

ALLEGHENY DEFEATED AFTER STUBBORN FIGHT

Two Field Goals Responsible for the Score. Buchtel Only Able to Make Two First Downs.

In one of the hardest and most fiercely contested games of the year Allegheny closed the football season on Thanksgiving day by losing to the strong Buchtel team at Akron by the score of 6-0. This result does not represent in the least the relative strength of the two teams as both of the field goals made by Buchtel came as the direct results of "football luck." The game was played on a field which, aside from being covered with snow, was frozen hard and rough rendering it almost impossible to play an open game. During the latter part of the game both teams resorted almost entirely to the kicking game and the outcome was altogether a question as to which team would be the more fortunate in recovering punts. It was practically impossible to judge the ball as a high wind was blowing all the time and most of the kicks bounded along the rough ground giving the men playing back very little opportunity to run the ball back for any gain. Nevertheless, the manner in which Hawk, Thomas and Townsend handled the kicks which came any where near them was remarkable, and their running back of punts, under the conditions, was one of the features of the game.

During the first half Allegheny played one of the best games that they have played this year and as a result swept the Buchtel aggregation off their feet during this time. Playing nothing but straight football, intermingled with several successful forward passes and one or two trick plays, Allegheny advanced the ball time after time to the ten yard line but there each time, owing to the slippery conditions of the field which prevented quick starts, the ball was lost on downs. Throughout this half Buchtel was on the defensive, being forced to kick every time after one down. In fact they were not able to make a first down in this half and only succeeded in annexing two first downs in the entire game. Through the line they could not gain an inch and the ends were almost as impregnable. Jackson was practically the only man on the team who could make any impression on Allegheny's defense and the impression he made was not marked. He and Criss were the towers of strength for Buchtel, on defense they being in almost every play that was stopped.

At no time throughout the game was Allegheny's line in danger. Both of Buchtel's scores came after they had been held for two downs and to say that they were lucky goals is only putting it mildly. The first goal came after Buchtel had received the ball on her own ten yard line after Allegheny had failed to advance the ball the necessary ten yards. Jackson kicked and after much diving and rolling a Buchtel man managed to get it. On the next play they kicked again and once more the ball bounded into a Buchtel man's hands. A short forward pass placed the ball on the twenty yard line and even from there the kick cleared the bar with only a couple of inches to spare. This one was made at the close of the second quarter. In the third quarter almost the same thing occurred again. Buchtel punted from the middle of the field and the ball rolled to Allegheny's five yard line. Hawk slipped on the kick and the ball went out of bounds on the twenty yard line. A short forward pass and a trick play placed the ball again on the eleven yard line and once more Veittle dropped it over. This ended the scoring and the remainder of the game was given over to kicking almost entirely. Buchtel considered themselves lucky to get away with the two scores they had made and were satisfied to play a safe game during the remaining time.

Allegheny gave Buchtel several bad scares during the course of the game by putting the ball in dangerous territory. Once in attempting a place kick, Miller allowed for the high wind that was blowing but the ball was booted in such a way that it missed the force of the wind and sailed near the cross bar. C. Dotterer at another stage of the game broke through the Ohioans' defense and succeeded in blocking a punt. The ball struck him in the eye and rolled over the goal line but the force of the ball had blinded him for the moment and a chance for a touch-down was lost.

Although the entire team may be said to have played a star game, nevertheless the work of Abbott on offense and of Hawk and Townsend in running back punts deserves especial mention. This was Abbott's last game for Allegheny after four long years of more than creditable work, during which time he has been in every contest and the game which he played on Thursday was a fitting close to such a record. He was unquestionably the most consistent ground gainer for Allegheny and at times made as much as fifteen yards through the line. In running back punts Hawk, Thomas and Townsend did remarkable work carrying the ball at least fifteen yards after each punt which they were able to get near. On defense Erb, C. Dotterer and Townsend also played great games stopping several plays before they were even started. In fact, the whole team deserves the greatest amount of credit for an excellent exhibition of fight and grit in the face of great odds.

Following is the lineup and summary:

Thanksgiving Party.

Hulings Hall Girls Entertained At Neat Event on Thursday Evening.

Miss Spalding and the young ladies of Hulings Hall were "at home" to the faculty and men of the college on Thursday evening at their annual Thanksgiving party in the dormitory. The first and second floors and gymnasium were thrown open for the entertainment of the large number of guests that had been invited.

A receiving line of ten young ladies, with Miss Spalding at the head, welcomed the guests as they entered. After this each was given a program to be filled out, which consisted of a series of conversations to be carried on by the two persons. Various forms of amusement were to be found in the different rooms while in the gymnasium an orchestra played throughout the evening. The halls and corridors were trimmed with spruce and evergreen while the gymnasium was arranged like a small park with trees and benches scattered about the room and with Japanese lanterns hanging from the pine at different points. During the evening light refreshments were served in the dining room. At eleven o'clock, the newly organized girl's glee club gathered on the stairs and sang the Allegheny songs.

Manager's Talk

Perhaps you remember the old rhyme:

"Christmas time is coming, The goose is getting fat; Please put a silver dollar In the Campus Manager's hat."

Of course, he will not object to your paying one dollar and a half for the paper after Christmas, but then for your sake he would like to have the payment for your subscription now.

BASKET BALL NEXT ON THE CALENDAR

Varsity Practice Will Probably Begin on Thursday.

Since the final blowing of the referee's whistle at Akron, closing the Allegheny football season, attention has shifted to basketball as the next sport on the college schedule. During the remainder of the semester and until March 1 the team will take charge of the gymnasium in preparation for the long hard schedule that is being prepared by the manager.

Coach Stewart has issued a call for all candidates for the varsity basketball five to make their appearance at the gymnasium next Thursday. This will give the men who play on both the football and basketball teams sufficient time to rest before beginning the hard training required by the floor game.

The prospects for another winning team this year are bright. All the old players of last year, with the exception of Firestone, are in school again this year and may be counted on to strengthen the five. Of the regular varsity, Hawk, Croasmun, Lindberg, Thomas, C. Dotterer, Nichols and Mates will all be in the best of shape. The loss of Firestone will necessitate a new man for the "shooting guard" position but it is probable that Coach Stewart will have no trouble in finding a man from the large number on last year's squad and the new material that appears each year. The centennial class is reported to have an unusually large share of former high school and academy stars so that little doubt need be held for a winning team.

It seems quite probable that the first game will be a contest between the varsity and a picked team from the alumni. Following this the manager is arranging for contests with the leading teams in this part of the country. Several schools in the league will probably be played in addition to a number of the eastern Ohio colleges. An effort will be made to book several of the larger universities here on the local floor. Rochester, Syracuse, Ohio State and Ohio Wesleyan are all noted for their basketball teams and it is with this type of fives that the majority of the games will be played, if possible. Mount Union, Hiram and Carnegie Tech will probably be met early in the season.

President Taft and other prominent men declare that R. T. Crane's report of the excessive drinking among college students is greatly over-drawn and in many instances far from the truth.

SPECIAL EVANGELISTIC SERVICES NEXT WEEK

To be Held Under the Direction of the Y. M. C. A. Rev. R. E. Brown, and Rev. H. L. Smith, Leaders.

All arrangements have been completed by the cabinet of the Y. M. C. A. for the special evangelistic services which are to be conducted by the Rev. Robert E. Brown, '01, of Franklin, and the Rev. H. L. Smith, '04, of DuToit, N. Y., under the direction of that association. Every effort is being made by those in charge to make the meetings even more successful if possible than those of last year. The cooperation of all student organizations and activities has been secured so that nothing will conflict with the men attending every meeting. The faculty and the President have signified their wishes for their success and the men of the college are expected to do their part.

The wonderful success and sincerity displayed after the series last year was a safe indication to those in charge of the arrangements that the two leaders of last year were the logical persons to conduct this year's meetings. Both Rev. Mr. Brown and Rev. Mr. Smith made themselves felt in the college community while they were here last year simply by their personalities. Requests were made at that time that if such a series were conducted this year they be in charge of the same men. Since that time, Rev. Brown's visits here have served to cement him closer to the men of the college.

The meetings will be held every night beginning Monday at 6:45 and will continue until Saturday night. Each service will be an hour in length so that no one need neglect his work or make any excuses for non-attendance. The leaders will probably be present at chapel during the week and conduct the services there.

The Rev. Brown has written the following letter regarding the meetings and his wishes:

"It is a pleasure to me to write a word concerning our coming to the old college for the week of Dec. 4-9. The experience that came to me one year ago can never be forgotten. I shall come this year with far greater expectations and I sincerely hope a more confident faith. Every year only deepens the conviction within me that Christ, and He alone, is able to solve every human problem. The sad folly of attempting life anywhere without Him as Master and Friend is illustrated so continuously by men and women all about me, that I feel an increasing eagerness to make Him real to my fellows. So, you see, we shall give this year the same old message we gave when with you before, only presenting a little greater earnestness because we feel more deeply its superlative worth. We hope not to thrust ourselves, nor our Master upon anybody. May we not also hope a greater earnestness on the part of the men and women of the college in meeting Christ's claim upon the life than we found during our former visit.

"We shall give ourselves to you without reserve, and especially do we desire to meet personally all who are troubled with religious doubt or difficulty. We ask for frankness. Let us take the greatest of all questions out of the inner closets of the mind and face it in the clear light of sincere and reverent thought.

"Let all understand that we desire the work to be as direct and personal as possible. We shall not preach at anyone, but hope to talk straight out of the things in our hearts.

"With hearty greetings to old friends and a glad readiness to meet and welcome the new, I am, Yours sincerely, Robert E. Brown."

Civic Club Plans

Committee Working on Constitution to Govern Latest Addition to Club Circles.

A notable event in the Department of History and Economics has been the planning for the establishment at Allegheny, of a chapter of the International Civic League of the United States. The local chapter is being organized by Professor G. G. Benjamin and a student committee and it is mainly through the efforts of these that it is hoped to gain the recognition of the National Association. A charter will be received as soon as a constitution has been adopted. A committee made up of the following men is at present working upon this: Stanley Smith, '12, R. W. Thomas, '12, A. C. Nodine, '12, H. J. Gordon, '12, and L. C. Peterson, '13.

The International Civic League of the United States is composed of some forty branches at the leading universities and colleges of the country. There are at present five chapters of the organization in Pennsylvania all of which are at the leading schools of the state. A convention at which each branch has two delegates is held yearly and the advisory board of the League is made up of the leading economists of the day. The purpose of the League is for the encouragement of clean government, and for the discussion and study of prominent economic and political questions of the day. It is expected that the local organization will secure during the college year some of the specialists along this line of work to address the student body on various civic questions.

Dr. Tipple Coming

Will Deliver the Third College Sermon on December 10.

Rev. Ezra Squier Tipple, of Madison, N. J., one of the foremost ministers of the Methodist Episcopal church, has been secured by President Crawford to preach the second of the series of college sermons on Sunday, December 10. The Thornburn Club is also planning to have him address their club during his visit here.

Since his graduation from Syracuse in 1884, Dr. Tipple has been connected with the prominent departments of the church. He received his Bachelor's degree in 1884 and two years later the Master's degree. The following year he took a Ph.D. from the same school and soon after a D.D. and in 1887 entered the Methodist ministry, taking charge of St. Luke's church. In 1893 he became the pastor of Grace Church of New York and later of St. James' church. From 1901-1904 he was a member of the Thank Offering Committee and after that he again became pastor of Grace Church. In 1905, he left the active ministry to become professor of practical theology at Drew Theological School. He is a trustee of Syracuse University and a member of the board of managers of the missionary society of the church. Dr. Tipple is author of a number of books including several collections of Drew Sermons.

The college and town have recognized the privilege that is being given them in the opportunity to hear so many famous ministers. The gift of Mrs. Cochran has made it possible to bring men of note from some distance away and it is hoped that the series will become a permanent Allegheny event.

Owing to the absence of the editor, this issue is in charge of Charles S. Miller, assistant editor.

The coming week, which will be largely devoted to the special evangelistic meetings of the Y. M. C. A., will be one of the Special most important periods of Meetings the entire college year. At this time the men of the college will listen to the words of two earnest, capable leaders who have an excellent knowledge of all the various problems which confront every college man. The representatives of all the religious organizations are making special preparations for this week and are especially anxious that everyone will do all in his power to make the meetings a success.

The strong plea of both these men to be regarded as ordinary men should be remembered. It was owing to this man to man relationship that so much good was effected last year. These leaders wish it to be understood that they are coming to talk to the students, not to preach at them. Their prime desire is not to radically change the lives of some, but to arouse many from that condition of religious inactivity which is too often characteristic of college men.

With the defeat by Buchtel on Thursday the football season for 1911 becomes a part of Allegheny history. And the pleasing Football part of the fact is that the Season season was one that we could well afford to be proud of, both in regard to the number of games won and the spirit and determination shown by the team under the most trying circumstances. Four games won, four lost and one tied is the record as shown by the scores. The victories were all the kind that are worth boasting of while the defeats were far from the disgraceful sort. Cornell and Mt. Union won decisive victories, although the cause of the Grove City defeat might be charged directly to a straining of the eligibility rules governing the league. Buchtel also found their strongest opponent in the gold and blue eleven. The victories—Kenyon, Tech, Geneva and West Virginia and the scoreless Hiram game—clearly showed the real worth of the Allegheny eleven. And best of all—the championship of the Western Pennsylvania Inter-collegiate Athletic League for the second successive year.

Too much credit cannot be given to every member of the team and particularly to Coach Stewart for the result of the season. It is worth while considering the fact that only one Freshman played regularly on the varsity while four star players of last year either failed to return to school or were unable to participate in the game for various reasons. This made the development and selection of men to fill those places from the second team imperative. More men were injured this year, too, than in any one season for some time and this also required the use of more men at the different positions. For the team which made Allegheny's greatest showing this year it seems, therefore, that the student body owes Coach Stewart their thanks for developing a team that knew how to play scientific football and was able to play teams heavier than their own to a standstill.

Too little credit has been given for the work that members of either the varsity or scrubs are required to give in order to guarantee anything like a successful eleven. We do not like to say that the students are not interested or that they lack the college spirit necessary to give a team the proper encouragement but it is a singular fact that the team was met on their return by an enthusiastic crowd twice out of seven times. If the team was to take this one thing as an indication of our loyalty they would certainly consider us all rather self centered. It is too late to remedy our defects for this year but it might not be a bad thing to begin plans for next season soon. It has been suggested that some means be taken to insure a sufficient number of the students to meet the teams either by compulsion or by the introduction of a new tradition for the class of 1916. The Freshmen might not find it a cumbersome duty to be compelled to meet every team on their return. Of course, it is far better to rely on their individual spirit but when that is the "minus quality" rules are needed to take the vacant place.

The innovation introduced by some prominent students of the college in the plan of the "get-together" for the men of the school drew from both faculty and student body plenty of favorable comment on the good that might originate with such a gathering. The plan was then stated to have them "every so often," but as yet three weeks have elapsed before any news has been heard that another gathering was even considered. While it would be unwise to run the plan in the ground by meeting too often yet the spirit that is aroused at such a time is worth preserving by getting together a little "oftener" and not restricting the meeting to just before an athletic contest.

Last year at the suggestion of the coach and several persons interested in basketball an interclass class league was formed and a schedule prepared for a series of games to determine the championship of the four classes. The success of this was fully shown by the large crowds that attended and by the class spirit that was displayed even among the upper classes. The fact that the games did not begin until after the varsity season was about half over, however, decreased the value and it was planned to start the interclass games this year with the beginning of the varsity season. The call for varsity candidates will be issued within the next few days and in the meantime the classes would do well by meeting and electing their managers so that the schedule can be arranged at once. The chief value in the interclass series lies in the fact that every man is given a better opportunity to compete for a place on the varsity five. It is not an uncommon thing to have twenty men report for practice each night and it is practically impossible for each man to have thus an individual tryout, an opportunity which is given in the extra four teams.

The Adventurer

The good old man with whom the Adventurer was talking had said many valuable as well as interesting things, but it was when he drifted to the question of the present moral condition of students that the Adventurer became especially interested; for on this matter he had spent some thought himself. The old man was distinguished by his firm moral fibre and in his declining years was, if at all different, more rigid than ever in his criterion of morality.

"Yes," he was saying, "conditions in the colleges today are much different than they were when I was a student. Of course I can not speak with absolute certainty of the condition in my time or of the condition now, for then I knew little other than what went on in my own school and now I can judge only from what I hear from my daughter's children and their chums. In my time we had a strict regard for honesty and cleanliness. It was a frequent occurrence, not only in our school but in many colleges and universities, to hear of men being almost literally kicked out of school for having cheated in examinations, or having committed some such petty offense. But today I hear little talk of such things. That may be due of course to the fact that there is less cheating now. But however that may be, it is not only against such acts of dishonesty as this that I would caution you, but against those sneaking little tricks such as opening your book in the class room when the professor cannot see you. That was a common practice in my day and I have no doubt it is now. But oh, how I did despise a fellow who would do a thing like that! There were lots of them, and consequently I despised many. There are probably many of your companions who do such things as this and think nothing of it, but my son, I tell you I would rather see you commit an apparently much larger act of dishonesty than such a small, sneaking thing as that. When I was a boy I used to get in lots of scrapes and there was no one who was more willing to go out for a lark than I. But when the owning-up part came in, I was again in the front rank. So, my son, let me tell you that the best plan is to do the thing that is right. Don't play the rotten game. Don't lie to your professor for the sake of making a little better mark than you would otherwise get. Don't cheat or do any mean act which you think is going to get a better grade for you; for while you think you win, in the end, my boy, you're sure to lose."

Then the old man put his cane in the other hand and slowly passed on.

GLEE CLUB WORKING.

During the past few weeks the manager of the Glee Club has been corresponding with the various musical organizations in the neighboring towns in order to make arrangements for concerts. One concert, for December 15, at Utica, Pa., has been definitely decided upon, although many other towns have signified their desire to arrange for an engagement. As the Christmas vacation will not begin until December 22, it will probably be impossible to make a trip at this time. In addition to the concert, which will be under the auspices of the Queen Esther Circle of the Stone church in the near future, there will be trips through the Pittsburgh, Erie and western Ohio districts.

Now that the personnel of the clubs has been definitely decided upon, an attempt is being made to get the members in the best possible shape before the first concert. Although the various programs have not been finally selected, it has been announced that the second part of the entertainment will be entirely devoted to the depicting of college life. While this is somewhat of an innovation, the applause which greeted a similar feature of last year's program, makes it evident that such a change will be very satisfactory to the average audience. Another new feature will be the addition of a male quartet for use in various selections. This, with the soloists, will add plenty of variety to the program.

Nine cadets were recently sentenced to expulsion from West Point for carrying on liquor smuggling.

The first rehearsal of the girl's glee club was held Wednesday afternoon, under the direction of Miss Rosalie Bork.

The Theta Sigma Sorority entertained a number of the Freshmen girls at a progressive dinner on last Tuesday evening.

On account of the sunrise prayer meeting Thanksgiving morning, the regular Wednesday evening Y. W. C. A. prayer meeting was not held.

Miss Lida Geiss, '12, was leader of the Y. W. C. A. meeting last Sunday, which was in the form of a song service. Miss Bess Emery, '11, sang a solo.

The last issue of the Romanic Review contains an interesting article by Dr. G. E. Snively on "Jehan de Vegnay and His Influence on Early English Literature." This is the article which was read before the convention of the Modern Language Association in New York last year.

It was a severe disappointment to all the football "scrubs" when it was first announced that the Thanksgiving Day game with the Warren High School eleven had been cancelled. The second team has been doing good work during the past few weeks and was quite certain that they could add a victory to Allegheny's list of achievements.

The caps for the Freshman girls have arrived and are now adorning the heads of the feminine part of this class. They are aviation caps on one side and the class numerals on the front. For warmth and comfort, they are a decided improvement over the "postage stamps" worn by the Freshman men.

The "sunrise" prayer meeting, which was held in the Oratory of the Chapel on last Thursday morning, was well attended by the members of the two Christian Associations. Although Mr. H. S. Leitzel, the president of the Y. M. C. A. acted as leader, the meeting was entirely informal and most of the hour was taken up by short individual testimonies. The entire meeting was pervaded with a spirit of thanksgiving for the many blessings which the students at Allegheny enjoy.

A number of the Y. W. C. A. girls accompanied by some of the members of the Y. M. C. A. carried Thanksgiving cheer to those who live at the poor farm last Thursday morning. The girls carried carnations to serve as a Thanksgiving gift, and joined in singing a number of songs. Flowers and candy were also sent to the Children's Home by the girls.

At the regular meeting of the Forum, which was held on November 24, the discussion of the varsity question was continued. Several new arguments were presented by the speakers, who were Koehler and Flick for the affirmative and Depp and Taylor for the negative. The decision of the Forum was in favor of the negative. There was also some discussion as to the advisability of changing the question for debate, but it was finally decided to retain the varsity proposition.

The arrangements for the Y. W. C. A. bazaar which is to be held on the 16th of this month, are progressing nicely under the direction of the different committees. On account of great enthusiasm shown by the girls, and of the help from friends, the bazaar promises to be equal in success to the one of last year. No one will make a mistake in leaving his or her Christmas shopping undone until they will have a chance to see the display at the bazaar.

A memorial to Miss Una Duffy, '11, who died last summer, has been placed in the parlors of Hulings Hall this week. It is a self-irrigating flower basket of wicker, which has been set at one of the windows. This basket is to be kept filled with primroses perpetually, through the kindness of Mr. Bagley, of Corry. The basket itself is a gift of the girls of the Y. W. C. A., of Kappa Alpha Theta, Kappa Kappa Gamma, Alpha Chi Omega, Theta Sigma and Teutonia. The girls wished to show in this small way their love and esteem of one who had been their true friend.

Last Saturday evening the local chapter of Phi Delta Theta entertained a number of friends at a formal dinner and reception. Sixty-six people were seated at one long table which was in the shape of an L. The party was chaperoned by Dr. and Mrs. Elliott and Professor and Mrs. Ross. The out-of-town guests were: Miss Beulah Lashley, of Warren, O; Miss Hoot of Mars, Pa.; Miss Ina Maxwell, of Oil City; Miss Bess Emery, '11, of Mercer; Miss Emma Gillette, '10, of Union City, and Miss Yodwiga Tellish, of Philadelphia.

The subject for discussion at the last meeting of the Classical Club, which was held on last Tuesday evening, was "Roman Education." Miss Berdeen Braymer spoke in an interesting and instructive manner concerning the early education of the Roman child up until the age of seventeen. W. B. Sheffer took up the discussion at this point and told of the later education, which corresponds to the modern college instruction, although it was by no means as complete as the present college work. As the subject of a former meeting was "Greek Education" there was an excellent opportunity for a discussion of the advantages of the educational systems of these two nations.

A meeting of the Le Petit Salon was held Monday afternoon in the parlors of Hulings Hall. Mademoiselles Florence Griswold, '13, and Dorothy Sansom, '13, acted as hostesses. A report was given that the proceeds of the Kellerman concert amounted to over eighty dollars. This sum of money will be used in buying standard texts for the use of the French department; and the books will be placed in the library. It was also voted to limit the membership of the club to thirty. The game of consequences was played in French, the resulting stories being read to the company by Dr. Snively, after which Miss Josette Beebe, '08, rendered a French song. Light refreshments were served.

For the first time in the history of any school, University of Michigan has compulsory football practice for Freshmen.

Allegheny can beat West Virginia at football, but you can't beat VEITH'S prices on overcoats.

The following interesting letter has been received from Paul M. Hillman, editor of The Campus last year:

"Had I been able, I would have attended the Harvard-Yale game last Saturday at Cambridge. Failing to get tickets, I consoled myself with the thought of J. P. Morgan's application, which, in spite of the fact that the great banker has given Harvard Medical School nearly two million dollars, was unceremoniously tossed into the waste basket. The next best inter-collegiate event of the day seemed to be the big cross country run on Saturday morning.

Although overshadowed by the afternoon contest at the Stadium, the run was in many ways an event of great importance. Especially was this true in respect to the championship honors involved, as both the crimson and blue had been eliminated as possibilities for first place in the football world. Eleven colleges were entered in the cross country run, although Michigan and the College of the City of New York withdrew shortly before the meet. The greatest attraction of the meet was John Paul Jones, the holder of the amateur mile record, intercollegiate half mile champion 1911 and cross country runner in 1910. His fellow team mate, Captain Berna, who had won the individual championship for Cornell in 1909, was also singled out for no little attention.

A more picturesque setting for the contest would be hard to find. The club house, a low rambling colonial mansion, crowns a gently sloping knoll and looks down on the most homelike scenery I have seen in Massachusetts. But little stretch of the imagination was required on my part to transport me to the neighborhood of Meadville.

The excitement I felt at the finish of the contest was nothing, however, to that which has thrilled me when watching a very minor contest when the gold and blue was represented. Still my blood fairly jumped in my veins as a rousing, "Cornell, I yell, I yell, I yell," swept over the crowd to greet the leaders. Harvard men who had been cherishing the vain hope that the foremost were members of their team were chagrined to see on the wearers two big "C's" racing toward the line with not another man in sight. Almost smiling and hardly panting, Jones finished first. Close behind him, Berna sprinted in a vain endeavor to wrest the coveted place from his fellow Cornellian.

With best wishes for success in all Allegheny's athletic contests of the year.

Sincerely yours,

Paul M. Hillman.

GLOVES That SET THE PACE
FOR THE COLLEGE FELLOW AND COLLEGE GIRL
AT ELDRED'S

True economy in glove-buying begins and ends with getting GOOD gloves. The style and fit of FOWNES GLOVES need not be emphasized. But that quality of material and workmanship which makes the Fownes glove preeminent in appearance, makes it the most durable and economical as well.

The world is our leather market; one hundred and thirty years of experience is our guide; the result is quality — and again quality.

Glacé, Suede, Silk
Men — women — children
If it's a Fownes that's all you need to know about a glove.

ELDRED'S, 253 Chestnut Street

fully that all her readers will not soon forget the traits of character shown by the words and actions of the hero and heroine.

Football is also the theme of a short story by R. W. Thomas, "A Stranger from 'Lazy K'." It may be rather a surprise to learn that even a cowboy can enjoy a college game, but every reader will feel the spirit of victory and intense joy when the "stranger" draws, "Lazy K's ahead again, sonny."

One of the best articles in this issue is an arrangement of an old Spanish story, "La Bruja." In this article the author, Donald C. Thompson, tells of a trip along the much dreaded Aunt Casca's Path in the mountainous part of Spain. During the journey the story of the old Spanish witch is so vividly related by the shepherd guide that the reader can almost see the deadly fall and hear the frantic cries and blasphemies of the aged sorceress.

"Polly's First Spread," by Miss Ruth Dorworth, is written in a humorous style. Judging from the free and lifelike manner in which the story is written, it would appear that this form of amusement is not limited to the Misses Boyer's "Select School for Young Ladies."

The editorials in the November "Lit" are also deserving of some comment. They all deal with subjects which should be of especial vital interest and present in a convincing style several good suggestions concerning various college activities. The other departments have all been handled in an excellent fashion. The department of "Organizations" is largely devoted to a discussion of the standing of the two dramatic clubs and the Alumni department to a recent poem by Miss Grace Henderson, '92.

London Preacher Here

Dr. Reginald J. Campbell Addresses Students While in City.

Dr. Reginald J. Campbell, of the City Temple, London, who has been lecturing in the United States, was in Meadville Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of this week as the guest of the Meadville Theological School. Though only 44 years of age, Dr. Campbell is an authority in the theological world. He graduated from Oxford and after his graduation entered Christ's Church with the intention of taking orders in the Church of England, though he did not become a priest. He early became pastor in Bristol where he had phenomenal success, and while still a young man he was called to be the assistant of Dr. Parker, of the City Temple, London. On Dr. Parker's death he succeeded him in that famous pulpit where he still preaches to throngs of people from all over the world.

On Tuesday morning, Dr. Campbell led the college chapel speaking on the first beatitude, "Blessed are the poor in spirit, for theirs is the kingdom of Heaven," making a deep impression on his audience. He has a fascinating quality, a winsomeness of personal expression and charm that no other person has and it is this charm that constitutes the power of his sermons. The quality of sweet personal winsomeness is penetrated with spirituality and he does not spare himself to awaken in others a like feeling for God. His keen penetrating eye and clean cut features, together with his snow white hair make him a very striking figure.

While he was in Meadville he gave himself most generously to the people, volunteering to speak and do much more than was asked of him. While Dr. Campbell was brought to Meadville by President Southworth of the Meadville Theological School, both President Southworth and Dr. Campbell were especially generous in their willingness to have the entire population hear him and his time was taken up addressing various meetings in the town and at the two colleges. He said that he was glad that he had come to Meadville as he had not been in any place in America that he enjoyed as much. During the week he received a letter from a close friend of his in Boston asking him why in the world he went to Meadville. In reply he said, "I have not had as good a time anywhere since I have been in America as in Meadville."

While here the thought flashed in his mind, on seeing the results of his contact with the community, if he could not to have a parapatetic ministry three months of the year during which time he should spend a week in a number of communities where he could reach the ministers and students aspiring to the ministry. Without a doubt much good could be done in this way both by enlarging the conception of the ministers to the work before them and pointing out to them great problems of the age.

Just before he left for Erie Wednesday afternoon, Dr. Campbell met with the Thoburn Club and after speaking on the development of the British Constitution invited the students and professors present to ask him questions on his methods of sermonizing which is the secret of his successful ministry. A very profitable and interesting hour was spent.

Another Lit.

November Number Full of Good Literary Material.

When the second number of the "Lit" appeared on last Saturday morning, it was quite evident that both the editor and manager of this college publication are determined to maintain their record of punctuality. The attractive cover of brown and gold, which was used for the first issue of the year, was again the cause of much favorable comment on account of its attractive appearance. However, to give the contents of this "Lit" its deserved praise demands a short review of each article and department.

The first page is devoted to "Thanksgiving," a poem by Miss Florence Griswold. These verses are not only especially appropriate for this season, but breathe a spirit of praise and thanksgiving which would be an inspiration for all the year.

The next article, "The Technique of Thomas Hardy," is the work of an anonymous writer who uses the one letter "G" as his signature. The author shows an excellent knowledge of his subject and tells in an entertaining style of the various devices which Hardy adopted to make his productions realistic. The editor informs us, however, that it is the contribution of a prominent Alleghenian who is now an alumnus.

"The Tryout," by Miss Ethel Bayard, is the story of the troubles of a football hero who is required to decide between his love and his duty to his college team. The excellent way in which the writer presents an interesting dialogue between the principal characters, makes the story both amusing and true to life.

This issue of the magazine also contains the second part of "The Secret of the Iris," by Miss Ruth Baldwin. As this is one of the longest stories that has recently been attempted by any contributor, Miss Baldwin deserves especial credit for working out such a clever plot in a truly interesting style. Throughout both parts of this story, the characters have been handled so success-

Holeproof Hose

What Our Six Months' Guarantee Really Means

Holeproof Hosiery is guaranteed to be as free from holes at the end of six months as it is the day you buy it. We give you this guarantee in writing so if any holes appear in six months you receive new hosiery free of charge.

Common Hosiery has no such guarantee. It costs you just as much as "Holeproof," but at the end of six months it is worthless. You spend hours darning it when for no extra expense you can have "Holeproof" and do no mending. Why not have the best?

FAMOUS Holeproof Hosiery FOR MEN WOMEN AND CHILDREN

Insist on seeing the original Holeproof trade-mark. Many have imitated the guarantee but none have equaled the quality.

The makers pay 63 cents a pound for Egyptian and Sea Island cotton, but common hosiery is made from cotton at 12 cents a pound.

"Holeproof" uses 3-ply yarn in the body and 6-ply in the heels, toes and knees. Ordinary hosiery uses 2-ply throughout, yet costs you just as much as "Holeproof."

Stop in at our store and examine the hose. See how stylish and comfortable it is — soft, smooth and neat fitting. Learn the facts today.
