be taken this week when two men arrive in Meadville who are to have complete charge of the presentation of the pageant and the preparation of it by the student body. Professor George P. Baker, of Harvard, who has written the pageant book, is to arrive either today or tomorrow, April 20 or 21, and with him will come Mr. Roepper, the pageant music master and orchestra leader, who will start the musical practices for the pageant sometime next week. So far, Professor Baker has been working on material furnished by Dr. Smith in the correspondence between the two for that purpose, and such impressions as Dr. Baker himself formed when he was in Meadville last June. These have been enough to form the basis of the work and give it a general form which will fit in with the surroundings of the campus and the buildings on it as well as the general history of the college.

On Thursday Mr. Paul Sturtevant, '99, of Pittsburgh, will be in Meadville to confer with the contractor of the grandstand as to final position and various measurements before the seats are started. When this is accomplished he and Dr. Baker will meet with the local pageant committee and Dr. Baker will read the pageant book with the idea of getting finishing touches of local setting and color to perfect the work.

The contents of the pageant book are not to be described before the presentation in any way, it being Dr. Baker's wish to have the pageant a complete surprise for the alumni when they see it in June. Of course, it will be necessary later to disclose the pageant story to the student body who will enact it, but it is not to be advertised in any way beforehand.

The final design that is to be put on the Centennial medal has been selected and the order placed with the A. M. Robbins Co., of Attleboro, Mass. A cut of the design was displayed in Bentley Hall last week before being finally sent to the manufacturer.

The Centennial posters for letters are on sale at the Registrar's office, fifty for ten cents, and have already found a good sale among the students. Starting with last Thursday, every letter that leaves the Registrar's or the Registrar's office has been sealed with one of these posters. It is the intention of the President to have this plan followed until June.

As yet no plans for Moving Up Day or Founder's Day have been made. It is possible that Founder's Day, which comes next Saturday, will pass with very little observance of a special nature in view of the larger celebration in June. The matter of these two holidays as well as the examination schedule are at present in the hands of a faculty committee and will probably be announced this week.

ALDEN ACADEMY ALUMNI EFFECT AN ORGANIZATION

Elect Officers—Will Hold a Banquet at Commencement.

The men of the college who formerly attended Alden Academy held a meeting in Bentley Hall on the Thursday preceding the spring vacation, at which an Alden Academy Alumni Association was organized. The following officers were elected: President, E. A. Robinson, '15; vice president, C. V. Allshouse, '15; secretary, C. L. Mulfing, '15; treasurer, David McKinley, '15.

Plans have been formulated for a banquet at Commencement. It is expected that several prominent alumni will be on the toast list.

APRIL 20, 1915.

Remember the College Play Friday evening in the Academy of Music! If this is to be Allegheny's banner year in college dramatics, your presence at the annual performance of Duzer Du is needed—positively demanded. For the past two years our Thaspians have been greeted by only a fair-sized audience—a circumstance which has been most discouraging to the management. This year special attention has been paid to getting the town people to attend. How can we expect the town people to come if we as college students do not think it worth while to be present?

SENIOR ORATIONS AND THESES.

With this issue of the Campus all but two of the subjects of Senior theses have been reported—in other words 103 of the 105 in the Centennial class have handed in the titles of their theses and orations for the second semester. The names of members of the class with the thesis or oration which each presents are here given: They must be handed in on April 26th.

IN THE COLLEGE WORLD.

Michigan realized $30,000 from football last fall.
Out of 395 American Colleges, 135 have some form of an honor system.
Cornell will have a college armory, the largest in the world, costing $325,000.
A new dental building will be erected at the University of Iowa with a recent gift of $100,000 from the state board.
Governor Brumbaugh is to address the I. B. K. Society of Lafayette and in June will receive an LL. D. from that college.
Lafayette may have lacrosse among their sports next year. It as a major sport at Lehigh at the present time.
Freshman fussers are to be card indexed at the University of Colorado to show the relation between fussing and class standing.
Yale, competing with Penn, Columbia, and Princeton, won the Intercollegiate Swimming contest held at New Haven March 5, by one point.
The next intercollegiate meeting will be held on Franklin Field, Philadelphia. Penn and Harvard were the only bidders for this great event.
All Freshmen of Vanderbilt must reside in the dormitories by faculty ruling. The purpose is to bring them into close touch with real college life.
Several colleges are offering credits in English for work done on dramatic clubs, in debates and oratorical contents. A good way to arouse interest for such things.
Syracuse University is holding football practice in the baseball cage in the gymnasium. Fourteen candidates have already reported for the position of center and quarterback, made vacant next year by the graduation of the present holders of the places.
University of Missouri's co-eds define a "date" as follows: "A 'date' is a social engagement between a man and a woman to take place after 6 p. m., and lasting a longer period than one-half hour." Also decided to "allow four 'dates' a week," but did not specify the nights.
At present there are more than 2,000 Chinese students studying in America. Their expenses are paid from the $20,000,000 Boxer Rebellion Indemnity Fund returned to China by the United States.
Swarthmore, winners of the Eastern division of the Pennsylvania Basketball League, defeated Albright, winners in the Central Division. They then played the University of Pittsburgh, winners in the Western section, for state championship but lost, 40-26, thus giving the title to "Pitt."
Of the 515 students of Brown, 201 declared they were in college solely for the purpose of gaining a good, general education. There were 89 preparing for educational work, 77 for engineering, 48 for law, and 44 for business. The majority voted English their most interesting and serviceable study with biology next.
According to a vote recently taken at Dartmouth figures show that athletics really do not pass as strongly as is commonly believed as a factor in attracting men to a particular college. Only five out of nearly four hundred men admitted that athletics had been the drawing card. The influence of Dartmouth graduates and under-graduates proved to be the largest factor.

BASEBALL TEAM FAST ROUNDING INTO SHAPE----FIRST HOME GAME SATURDAY

University of Pittsburgh to be Opponents--Captain Campman, '16, and Coach Hammett Have the Players in Line--
Track Team Also Working

Baseball sprang into prominence in the week and is now occupying much of the time and attention of the student body. The squad, which appeared for practice on Montgomery Field for the first time on Tuesday afternoon, is not as large as some previous squads, but it appears to contain more than the usual percentage of real players. The customary quota of Freshmen are out, but as yet few have shown anything like varsity calibre. Coach Hammett is the busiest man on the hill these days with both track and base ball on his hands, but the way he goes about his work has made a good impression on the men and gives promise of a successful season.

The prospects are on the whole pleasing. The fact that nine men who have won their letters in previous years are again in school is in itself promising, and the troubles of the coach rest in the filling of two positions, shortstop and left field.

One of the strongest departments this year appears to be the pitching staff, no less than seven men being included in this list. Ex-captain Robinson, '15, is being counted upon to resume his work in this line, although last season he was forced to fill the vacancy at short stop. His all-around ability enhances his value, and he is to be used in the outfield when not in the box. It is also possible that he may have to be called upon to serve in the short stop position in case the other candidates fail to fill the bill to the satisfaction of the coach. Much is expected of Brookmire, '17, for his added experience should make him a remarkable twirler. Coming here a Freshman, last spring he pitched in every game, and if he had been accorded proper support would have been returned victor on several occasions. E. B. Gilbert, '15, is ready to take his turn on the mound, but he will undoubtedly be used in the outfield the greater part of the time. Aey, '16, the only left-hander on the squad, has gained control, which was his principal weakness last year, and may be credited with many achievements before the season is over. Hoffman, '16, is a hard worker who has shown an improvement over his form of a year ago. Two Freshmen, McCloskey and Hutchison, are in the list of box men, but neither has had any opportunity to exhibit his skill as yet.

Mellon, '16, is again on the job, but several men are hustling him for the position behind the plate. Drake, '17, Kinney, '18, Isherwood, '18, and Dewey, '17, possess the earmarks of good receivers and will probably be of great assistance in the formation of a winning nine.

The infield is rapidly assuming form with several veterans again at their old stations. Captain Campman, '16, whose equal as a smooth fielding first baseman is seldom seen in college circles, will cavort for his third year around the initial sack. Townsend, '15, captain of the 1912 team, is proving to be the life of the infield and is resting secure in his position at second base. Shenefelt, '17, is showing speed at the third corner, although he has also been tried at short. The need of a competent man to fill this latter berth is causing Coach Hammett trouble, and it is probable that his selection will not be made known until shortly before the opening game. Bell, '16, Hoffman, '16, and Shenefelt, '17, have tried the position with more or less success, but it is highly probable that Robinson, '15, will have to be thrown into the breach, in which case the space between second and third will be covered in big league style. Emery, '17, who was a member of last year's aggregation, has designs on an infield perch, and should prove a valuable utility man.

The manning of the outer gardens is not presenting much of a problem, although a man for left field, which is an extremely difficult location because of the fact that it is faced by the direct rays of the sun, must be selected. The Gilbert brothers will occupy two thirds of the outfield, although their exact positions are not yet decided. The third man will be drawn from Dundon, '16, Harper, '16, or Robinson. Dundon has been showing up well in batting so that it is likely he will be given a berth. Much emphasis is being laid on batting and it is thought that this department of the sport will be stronger than formerly. With such men as Campman, Shenefelt, C. Gilbert, Robinson, Townsend and Dundon to lead the attack, opposing pitchers will have good cause to tremble.

First Game With Pittsburgh
The event now being anticipated with interest is the game with the University of Pittsburgh scheduled for April 24 on the local diamond. Pitt had little difficulty in taking two contests from the Gold and Blue representatives last year, and with ten former letter men again on their roster, the outcome of this game looks dubious. However, it should be taken into consideration that the down-state nine is one of the best college organizations in the country, and the making of a creditable showing against them would be as high a tribute to Allegheny's athletes as a victory over a less formidable school. Pitt is being coached this season by Sam E. Wilson, who was captain and centerfielder of the 1914 team. Healy, the clever shortstop, who has also won his spurs in foot ball and basket ball, is captain. On the call for candidates on March 29 the Freshman class responded nobly and several of the first year men bid fair to oust the former incumbents from their positions. The great trio of Kiski Freshman athletes, Hastings, DeHart, and Carlson, have shown their versatility in this line of sport as well as in football and basketball. An illness will probably keep Williamson, the pitcher who did such remarkable work last year, from being in the lineup for some time, but there are several exceptional players to fill his place. The team which will be seen on Montgomery field will probably be as follows:

Catcher--Beattie.
Pitcher--Langdon, Hart, Kennedy.
First base--Peck.
Second--Hastings.
Third--DeHart.
Shortstop--Healy (captain).

The Alumni Game
For some time past Manager Howard Boyd, '15 has been in communication with some of Allegheny's base ball stars of former days in regard to playing on the Alumni nine on June 19, the first day of the Anniversary celebration. To date the following men have signified their willingness to take part, and it now appears that the 'varsity will have its task picked for it when it lines up against this team of old stars. The list is: W. E. Abbott, '12, Lee Benedict, '09, Louis Hawk, '13, Harry Firestone, '11, Max Croasman, '13, J. L. Miner, '09, Richard Baker, '10, Horace Lavelly, '12, L. C. Harris, '11, T. W. Thoburn, '14, W. R. Grant, '11, J. R. Gahan, '10, W. F. Galbraith, '13.

Track Men Busy.
The coming of warm weather after vacation witnessed the appearance on the cinder track on Montgomery Field of a large squad of track candidates. The majority of the men had been training faithfully at their home towns during the Easter recess, and so really little practice will be required to get the squad into championship form. All the work is being done with the Tech meet, which takes place at Pittsburgh on May 9th, in view. The Plaid school was victorious over Coach Hammett's athletes in the dual meet of last spring, winning by the narrow margin of 66-60, and the desire to wipe out this defeat is uppermost in the minds of all. It is uncertain at present as to how many men will make the trip, the coach having expressed himself as being unwilling to take any one who will not help materially in point-getting. The number will probably be from twelve to fifteen.

The winter races which were scheduled to take place in the week before vacation but which were postponed because of the cold weather, are to be run off on April 29th and May 1st, and will serve as a tryout for the purpose of seeing what middle distance and distance men will be used at Pittsburgh. Because of the fact that several men are now in condition who were not before, the entry list will be reopened. All desiring to run the 440-yard, 880-yard, mile or two-mile runs must make this fact known to Dr. Hammett on or before Tuesday, April 27th. The points won in these races will be added to the class totals made in the Indoor Meet on Thursday March 25th. The standing is as follows at the present time: 1916, 27½; 1915, 22½; 1917, 16; 1918, 10. There promises to be some remarkably close scores as the final result, the three upper classes being expected to be closely grouped because of the fact the real strength of the Sophomores will come into play in the outdoor events.

At the present time four men, Kramer, '16, Drake, '17, Kinney, '17, and Stroup, '17, are members of both the track and baseball squads. They will undoubtedly declare their allegiance to one or the other of the divisions of the sport in the near future, depending upon which team they will be of most value to.

The track itself is being worked into good condition, cinders having been added and a five-ton steam roller put over it last week.

TENNIS PROSPECTS

Annual Tournament Will Commence Soon--Three Meets Scheduled.

This week will undoubtedly usher in the tennis season. Plans are now being laid which, if carried out, will bring about the starting of the annual tournament for the picking of the team to represent the college, before the end of the week. Indications are that the drawing for positions in the three classes, A, B and C--will be made on Friday. If so, and if the weather permits, matches will be immediately scheduled and the tournament should be well under way on Saturday.

Manager H. F. Brownell, '15, has been corresponding with a large number of colleges in New York, Ohio, and Pennsylvania, for the past three months and his efforts have brought forth three good meets. Not a team that was met last year has, as yet, a place on the schedule. Ohio Wesleyan and Denison have both been dropped because of the inability of the managers to find a date which did not conflict with others on the schedule of the teams. The other teams met last year have been dropped, some of them for the same reason, and some because the poor showing they made against Allegheny does not warrant another appearance on the schedule.

The three meets already settled upon are:

May 20--Geneva College at Beaver, Pa.

May 21--University of Pittsburgh at Pittsburgh.

May 18--Syracuse at Meadville.

Manager Brownell is in communication with a number of other colleges relative to meets, among them being Wooster, Mt. Union, and Carnegie Tech. In all there will be five meets.

The good weather of the past two weeks has made it possible for the owners of courts to get them in condition. Already most of the fraternity courts have been in use for a number of days. The Delt, Phi Psi, and Phi Delta courts are in condition. The Sigs and Chi Rhos have theirs nearly completed. Two new courts will be added to the number on the hill this year--Phi Gamma Delta is at work on a fine, large court in the rear of their fraternity house, and the Commons Club are preparing one on their premises. The Cochran Hall courts have not yet been put in shape.

The rules used hitherto in the tennis tournament will in all likelihood be followed again this year. The players will be divided according to their ability into three classes--A, B, and C. Each player will be given a place in a list made up from the drawing of lots for position. It will be his privilege to challenge either the man directly above him or the second above to a match, provided that he has not already a match. The match must be played off within a time specified and the results posted or it is forfeited by the man not appearing or forgetting to post the results, to his opponent. The rules governing the tournament will in all probability be posted in Bentley Hall the latter part of this week.

Chances for a winning team this year are exceptionally bright. Three of last year's team will be out fighting to keep their places. Bright, '15, the fourth member of the team, is forbidden by doctor's orders to enter into the play at all this year. The other three men--Cox, '16, H. F. Brownell, '15, and W. A. Brownell, '16--are ready to defend their places against all comers. Last year Cox was champion of the college in singles and the Brownell brothers champions in doubles, for the second year. This team, during the last summer, won the championship in doubles of Northwestern Pennsylvania.

There seems to be plenty of material in school to give these men a great fight before the team is made up. Foremost are the Castle brothers, '18, who come with a great reputation from Pittsburgh tennis circles. Two other tennis men of promise in the Freshman class are Hutchison and Bianchi, who have both had considerable experience at the game and show good form. Dunbar, '15, should also put up a good fight for a position.

BOWLING RESULTS

Some good scores were made on Monday, March 29, when the Chi Rhos won two out of three games from Cochran Hall. H. C. Wasson, '15 broke the high score record by rolling 163. His average of 121 is another record. C. A. Miller, '15 attained an average of 114 for Cochran.

A timely and valuable addition to the sources of Allegheny history as well as a work of interest in itself has just been added to the Library from the Lucy Prindle Foote fund in the four volumes of the "Diary of William Bentley." As one of the early benefactors of the college through his gift of some seven hundred volumes to the Library and as the man for whom Bentley Hall was named, he has a claim on our interest, and this work, published in New England by the Salem Institute, deserves more than passing notice by everyone interested in the history of Allegheny.

Hulings Hall

Miss Georgia Roberts, '16, spent the week-end at her home in Albion. Miss Janet Simcox, '18, of Sandy Lake, was pledged to Kappa Alpha Theta, Friday evening.

Mrs. W. H. Wood entertained the members of Kappa Alpha Theta at a tea on the afternoon of March thirty-first in honor of her niece, Miss Emily Coyles from New Jersey.

Prof. Swartley conducted a very interesting Y. W. C. A. meeting Sunday evening on the subject "Is Religion Worth While?" A special feature of the meeting was a violin solo by Miss Esther Emery, '18.

The following were Sunday dinner guests at the Hall: Miss Elizabeth Best, '16, the guest of Miss Helen Davison, '17; Miss Eleanor Gill, '17, the guest of Miss Vivian Diefenderfer, '17; and Dr. and Mrs. Henke, the guests of Miss Louise Gould, '15.

As a fitting close for the season the last Senior tea which was held in the parlors of Hulings Hall Thursday afternoon with Miss Iva Lewis, Miss Marie Jones, Miss Velma McKinney, Miss Irene Davenport and Miss Eleanor McKay as hostesses, was a brilliant affair in every way. The attendance was the largest that it has ever been and every effort was put forth to make this social function a most enjoyable one. During the tea a short musical program was given which included a piano solo by Miss Beatrice Mullian, mandolin selections by Mr. Carl Miller and several vocal solos by Mr. T. F. Smith and Mr. R. H. Downing. After this, dainty refreshments were served in the reception room which was profusely decorated for the occasion with red and white roses.

MISS HAZEN, '17, ELECTED CAPTAIN OF GIRLS' BASKET BALL TEAM

At a recent meeting of the Girls' Basketball Team, Miss Mildred Hazen, '17 was re-elected as captain of the 'varsity team for next year.

DR. COBERN ASSISTS AT REVIVAL MEETINGS

Dr. Camden M. Cobern assisted in the revival meetings which were held in Mount Union College during the month of March. These meetings were very successful in that there were several conversions, a great number of reconsecrations, and the spiritual life of the whole college was greatly improved.

A lecture on "A Religion A Man May Believe In," which was most favorably received by an audience that tested the capacity of Normal Hall, Edinboro, was delivered by President Crawford under the auspices of the Edinboro Brotherhood on Sunday, April 3.

ARTISTIC CONCERT IN FORD CHAPEL THURSDAY

Mrs. Parkhurst, Mrs. Parish, and Master George Mulfinger Entertain.

The concert given in Ford Memorial Chapel last Thursday evening under the auspices of the Pennsylvania College of Music was perhaps as artistic and thoroughly appreciated as any of recent years. The four artists, three being the pupils of Professor Manville in his Cleveland studio, and the fourth, George L. Mulfinger, the son of Dr. George A. Mulfinger, the pupil of Miss May Thorpe Graham of the Meadville studio, were exceptionally fine and their numbers were all greeted by the heartiest applause of their large audience. The Meadville press was most enthusiastic in its praise of the work of all of the performers. A number of the men of the college served as ushers. The program was as follows:

QUILLERS DISCUSS COLLEGE DRAMATICS AT MEETING

Members of Duzer Du and Klee-O-Kleet Guests of the Evening.

One of the most interesting Quill Club meetings of the year was held in the Library last Tuesday evening. The subject under discussion was "The Drama League of America," and Dr. Lockwood acted as leader.

Miss Marion Miller, '16, read the first paper, "What the Drama League of America Is." Ernest Ling, '16, followed with "What the Drama League is Attempting to Do." J. B. Hutchinson, '15, gave "The Drama League as It Applies to Allegheny College." The last paper was by W. A. Ellis, '16, on "The Drama League Series of Plays." Miss Spalding, who was a member of the original league was then given the floor, and she commented at length on the purpose and growth of the movement.

Approximately little of this organization, The Drama League of America, is known. It was founded in 1911 by a small, but enthusiastic group of literary women in Evanston, Ill., of which city both Dr. Lockwood and Miss Spalding were formerly residents. The association was at first purely local with the idea of discovering the best of contemporary plays, and encouraging attendance at them. It grew rapidly, until it did not cover merely the productions seen in Chicago, but a periodical was published cataloging all of the worth-while attractions of the American stage, listing the best in every class, comedy, tragedy, melodrama, everything but musical comedy. The membership increased in an amazing manner until the league now claims 100,000 followers among whom are some of the foremost literary men of the day. George P. Baker, of Harvard University, who has written the book for the Allegheny Pageant is a prime mover in the enterprise.

Because of the vital interest which the league should contain for Alleghenians, the Duzer Du and Klee-O-Kleet societies were present, and the question was put before their representatives as to whether it would not be advisable to take a membership for the college in the name of the Quill Club and the two dramatic societies in order that the taste of Meadville audiences could be raised to the appreciation of the higher type of dramas. Both W. L. Scott, '16, president of Duzer Du and Miss Rose Platt, '15, president of Klee-O-Kleet, expressed sentiments very much in favor of the movement.

L. D. Kepner, '17, who is to represent Allegheny in the contest of the Civic Oratorical League at Ohio Wesleyan in May, was a guest at the meeting.

After the serving of refreshments Miss Spalding favored the company with one of her characteristic French-Canadian readings, "Mon Frere Camille."

ALLEGHENY GRADUATES IN THE RELIGIOUS WORLD

In the last number of the New York Advocate appeared an article from the pen of the Rev. D. W. Howell entitled "Winning by Contact." Dr. Howell is a member of the class of 1888 and is the corresponding secretary of the General Deaconess Board.

The Rev. A. K. Travis, '02, known to undergraduates by reason of his work here this year in connection with Men's Week, recently delivered an address at a men's meeting in the Arsenal Theater, Lawrenceville, Pa., when members of the Y. M. C. A. bade farewell to their secretary who is leaving Lawrenceville to take up a similar position in one of the branch Y. M. C. A.'s in Philadelphia.

The Rev. T. K. Fornear, pastor of the Butler Street M. E. church of Pittsburgh, and member of the class of 1906, spent a week recently at Cambridge Springs, taking a well-earned rest. In the program for his Easter week services appear the names of five Allegheny alumni for addresses. In addition to Mr. Fornear himself, W. S. Trosh, '04, W. M. Buzza, '02, D. M. Paul, '02, and E. P. Harper, '93, gave short talks. Mr. Trosh occupied Mr. Fornear's pulpit during his week of rest.

The Rev. W. M. Buzza, '02, made the presentation speech in Pittsburgh when the beautiful oil painting entitled "Christ in the Garden of Gethsemane" was given to the Washington M. E. church of that city, of which another Alleghenian, the Rev. E. W. Kelley, '07, is pastor.

Warren Ferde Wilcox, '04, located at Montrose, Col., has written a peculiarly interesting and effective letter to the Christian Advocate, in the April 8th number in which it appears under the head, "Simple Service."

The Easter offering of the Methodist church at Greenville, Pa., of which the Rev. L. L. Swisher, '99, is pastor, amounted to $1,200. It will be remembered that Mr. Swisher was the alumni speaker at the Washington Birthday banquet this year.

A number of Allegheny's alumni have taken prominent part in evangelism in the schools and colleges of the country during the past year. A report of the secretary of Student Work in the Christian Advocate shows that in the schools and colleges of the first class the following alumni assisted or directed services similar to those held here last November—H. L. Smith, '04, at Morningside; W. W. Youngson, '91, at Puget Sound; R. E. Brown, '01, at Wesleyan in addition to A. K. Travis, '02, and R. N. Merrill, '04, at Allegheny. In schools of the second class—R. E. Brown, '01, at Genesee Wesleyan.

It is reported that Bishop Naphthali Luccock, a former professor here, who has been ill in Wisconsin for some time, is rapidly improving.

The Rev. W. H. Lofthouse, '99, has just closed an exceedingly successful year at his charge in Monroe, N. Y. Revival services, held last November, met with the greatest success.

The Pittsburgh papers make special mention of the wonderfully effective arraignment of the liquor traffic at the hands of J. W. Kinnear, of Pittsburgh, last Sunday morning. Mr. Kinnear is a member of the class of 1882 and is at present one of the trustees of the college.

The Rev. B. F. Delo, '59, recently celebrated his eighty-third birthday at his home in Clarion, Pa. Mr. Delo is one of the veteran ministers in the Erie conference.

Announcement is made of the death of H. G. Gregg, '09, who at the time of his death was closing the fourth year of a successful ministry at Apollo, Pa. Mr. Gregg was particularly interested in Anti-Saloon League work and was earning a name for himself in that field.

In 1900 he entered Allegheny, left three years later to enter a course in the Boston Theological Seminary, and graduated from that institution in 1906. He then returned to Allegheny and completed his course, being graduated in the class of 1909. He is survived by his wife, his parents, three sisters and four brothers.

Major Frederic H. Braggins, ex-'64, inspector of the U. S. Customs Office at Cleveland, died February 24 in St. Luke's Hospital in that city after a brief illness. Major Braggins left Allegheny in the spring of 1861 in his Junior year to enlist in the Union army where he served throughout the war. After the war he edited a newspaper in Greenville and served one term in the Pennsylvania state senate. On moving to Cleveland he became connected with the Cleveland Leader as associate editor. During the Spanish-American war he was in Washington in the Ordnance Department of the government. At the time of his death he was U. S. Inspector of Customs at the port of Cleveland. Major Braggins was one of the founders of the local chapter of Phi Gamma Delta fraternity at Allegheny.

Word has been received in this country that Wellington E. Weidler, ex-'11, will sail May 8 from Johannesburg, Transvaal colony, South Africa, for America for a three months' furlough. He will arrive at his home in Oil City about the middle of June. Mr. Weidler completed his college course at Cornell after three years at Allegheny, and later took a special course in New York City in the Standard Oil training school for several months.

He was sent from there to Shanghai, China, but after nine months in the Orient was transferred to Johannesburg to assume charge of the company's interest in that part of Africa. It is not known whether he will return to Africa after his furlough or not. His parents are hopeful that he will be located somewhere in the United States. It is probable that he will be in attendance on the pageant during Centennial Week.

A son was recently born to Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Copeland, of Limestone, N. Y. Mr. Copeland was a member of the class of '11, and is at present principal of schools in Limestone, N. Y.

One of the greatest honors that can come to Allegheny is to have her sons "make good." The Campus is glad to announce the well merited success of Ossian E. Carr, '00, who is now business manager of the city of Cadillac, Michigan. Mr. Carr was also honored by receiving the election of secretary at the convention of City Managers that was recently held at Dayton, O. The profession of managing cities is comparatively a new one, and an almost unlimited opportunity for advancement is open to those men who are capable of carrying on this responsible work. Mr. Carr deserves the congratulations and heartiest good wishes of his alma mater. While in Allegheny Mr. Carr played a star game at center on the football team for several years, and he seems to have carried his fighting spirit with him in his work.

A saxophone orchestra has made its appearance at West Virginia University.

Eight units of credit are given at the University of Michigan for work on college publications.

Penn State's correspondence course in agriculture reaches more than 19,000 men and women.

The University of Wooster, one of Allegheny's forensic rivals, is henceforth to be known as Wooster College.

A new course on the history of South America, at the University of Virginia, recently added, denotes the trend of the times and the way in which universities of the United States are reflecting the thought tendencies of the nation. The course is especially adapted for young men looking forward to careers in the consular service or in the field of business.

The first steps toward preparing Cochran Hall for the One Hundredth Anniversary Week were taken during the spring vacation, when all the loose plaster in the building was removed and the rooms replastered. The work took all week but the hall was in readiness for the students when they returned Tuesday. In a few weeks the walls will be redecorated and put in readiness for June. In the meantime no pins or tacks will be used by the students in decorating so that the walls will be kept in splendid condition.

cox, of Girard, and was the first building erected for a special department of college work, the Physics department being housed in it.

Three years later, in 1896, the Gymnasium was built. In 1901 the Observatory was erected, the gift of Mrs. Mary M. Newton, of Batavia, Illinois, in memory of her husband, Captain. D. C. Newton, a former student of Allegheny. The following year two new buildings were erected, the Chapel and the Library. The Chapel was given by Captain John B. Ford, of Creighton, Pa., in memory of his wife, and the Chapel organ was the gift of his granddaughters in memory of Mrs. Ford. The Library was given by an anonymous friend of the college at a cost of forty thousand dollars. With these new additions, the college began to assume more modern proportions. The Chapel was transferred from the cramped quarters on the third floor of Ruter, to the new building, and the college Library was moved from Bentley to the new building erected for its use.

With the building of Alden Hall, as the Allegheny Preparatory School in 1906 and Mrs. Cochran's gift of a Freshman dormitory in 1909, the larger equipment of Allegheny was complete. In 1911 was started the campaign for the half million endowment. To the $100,000 offered by the General Educational Foundation, President Crawford, by untiring work of over a year, added the required $400,000, and Founder's Day in 1912 was celebrated in a fitting manner as the "completion of the New Allegheny."

The fall of 1912 the new athletic field was completed and put into use. It seemed that everything was about at ideal speed until the new developments of this year, following the burning of Alden Hall, gave us a new Chemistry building and practically a new Biology building to mark, as it were, the celebration of the 100th year of Old Allegheny and the 22nd year of the New Allegheny.

In all this advance, President Crawford has been the leader and prime mover. Recognized as not only an educator, but an executive and a scholar, he has been continually honored in the outside world. In 1902 the degree of Doctor of Laws was bestowed on him by Dickinson College; later Northwestern University bestowed the same degree on him as one of her distinguished sons. He has served for several years as a trustee of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching, has been one of the judges to select names for the American "Hall of Fame" in New York City, is a member of the Federation for Social Service and the American Historical Association, and is a member of Phi Kappa Psi and Phi Beta Kappa.

His position as an educator is recognized throughout the entire country. In 1909, while spending his Sabbatic year abroad, he devoted a great deal of time to the study of the Montessori Methods in Rome, met Dr. Montessori herself several times, and in subsequent visits to Italy has kept in close touch with her work.

The books from his pen include such well known works as the "Life of Savonarola," (1906) a historical subject which President Crawford has studied very closely and sympathetically and on which one of his best and most popular lectures is based; "The Church and the Slums," (1908) and "Thoburn and India," (1909) written at the time of the Thoburn jubilee in Meadville six years ago.

Such is the short sketch of the tangible results of the work of Allegheny's President since he has served her in that capacity. As the Old Allegheny spirit is personified throughout the celebration and as the story of the pageant leads up to the New Allegheny, the memory of the deeds of the New Allegheny's founder will take equal rank with that of the founder of the Old.

News Items

During the past week class meetings of the Senior, Junior, Sophomore and Freshman classes have been held to discuss the question of a Student Senate.

Dr. J. M. Thoburn, '81, recently gave an illustrated lecture on "The Islands of India Beyond the Ganges," before an appreciative audience in the Methodist Church at Ben Avon.

Dr. F. C. Lockwood was one of the speakers at the meeting held in the Armory on Appomattox Day.

During vacation Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Wood, acting professor of English Bible, were in New York City, attending the New York East Conference of the Methodist Church, of which Dr. Wood is a member.

Kappa Alpha Theta entertained at dinner at Sagertown Inn, last Saturday evening. The members of the sorority were accompanied by their gentleman friends and were chaperoned by Dr. and Mrs. Wood.

Professor J. P. Trickey, instructor in Chemistry, has accepted a position for next year as assistant in Chemistry at Northwestern University. He will teach in the Northwestern summer school this summer.

During the past week R. H. Downing, '15, leader of the Glee Club, has had charge of Chapel singing. Saturday was his last appearance, as the music master for the pageant is expected this week to take charge for the rest of the year.

A very interesting meeting of Le Petit Salon was held in Wilcox Hall, Monday afternoon, March 29, when Professor Ward gave an illustrated lecture in French on Paris and points of interest in France. The members of the advanced French classes were guests of the club at the meeting.

President Crawford has been invited by Dr. J. B. Richey, superintendent of the McKeesport public schools, to deliver the baccalaureate sermon to the high school graduates of that city on May 30. The class numbers 108, one of the largest classes that has ever graduated from that school.

Among the young women of the Senior Class who have accepted positions as teachers for this next year are Miss Alice Chapin who will teach English and History in the High School at Brocton, N. Y., Miss Louise Gould, who will teach in the High School at West Springfield, Miss Dorothea Abrams at Collin's Center, N. Y., Miss Lillian Reis at Linesville, N. Y.

The Forum did not meet last week as was announced, owing to the fact that the debaters were unable to prepare their material because of other work. It was decided to discontinue the meetings for the rest of the year because of the extra time track.

baseball and football practices are taking now during the early part of the spring, in order to have all activities over before Centennial work begins.

During the Easter vacation the Cochran Hall bowling alleys were planed and redressed and are now in fine shape. Because of this fact the tournament matches have been postponed a week, but will be opened again on Tuesday, April 20th when the Sigs and Chi Rhos are opponents. The fact that these two teams are holding the top positions in the league should make this match of especial interest.

The last student government committee of Cochran Hall was elected last week to serve during the remainder of the year. The men elected were Harry Titus, '18, Donald Megahan, '18, Kersey Woodard, '18, Bert Bianchi, '18, and Harold Carter, '18. Student government in Cochran Hall this year is an experiment, but with the thorough tryout it has had, it has proven a success and will probably be used in the future for all dormitory government. With the election of this last committee over, every man in the Hall has served at some time during the year and feels the responsibility of personal discipline.
