Miss Ida M. Tarbell,
120 East 19th Street,
New York, New York.

Dear Miss Tarbell:

I am awfully sorry, but I have not yet been able to locate the early engraving of Mary Lincoln (for it was an engraving from which the print was made). I have loaned it several times for reproduction and was of the impression that it was returned to me, but I have looked in the place where it should have been and every where that I could think of, but have not found it. I hope it will turn up some day and I will be glad to have a copy made for you.

It happens that I have an extra copy of the limited edition of Sandburg's Mary Lincoln. It reproduces the portrait and I will be glad to give this volume to you, if you would care to have it.

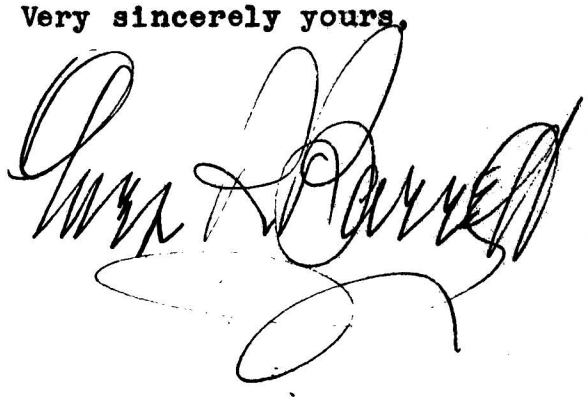

Governor Horner is having a very exciting campaign. He has an up-hill fight, but he is showing fine spirit.

I presume you have noticed the early chapters of Carl's latest Lincoln work in the Red Book. It must be very pleasing to you who must realize how much of the good work that has been done later has been due to the impetus of your early researches.

Very sincerely yours,
