

STUDENTS REQUEST ATHLETIC BOARD OF CONTROL TO RESIGN

Resolutions Passed At Mass Meeting Friday Expressing Disfavor of Students With Board

As the outcome of a mass meeting held after the regular chapel exercises last Friday morning, a committee of five was appointed from the students to draw up resolutions requesting the resignation of the present Athletic Board of Control. The meeting, which was called by Wendell Gornall, President of the Student Senate, was for the purpose of discussing the reasons for the failure of the football team to date this year.

George Johnstone, head cheer leader of the College, presided at the meeting. He explained the situation as it exists at the present time, pointing out the miserable record of the team previous to the Waynesburg game and reviewing briefly the athletic history of the past four years. In that time, against our regular Tri-state opponents, the Allegheny football team has won only three games out of fifteen contests. "This is a very poor showing," Mr. Johnstone said, "and the purpose of this meeting is to get the opinion of the student body as to what should be done about the situation." The chairman then opened the meeting for discussion.

The opinion was expressed from the floor that the fault lay with the management of the team and not with the players on the team. The Campus, it was stated, has been guided by both players and students in its effort to arrive at the source of the trouble and the general contention has been that the graduate manager and the athletic board are responsible for the dissatisfaction among the players. It was pointed out that during the past four years, during which time the team has been compiling its poor record, the personnel of the squad and also the coaches has changed. Yet, the trouble still remained. The Athletic Board has been the only constant factor operating during that period; consequently, it must, in a large measure, be the responsible party.

Several members of the student body expressed opinions on the matter during the course of the discussion. Specific charges were asked for, but it was pointed out that they had been given in The Campus of the previous week. Throughout the entire proceedings a note of loyalty to the team was to be noted, the students expressing the opinion that they had confidence in their gridiron representatives and were back of them to the utmost. A Freshman who voiced this sentiment at the close of the meeting was roundly applauded.

The discussion was finally brought to a close when Oliver W. Gornall moved that, "The chairman appoint a committee of five members of the student body who shall draw up resolutions expressing the disfavor of the student body towards the present Athletic Board of Control and requesting the resignation of the same." The motion was seconded and passed by a large majority.

Chairman Johnstone then appointed a committee consisting of George Barco, Bruce Leffingwell, Lloyd Gordon, Lloyd Thompson, and Paul Musser to draft and present the resolutions. The committee met on Friday evening and expressed the sentiment of the student body in the following manner: "Whereas,

"We, the Committee on Resolutions, have been selected to express the opinion of the student body on the following manner:

Thomas C. Chen Will Speak on Subject of Chinese Literature

Allegheny College will have as its chapel speaker on Monday, November 25th, Mr. Thomas C. Chen, or Chen Chen, as he is called in China. Mr. Chen is in this country on a five-year scholarship, and is studying Western languages and literatures. His subject will be "Some Outstanding Features of Chinese Literatures."

Mr. Chen is studying at Oberlin College at the present time and expects to take his A. B. there this coming February. After receiving his college degree, Mr. Chen plans to continue his study, working for a Master of Arts degree. He is an author of poetry and novels in his native tongue and is a translator from English and German into Chinese.

While studying at Tsing Hua College, Peking, Mr. Chen had as one of his teachers Miss Anna Schaffheitlin, who is at the head of the Department of German in Allegheny at the present. Mr. Chen will be in Meadville next Sunday and Monday, and any students interested in meeting him may arrange to do so by communicating with Miss Schaffheitlin.

ALL COLLEGE DANCE WAS WELL ATTENDED

One of the best All-College Parties this season took place Saturday evening, November 16, 1929, at Cochran Hall. Added zest, of course, was given to the occasion by the win over Waynesburg, and this was just the right incentive for an all-student affair. Kress' Olympians, who played, appeared in their new uniforms, which carry out a blue and gold scheme. Chaparroneing the party were Mr. Howes and Miss Myer. The usual punch and wafers were served throughout the evening. The students will undoubtedly look forward to many more parties such as took place Saturday evening.

C. W. Skinner, '21, has finished his medical course at Rush Medical College, University of Chicago, and is now interning at Allegheny General Hospital, Pittsburgh. Doctor and Mrs. Skinner (Ruth McCafferty, '23) are living at Allison Park. They have two children, Ruth Ann, two years old, and Clifford Weld, Jr., five months old.

INTERESTING ADDRESS IS GIVEN BY JEROME DAVIS

YALE SOCIOLOGIST SPEAKS TO STUDENTS AT CHAPEL WEDNESDAY

Application to the best advantage of that common property of all men, the spirit of adventure, was the subject of a talk by Dr. Jerome Davis, of the department of Sociology of Yale University, in chapel Wednesday, November 13. His powerful lecture on "Social Adventuring" was made delightful not only through its own merit, but also through the renewal of an old acquaintance, for Dr. Davis spoke at a chapel service two years ago, winning many friends both among the faculty and among the students.

The Yale sociologist prefaced his address with a description of some of his experiences resulting from his inherently adventurous spirit, and told of other adventurers whom he had encountered during his travels all over the world. For a time he had worked with Dr. W. T. Grenfell, the famous doctor-missionary of Labrador, and he described his former colleague as a worthwhile adventurer. The "thrill criminal" is also motivated by the spirit of adventure, but he has forgotten to consider whether his anti-social adventure is worth the cost.

Among the many subjects in which worthwhile adventures lie in store for the college man, Mr. Davis mentioned the field of free speech. He declared that if we would maintain American traditions, we must maintain the doctrine of freedom of speech, modelling our attitude after Voltaire's: "I disagree absolutely with what you say, but I would fight to the death for your right to say it."

The college man can also prepare himself to do his share to create a more equitable distribution of the good things of life. The speaker presented a chart showing that 8% of the American people are getting 33% of the "income pie" in America, while 54% of the people are left to divide a slice representing only 29% of the pie. Unemployment insurance, Dr. Davis declared, would be a powerful factor in remedying a condition so obviously unfair.

The well-known sociologist then offered some suggestions for more advantageous utilization of the summer vacation period, so often wasted. He stated that one should make his holidays count towards his future vocation. One of the best ways to get the most out of the summer recess, he declared, was to enter an industrial group to study labor problems. Above all, no college student should complete his course without taking a trip to Europe, perhaps working his way over, as the speaker himself had done.

In conclusion, Dr. Davis warned his audience that adventuring for money was not worth the cost, and that the way to judge a man is not by his economic position, but rather by his achievements in behalf of the race. The idea that "business is business" and moral and social ideals something else Dr. Davis condemned not only for its falsity but also for its lack of freedom and fun.

VALUE OF MASS MEETING IS QUESTIONED BY STUDENT

November 15, 1929.

Dear Editor: The actions of a mob, guided by a few prepared leaders, rarely achieve the results which are desired by a majority of the members of that mob. The decisions arrived at are usually satisfactory only to the leaders who have achieved their own aims; the crowd learns later about the manner in which it was used as dupes and tools for someone else's benefit.

"Open Discussions" at Allegheny seem to be open to a limited few; the rest of the student body sit back and watch the proceedings with mingled feelings of amusement, of disinterest, and of doubt that anything will be accomplished.

Will you please answer a few questions concerning the customs at Allegheny?

Why isn't the student body as a whole informed of a forthcoming discussion meeting? Why is it that a few men plan the entire affair and proceed to carry it out, using the student body as a sort of background for their actions? Why isn't a secret vote taken on all matters of importance? Why are wiser and unbiased men not chosen to lead the discussions?

You might say that the student body is informed of forthcoming meetings. How is this done? I, for one, have never known when important discussions were to be held until I got there. Wouldn't an announcement in Chapel previous to the day of the meeting be advisable, or aren't such proceedings planned for until the few moments before they are brought about?

As for the second question, you might reply that someone or some persons must take the initiative. That is true, but taking the initiative must not

PLAY PRODUCTION CLASS TO GIVE "DEAR BRUTUS"

PLAY WILL BE PRESENTED AT FORMAL OPENING OF LITTLE THEATER

"Dear Brutus," by the well known Scotch novelist and dramatist, J. M. Barrie, has been selected as a most fitting play for the formal opening of the new future of the Alice Spalding Theatre in Arter Hall. The play is one of the most charming and successful of the many written by Barrie. Like his "Peter Pan," the highly imaginative story of "Dear Brutus" carries one into the realms of fantasy so characteristic of Barrie's writing. Rarely has Barrie written a play in which his shrewd observations on human character and his shy and delicate sense of humor have been given more felicitous expression.

James Barrie entered upon his literary career through journalism and devoted his ability to delineations of rustic life, in which are equally mingled poetic fancies, whimsical humor and depths of pathos. Among his novels are "The Little Minister," "Sentimental Tommy," "Tommy and Grizel," and "The Little White Bird." Success in the dramatization of these novels led to play writing, in which he now excels. The most fantastic and delightful of his plays is "Peter Pan." Others of notable interest are: "The Professor's Love Story," "The Admirable Crichton," "Alice-sit-by-the-Fire," and "What Every Woman Knows."

The production of "Dear Brutus" is an ambitious undertaking for both the cast and the producers. The interest, however, of the players and producers, as well as the interest shown among the students, the Alumni, and the town people who are supporting the play gives promise to an evening of the best dramatic entertainment in the history of Allegheny College.

The names of the producing staff will be announced later, but the cast after long consideration and much thought has now practically been decided upon. Misses Minna Gruskin, Marjory Cole, Virginia Sigendall, Violet Troutman, and Charlotte Merwin, and the Messrs. Robert Bugbee, Ben Anderson, George Johnstone, Lloyd E. Thompson, and James Weyand, compose the cast.

ARCHAEOLOGICAL FINDS DONATED TO COLLEGE

Allegheny College's library has recently been enriched by the donation of many interesting archaeological finds by the estate of the late Camden M. Coburn, '76. Mr. Coburn was Professor of English Bible and Philosophy of Religion at Allegheny from 1906 to 1920 when he left for Babylon to do some research work. In the palace of Sennacherib he found many ancient tablets containing cuneiform inscriptions. There were also many Babylonian letters, contracts, seals, and native inscriptions which he brought to this country. In accordance with his will all these collections were presented to the Ries Library.

WAYNESBURG IS DEFEATED IN HARD FOUGHT BATTLE, 14 to 7

Allegheny Team Plays Superb Football Throughout Game; Score In Second and Fourth Quarters

Playing football as they never have before this season, the Blue and Gold warriors virtually swept their opponents from their feet last Saturday afternoon and as a result Allegheny won its first victory of the year, downing the powerful Waynesburg eleven, 14-7. The Allegheny team fought relentlessly from the opening kickoff to the final whistle and the boys in gold deserved their victory. It was a hard, clean-cut battle all the way, with Coach Crum's men invincible throughout.

Waynesburg, confident after defeating Grove City, 12-7, and Geneva, 7-0, and expecting to find the Alligator an easy prey, found him instead lashed to a fury. He had awakened from his long sleep. Long has it been since the Blue and Gold defended her goal as she defended it against the Yellow Jackets; long has it been since the walls of old Montgomery resounded as they did last Saturday to the cheers of the Blue and Gold followers. Twenty-three times did Waynesburg attempt to penetrate the Allegheny defense during the first half; twenty-three times was she repulsed, with a net loss of one yard for the entire half. And Waynesburg had the heavier line, too.

Standing out among the day's achievements was the work of Lee Gamble, the elusive, wing-heeled freshman. This modern Mercury gained three-fourths of his team's yardage, and scored two touchdowns and an extra point. Both touchdowns were scored on passes from Berger to Gamble, the first coming in the second period and the second in the last period.

Waynesburg made its touchdown during the last few minutes of play. Slaughter attempted to kick from his twenty-six yard line, but the punt was blocked and Captain Smith, of Waynesburg picked it up and rolled over the goal line for the touchdown.

In place of Storrie and Martin on the ends were a pair of freshmen, demons, Brown and McKay. Hardly

Collegiate Imps to Play at Pittsburgh Alumni Club Dance

Undergraduates especially will be interested to know that the Collegiate Imps, a group of Pitt and Carnegie Tech musicians, have been engaged to play for the dance feature of the Allegheny Club of Pittsburgh's Reunion on Saturday evening, November 23. This band is considered as Pittsburgh's finest college dance orchestra. The dance is to be held at the Pittsburgh Athletic Association Annex, corner of Fifth Avenue and Bigelow Boulevard. Invitations and tickets have been sent to 600 alumni living in the Pittsburgh district and an unusually large number have already sent in their checks or otherwise signified their intention to attend.

The dance is to be held in honor of the Allegheny football team and Mr. Townsend has accepted the club's invitation for the team to be present as the guest of the organization. Bridge is being arranged for all who do not care to dance and many enthusiasts are planning to take advantage of this feature.

The assessment will be $1.25 per person. This is the entire expense of the evening, there being no extras of any sort whatsoever. The Pittsburgh Club is anxious that all alumni and students join with them in the evening's festivities. Tickets may be secured from the Alumni office in Bentley Hall or from Tom Jones. They may also be obtained at the P. A. A. the evening of the dance.

SON OF ALLEGHENIAN ACCIDENTALLY KILLED

On Tuesday, November 12, Elwyn, second son of Harrison and Kate Thickett Ellsworth of Crossingsville, was instantly killed by the accidental discharge of a gun which he was taking from a car. The deceased had completed one year at the Dental College of the University of Pittsburgh of which his brother, Harry E., is a graduate. Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth are both former students of Allegheny College. Besides his parents and brother, Mr. Ellsworth is survived by a sister, Linallys, who is a senior in Mansfield Teachers College. Interment was in Edinboro. The services were in charge of Rev. Dr. Kerr of the Presbyterian Church of Monaca. The Hattie Mae Thickett Memorial Fund of the College Library is named for Mrs. Ellsworth's sister who graduated in 1902.

a yard could be gained around these boys all day. McKay also intercepted two forward passes, one deep in his own territory. The other one paved the way for Allegheny's second touchdown. Pichtino, Showers, and Scholl at the tackles, Gibson and Waite at the guards, and Morse at center played the best game of the year.

The only play on which Waynesburg could gain consistently was an off-tackle thrust. The Yellow Jackets frequently took to the air, but the Allegheny backfield was on the lookout and only three short passes were good.

Waynesburg kicked off to Allegheny to open the game. Allegheny returned the ball to the twenty-three-yard line. Berger hit the line for two yards. On the next play Gamble was thrown for a yard loss and Garbark punted high to Waynesburg on the Allegheny forty-six. Three plunges at the line netted but five yards and Waynesburg punted over the goal line. On the second down Gamble took a lateral pass and ran twenty-three yards between end and tackle, bringing the ball up to the forty-yard line. Waynesburg's line tightened and Garbark was forced to kick. Waynesburg took the ball on the twenty-eight. On the first play, Showers nailed the Waynesburg runner for a four-yard loss. The Yellow Jackets lost another yard on the next play and punted to Allegheny on the Blue and Gold twenty-five-yard stripe. Waynesburg's defense was also impenetrable and Gamble lost a yard on (Continued on Page 2)

WELL-KNOWN SOPRANO TO SING HERE THIS EVENING

ESTELLE WEEKES WILL GIVE CONCERT IN COLLEGE CHAPEL AT 8:15

Tonight Ford Memorial Chapel will be the scene of a musical concert sponsored by the German Club of Allegheny College and the Meadville Garden Club. These two clubs are bringing Miss Estelle Weekes, a lyric soprano of New York City, to Meadville for a recital. Her program will start at eight o'clock. Tickets for Allegheny's first musicale of the year are on sale and may be obtained from any member of either of the clubs backing the program.

Miss Weekes comes well recommended, having earned an excellent reputation as a concert singer. She has been abroad for the past two years for study and has been sponsored by Madame Schumann-Heink. A protege of this famous singer should be enough to attract many students and residents of Meadville to the program. Miss Weekes spent most of her time abroad in Germany and was well received there. Her greatest success was as a "Konzert-Sängerin" in Berlin. The two clubs sponsoring the entertainment urge the presence of all able to attend and promise to present a well-worth-the-while evening.

Miss Weekes is not bringing her regular accompanist from New York but arrangements have been made to have Mrs. Wood of Meadville accompany the guest of the evening. Mrs. Wood is said to be connected with the Music Conservatory and is well known as an artist of ability herself.

Phi Beta Kappa to Hold Annual Dinner Early in December

The Allegheny Chapter of Phi Beta Kappa will have its anniversary dinner on Saturday evening, December 7, at Cochran Hall. The address of the evening will be given by Dr. Clark S. Northrup, Professor of English in Cornell University and President of the United Chapters of Phi Beta Kappa. All members of the society, whether members of the Allegheny Chapter or not, are cordially invited to attend the dinner. Wives—or husbands—of members are included in the invitation. Reservations should be sent to Dr. Julian L. Ross not later than December 3. Tickets $1.25.

At five o'clock preceding the dinner a meeting of the Allegheny Chapter will be held in the Faculty Room in Bentley Hall at which one alumnus and three members of the class of '30 will be initiated into membership. For many years, with but few exceptions, the Allegheny Chapter has celebrated by a dinner on or near December fifth, the founding of the society at William and Mary College in 1776 and the installation of the chapter in February, 1902.

THE ATHLETIC SITUATION

The past week has been an eventful one at Allegheny College, the present athletic situation being the nucleus from which all other events have evolved. On Friday the students held a mass meeting and passed resolutions expressing disfavor with the present Athletic Board of Control and requesting their resignations. On Saturday the football team played its best game of the season and defeated Waynesburg, conqueror of Grove City. The way in which these two events can be reconciled is apparent. If, as contended by many, the football team had a grievance against the athletic management, when their contention was brought out in the open and given substantial endorsement by the students, the team was bound to play great football if they had it in them. And the team did play great football.

The victory on Saturday in no way modifies the demands of the students in regard to the Athletic Board. The request for resignation still stands. Some may ask, "Who was responsible for all this talk of resignation?" That's easy. The ultimatum was issued by members of the board. One said, "The Athletic Board has decided if there is any organized opposition, we will gladly resign." The bluff has been called. Many other reports of threats to resign have drifted in to us from time to time. Member after member of the Athletic Board has in the course of the past year invariably closed his conversation with the statement: "I'm going to get out of it. I'm tired of it. There is nothing in it for me." It is even alleged that the coach of our nearest college neighbor was told by a prominent member of the Board, "This is absolutely my last year in athletics at Allegheny." Certainly a trustee was told not long ago, "We are thinking seriously of turning our trust back to the College."

Now all this wavering in purpose cannot help coming home to roost with the steady loss of games all season. What uncertainty it was bound to cause among the students! No wonder the squad grew listless and purposeless. With their very college life dependent upon the stability of the organization that sponsored them, can anyone marvel at their lack of morale?

An attempt is on foot to remedy this situation by demanding that the tottering board, the source of this lack of morale, be removed. Yet there are some whose narrowness of outlook pricks them to ask, "Who in all our alumni body could carry on the Athletic Board of Control if our present Board does resign?" Isn't there just a slight trace of conceit and vanity about that sort of question? Is it possible that in a group of twenty-four hundred actual graduates and an ex-student list of twice that number, ten others might not be secured who could meet twice a year and if necessary burden a coach with such a multiplicity of counsel that he didn't know whether he was a foot or on horseback, being only dimly conscious that he was "on his way?"

After all, the day is coming when Hoover, MacDonald, Briand, Mussolini, and Stalin will be supplanted, yet the entire world is not paralyzed by the prospect. Even Washington refused to stay in office; as popular a man as Roosevelt couldn't make the third term racket; Coolidge didn't choose; behold the case of Garfield, McKinley and Lincoln; and yet we still pay taxes and the earth continues to revolve. And sometime, sooner or later, the present Board will have to relinquish its control. What will become of us then?

The students contend that the Board can be and should be replaced. But the athletic moguls are now "reversing the field." By their actions they are showing that their threats to resign were mere blusterings and idle talk. They are struggling to hold their jobs. They are trying to forget the ultimatums that sent the students to work, converting the "ifs" of the Board into actions. If the rumpus of the past week does no more than to decide the Athletic Board that after all they do want their jobs, if they decide they are going to stick and produce, if they stop their public lament about "getting out" and "throwing up the sponge," the rumpus is one of the best things that has happened to Allegheny College.

THE SCRUBBING BRUSH

Far be it from me to accuse any of our co-eds of gold-digging, but the way these candy sellers dive after the nickels and dimes thrown to them from the top rows of the football stands looks awful, awful suspicious.

Well, Allegheny seems to have just one revolt after another. First was the revolt against the student senate; then the revolt over the Junior Prom, and now we're all in a fluster against the Athletic Board. Methinks (or says me) perhaps we might have a rather fair sort of a school here some day if we keep up our reform habit. Reform is the spice of life without a doubt. But what can we reform next?

The S. A. E.'s who bought City Service stock a few weeks ago did not rush into it as blindly as the co-ed (not from Allegheny) who bought General Bronze thinking that it would be nice to help erect statues of soldiers in parks, or as the football trainer who bought Firestone Rub. and Tire thinking that he was investing in a linament factory. Gentlemen prefer bonds.

So there's to be a great, big formal dance at Hulings Hall this Friday night! We understand that some of the boys have contemplated wearing their tuxes to chapel so that the girls will give them a break. Since the dance is formal, it is easy enough to figure out who is running it. Remember the Junior Hop last year. Nice going, ladies of the evening. If it were only you that had to wear the saw-toothed collars and the stiff-jacket shirts.

Did you notice the uniforms worn by the Olympians' orchestra at the dance Saturday night? Extremely tricky, n'est ce pas? and such luscious favors and gorgeous lunch all for a dollar and quarter!

VALUE OF MASS MEETING

After all, do the faculty or other authorities consider our hasty decisions? Are they much excited by our actions? Do we hold anyone's fate in our balance. Does anyone, no matter how glibly, quake when he hears of our resolutions? I do not think so, because the matter always seems to drop and nothing is accomplished. It seems that the authorities consider the true source of the complaints, they realize that the students themselves are not really so anxious for reform, and therefore they respect our better judgments. If this were not true some changes would be conceded to the students; but as past instances have proven, the first mention of a would-be reform produces a small flurry which brings about no definite results and which later becomes considerably quietened on account of lack of student interest and support.

As an advocate for reform, therefore, I believe we should work for and demand a system whereby the student body would be informed of meetings in sufficient time beforehand in order to prepare for the discussions; the student body be the judges because of their powers of deliberation and secret voting; and counselors be provided by the faculty to lead the discussion and act as a check upon the excited advocates of different measures.

Sincerely,
M. D. CAMMARATA.

sor Hammett, Dr. Schultz, and the other members of the Athletic Board. These students affirmed that the professor had mentioned no other names. I doubt that any criticism has been directed toward these two members of the Board. Why, then, were only these two mentioned by name?

It almost seems that Dr. Schultz has been excluded from activities of the Board. He has never been notified of a meeting of the Board since the opening of school this fall. Yet the chairman of the Board said, during the course of conversation when he received the resolutions, "There have been several meetings of the Athletic Board this fall." I noted this statement carefully. The Secretary of the Board stated that two meetings were held this fall—one before school started and one after. He added that several informal, unofficial meetings had been held, however.

I find these words in the Tribune-Republican: "It was argued that the student body has been loyal to the football team all this time. Now, however, a feeling of disgust has become quite prevalent, as evinced by the fact that yesterday, for the first time in several years, no pep meeting was held before a home game." How could a reporter interpret Friday's mass meeting as anything but a "pep" meeting. Speakers who denounced the Board and favored the team, were loudly applauded. The last speaker, a freshman who bashfully suggested that the student body express their loyalty to the team, was cheered above all. The team, supported by a student body which had discredited the athletic board and graduate manager, played a splendid game Saturday. The attendance at the game, at least by the students, was commendable. The attitude of the students at the game was a constant note of enthusiasm. We hope that the student body will continue to support the team, especially if the Board insists on being stubborn.

PHILIPPINO SPEAKS AT CHAPEL ON WORLD PEACE

STUDENTS HEAR ADDRESS BY JUAN RODRIGUEZ AT CHAPEL MONDAY

Promotion of universal peace among the nations of the world was the theme of a chapel talk Monday, November 21, by Juan Rodriguez, well-known speaker on international relations. Mr. Rodriguez, a native of the Philippine Islands, is a graduate of Montana University, where he took both his Bachelor's and his Master's degree in Science, and he is now seeking his Ph. D. in the Department of Genetics, Cornell University. His appearance at Allegheny, under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A., is one step in a lecture tour of the colleges of Western Pennsylvania. After his chapel talk Monday noon, he addressed the Kiwanis Club of Meadville, proceeding to Greenville in the evening to speak at Thiel College.

Although a resident of the United States for but six years, Mr. Rodriguez showed a thoroughly creditable mastery of English. His slight accent, moreover, added a pleasing tang to the attractive and timely subject matter of his discourse.

The work of science, in providing easy means of communication such as the telephone, telegraph, and radio, has materially aided the cause of world peace, as have also the many organizations for the improvement of international relations founded since the World War. Incidentally, the speaker stated, it is helpful to the student to remember that his studies are the products of work in every country.

The new method for the settling of differences between nations the noted Philippino illustrated with the example of the recent conference between President Hoover and Ramsay MacDonald, the British prime minister, and again by the case of the disarmament conference in London, which will be handled entirely by civilians, members of the army and navy receiving no appointments. The man who holds the gun no longer controls movements for peace.

Perhaps the most significant occurrence, however, is the sending of gifts from the children of one country to the children of another. Universal peace can be realized, Mr. Rodriguez claimed, only if the children of the nations are trained in friendship for all peoples. In conclusion, the speaker expressed his hope that the Allegheny student body would support the movement to end war, and declared his belief that at least one member of his audience would become active in the great cause of the promotion of international understanding.

Scio, Ohio,
November 14, 1929.

Editor of The Campus,
Meadville, Pa.
Dear Sir:

Upon reading the article on "Subsidizing of Athletics" in The Campus of October 30, I felt an impulse to write at once and express my full agreement. But I hesitated. I am of an older generation; college athletics were unknown in my college years, and for a good while afterward. Perhaps I might not know enough about the matter to offer an opinion. Then the next number came, with a letter from a graduate of much later date saying what I would have liked to say (but better than I could have said it), and showing that my ideas are not altogether out of date.

I believe Allegheny's position in the matter is entirely right, and hope that other institutions may take the same view and reform a serious evil of the athletic situation.

Very truly yours,

A presentation speech was given by Mr. Jones.

A debate was held on the subject: "Resolved, That College athletes should receive no remuneration for participation in college athletics." Mr. Faverman and Mr. Ross supported the affirmative and Mr. Corcoran and Mr. Kassel supported the negative. After a heated discussion of the subject the debate proper was concluded and the meeting was adjourned.

Who's Who Among Our Alumni

WALTER IRVING BATES

It seems a far cry from editor to soldier boy, but Walter Irving Bates, editor of the Tribune-Republican, once aspired to the army. As a boy, Mr. Bates thought the profession of soldiery ideal; the romance of army life, the honor of distinguished service, the "glitter of brass buttons" made him positive that he could wish for no more than to be a soldier. At sixteen he received an appointment to West Point. Here was his dream realized! But soon he was rejected because of imperfect vision. Again he was appointed, and again rejected. After the third recommendation, refused for the same reason, he gave up hope.

Mr. Bates entered Allegheny College with the class of 1894. However, he left without graduating and received his degree at the Centennial Commencement in 1915, nunc pro tunc. In 1896 he went to Europe to study at the Sorbonne in Paris, an honor which few Allegheny alumni can claim. Mr. Bates has been admitted to the bar, but has never practised law.

When the Spanish-American War broke out, Mr. Bates revived his old soldier-dreams. A company was recruited in Meadville, and he was captain of it. The company was not required to enter active service, however, since the National Guard was called out first. In 1896 Mr. Bates was made major in the 21st Regiment, National Guards of Pennsylvania.

A few years after 'his, Mr. Bates married Marian Sackett, ex-'04.

Thirty years ago he bought one of the six Meadville newspapers, the Tribune-Republican, then a four-page paper. In the years through which he has directed it, Mr. Bates has made enormous improvements in the Tribune. Its size and circulation have increased many times; its competitors are no longer in the field. Fifteen years ago the organization had grown so that it needed new quarters, then the building was erected in which the offices now are. This year the building is being remodeled to accommodate the still-growing paper which Mr. Bates is still piloting.

Editor, Major, Republican presidential elector, member of the American History Society and the Ohio Valley History Society, member also of the University Club, the Literary Union, the Round Table and other prominent clubs, for several years president of the Meadville Board of Education and member of the Board of Trustees of Edinboro State Teachers' College, Mr. Bates is an alumnus of whom Allegheny is justly proud.

STUDENTS REQUEST

ular opinion of the student body of Allegheny College.

"Whereas,
"The student body of Allegheny College disfavor the working and actions of the Athletic Board of Control,
"Resolved,

"That it would be expedient for the Athletic Board of Control to resign."
"Committee on Resolutions."

The committee then presented the resolutions to Dr. R. E. Lee on Saturday morning. Doctor Lee requested the committee to appear before the Athletic Board to discuss the matter. This they refused to do, believing that it was not in their domain as a committee representing the entire body of students only on the matter of drafting and presenting the resolutions. Doctor Lee expressed the opinion that all the facts in the case were not known. He asserted that the entire board would resign immediately if definite grievances were made and the inefficiency of the board was proved by reliable facts. The students contend that the record of the team is ample proof that athletics are not being managed to the best advantage in the College.

A meeting of the board, townspeople, students and any others who desire to attend is being arranged for Thursday evening. The board, as yet, has not taken any definite action on the resolutions which they received. The students contemplate no further moves until they discover the fate and effect of their resolutions.

On Wednesday morning, November 13, Miss Mildred Powell of Meadville, became the bride of Lewis Pike, '28, of Ambridge. The Reverend Philip Kraus officiated at the Zion Evangelical Church of Meadville. Following the wedding ceremony, a breakfast was served in the private dining room of the Lafayette Hotel for members of the wedding party and relatives of the bride and groom. Mr. Pike is at present assistant manager of the Ambridge Coal and Supply Company. After a wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Pike will reside in Baden, Pennsylvania.

ST. VINCENT GAME TO CLOSE ALLEGHENY FOOTBALL SEASON

Latrobe School Has Best Team In Institution's History; Coached By Former Notre Dame Stars

Finis will be written to the 1929 football season next Saturday afternoon when the Blue and Gold team meets St. Vincent College at Latrobe, Pennsylvania. The Latrobe outfit is a newcomer on the Allegheny schedule and from all indications the Blue and Gold will find their opponents to be a worthy foe.

The Saints are by no means a set-up for the hosts of Coach Crum. The Latrobe school boasts the best football team in the history of the institution this year. Clem Crowe and Red Edwards, former Notre Dame stars, are coaching the St. Vincent's team and have been meeting with a great deal of success. Four victories have been won by the Latrobe boys this year.

On Armistice Day St. Vincent lost a hard-fought battle to Canisius by a score of 6-0. Geneva holds a victory over Canisius this year, so Allegheny, rated at the present time a better team than Geneva, appears to be the favorite in the battle for next Saturday. Waynesburg found the Latrobe outfit stubborn opponents, but finally managed to subdue them by a score of 7-2.

Roy Dailey is the captain and star of the St. Vincent team. Dailey saw only twenty minutes service last Saturday, but in that time he scored three touchdowns, two after receiving passes and one on a spectacular run of 13 yards through the center of the line. When Dailey is out of the lineup, his brother is frequently used as his substitute. The Latrobe team won its game with Indiana Normal last Saturday by a score of 39-0.

A great deal depends on the way the Allegheny team plays next Saturday. If the Blue and Gold continues to show the same unconquerable fight which was displayed last week in the game with Waynesburg, the team will undoubtedly be returned winner. If, however, Coach Crum's men let down again, there is no telling what the outcome of the game will be. The Allegheny team played great football last Saturday—football that would win a majority of the games—and the students are looking forward to see their two tries. Another pass by Berger failed and Garbark booted to the middle of the field. Two Waynesburg receivers did the Alphonse-Gaston act and Allegheny recovered the ball. A pass failed and Garbark punted to the twenty-yard line. Waynesburg returning to the twenty-eight. Two charges at the line failed to gain but an off-tackle thrust and a penalty gave the visitors a first down on the forty-three-yard line. On the next play the whole Allegheny line broke through and smeared the runner for a seventeen-yard loss. The whole Allegheny line was tackling clean and hard, throwing the runner over backwards on almost every tackle. Not being able to gain an inch, Waynesburg kicked to Allegheny's twenty-five-yard line. Gamble made four yards but fumbled on the next play and the Yellow Jackets recovered. Waynesburg took the ball in three plays to the seventeen-yard line, where they had first down and ten to go. On the next play the Allegheny line again broke through and dumped the runner fourteen yards behind the line of scrimmage. Still playing ferociously, they crashed through and smeared the next play for a four-yard loss. Waynesburg kicked, but the kicker was so rushed that the ball went out of bounds on the line of scrimmage. Gamble then caught a pass from Berger while standing on the fifty-yard line. Gamble and Garbark alternated in taking the ball to the Waynesburg eleven-yard stripe, where it was fourth down and five to go. On the next play Berger ran back and shot a pass to Gamble, who took the ball over for a touchdown. On the lineup for extra point, Berger faked a drop-kick and passed to Gamble, who was wide open behind the goal line. The rest of the half was uneventful except for a fierce tackle by McKay which put a Waynesburg man out of the game.

Neither side threatened during the third quarter. Waynesburg barely managed to make their yardage three times in this period. Each time, however, the Allegheny defense immediately tightened and the Yellow Jackets would be forced to punt.

In the fourth period McKay intercepted a Waynesburg pass on his own forty-yard line. A pass by Berger went wild but Gamble then gained four yards around the end. On the next play Gamble again circled the right end for seventeen yards, bringing the ball up to the twenty-yard marker. Berger failed to gain at the line. He threw another incomplete pass. The Waynesburg defense was caught napping and again Gamble outraced his opponent to the goal line to take a perfect pass from Berger. Garbark favorites continue in a winning stride this week. Last Saturday's victory undoubtedly encouraged many students to plan for the trip who otherwise would not attend the game.

Coach Crum is expected to use practically the same lineup that downed Waynesburg. It is questionable whether or not Martin and Storrie will be ready to play again by the time that the game rolls around. In case they are not ready, Coach Crum has discovered in McKay and Brown two reliable men that he can use without greatly weakening the team. In case something happens to one of these men, Art Balser is being groomed to fill the position. Balser is also used as substitute fullback.

Bob Garbark, after being out of the game most of the season, returned to the lineup last Saturday. He was injured during the final quarter and forced to leave the game. He will probably be able to play again this week, his injury consisting of a cramp in the leg which prevented him from running.

One Allegheny player, Paul Gibson, ends his career with the game Saturday. "Gibby" has been a consistent lineman for the past four years, having seen service at both tackle and guard positions. Acting as captain last Saturday, Gibson played one of the best games of his career and won many commendations by his sterling defensive work.

Allegheny kicked off to Waynesburg on the thirty-yard line. Making use of off-tackle plays and plays from spread formation, the visitors worked the ball up to the Allegheny thirty-yard marker. Slaughter intercepted a pass and the Blue and Gold was temporarily out of danger. Slaughter's punt, however, was poor, and Waynesburg was again in possession of the ball on the thirty-yard line. On the third down McKay intercepted a pass and again the danger was removed. Slaughter's punt on the second down was blocked and Captain Smith picked up the ball and carried it over for a touchdown. The extra point was made by a pass from Fortney to R. Porter. Allegheny elected to receive. Garbark returned the ball from the eighteen to the thirty-six-yard marker, but he was hurt on the play and had to leave the game. Gamble picked up eight yards on two plays, but Slaughter punted to Waynesburg, who kicked back after finding the Allegheny line too tough. Slaughter in two plays carried the ball from his own twenty-nine-yard line to the Waynesburg forty-eight-yard line. Gamble went through tackle for three yards and Slaughter duplicated for four more as the whistle blew ending the game.

This and That

WHY?

The Allegheny football team won a splendid victory last Saturday afternoon. The reversal of form gives the dopest a chance. Numerous explanations will be given, and we feel that our opinion is as good as any one's. It is simply that, for the first time in many moons, the students had a "voice" in athletic affairs. Stirred to action by a most indiscreet challenge, they were in their own minds in charge of things. Whether it finally works out that way or not the over-lords of athletics had ceased to exist. The students were at the helm. As a result, the atmosphere was electric. They desired to prove that they had been right in their contentions. Never did a better spirit exist in the stands. Not once throughout the entire game did the Alleghenians cease to keep their team on edge with lusty cheers. The team, too, was filled with the spirit of the occasion, and Waynesburg, conqueror of Grove City and Geneva, went down to defeat.

ALUMNI CONTROL

Speaking of the students being in control Saturday reminds us that the Carnegie Foundation offered the sharp kind of criticism of the fact that alumni control of athletics had practically eliminated all student duty and a large part of student interest in football. And isn't it too true? To what extent do student managers really manage the football team? They earn their positions because of physical and not mental exercise. If the alumni are to manage athletics to the smallest personal details, why not let the alumni play the games? The Campus would like to arrange a schedule of games for them with the alumni of Dartmouth, Pittsburgh, Boston University, New York University, with Grove City, Geneva, Westminster, and Thiel thrown in to fill out a season. The Campus would like to arrange players in their places and to threaten to take away their bread and butter if they didn't hold their mouths right. Finally, we reserve the right to make all alibis.

ENDS

With Martin and Storrie on the bench last Saturday, Allegheny was forced to use its substitute ends to start the game for the first time this season. John McKay and Ross Brown were the boys pressed into action and both came through in veteran fashion. McKay was in there breaking up numerous passes and Brown more than held up his end of the line. The players welcomed the return of Bob Garbark, fullback, to the game; Bob's return gave Allegheny its best backfield of the entire season.

Cross Country Team Defeats Geneva in Final Race of Year

Allegheny's hill and dale men won the third and last meet of the season by decisively defeating Geneva by a score of 21 to 34 last Saturday afternoon in conjunction with the football game. The win gave the Blue and Gold team a record of two victories and one defeat for the season. Westminster and Geneva were the victims of Coach Hammett's men, while Pitt was the only team to turn the trick on the Blue and Gold.

Paul Dreihelbis wound up his collegiate career as a cross country runner with an easy victory in his last race. Paul is undefeated this season, having finished first in all three races. His place will be a hard one to fill next year, for he has been a consistent runner during the past four seasons. His time for the course last Saturday was 23 minutes, 15 seconds.

SWIMMING TEAM MAKING PLANS FOR BUSY YEAR

FOUR VETERANS ON HAND TO FORM NUCLEUS OF THIS YEAR'S TEAM

With four veterans of last year's team as a nucleus, the Allegheny swimming team is again preparing for the winter campaign. A call for candidates has been issued, with the first meeting scheduled for this afternoon at four o'clock. Every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday from four until five o'clock has been set aside as the time for regular practices.

George Ledger is the only letterman from last year's outfit who is still in college. He will serve as captain. Other veterans are Luodus Bugbee, John Rumsey, and Kenneth Showers. These four men are all strong swimmers and form a very satisfactory nucleus around which to build the team this year. E. Young and Burdell Sankey are the members of last year's team who were graduated in June.

The team last year had only one meet, that being with Pitt in Pittsburgh. The Allegheny swimmers lost by a wide margin to the Panthers. The team was handicapped by a lack of finances, being practically self-supporting. This year it is hoped that the natators will be more successful in their efforts to raise money. If they meet with more success, they will be enabled to arrange a schedule of considerable importance.

Ledger competed in the 40 and 100-yard dashes, as well as 220-yard swim and the relay last year. Showers' specialties were the 100-yard dash and the relay, while Rumsey engaged in the diving events and the 220-yard swim. Bugbee is also a diver, as well as a back-stroke man. It is reported that there is considerable material in the freshman class. If the report proves to be true, there is no reason why Allegheny should not be represented by a first class team this year.

Communications have already been sent to some of the nearby schools, as well as the Oil City Y. M. C. A. in an effort to arrange meets for the team. A number of the smaller schools in the neighborhood do not have swimming teams; consequently, it is a difficult matter to arrange a schedule, especially when handicapped by limited finances.

ner during the past four seasons. His time for the course last Saturday was 23 minutes, 15 seconds.

Following Dreihelbis to the finish line were, in order named, Worrall, (A); Rockey, (A); Forst, (G); Wilson, (G); Reiser, (G); Ish, (A); McAdams, (A); Edgar, (G); and Robinson, (G). Worrall, the second man to finish, was over two full minutes behind the Allegheny pace-setter.

Credit must be given the Geneva men for running the race under adverse conditions. An accident to their automobile forced them to hitch-hike from New Wilmington to Meadville in order to keep their appointment.
