1981 marks Allegheny College's one hundred and sixty sixth year of existence. Through out those years Allegheny has been viewed from many different perspectives. The college was initially seen as an institution in the wilderness. Over the years it gained a reputation as being a pioneer by allowing women through its gates, as an academic haven, and as a meeting place for socially dissatisfied students. These perceptions have all been correct within their own time periods. We have again moved into a new perspective. Today's student was born in the sixties and grew up in the seventies. We have brought with us an essence of each decade. Perhaps we are more aware of the world about us but less belligerent than our counterparts of the sixties and more questioning but less skeptical than our counterparts of the seventies. There are more outside pressures on us politically, economically, and socially, yet we survive.

Unfortunately, there are many times at Allegheny that we fall into our own little world. For many the outside world exists only during breaks. At times our lives revolve around such pertinent questions as: "Do I have enough quarters to do my laundry?" and "Just how far can I go on only two hours of sleep?" Other times we get so caught up in the paper due Wednesday, the Oral for Thursday and the test Friday that we lose perspective of the world around us and, indeed, our whole purpose for being here: to learn to apply our knowledge to that world.

This year's Kaldron purpose is, therefore, to bring some reality back into our lives. We want to take a candid look at Allegheny in the year 1981 and bring all of its aspects into perspective, both the good and the bad. We also hope to tie together our world at Allegheny and the world that surrounds us.

This fall Allegheny welcomed Dr. David Harned as the 17th president of this college. Dr. Harned is a graduate of Yale, where he received his bachelor's, master's, and doctoral degrees. He also receive a Bachelor of Divinity degree from the Yale Divinity school. Dr. Harned is an authority of Christian theology and ethics and is the author of six books, which have been published in many countries throughout the world. Dr. Harned has held visiting professorships at the University of Edinburgh, Scotland, and Punjabi University of India. He has also served as a professor and chairman of the Department of Religious Studies at the University of Virginia.

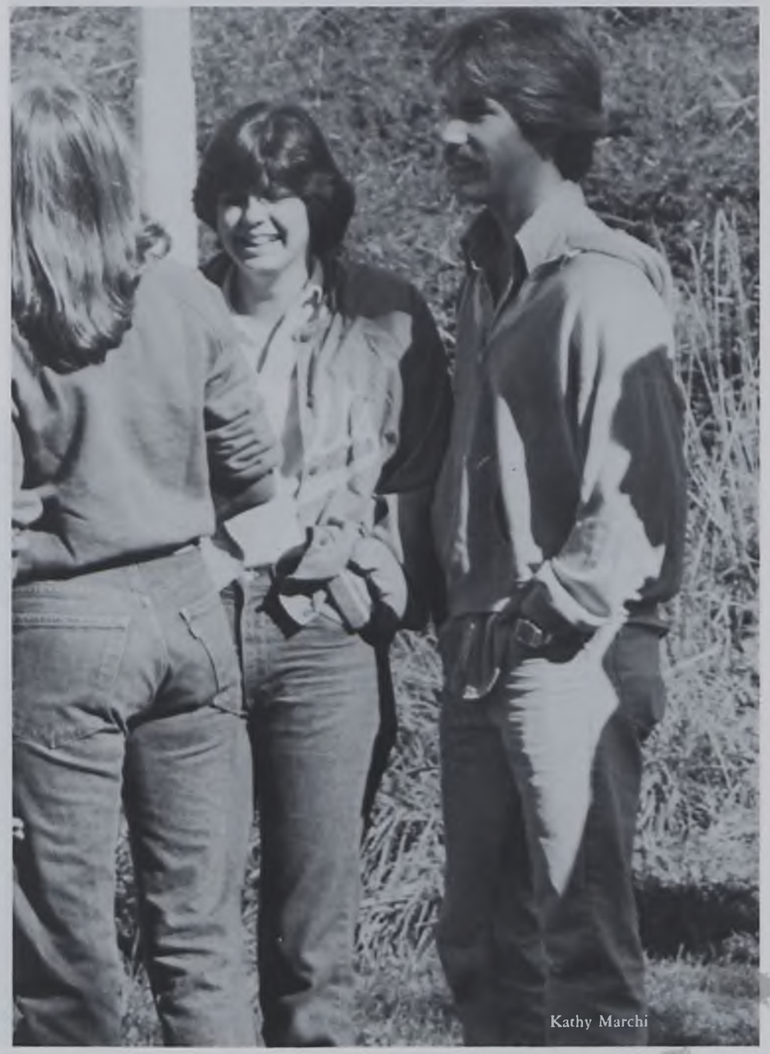

Life at Allegheny is more than whining and bitching about the amount of bookwork. Life at Allegheny is getting rowdy at parties, cheering the Gators with in a crowd of friends and learning that the kid down the hall is "involved" with a professor. Living here involves quick pick-up games of hoops, finding out some of your best friends are Greek, and waiting for the movies to change downtown. Life here at Allegheny means trips to Bently, deep discussions in the Grille, and reading Skinner's nth Alcohol Policy. Student life is realizing you really enjoy your Seminar, grousing about your comp, but secretly loving it. Life at Allegheny is four years of becoming more of who you are.

Concerts are an opportunity to let loose. There is an emotional 'rush' in being part of a crowd; yelling, cheering, applauding. The vibrancy of participating in a live performance cannot be equalled by stereo equipment.

Plays serve a similar need for emotional involvement. Additionally, the plays at Allegheny are frequently challenging intellectually and morally. The characters and their situations bring laughter and tears, hope and despair and increase our understanding of our history, our society, our relationships, and ourselves.

Side by Side by Sondheim

Side by Side by Sondheim, a musical revue showcasing the genius of composer/lyricist Stephen Sondheim, was presented as the Homecoming show in the CC Auditorium. It was an unusual joint collaboration between the Playshop Theatre, Student Experimental Theatre, and the Music Department. The cast included students Joy Eaton, Laurie Goodwin, Robert Michaels, Mary Nagode, and Michele Pawk, and faculty members James Bulman and Richard Overmyer. The performance was under the direction of senior drama major Mitchell Matsey. Barb Brower served as stage manager, Greg Schick as lighting designer, and Carolyn Lancet as costume designer. Considered a success by the audience, reviewers, and those involved, the show traveled for a benefit performance in Erie, and was revived as the Playshop's Commencement show, with Mr. Matsey joining the cast. The venture proved to be an enjoyable, educating effort in cooperation between students, faculty, and the Music and Drama departments in producing exciting theatre for Allegheny College.

See How They Run

"See How They Run", an English farce set in the 1940's, is intended primarily for fun. Performed in the Playshop Theatre fall term, its fast-paced action and ridiculous turn of events resulted in amusing views of English propriety corrupted. Because of its "perfectly-timed" confusion and witty dialogue, the audience was continuously surprised and relieved of any serious commitment emotionally. The cast did well in acquiring believable dialects and in portraying rather stereo-typed characters.

Mary Corsell

For most of us, Arlo Guthrie is a fond memory from our adolescence. His concert was mellow, including such "oldies but goodies" as Alice's Restaurant, and City of New Orleans". Arlo Guthrie's political commentaries both in his songs and between songs, showed him still to be the quiet activist we remembered. His back up band, Shenandoah, did an outstanding job. It was an evening to relax, and an evening to remember.

Arlo Guthrie

Joe Orton's Loot was presented as the Playshop Theatre's first production of second term. The show also served as the senior comprehensive project in directing for Mitchell Matsey. The cast of Loot was headed by Jennifer Westgren and Peter Bargieri Jr., and included Jeff Allen, Tim Burgess, Doug McGee, and Jerry Nichols. Serving as Stage Manager was Jeannie Clarkson. Scenic and Lighting Designer John Mariano and Costume Coordinator Barb Brower helped to recreate the look of the rebellious and psychedelic 1960's.

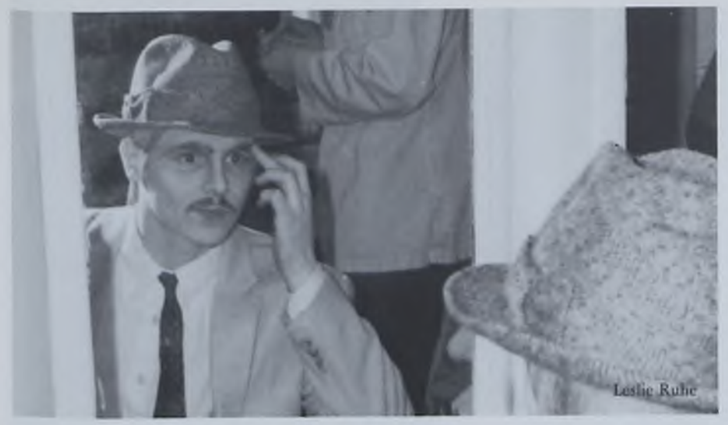

Loot is a comical British farce underscoring the social unrest of the time through its uproariously black comedy and clever, witty language. Audiences were treated to both a fun, nostalgic look at the 60's and an exploration of the more serious angry undercurrents of the era.

The playshop's second term production was The Importance of Being Oscar, starring Mitchell Matsey in the title role of Oscar Wilde. The play was a narrative-style biography of the famous play-write, drawing largely on his letters and quotations, including exerps from two of his plays: The Gentle Giant and The Picture of Dorian Gray. Supporting players were Susan Cassidy, John Mariano, David Manly, and Jennifer Westgren. The cast was superb in their many roles in each play segment.

The master story teller, Harry Chapin, performed for a well filled auditorium on a balmy spring night in Meadville. After more than an hour's delay, Harry and his band sang for a very receptive audience. They sang old favorites and new songs, told stories, laughed, and shared. The atmosphere was warm and comfortable and Harry's smile seemed to light the auditorium. After one curtain call and a well deserved standing ovation, Harry moved to the CC lobby to meet his fans and sign autographs until the satisfied audience thinned and disappeared.

Ed. Note: Harry Chapin was killed in an automobile accident July 16, 1981. His talent will be missed in the musical world.

P.S. Your Cat is Dead, a contemporary comedy by James Kirkwood, was presented in the Playshop Theatre from May 28 through May 31. The play concerns Jimmy Zoole, an actor who, within the past twenty-four hours, has lost two jobs, his girlfriend, and his cat. As Jimmy prepares to "ring out" this final disastrous day of 1980 on New Year's Eve, he captures Vito Antonucci attempting to burglarize his apartment for the third time that month. Jimmy proceeds to strap Vito down to his kitchen sink, which leads to a bizarre, hilarious, yet touching confrontation. Through a series of revealing conversations, and a farcical final scene, involving Jimmy's old girlfriend Kate and Fred, her date for New Year's Eve, Jimmy and Vito develop a unique friendship, capable of helping them survive this crucial point in their lives.

Allegheny life can be very strenuous at times. The work load often seems impossible, but somehow we pull through. Afterwards, while in a temporary state of euphoria, it's time to relax and take advantage of another facet of the campus: Social Events. Dances, shows, concerts, and movies are available for students who need to unwind, kick their feet up, and blow off. While many are just observers, some students sacrifice long hours to organize, design, or rehearse these performances and programs, sometimes at the expense of their grades. Their efforts are appreciated; the good times will be remembered.

Homecoming

Each year Allegheny, like many other colleges, celebrates Homecoming. This year the theme was 'Allegheny 1980; The Beginning of a New Era' in honor of the new President, David Bailey Harned. Homecoming activities consisted of seeing old friends, cider and donuts, the football game and the crowning of Homecoming Queen Lisa Matson. Homecoming is one of Allegheny's oldest traditions, with groups from all different parts of the college community taking part and making the weekend memorable.

Black History Week

Black Orchid

Art is an expression of culture not solely for entertainment. Dance is a language, a mode of expression, which acknowledges itself to the mind through the heart, using significant movements which have their basic similarities in our daily activities, to express different and real life experiences in rhythmic successions to harmonious and poetic animation.

The struggle of the Black Dance Theatre and its dancers has been one for recognition of style and art, rather than of showpiece. Our goal as members of Black culture and Black Orchid has been, and shall continue to be, the expression of Black culture and experience.

Clubs and organizations provide different outlets for the students of Allegheny. They are groups where students can become actively involved in services to the community and the school. They are places where one can learn and develop job skills or further their academic interests. Some organizations, such as the band or choir, allow students to display their talents, which might otherwise go unnoticed. With the wide variety of organizations at Allegheny every student can find a group which fulfills his or her own particular need be it academic, spiritual literary, or musical.

For 34% of the college community Greek life plays an integral part in their college years. For the other 66% of the students, the Greeks play a smaller but significant role. Being Greek is more than putting on a shirt or knowing the secret handshake. At Allegheny the Greeks are a working part of both the college community and the Meadville community. Each fraternity and sorority have different altruistic projects for various local and national Associations. On campus they provide social functions as well as other projects; such as the dance marathon and the Easter egg hunt for facultys' children. Greek students are active in many other college organizations, bringing with them a different type of background, knowledge, and leadership.

The Sports program at Allegheny College has continued its fine quality throughout the years. Over the past decade the Gator men have brought home the PAC trophy 8 times. Women's sports have been on the upswing with more money and better coaches. All in all, their records and higher spectator attendance speak for themselves. For the players, participation in sports is a chance to improve on and display their talents. The 1980 Allegheny Gators suffered through a season of both extreme disappointment and great joy and satisfaction. Although the season began with four painful losses, the unity and desire of the seniors and underclassmen brought three wins and a tie in the final four games. Without a doubt, the high point of the year came in the final game; a 16-10 come-from-behind win over arch rival Thiel College. Although several players received post-season recognition, the trademark of the late year success was the winning attitude and the priorities placed on the attainment of team goals. With the Gators back on the winning track, the dedication and team ideals of the returning players should carry Allegheny football back to a winning tradition.

Fencing Club

The Allegheny Fencing Club was involved in many activities this year. They participated in a four weapon team meet against CMU and Case Western, another four weapon meet against Case Western and Cleveland State and a two weapon meet against California State and Indiana University. The Club also participated in the Inercollegiate Western Pennsylvania Novice Invitational at CMU. Club members won first and second place in women's novice for western PA, and first place, men's novice, also for western PA.

Lacrosse

The Lacrosse team is relatively new at Allegheny. They meet informally in the fall and winter with the games scheduled for the first six weeks of third team. Because they are a club, they emphasize having a good time as opposed to winning.

Women's Tennis

The women's tennis team had a fine 1980 season. During Coach Lesh's last year at Allegheny, the Gators finished second in the Women's Keystone Conference. Along with some good returning members, five new players joined the team. Through tough practices and a minimum of three matches a week, enthusiasm ran high and the Gators were tough to beat.

Both the Mens' and Womens' Cross Country teams fared well in the 1980 season. The Womens' team, which completed its first season, was off to a good start as it sent sophomore runner, Jenny Colgrove to Nationals.

Water Polo

No, this is not spring training for the ice hockey team. This is the water polo team; perhaps the most unheralded team at Allegheny College, the gators illustrate their endurance and skill in pursuit of amphibious victories. Hot goal-tending and close defensive guarding characterize the new team as they swim on to next year.

Hockey

In the upcoming year, expect a continuation of the hard-hitting, aggressive play that distinguished this year's hockey team. The surprising progress of the younger players should more than compensate for graduation losses. They will be in especially fine shape if the new crop of freshmen includes a clever stick handling center and a big, physical defenseman.

The 1980-81 hoop-squad won the PAC crown for their third consecutive year. The team was led by four seniors to a 16-8 overall and a 11-3 league record. Co-captains Dave Contardi (9.8 ppg) ended four years with 887 points, and a 9.9 career scoring average. Clicked four year letterman Darrell Jones (10.4 ppg) ended with 612 points, and a 7.5 career average. Al Brandt and Brent Burrows, both four year "players" and Clicked Club members contributed as Gold Squaders. Tom Albert, senior, was benched for the year due to injuries. The class of 1981 takes with it a long list of honors that prove their talent and dedication; a record of achievements that may never be surpassed.

The 1981 A.C. Women's Basketball team was coached by Kay Gould and assisted by Dan Slovick. Co-captains Rhonda Kiser and Lisa Meyers helped to lead the team to their season record of 4-9. The team is losing four seniors, but under the tough direction of Kay Gould, the Lady Gators are eager to regain their stature as a successful winning team.

The 1980-81 Allegheny Gator Wrestling Team experienced one of the strangest seasons in years. Although the season started out with a win over the 8th ranked team in the nation; injuries, weight problems, and cancelled matches led to a mid-season slump. The Gators rebounded, though, and came through with a strong 3rd place finish in the PAC. In addition, Tom Elcott wrestled his way to a 2nd place finish in NCAA Division III, and received a wild card berth to the Division I Tournament in Princeton, NJ.

Despite the fact that they lost their Varsity status and Coach Cathy Knight resigned, effective in June, the Men's Volleyball Team was still a contender almost to the end. It was a shorter season than usual, characterized by numerous injuries but the highlights were not overshadowed. The team traveled to the University of Cincinnati and to Frostburg State College in Maryland to play invitational tournaments. Junior Jack Coogan made the All-Conference Team and Senior Captain Juris Silenieks made the Second All-Conference Team. Next year's squad will have the word "Club" attached to it but the level of play will be typical of a Varsity team.

Allegheny College Men's Swim team had another successful year under the leadership of coach Tom Erdos and Assistant Mary Ann Erdos. Although the team wound up second in the PAC's and eighteenth in NCAA Division III competition, many fine performances were attributed to the Gator Tankers. Leading the way for the Gators were All-American Co-captains Dave McKee and Terry Hartford. Following them were Sophomore Matt Bailey and Sophomore Danny Stewart. Sophomore Peter Rogers led the men's Diving team. Swimming requires a great commitment of 3-4 hours of practice six days a week including weight training and flexibility. Training lasts from early November to mid March. This was a necessary part in Tom Erdos' efforts to maintain the quality swim program the Gators are known for.

The Women's Swim Team, coached by Tom and Mary Anne Erdos enjoyed a successful season (record: 5-2). The team, captained by Priscilla Lange and Laura Laderer, won the Women's Eastern Regional Championship, held at Frostburg Md. Priscilla Lange, Laura Laderer, Ellen Higie, Julie Winans, and Janet Zurovochek qulaified for Women's Division III AIAW Nationals. Laura and Janet are three time All-Americans and Julie and Ellen are two time All-Americans. The team displayed incredible stamina during the 7 month season. Not only did they have early morning and evening workouts every day, but they also began a new weightlifting program. The team, along with the Men's Swim Team travelled to Fort Lauderdale for an intensive training program during winter break. The Women's Swim Team takes pride in their reputation as being the hardest working varsity team at Allegheny.

The 1981 Varsity Softball Team under the leadership of Coach Kathy Gould posted a 5-2 record in the Women's Keystone Conference. Captains for the Gators were senior Cathy Kampert and sophomore Beth McCullough, both of whom were members of all conference first team. Kampy was also this years' MVP. Terri Spigelmeyer and Karen Brody were both placed on all conference second team. This year's season will be remembered for rain and mud and some very "gracefull" slides.

The dictionary neglects to define being a graduate as the dream of every student. Sometimes, it seems like a pipe dream when his comp deadline is the same week as his term paper or when he doesn't like his major his senior year any better than his nine previous majors. In the end, however, the Allegheny graduate can be heard to say: "It wasn't that bad".
It isn't that bad. Allegheny seniors have four years worth of experiences from this school, and, like aged grandparents, become expert storytellers of times long gone. They take advantage of the "comping senior" excuse for deviant behavior, they study like fiends and they party hearty. It isn't bad at all.

By the time we graduate we will have spent hundreds of hours with professors. Outside of the classroom they eat with us, dance with us and joke with us. In the classroom they encourage us, pass us and yes, sometimes fail us. Each of us has a special professor we will remember. The comp advisor who was as excited about your comp topic as you were or the professor who sat down to talk with you just because you looked lonely. Professors are here to share with us their knowledge and insight. But they do more than that. They share themselves.

Thankfully, I have the opportunity to publically thank my staff.
Kris Gobbel, again, was the foundation of the book. Without her this book would not be in your hands. Sue and Kathy did a marvelous job again. And Tim, you're really sexy even with your tacky bracelet. Thank you for the dinner.

There were many events and items that belonged in this book, and many photographers that deserved to be credited, but weren't. The ommissions are unintentional, and regretted.
