The 1970 Kaldron. Really.

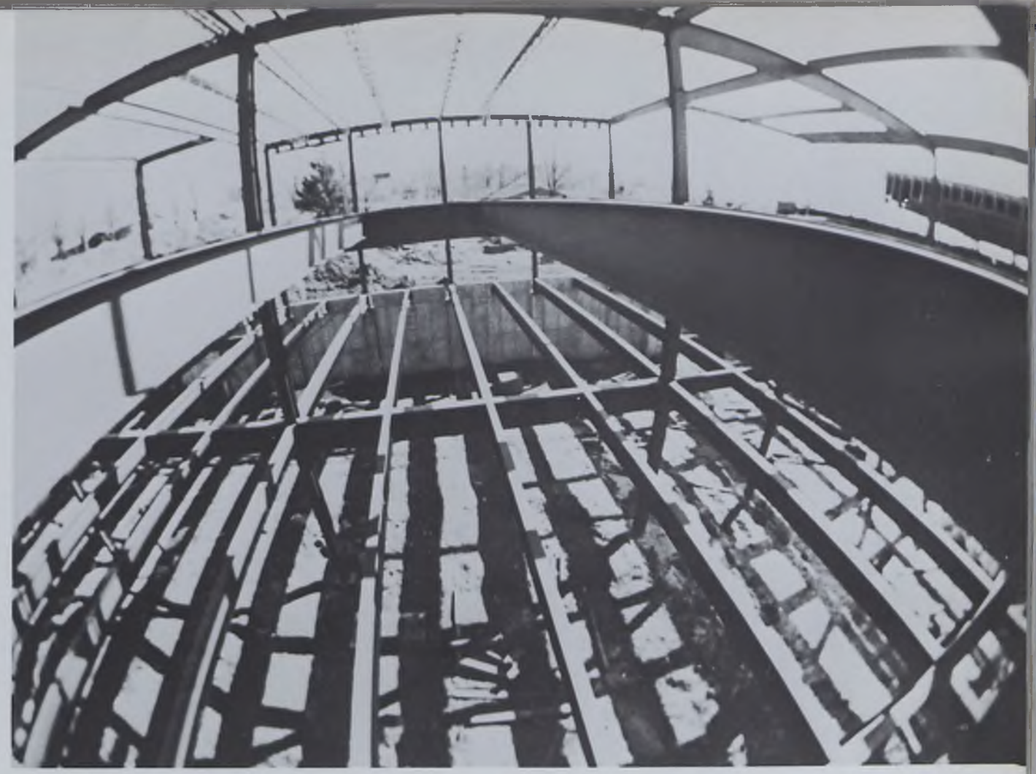

This is Allegheny College. Your little slice of the real world.

We came back to new faces and new buildings.

But there were old faces, too, and nothing had changed, really.

It was ripe Indian summer and nobody wanted to settle down to college. Everybody was outside.

But pursuit of academia comes first and pretty soon everybody flocked into ivy-covered halls to learn things.

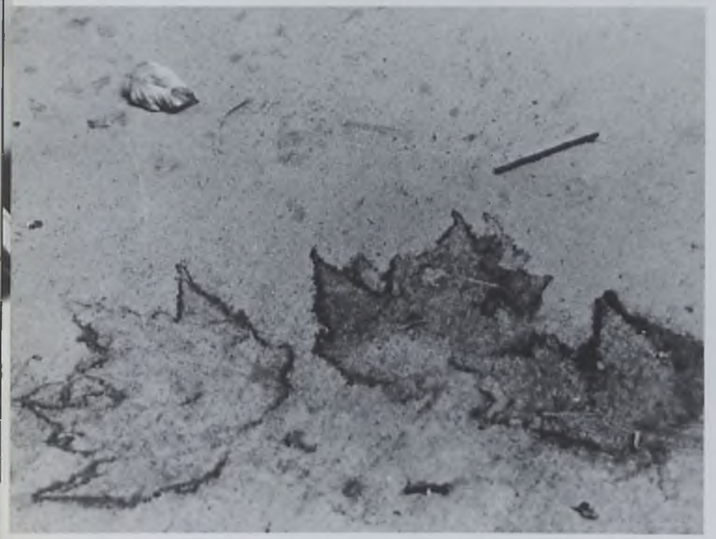

You learned things in other different places, too.

Sometimes, almost by accident, you even learned a little about life.

FOOTBALL

started the ball rolling.

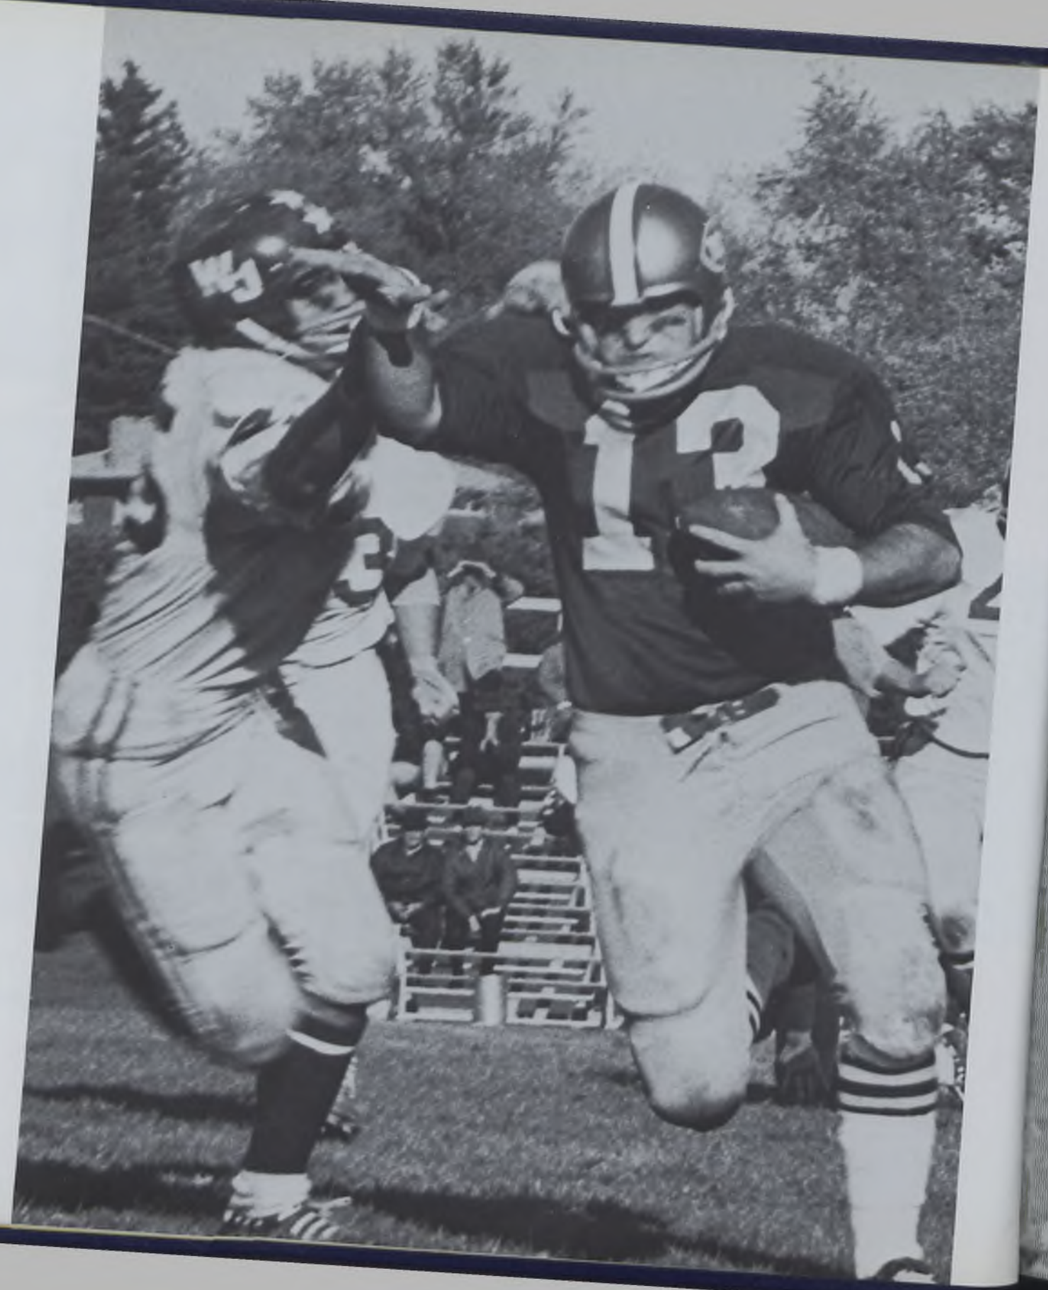

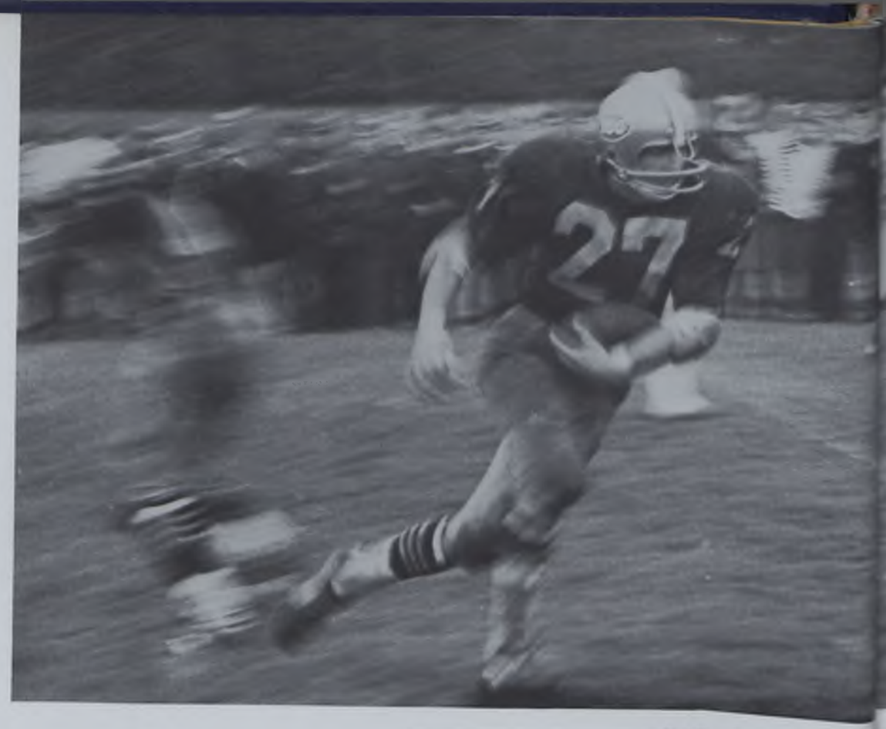

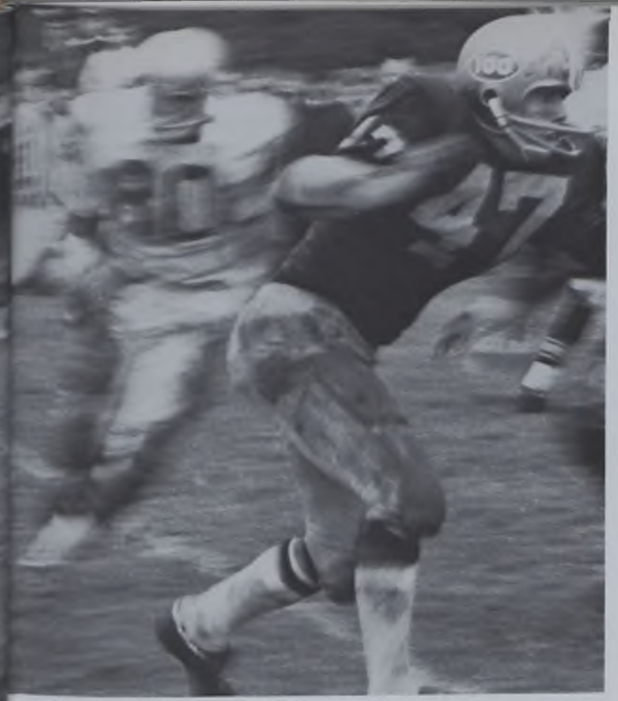

Assistant Coach Gary Wilcox, Mike Keister (20), Wayne Watts (88), Dick Greenbaum (23), Dan Keil (13).

Gary Proden (62), Coach John Chuckran, Mike Ganey (10), Dale Hahn (27), Jay Lewis (22), John Lyth (28).

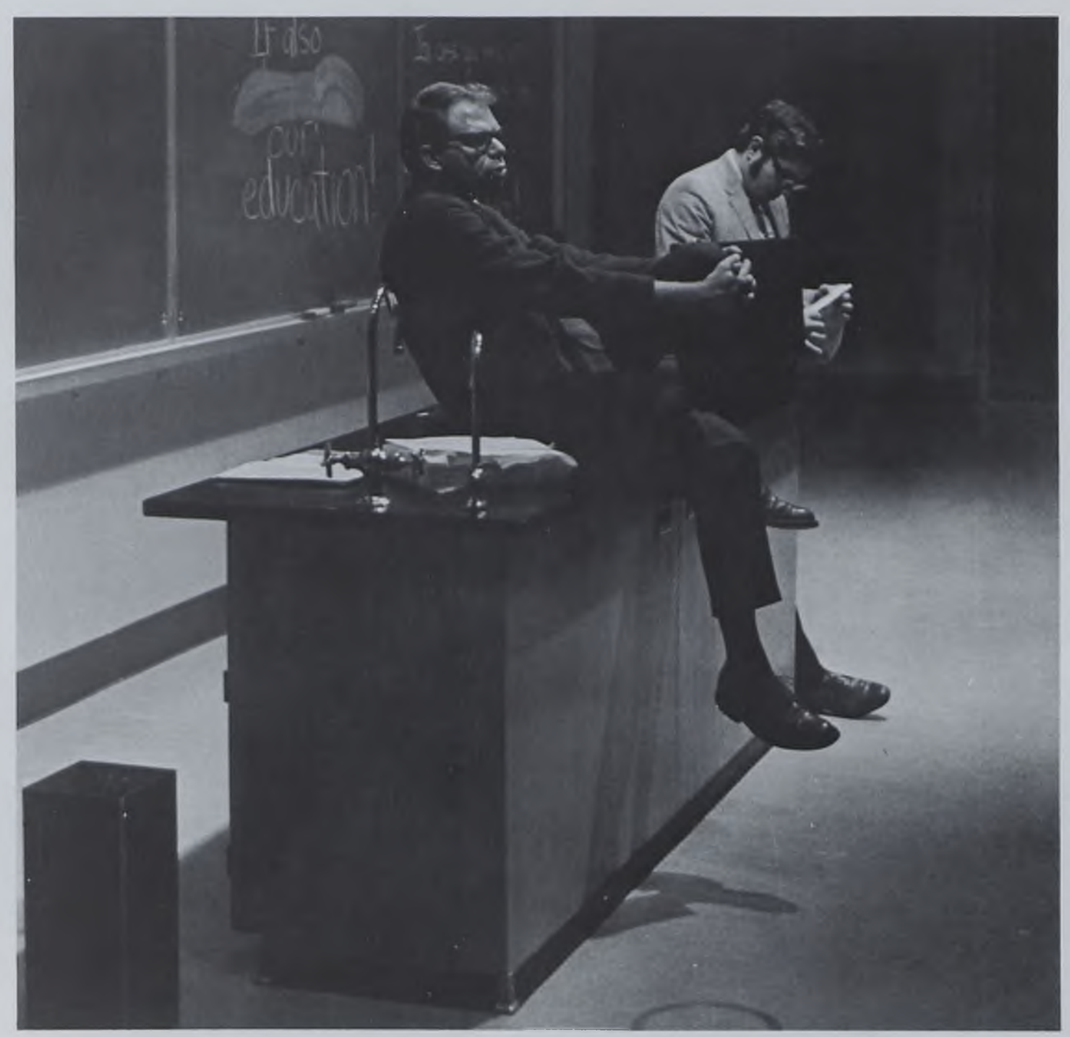

Jim Emigh (33), Athletic Director William Hanson.

Sometimes it rained and sometimes we lost. But we won some, too. And Robertson Field was one nice, warming place to spend Saturday afternoon.

Moratorium, October 15, 1969. Viet-Nam. Lottery. It all seems real when you might have to go.

The Court: Miss Kathy Shoemaker, Miss Betsy Lindemer, Miss Donna Teague, Miss Jennifer Gibson, Miss Jody Zeder.

The Queen:
Miss Betsy Lindemer.

We proclaimed a queen with a burst of firecrackers and cold.

Soccer. Our other fall sport.

Lanning Melville, Bob Hayes (4).

We sat and watched and celebrated good plays and even the bad ones, and got yelled at to yell.

Cheerleader Mary Cameron, Gator Tom Perkoski.

The Turtles and the New York Rock and Roll Ensemble came to make music and fans.

Art Buchwald and Dr. Charles Frankel came to make jokes and friends.

The Phi Psi 500 turned sorority women into ugly queens and trike-riding champs.

Karen Schrieber,
Steve McConnell.

Some of your friends played in plays, and they amazed you. They were good.

The Taming of the Shrew. Even the non-drama majors were a hit.

The choir started in October, with the first snow, to sing for Christmas.

Opera singer Bruce Foote.

Second term came and cold winds blew
and the snow kept tumbling down.

and down.
and down.

We'd tromp to classes (sometimes)
making new footprints
and hurrying back in the same ones,
if they could be found.

Snow is good for traying in or sleeping to the quiet sound of or looking at newfallen.
And that's about it.

Some winter afternoon,
wilted by the over-radiating heater, you wonder what does it all mean?
You find an answer. (Or maybe you don't.)

a word,
a pizza.
Something hits.
You're trying, anyway.

Orchesis presents
Cybernetic City.
(What's Cybernetic?)

The Richard K. Mellon Recreation Building.
A real pool.
A diving well.
An observation window.
An inspired swim team.
Everything.

There were even paddleball courts where you could limber up.

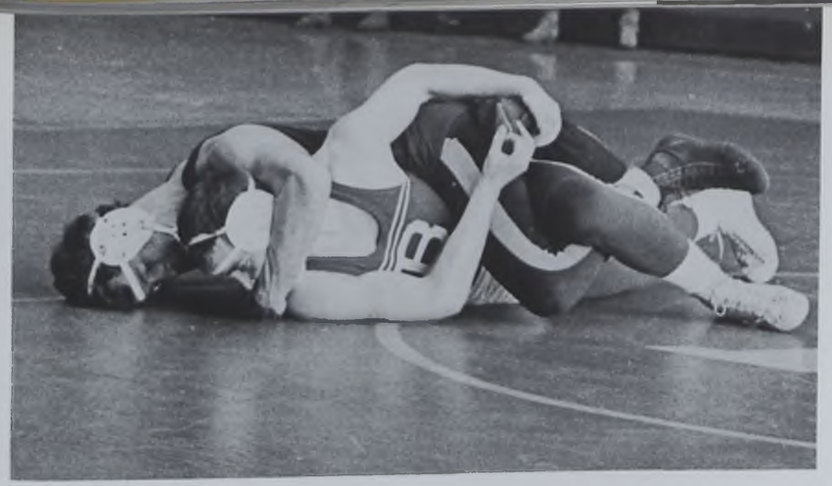

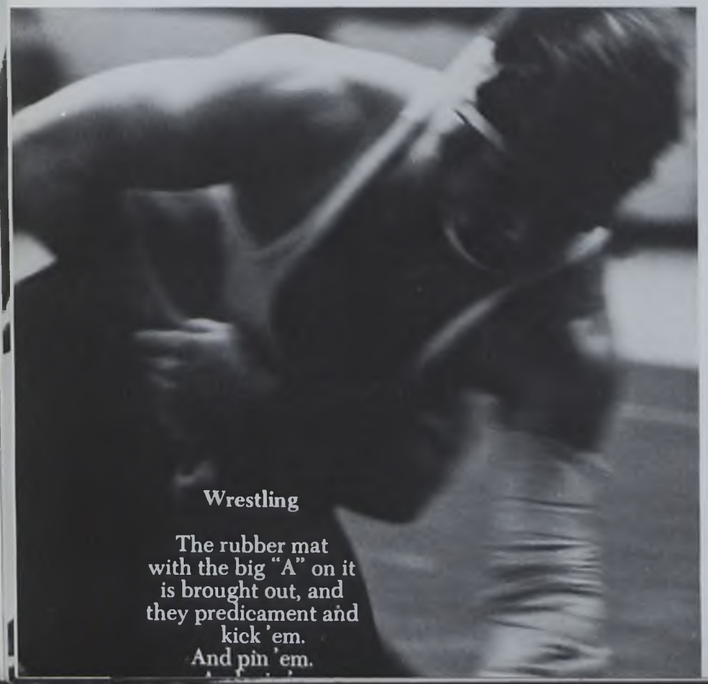

In fact, keeping in shape all winter was possible, with slimnastics class and working out and all those tournaments and intramurals and everything. If you didn't play you could at least go watch.

Mike Reed, Larry Albright, Dave Leffke.

Wrestling

The rubber mat with the big "A" on it is brought out, and they predicament and kick 'em. And pin 'em.

Third term brought Julian Bond, and Tom Wolfe with his Electric Kool-Aid Acid Test, and Carla and Rufus Thomas and the Bar-Kays, and Rodrigo Riera with his classical guitar, and, of course, that memorable evening with Tim Hardin and the cheeky Jay Thorpe.

The Delts ran the annual pie throw at the annual International Students' Fair and after it was all over everyone partook of that great old American custom, the keg. Allegheny might not have a lot of foreign students (everyone keeps forgetting the one from Ontario, too) but the ones we do have are in good spirits, anyway.

Third term also brought spring; at first wild and still woolly and a little bit rough around the edges, later soft and warm and surprisingly beautiful. Everybody laughs at Meadville and how rainy it is, but when it isn't raining, the sky is this most amazing color of blue. Rhododendrons are a big thing in the spring. You could sniff them as you romped in the ravine, or atop the punch-bowl at one of those classic legendary Big Shows that are thrown every spring ("Who are those guys making all that ruckus?"). These were halcyon days: days spent catching some rays up on the roof, or downing a few brews with the bros, or catching the Bruins on the tube, or, rarely, booking it. It was a good life in good places, places like tennis courts and Woodcock and Bousson and, of course, THE Barn. Times like these you wouldn't mind taking seven years to finish college: college is fun. College is your last chance to be a kid, so college is flying kites and cooking out and making Doobee punch and doing somersaults on Brooks lawn.

And all of a sudden, it's Spring!

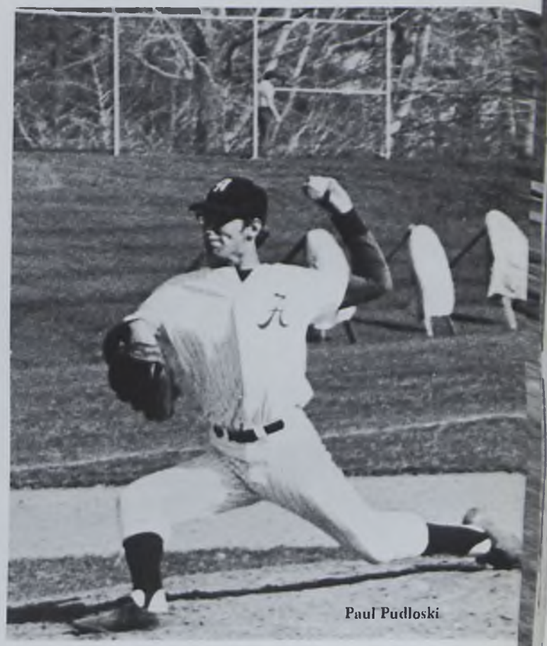

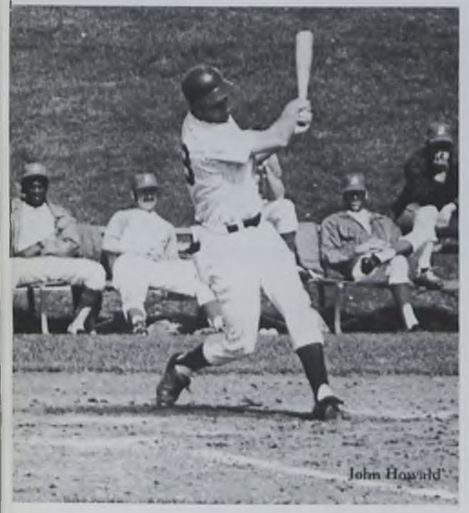

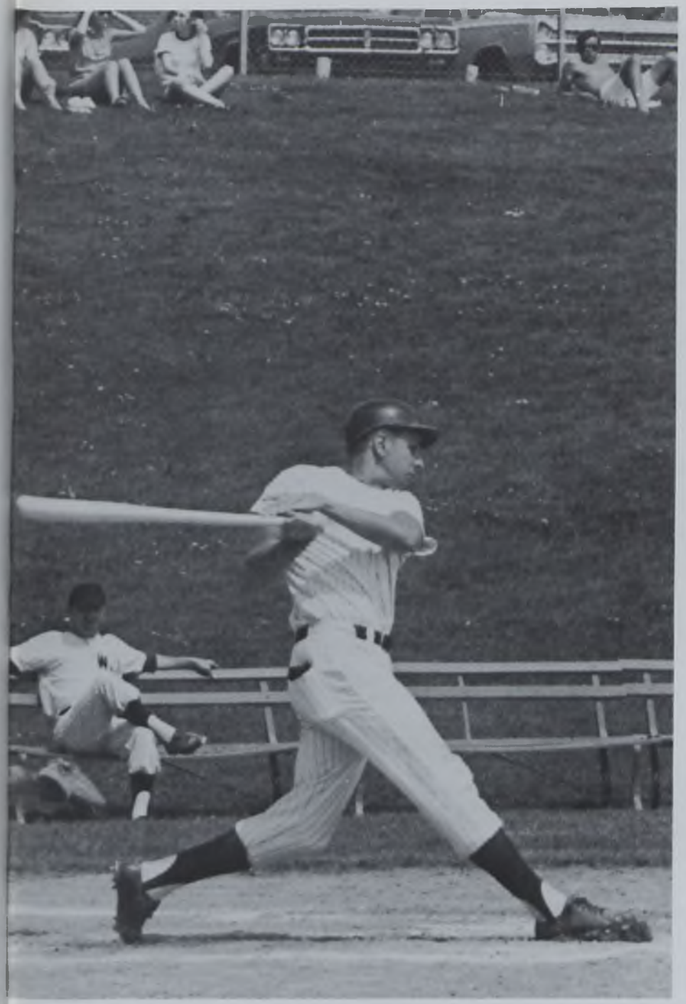

Paul Pudloski

Tennis, love?

Cris Groenendaal, Joe Ball.

Tennis is a game that anyone can play, but it takes a lot of skill and practice to play good like these guys do. Tennis is a game where you get roasty and toasty and golden and brown, but you also get sweaty and tired and achey and mad. Mad mostly at yourself for blowing a serve or something like that. Tennis is a game where you do most of it yourself. You lose, but when you win, ah, baby.

Does your visible support show?

Allegheny's student body had its first run-in with the powers-that-be, (namely, that notorious bunch, the Board of Trustees, and the President) over Open Dorms. Kids felt that dorms should be open to the opposite sex all day, every day. The President and the Trustees agreed to the all day bit. It was the all night clause that they objected to. After all, kids, what good can be going on at four A.M.? Obviously, there was a stalemate, and a failure to communicate existed. So A.S.G. (that's Allegheny Student Government) decided to take matters into its own hands. In a complicated series of existential-type manipulations, (which began when A.S.G. officially denied its own existence . . . think about it.) R.A.C. (Resident Affairs Committee) refused to recognize S.L.C. (for Student Life Committee) and A.S.G. asked L.L.P. . . . anyway, we ended up with eighteen hours of intervisitation, as it's properly called; not quite a complete victory for the campus radicals, but, as everyone agreed, much better than before. In the end, the first Allegheny "Demonstration" was remembered with embarrassment in the light of what was to come in the next few weeks; the Open Dorm issue was closed.

STRIKE!

The speed with which the campus entered the strike was amazing, because super-efficient communication is atypical of Allegheny. But the little salmon blurb from the Instruction Committee did appear, and the message had something for everybody. Devoted kids could get out of classes to go devote themselves. Conscientious, discreet, I-don't-want-to-waste-Daddy's-money kids could use their discretion (along with that of their professors) to hold classes. The whole thing was done on the Allegheny ideal of personal freedom and initiative. In fact, the strike was sort of an ICIS.

Some people struck and others didn't. Of course there were the radicals, the long-hairs, the hippie-pinko-peace freaks, who struck with all their might, wearing black armbands and headbands in memory (but who could forget?). Then there was the conservo element, the straight arrows, who pretended that this was just another school day. Polarization of a sort was apparent. The idealogically-committed people yelled at the ideologically non-committed people to take a stand now. The non-petty people yelled at the petty people to quit being so petty. But some people didn't yell. Instead, they sat down and talked to each other. They were teachers and long-hairs and frat men and Meadvillians. A lot of times what they said wasn't really important or particularly profound, but the fact that they were talking at all was. Maybe that's what strike is all about.

Well, you're free now, seniors, free to go out into the big world and make you own life and your own living, too. You're really on your own, and it's a great big feeling. You're older and supposedly a little bit smarter and wiser, which is pretty good for getting along in the world. You've muddled through: comps, orals, projects, traumas. You've made it; you've got it made.

These are the Greeks: the frat men and the sorority chics whom people say are on the way out but who remain in, for this year at least. The Greeks are a motley crew, but a good bunch, if they can actually be bunched. The Greeks strive for more relevance in an irrelevant world, more fun in an uptight world, and more sociabilty (i.e., someone who'll listen to your rap) in a sometimes lonely world.

If there's one thing that will stand out in a crowd like this, it's a broken zipper.

Whether it's a bathing suit, pair of slacks, or mini-skirt, the Talon Zephyr nylon zipper will never turn a girl into a spectacle.
It will go up when a girl wants it to go up. But it will never go down when a girl doesn't want it to go down.

So look for our virtually jam-proof, slip-proof, break-proof zipper in all the clothing you buy . . . including those hip-hugging bell-bottom blue jeans.
You'll still attract stares at registration. But they won't be accompanied by giggles.

TALON

Division of Textron

Meadville—Home of the Zipper

How do you tell a stranger that his zipper's open?

Usually you don't.
Because you feel as embarrassed about someone else's open zipper as you would about your own.
There is one zipper, however, which won't embarrass you or anyone else. The Talon Zephyr nylon zipper.
The Talon Zephyr is designed not to snag, jam, or slip in a pair of suit pants, slacks, or anything else.

It will go up when a man wants it to go up. But it will never go down when a man doesn't want it to go down.
So next time you see a stranger in an embarrassing situation like this,
don't tell him about his zipper.
Tell him about ours.

we're here on this long bus ride: limbo...
Not here or there - somewhere inbetween.

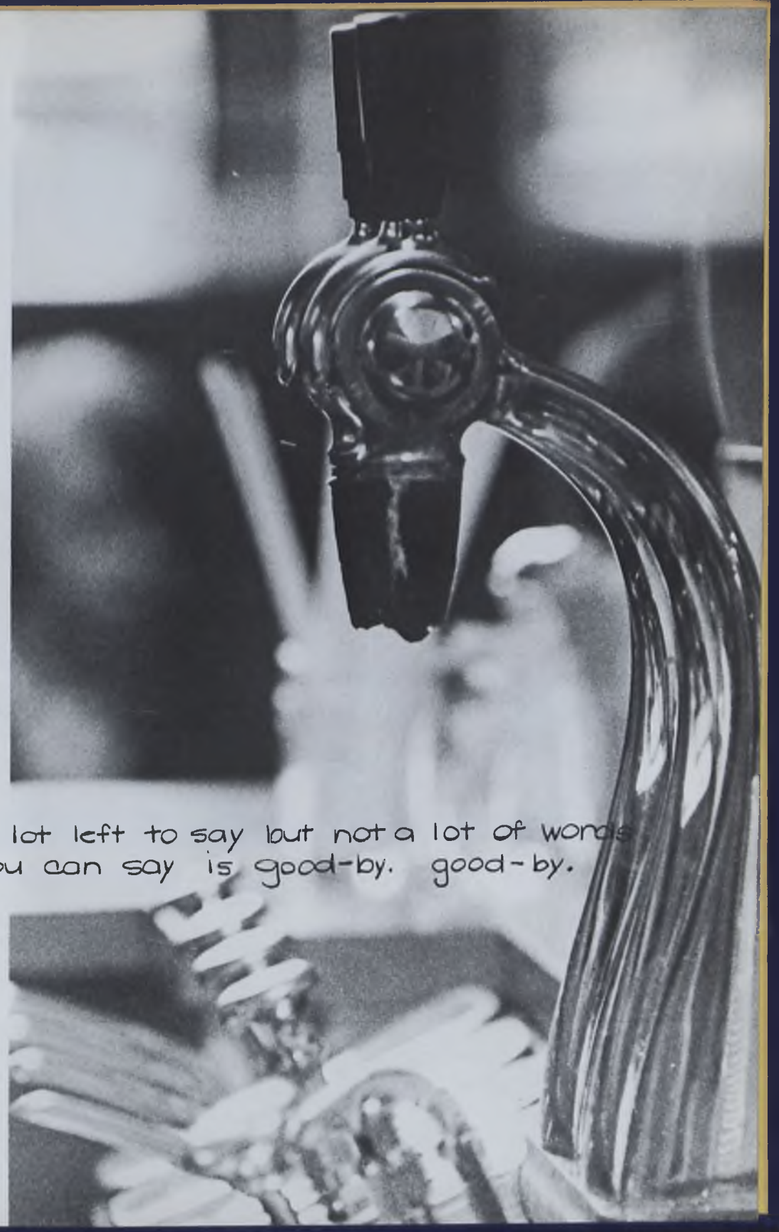

College is just a place to stay warm between High School and The World.

sometimes there's a whole lot left to say but not a lot of words to say it in and so all you can say is good-by. good-by.

and what did you learn at college today?
