Archipenko To Give Illustrated Lecture On "Creativeness" In Chapel January 7

Alexander Archipenko, artist and lecturer, will deliver an illustrated talk on "Creativeness" on Wednesday, January 7, at 8:15 p.m. in Ford Memorial Chapel. The speech is sponsored by the Public Events Committee of the College.

Archipenko is the originator of a new technique in sculpture—that of modeling light (carved plastics). His one-man shows throughout the world have featured new concepts and esthetic elements in art: the modeling of space, concave, transparency and sculpto-painting. He also added the use of different materials to the field of sculpture.

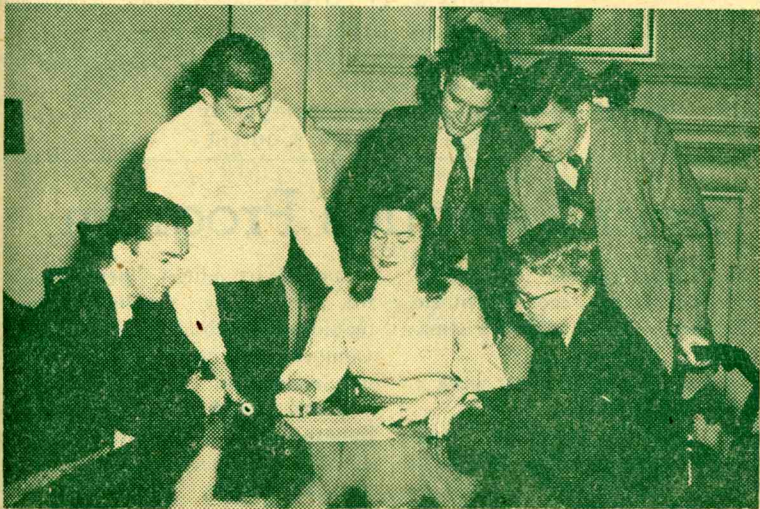

Born in Kiev, in the Ukraine, Archipenko studied and exhibited his works in Moscow, Paris at L'Ecole des Beaux Arts, Berlin, and many other European cities. After coming to the United States in 1924 he invented movable painting, known as "Archipentura."

During the years 1940-50 Archipenko held a series of 95 large individual shows in European cities and various cities in the U. S. He became an American citizen in 1924, after which he taught at Washington State University and later at the University of Kansas City. He is a 1952 delegate to the United Nations Educational, Social and Cultural Organization.

Archipenko has also founded two schools of sculpture in New York City and Woodstock, New York, which are still in operation, and established a school of creative fine arts in Chicago. During 1937-39 he was associate instructor at the New Bauhaus-School of Industrial Arts.

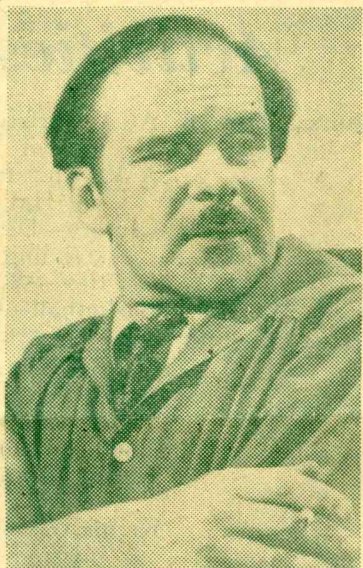

Pre-Registration

Tomorrow is the final day for pre-registration for second semester classes, according to assistant registrar Mrs. William Parsons. Students who turn in pre-registration slips later than this date will be fined $10.

Winter Carnival Outing Set For January 10

The Outing Club Winter Carnival will be held Saturday, January 10, according to club president Don Skinner. Transportation will leave Brooks at 1:30 Saturday afternoon and return at 7:30 p.m. The cost of supper is 75 cents. For those staying overnight the bus will return at 9 a.m. Sunday morning.

Anyone wishing to participate in skiing, skating, and sledding must bring his own equipment, since the Outing Club has only one toboggan.

If the weather is bad, the carnival will be held at a later date, but there still will be an overnight outing.

Rules Announced For Wakefield Oratorical Contest In January

The Wakefield Oratorical Contest will be held on Wednesday, January 14, according to Philo-Franklin president Emily Engle. The winners will receive awards of $30, $15 and $10.

The winner of the state tournament will then represent Pennsylvania colleges at the Interstate Oratorical Contest at Northwestern University in the spring.

Rules for the contest, as announced by the speech contest committee of Philo-Franklin Union, are as follows:

Topics should deal with any significant problem, emphasizing originality, freshness, and insight. Further information concerning topics may be obtained from the Speech Office in Arter Hall.

Maximum length of speeches is 2,000 words, with no more than 200 words of quoted material.

The manuscript must be submitted in final form by 4 p.m. on the Monday before the contest. It must be an original composition, type-written double-spaced, on one side of white paper, eight and one-half by eleven inches, allowing a minimum margin of one inch on all sides. Each oration must include a title page giving the title of the speech, name of orator, and date and place of contest.

Dr. Jessie Bernard

and chairman of the Publications Committee of that group. She is currently writing monographs for UNESCO on "The Sociology of Conflict". AUC Christmas Dance To Be Held In Brooks Friday From 9 To 1

The 1952 AUC all-college Christmas Formal will be held tomorrow night from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. in Brooks Hall, to the music of Russ Carlyle and his orchestra. Chairman Bobbie Mills has announced 1:30 a.m. permissions for women students. Dress for the dance is formal and corsages will be in order.

Carlyle, who has recorded for Mercury and Capitol records, sang with Blue Barron's orchestra before forming his own band. A poll taken by Billboard, the entertainment magazine, rated him the nation's fourth most popular vocalist. Gordie Black was in charge of arrangements for the band.

Three sororities, Alpha Gamma Delta, Kappa Kappa Gamma, and Theta Upsilon will hold open houses during intermission of the dance.

Chaperones will be Dr. and Mrs. Charles Miller and Mr. and Mrs. William Parsons.

Committee chairmen for the dance are: refreshments, Ann Harmony; decorations, Teddy Dodds; publicity, Jill Radcliffe.

Dorm Closing Hours

Cafisch Hall will close at 5:30 p.m. on Saturday, December 20, and will reopen at noon on Sunday, January 4. Brooks Hall will remain open until 10 p.m. December 20. It will reopen at 8:30 a.m. on January 4.

Men's dormitories will close at 10:30 p.m. December 20, and will be open again at 9 a.m., January 4.

Any student who needs accommodations after the time of dormitory closing should make arrangements through the Student Personnel Office.

Peace, Good Will On Earth

He was an elderly man; but were one to lie in bed at night and hear him pass by, the footfalls would betray a youthful heart; for under his graying hair and beneath his wispy white beard was the soul of a man used to being young. He walked as though the month were May and the occasion a date with a new found love. So it seemed when we first saw him two nights ago. He limps on a cane to-night.

When we first saw him we thought he was singing a tune, but as we neared him discovered that his singing was rather a melodious conversation with himself; he appeared exuberantly happy to be where he was, though he did not seem familiar with the surroundings. He asked us which building was Bentley Hall, and as he turned to look at it puzzled something about its back being in front, and whether his memory was failing him. He gazed on the moonlit tower for several minutes and then became attracted to the bulletin board.

"What's this?" we heard him exclaim more loudly than he had been muttering. "Reserve Officer's Training Corps?" He repeated the words slowly as if trying to comprehend their meaning. "Preparedness!" The word ground out from between rigid set jaws. "We have to prepare officers to lead other men into hot lead and burning jelly so we can live at peace with our neighbors. Peace! What peace will we get from this kind of preparation? I've seen the budget that this nation's citizens will have next year. It isn't a peacetime budget and it doesn't look as if peace is in the offing for years to come. It's an armed truce, no more, and there's no limit to the amount or destructiveness of the arms." His voice became embittered and broke with despair. He stepped back from the ROTC bulletin and looked up to the tower of Bentley.

"My God!" he cried, "Man is using institutions like this one to educate his intellect, and he has not yet learned the meaning of the word peace. If we aren't killing more than a hundred thousand a year or don't have to draft fathers, we are at peace. So long as we are fighting a weaker nation, we are not really at war. The more educated men become, the more effective the means which they find to kill their fellows.

"Ah, their vocabulary lessons leaned too heavily on the meaning of expediency and never fathomed the value and use of a favorite term of their avowed master. The Christ they worship in the nearby chapel would never have permitted himself to rationalize the lives of a few men for the sake of a more expeditious balance of power among nations. In fact, he never would have permitted the use of the word 'society' to outweigh the individual.

"It is too easy to do things in the name of society that we would not do in the name of a single man. We murder in war and award medals to the prolific killer; we hate the enemy and praise the most ferocious hater."

The melody was gone from his voice now. He was too old to remain bitter, however, and seemed to be pondering the meaning of what he had found. "Why has man missed the sense of this word love?" we heard him ask. "It must be because we have learned to think in terms of statistics, and masses, and nations, and states. The individual has passed out of our imagination. We are surprised at meeting a Russian and finding him quite as human as we.

But Russians! They are a terrible people . . . Yes, that is part of what is wrong. A man can love another man, but it is far more difficult for him to love a collective abstraction."

A mood was definitely settling over him and it seemed to put a weight upon his shoulders that stooped his previously straight figure. Wherever he came from; whatever land of innocence he escaped from to discover this, our world of today, had not provided him with the fortitude to face such a shock. He walked on, hesitating almost at each step as though turning a phrase in his mind before putting his foot against the pavement.

"This is Christmas, but men do not yet know what Christ said. We have not understood that Christ talked only to men as individuals, never to Man. He was happy to win one man, but unconcerned about the fate of a nation, except as comprised of individuals. We haven't learned that yet. We do not know any men, and we cannot know Man, so what use has love for us? That is the reason it does not move us. What we must do is learn to know and to love men. No wonder we say 'Merry Christmas' so lightly; we don't know the weight of the responsibility of the message of this Man whose birthday we celebrate. Man is indicting himself of ignorance, and the conviction against two thousand years of blindness may be too horrible to contemplate."

We had stayed too long. We should have gone our way instead of listening to this old man's ramblings. We feel as old as he looks. But wait—he is turning and waving his cane. "Merry Christmas!" he is saying—and to us, perfect strangers!

Christmas Message from Bentley

One of the nicest things about the two weeks at the college just before Christmas vacation is the way our activities bind us together. The frenzied round of parties, meetings, desperate hour tests; the Playshop productions, and the beautiful Christmas concerts—all six of them this year—these and a few dozen unscheduled activities create the impression of a college community gone slightly mad. More than this, however, they quicken the pleasures of friendly association—of community in its spiritual as well as its literal sense. It leaves us at the point of regretting your leaving for home.

We shall not press this last point, however. Our wishes for a happy vacation and a joyous Christmas go to each and every one of you.

Louis T. Benezet

Far too often the question going around among us at this time of the year is, "What are you getting for Christmas?" Would it not be more pertinent to ask, rather, "What are you getting from Christmas?"

There has been a suggestion of this by an artist in portraying the Christmas story. He painted the shepherds on the hillside looking upward from whence they hear the heavenly choir singing, "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth, peace, good will toward men." And at the shepherds' feet is one of their dogs; alert, poised, expectant. But he is not looking in the same direction as his masters; his head is turned in the other direction. The dog is aware of something unusual happening, but he does not know what it is. He is missing the message heard by the shepherds, his masters.

It is obvious that the artist is here true to the gospel record, for there are such differences of observation among the witnesses of the Bethlehem event.

There are such rich, varying degrees of meaning and thrill derived from that one day. There is breathless expectancy, radiant happiness, beauty of expression, the blending of tenderness and power, the goodness in man which the Bethlehem story brings out and the goodness of God which it reveals. There is something here for each of us to answer for ourselves, mainly, the question, "What are you getting from Christmas?"

Pins 'n Sins

Right about now we know you're all dying to see that jolly old white-bearded fellow with the pot belly and the round red face. Well, we'll be out to George's too. Might see you "in the little white shack that's built way back about 25 feet from the beaten track."

A round of applause for Bud Schorr and company for putting down their binoculars long enough to emerge from the "Club 500" to attend the Delt Formal. Quite a party, according to our informers.

The Phi Delt Brothers put down their paint cans long enough to attend their formal and Ginch dinner. The I.D. bracelets made a big hit with the girls, we might add.

The Chi Rho's Christmas party was highlighted by a rather profitable visit from "Sandy" Claus. The gals made off with the loot, as usual.

Congrats are also in line for the Alpha Xis and Phi Psis on their respective holiday celebrations, along with the Sigs, who had their shindig last Friday night.

Also, belated recognition to the Thetas on their pledge picnic—we overlooked them in the October 12 issue.

Happy days are here again! Blinded by rocks that make the Hope Diamond look void, we extend best wishes to Mary Lindbeck and Lester Bergland; Daphne Wolf and Bob Falk ('51); Joanne Holiday and Harry Stewart.

Nancy Tatem has asked us to announce that she is having an all-college open house in Mt. Lebanon on December 31.

Also, the Grill will be open on New Year's Eve for all those in the Meadville area. Martha and the dancing girls are slated to provide the entertainment.

Well, we'll be seeing you after a short trip to Denmark—Dr. Hoke, call surgery.

Faculty Profile

Mr. Robert H. Davis

Mr. Robert H. Davis, one of the professors of psychology this year, is a difficult personality to sketch briefly.

He comes from East Grand Rapids, Michigan; he is married and has a four-year-old daughter. He attended Albion College and Michigan State, but his education was interrupted by induction into the army. After serving for about four years, he returned to Michigan State where he had previously been majoring in engineering. He became interested in psychology with relation to the physical sciences, however, and decided to change courses.

After graduation he taught for a while at Michigan State and later worked as a psychologist in a school for delinquent boys for a year. As a hobby he constructs electrical and experimental equipment for his classes. "There's no use trying to explain the nature of this equipment", he said, "since no one except perhaps Dr. Brown or Mr. Michener would understand it anyway."

The Gift Of The Magpies

by C. F. E.

On December 24, shortly after sending her husband Robert Magpie off to work, Miriam sat in the bedroom combing her hair. "This shaggy mop is beginning to give me a pain in the neck," she muttered. "I'm sick and tired of combing it and setting it, combing it and setting it. What I want is a nice short poodle-cut! No fuss, no bother—just run your fingers through it when ing her hair long—which is the way I like it because most of the time it's covering her ugly face!"

Shortly before midnight that night, Robert, having stopped off at the local tavern on his way home from work, tip-toed into the living room. His wife was waiting for him by the light of the Christmas tree.

"Where the deuce have you been?" she screamed. "Here's your Christmas present." She flipped a small package at him casually.

"Here's yours," he answered tossing the combs in the direction of the voice.

They opened their respective gifts without bothering to turn on the floor lamp. Slowly the room filled with bitter laughter.

"Merry Christmas," said Miriam, acidly.

"Yeah. You too," he answered.

Hilltoppers Take Oberlin And Alliance Face Gannon And Geneva This Week

The Golden Gators continued their winning ways last week, trouncing Oberlin 77-71, and Alliance 93-71. The latter score set a new school record for the most points made by a Hilltopper team, eclipsing a mark of 89 points set by the 1945 cage squad. They also made the Jimmy Moore Fund $200 richer, as proceeds of admission fees paid by crowd of 500 spectators was turned over to the local Christmas toy fund.

Bud McIndoe kept up his torrid pace by racking up 46 points last week in the two games, giving him a 26 point average for the young season. Dom Mattei played a great game Friday night, caging 18 points and sparkling defensively. Coach Garbark cleared the bench in the last period of the Alliance game in an effort to hold down the score. Except for a second period lapse, the team functioned very well, and the basketball situation this year looks more promising than it has in several seasons.

The Gators tackle Gannon at Erie tonight and Geneva at Beaver Falls, Saturday, to round out the scheduled games before vacation. Both teams will present a real challenge to the rampaging Hilltoppers. The Golden Knights from Gannon beat the Gators last year, 69-62, and have substantially the same team returning this year. They have lost several games this season, but to very high class competition, and they will be a real stumbling block in the Gators' path.

The game with Geneva Saturday night is an extension of one of the oldest rivalries in Hilltopper basketball. The first game was played in 1899 with Allegheny winning 24-21. The Gators hold the edge in games won, 42-30, but have beat the Covenanters only once since 1932. Geneva also plays in good company, and will be no easy game.

The Gators have demonstrated their ability to win on a large court as well as in Montgomery Gym. This is a prime requisite for a winning season in a schedule containing so many games away from home with schools having larger playing surfaces than our own. The Hilltoppers have held control of the backboards pretty well, and there have been four players over the 15 point mark in every game so far.

If the boys can get by the two games this week in good shape, they should be on their way to a really great season. Let's hope so.

Gator Swimmers Open Season With Victory; Idle Till January 10

The Allegheny College swimmers won their first meet of the season 40-35 against Grove City, Thursday, December 11, in Montgomery pool. In spite of the proximity of the totals, Allegheny had a comfortable lead throughout the contest.

Allegheny's leading point-getter was freshman Carter White, who won the 220-yard and 440-yard free-style races. John Muir, recently elected captain for this season, took the 120-yard individual medley and placed second in the 200-yard backstroke. Dave Bailey captured the 200-yard backstroke and shared with Britt Poulson and Don Sayer in the only other Allegheny first of the meet, the 300-yard medley relay.

Britt Poulson also took second places in the individual medley and the 200-yard breast stroke, while John Ertle swam to third places in the breast stroke and the 60-yard freestyle. Don Sayer captured a second in the 100-yard freestyle and Frank Brand a third in the 200-yard freestyle to complete the Allegheny scoring. Muir established the only new record of the day when he lowered his own varsity record in the 120-yard individual medley from 1:23.7 to 1:22.4.

Tech Next Foe

The next meet for the finmen will be one of the toughest of the season against current Penn-Ohio District champions, Carnegie Tech on January 10. In the Tech pool last year the Tartans were able to come through with a 49-35 victory in a meet not decided until the final free-style relay. Carnegie Tech is considered one of the strongest teams in the District this year, but this will be slightly offset by the fact that this year's meet will be a home meet for Allegheny.

Intramurals

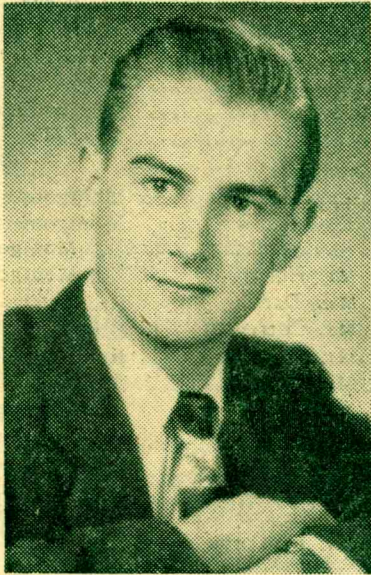

The week immediately following Christmas vacation will see the beginning of both the intramural handball and the basketball seasons. A list of all those competing in the handball tournament must be turned in to the Athletic Office by tomorrow. A total of six men are eligible to represent each group.

Senior Bill Courtney hails from Somerset, Pa., where he played two years of Jayvee ball, and two years of varsity. He made the District and County All-star teams, set an individual scoring mark of 27 points in his senior year, and lettered in track for three seasons.

At Allegheny, he has played forward for three years, lettering twice. Although he hasn't started this year, he is one of the very valuable men in a replacement capacity.

by Jack Hill

Now that both the basketball and swimming seasons have gotten under way on the Allegheny campus, followers of the two Gator teams find themselves in a very unusual position. Neither team has a blemish on its record, with three victories for the floormen and one for the swimmers. This is a pleasantly novel situation for any Allegheny varsity squad.

How long these two undefeated teams will stay that way is a question mark. The swimmers can enjoy a good vacation as their next meet is not until January 10. Coach Bob Garbark's floormen, on the other hand, have two difficult tests before they break up for the holidays. One is tonight at Gannon and the other at Geneva Saturday. It would be great to make it five in a row.

Witnesses of the Alliance game were treated to three surprises. The first is the speed of the team as compared with the last several years. Garbark has the horses and has developed them into a fast running outfit. The other two surprises are Bob Buck and Dom Mattei. Buck has improved 100% in his ball handling and Mattei seems to have found the hoop and net after knocking the bank boards over for two years. These are three big reasons why they have won three in a row and why we're hoping to win a good many more.

LUCKIES TASTE BETTER!

They're made better to taste cleaner, fresher, smoother!

Ask yourself this question: Why do I smoke?

You know, yourself, you smoke for enjoyment. And you get enjoyment only from the taste of a cigarette.

Luckies taste better—cleaner, fresher, smoother! Why? Because Luckies are made better to taste better. And, what's more, Luckies are made of fine tobacco. L.S./M.F.T.—Lucky Strike Means Fine Tobacco.

So, for the thing you want most in a cigarette... for better taste—cleaner, fresher, smoother taste... Be Happy—Go Lucky!

FOR A CLEANER, FRESHER, SMOOTHER TASTE...

Be Happy—GO LUCKY!

COLLEGE STUDENTS PREFER LUCKIES IN NATION-WIDE SURVEY!

Nation-wide survey based on actual student interviews in 80 leading colleges reveals more smokers prefer Luckies than any other cigarette by a wide margin. No. 1 reason—Luckies' better taste. Survey also shows Lucky Strike gained far more smokers in these colleges than the nation's two other principal brands combined.

While searching for a smoother smoke, I found a tasty treasure — It was a firmer Lucky Strike With deep-down smoking pleasure!
