Dear Lady I.M.

I take this Easter time to put on paper
the fond wishes which are ever recurring in my heart for you.

I have never thanked for forwarding Miss Mason's letter (not Mason), feeling that all calls on your attention were so much tax on one over taxed.

But one does not quit all signs of affection on that ground.

I hope you are rewarded for greater caution in taxing yourself than you were showing a while back, first thinking of your self and then thinking of the memoirs.

With unfading affection -- while so much retreats --
