

Feb. 9, 1922

Miss Louise H. Seaman,
The Macmillan Co.,
64 Fifth Avenue,
New York City.

Dear Miss Seaman:

I, too, had a letter from Payot & Co., saying they could not undertake the translation of the Boy Scouts' Life of Lincoln. I am wondering, however, if it was really the Boy Scouts' Life of Lincoln of which they received a copy. You remember, I asked you to send one to Miss Anne Morgan, and she tells me that what she received was the second edition of the two-volume Life. It was forwarded to her in Paris, and she was greatly disappointed when she found out what she had. I have sent her a copy of the Boys' Life myself. They may be able as an organization to make some arrangements, and I have told her that whatever was satisfactory to her would be to me.

I am off tomorrow for six weeks. Mr. Latham has my itinerary. Letters should be sent Special Delivery; telegrams, in care of the Correspondent.

Very truly yours,