McFall To Head ASG; Fee, Clark, Shilling And Andrews Assist

ASG officers for next year were elected by majority vote a few days ago. Dean McFall will hold the office of President of Allegheny Student Government; Tom Clark, Vice-president of Educational Affairs; Ben Andrews, Vice-president of National and International Affairs; Curt Fee, Vice-president of Student Affairs; and Georgianne Schilling, Secretary.

Nominees for the offices were voted upon last Friday and Monday and run-offs were held Tuesday. Voting was done by regular voting machine, the women voting in Brooks and the men in the College Union. Nominees for president were: Bing Ewalt, Ben Greer, and Dean McFall, with Bing and Dean in the Tuesday run-offs.

Nominees for Vice-president of Educational Affairs were Tom Clark and Willie Cutler. Ben Andrews, Diane Duntley, Marty Goldberg, and Dave Middleton ran for Vice-president of National and International Affairs with Marty and Ben in the run-offs. Vice-president of Student Affairs nominees were Betsy Anderson and Curt Fee. Georgianne Schilling alone ran for Secretary.

Presidential candidates gave speeches in the Chapel Sunday, and other candidates were presented. Attendance was poor, according to Nonnie Wellman, head of elections. Although voting statistics have not been compiled, she said that approximately 60% of the college voted in the elections.

Stegner To Speak In Chapel Apr. 13

Phi Beta Kappa lecturer, Wallace Stegner, Director of Creative Writing at Stanford, will present "Us Poor Christians Got No Lion," a discussion of Western novelists and problems of being cheerful in a beat and decadent world, in Ford Chapel Thursday, April 13, at 8:15.

With an A.B. from the University of Utah and an A.M. and Ph.D. from the University of Iowa, Dr. Stegner taught at Augustana, Utah, and Wisconsin and was Briggs-Copeland faculty instructor of English composition at Harvard before going to Stanford in 1945.

Dr. Stegner's first book, Remembering Laughter, won the Little, Brown novelette prize in 1937, and his study of American minority groups, One Nation, written in collaboration with the editors of Look magazine, won both the Houghton Mifflin Life-in-America award and the Saturday Review's Anisfield-Wolfe prize in 1945. This author of 40 articles and 22 short stories has also written The Big Rock Candy Mountain, Second Growth, The Preacher and the Slave, Mormon Country and Beyond the Hundredth Meridian, a biography of John Wesley Powell, the first navigator of the Grand Canyon. This spring will see the publication of another novel, A Shooting Star, by the Viking Press.

He has also held several Guggenheim fellowships and in 1950 was awarded a Rockefeller foundation grant to conduct seminars with writers throughout the Orient. In 1953 he received a grant from the Wenner-Gren Foundation for Anthropological Research to study village democracy in Saskatchewan, Vermont, and Denmark.

Rhinesmith Speaks On Protein Research

On Thursday, April 6, Dr. Rhinesmith is presenting a lecture on the present protein research being done at Allegheny. The lecture is at 8:15 p.m. in the Chapel. Dr. Rhinesmith will discuss the various research projects being carried on by undergraduates interested in scientific research. These projects all deal with protein chemistry in such fields as heart and cancer research and mental retardation. Students voluntarily spend one day a week in research and, if they show a special aptitude, may be asked to take part in the 10-week paid summer program. This program is in its fourth year here at Allegheny.

Senior Class Meeting Wednesday, April 12, 8:15 p.m. in the Chapel, concerning Commencement. All seniors must attend.

Liz Knies and Nancy Falor

Falor and Knies Appointed KALDRON, LIT MAG Editors

Nancy Falor and Liz Knies were approved as Kaldron and Literary Magazine editors respectively by AUC Tuesday evening.

Nancy's first official statement as Kaldron editor was "I would like to see the Kaldron become an accurate, informative, and tasteful record of a year at Allegheny through continued improvement in its quality."

Nancy was recommended to ASG by the Publications Board after reviewing applications submitted to it. In high school Nancy was active on the newspaper and yearbook staffs. At Allegheny she is a member of the Campus staff, Kappa Delta Epsilon, Alpha Chi Omega, and an Alden scholar.

Alleghenians' hidden literary talents are the target of Liz Knies when she assumes the editorship of the Lit Mag next year. Liz states that she will strive to maintain the high quality of the Lit Mag and to stimulate and encourage campus interest in writing.

At this time Liz was unable to give further details because the content and layout of the Mag depend upon the amount and kind of material submitted.

Faculty, Administration Plan 1961 Commencement

Thirty-nine members of the faculty and administration have begun work in committees and on special assignment for the events of the 1961 Commencement Week, June 3rd, 4th and 5th. Appointed by President Pelletier, they are working together on the many details under the General Chairmanship of Professor Philip M. Benjamin. The three days of the week-end will be filled with activities for the seniors and their parents and friends, for returning alumni, and distinguished visitors.

Events will begin on Saturday morning when there will be a coffee hour in the College Union for faculty, seniors, alumni, and friends.

The annual alumni luncheon will be held in the David Mead Field House Auditorium at twelve noon, to which the senior class are honored guests.

At 2:30 there will be a baseball game between Allegheny and the University of Pittsburgh. At 2:45 there will be the annual meeting of Phi Beta Kappa in the Treasure Room of Reis Library.

At 6:00 the President's Dinner for Alumni and Interested Friends will be held in the South Hall Dining Room. A distinguished alumnus will be the main speaker. Seniors, alumni, parents and friends who are not attending fraternity and sorority reunions at the same time, are welcomed to make reservations for the President's Dinner.

In the evening the Playshop will give a performance of Eugene O'Neill's A Touch of the Poet, and the Annual Allegheny Student Government Dance will be held in Brooks Hall.

On Sunday the Baccalaureate Service will be held in the David Mead Field House Auditorium with the College Chaplain, the Rev. Charles B. Ketcham, delivering the Baccalaureate Sermon. The anthems will be sung by the Allegheny Singers.

At 4:00 the President's Reception will be held on the terrace of South

Hall and at 8:00 the annual Allegheny Singers Concert will be given in the David Mead Field House auditorium.

On Monday the Commencement exercises will be held at 10:00 a.m. on the South Hall lawn of Bentley Hall. The Commencement speaker will be Erwin Nathaniel Griswold, Dean and Langdell Professor of Law of the Harvard University Law School. A Buffet Luncheon for the seniors and guests will be served immediately following the exercises in South Hall.

South Hall will be reserved for occupancy by parents of seniors, who will receive a letter of welcome from the Commencement Committee and instructions and forms for making reservations for rooms and meals during the Commencement Week-end.

Shortly after Easter, Richard Borrison, President of the Senior Class, will call a special meeting of the class at which time the General Chairman of the 1961 Commencement will explain in detail the program and arrangements, and answer any questions. Late in May each senior will receive further written instructions concerning all arrangements including a rehearsal for the academic procession and actual graduation exercises under the supervision of Dean Ross.

The General Chairman, Mr. Benjamin, will be happy to answer any questions concerning the program.

Editorials

We wish to announce that we recognize the Lemniscate as an unofficial and inevitable publication. We could hope for a return to the standard of the Gag Sheet; is there any other request for such a change?

This week the Campus has received two replies to Lemniscate statements of last week. We do hope that such exchanges may continue; much might be gained from some careful examination and discussion of issues. The word "careful" must be emphasized. In general, better understanding, and improvements of campus situations, will result only from dignified, carefully thought-out criticism, willingly accepted and judged by those who may be in positions to make suggestions and real changes. More evidence of thought and consideration, and less mere impulsive writing, must be shown by both sides in present and future discussions, before the Campus will be willing to fully support these exchanges.

We encourage the contribution to the Campus of long or short discussions of any issue which can be shown to be important or urgent. Naturally, time and money cannot be wasted printing worthless babble, but nearly any well considered, carefully written appraisal could be acceptable. There is no reason that the editorial column should be the only expression of opinion in this paper.

Representatives Of Oberlin Speak

by Leslie Nogi

Allegheny was host to three Oberlin students who visited the campus to discuss and lecture on their experience as exchange students at a Negro university. Pat Hasagawa and Jeff Pher spent one semester at Fisk during their junior year, and Norma Hoffman, a Fisk student, was an exchange student at Oberlin and then transferred there. On March 15, the weekly chapel service was turned over to the students, each of whom related his individual experiences and impressions. All three emphasized the fact that Allegheny can partake successfully in a similar exchange program, but that both participants and students who remain on campus must desire to take part in the program and must make a conscious effort to further the program.

Allegheny's most pressing problem will be the high ratio of one race to the other, and it will be important that differences be kept at a minimum.

Dr. Ketcham cited three prominent problems: the social problem, the problem of high ratio and the fact that there will be little fellowship for the limited number of Negroes on campus, and the aspect of Allegheny's self-preparation. Indifference to the program will be a mutual problem.

Allegheny's Religious Activities Committee has contacted several universities, all of which are eager

Foreign Students Present "Follies"

by John Clarke

"The Foreign Student Follies" is a Variety Show that will be presented by Allegheny's nine foreign students (plus American Aid, of course) to brighten campus life the first week after the Easter vacation. The venue will be in the College Union, Friday, April 7 at 7:15 p.m. An all-College dance will follow the show, which is scheduled to run for one hour.

A spokesman for the "Follies" said that it could be termed "spectacular". "It has cost a small fortune in transportation alone, to bring this wealth of talent to Allegheny," he said. The show is lavishly costumed and contains specially written material as well as traditional musical items in a "program-mix" which will suit all tastes.

The spokesman added that the cost of production was many times more than the 25 cents donation per head that the Follies' audience will be asked to contribute to the Fund Drive.

to participate in an exchange program with Allegheny. Paul Telfer serves as student chairman of this group and Dr. Ketcham as faculty chairman. It is hoped that the exchange will be begun next year. A selection committee composed of faculty and students will choose representatives who will spend one semester of their junior year at a Negro university.

To the Editor:

I would like to say that I enjoyed Mr. Edkin's reply to Mr. Taylor's letter that appeared in last week's issue of the Lemniscate. I have been watching this haggling between fraternities and independents for quite some time, and I feel that now is the time to voice my opinion concerning this matter. I have heard in the past two weeks that fraternity men are too apathetic to take an interest in this situation, so I feel that it is my duty to disclose our reason. In the past, we have ignored BOYS like Mr. Edkin because they only look at one side of the picture (their own) and no amount of persuasion will turn their heads, so, why waste our time? In this particular case, I feel that he is psychologically maladjusted due to the fact that he seems to be projecting the faults of his own group (and himself) into the fraternity system at Allegheny.

In the first place, Mr. Edkin, why don't you stick to the fraternity system for your criticism and leave Mr. Taylor's literary ability for an English professor to correct? I can't see any point to this criticism except that it fills space. As to Mr. Taylor's purpose for attending Allegheny, if you can graduate with the various achievements that will be under his name in the commencement book, you will then be in a better position to criticize.

Another point I would like to take issue on is the statement about fraternities not taking Jews because they are Jews. If you would investigate the situation a little closer before you begin to make rash statements, you will see that there were many Jewish men in the pledge classes of the various fraternities this past February. Let's call a spade a spade, Mr. Edkin; the men that didn't make a fraternity can't blame it on their religion, but should face the fact that it was their own shortcomings that kept them out, and this includes you. The fraternities at Allegheny are not charity organizations. We are looking for men who are assets to society, not idealistic misfits. You say you don't hate fraternities because they didn't accept you; well, if this is true, why apologize for it in your letter? The statement you made seems to be a good way for you to rationalize your own problem of not being with the "in group." However, I fail to see its value in your criticism of our system.

As for fraternity files, if you would like to look at our "bulging hour tests," stop in any time. The faculty has already been extended this invitation because we have nothing to hide. The biggest trouble we have concerning our files comes from the rumors that people like you start. If we are going to clear these rumors up, we may as well start with their inventors — this is the reason for your invitation.

I feel that I have gotten enough off my chest in the above paragraphs, but before I close, I would like to mention why I didn't try to defend the fraternity system in which I believe. I don't think you could understand my position and feeling for the fraternity system since it is beyond your core of experience. Since you have never been in the fraternity system at Allegheny, you have nothing on which to base your criticism.

One last item before I close. This is directed right at your statement that Mr. Taylor didn't have a leg to stand on. As John S. Mill stated a long time ago, "What we deny is generally outside our experience and about which we can say nothing." What leg do you have to stand on, or are you an omniscient observer?

Sincerely,

E. Dennis Ehrenberger

P.S. If you would like to learn something about the fraternity system, our doors are always open and we would welcome the chance to chat with you.

To the Editor:

In our world, it is not dictate but compromise which accomplishes most. Neither side of a situation can hope to win over the other completely, and in a small community such as Allegheny it is necessary that all factions cooperate in the interest of a constructive atmosphere in which internal difficulties are solved in a mutual effort. The key to this cooperation is understanding, and the situation which could use some is the recently raging anti-fraternity feeling.

It is hoped that the wool on the chins of the editors of "Lemniscate" is not the same that is over their eyes. Fraternities on this campus, and the fraternity as a national organization, are here to stay, but discrimination is not. You cannot influence people to your way of thinking by ridiculing something they honor and love, regardless of your personal feelings. You cannot breach the wall by throwing cotton balls at it. Each insult, accusation or destructive criticism will only strengthen the outward appearance of resistance to change. Why outward? Because there is a strong movement within the system, to which many superior minds are devoted, to change the system with the times. This, as any other movement to change the thinking of people (southern school desegregation, for example), cannot and will not be accomplished easily or in a short time. No one realizes the deficiencies of the fraternity system better than a fraternity man, and none work as hard to correct them.

So, to critics: don't slice and slash, you will only defeat your own purpose. Put forth constructive, mature and well-reasoned criticism which may help the fraternity man gain a fresh outlook and give him tools with which to work.

Letters To The Editor

The not-so-clever-as-the-authors-may-think trash which has been circulated is a pretty poor argument to make any fraternity man want to work for a change. It may be well to remember that, regardless of the raving and ranting of those outside the fraternity system, any change will come from inside.

Respectfully,
Herb Happel

Dear Some (Egotistical) Freshman Men,

Perhaps the interest of the freshman women in you freshman "men" only four short weeks after your pledging of fraternities seems funny to you, but I think if you come down from that Greek cloud you are flying on and take stock of what is going on around you, you will be in for a shock. If you take time to check, you will find that representatives of most of the campus are involved in a drive by the CU to help remedy the dating problem. In fact you will probably also discover that the letter addressed to you was, more than likely written on the night the representatives of the girls from South Hall met with Mr. Cares (CU director) to discuss this very problem.

As far as the situation of having a steady back home goes, it is time that you matured enough to know that there is quite a difference between going out and having a good time, and being unfaithful. Then again if you are as faithful as you claim to be you have no reason to complain about the girls inviting their steadies up, especially when you have equally as many, if not more, "imported" girls.

It is also very refreshing to hear "that some freshman men are here to get an education and nothing else". If this is the case, however, I wonder what your "big brothers" think of their fraternity being referred to as nothing!

The girls, I think, realize the situation that too many students are sitting in the dorms on weekends when they could be out having a good time. They have offered to meet you half way by coming stag to the CU dances if you are too bashful to ask for a date. There is a dance in the CU tonight and the girls will be there. Your job is to be there and ask them to dance, but this is not enough. You must also be mature enough to realize that if you don't want to dance more than one dance with a girl you may take her back to her group and thank her for the dance, or you must realize that it is her prerogative to thank you and return to her group. I'll be there tonight! Will I see you — dancing?

A Voice from the CU

WAA ELECTS FOR 1961

WAA elections were held in Brooks on Wednesday, March 15, with run-offs the following day. Sue Knapp was elected President. Vice-president is Gloria Gill; Secretary, Joyce Corl; and Treasurer, Ruth Hoerner. ## National Opera Here Apr. 19; Tickets Free

The National Opera Company will present Rossini's La Cenerentola on Wednesday, April 19 at 8:15 p.m., in the Meadville Senior High School Auditorium.

La Cenerentola is an Italian version of Cinderella. While the basic story will be familiar to all, it is not a children's fairy tale but a sophisticated comedy. The opera will be sung in English.

The performance is sponsored by Allegheny College and tickets will be available free to students and faculty and staff at the CU Desk from April 4 to April 10. After these dates tickets may be obtained at the High School office and the House of Music.

Message to Allegheny Urges Student Action in America

In France, university students usually demonstrate any political dissatisfaction by forming a type of snake-dance called a "monome." The students of Turkey recently demanded the removal of Premier Mendes in a series of demonstrations and were successful in their effort. The international magazine, Student, calls 1960 "the year of student victory." This phrase applies to the United States as well as other parts of the world. The recent sit-in demonstrations in Southern cities were started by Southern Negro students and were supported by a large number of Northern adult and student organizations (the United States National Student Association is one such organization). The world is a changing place, and it is the young people who are changing it. The student holds a place of respect in every country; when enough students stand up to speak, people listen. It is time for the American student to speak. The biggest "topic for discussion" is whether or not the American white WANTS to integrate with the American Negro.

From my conversations with Allegheny students on the topic of integration, I have learned that many people are in favor of integration, but they are so sure that the rest of the world is against it, that they are entirely apathetic themselves. The American student is in favor of integration. For people who like well supported G-1 facts, here are the facts:

- 1) In Washington Square, New York City, student demonstrations were held "to protest segregation and to pledge solidarity with Southern contemporaries."
- 2) In support of student sit-ins, more than 125 member schools of USNSA (National Student Association) sent telegrams of support to students in Nashville, Tennessee who were undertaking a sit-in.
- 3) A Southern Student Defense and Scholarship fund, established by USNSA, raised $7,000 to assist southern students who have been arrested or expelled from their schools because of participation in the sit-ins.
- 4) Major student rallies and demonstrations took place at Rutgers University, Washington, Antioch, Smith College, and the University of Minnesota, as well as various schools in Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Chicago, and San Francisco.
- 5) University of Chicago students went on a trip to Tennessee to deliver food to Negro citizens who had been blacklisted by merchants for their attempt to vote in the 1960 elections.
- 6) An all-white demonstration by the students of Emory University in Georgia was staged against the segregated Ponce de Leon High School.

Is that enough facts? There are more, but this is evident: American students are interested in desegregating the South; and the world is interested in the actions of the American student.

How does all this affect the students of Allegheny? Allegheny is not a segregated school; but if this is so, why is there not one American Negro student here today? Why has there never been more than a small handful of Negro students here at one time? A good college education should introduce you to a wide variety of opinions and backgrounds, as represented by a school's student body. This is good preparation for after-college life, when you will be working with and trying to understand the many different types of people who make up American society. How can this major factor of education, an understanding and tolerance of other people, be fulfilled when such a large and important part of the American population as the Negro is not amply represented here? Why isn't something being done about this? The truth is that something CAN be done, but student support is certainly needed.

A Northern-Southern student exchange program might go into effect at Allegheny next year. Under this program, a number of Allegheny students will spend a semester at a Southern Negro college, and a number of Negro students will study here for a semester. The success of this program depends upon the actions of the student body toward the Negroes. There is no reason why these Negro students should not be socially accepted and content here. There should be nothing to prevent them from enjoying themselves at dances and other campus activities. I believe that the majority of Allegheny students would do their best to put these new students at ease. When they return to their own schools, their impression of a Northern integrated college will be more than important.

I firmly believe that this student exchange program is a needed one at A.C. and would be supported by our student body. The next step would be to socially accept a large number of Negroes as regular students at Allegheny. I am certain that this is what most students here want. It is not necessary for us to put on mass exhibitions and rallies in support of the Negro's right to education; our present job is to accept these students as part of the Allegheny student body.

This country has had more than its share of ignorance, bias, and prejudice. The university has always been a place of knowledge and understanding; it is no wonder that many reform movements all over the world have started here. This is the age for American students to do away with prejudices practiced by their forefathers. All over the country this is the case: support the Southern Negro; but the apathy of Allegheny students is shameful. I believe that the majority of Allegheny students are in favor of admitting more Negro students here. It would be very easy for the administration to encourage Negro students to come to Allegheny IF THE STUDENT BODY STOOD FIRMLY BEHIND THE ADMINISTRATION. Why should you be robbed of the OPPORTUNITY of associating with another aspect of the American culture? How narrow-minded do you want to be? I assume that a person comes to college to further his education AND to increase his knowledge of the world around him. This cannot be done if you are not even familiar with one of your own growing minority groups. I assume that the student body is against segregation because there is no logical argument in favor of segregation.

Once the students at Allegheny make known its support of admitting a sizeable number of Negro students, it is up to the administration to find and encourage these students; perhaps a special Negro scholarship fund could be started.

If this really is a year of "student victory" and student activity all over the world indicates that this is so, it is time for the lethargic students of Allegheny College to take part in the victory. A good starting place for this much needed change in racial policy is right here on Allegheny's campus.

Social rejection of Negroes is a direct support of the outdated idea of white supremacy. It goes against religious and moral norms; and it actually is limiting you in your ideas and associations. The Negro is part of the world that you will meet when you leave college. Why not learn more about him now? Support the student exchange program and speak up for YOUR RIGHT to learn and understand more about the American Negro by attending college with him. I am speaking my mind now; I believe others agree with me. Am I correct?

ASG RESOLUTION TEXT PROPOSED PEACE CORPS

Resolution:
Be it resolved that Allegheny Undergraduate Council hereby endorses the principles of a peace corps. It is hoped that President Kennedy and Congressional leaders of both political parties will endeavor to form these principles into a concrete and workable program. The AUC is aware of the challenge such a program offers students of the United States to assist in the development of nations less fortunate than ours. The AUC encourages members of the Allegheny Student Body to seriously consider participation in the Peace Corps.

Pros:

1. Satisfaction of serving our nation and its ideals.
2. Satisfaction of serving mankind by assisting people not so fortunate as us.
3. The experience of getting outside of our own limited social circle and working with people quite different from your previous experiences.
4. The gaining of experience in your basic area of work. (engineer, teacher, administrator).

Cons:

1. Hard work — Possibly of work being quite routine and full of frustration.
2. Environment — Differ sharply from your home environment in many instances.
3. Possibility of being faced with hostile agitators.
4. Achievements — They will be hard to measure. They will not be spectacular or happen overnight.
5. Existence — The work could be culturally and socially lonely.
6. Personal sacrifice — (financially and socially).

Requirements:

1. Speak language of country. (not necessary right now).
2. Know and respect customs of country.
3. Study country's history and problems.
4. Sympathize and understand aspirations of people you will live and work with.
5. Skill will be a major factor in selection process.
6. Intensive training program before getting overseas assignment.

White Man's Burden:

A person going on assignment is not expected to carry the white man's burden, but deal in equality. A person must be willing to put ideas into practice by working on equal terms with people of all races.

AUC Notes

Allegheny Undergraduate Council Tuesday tabled motions concerning President Kennedy's newly-established Peace Corps and the backing of student government candidates by campus organizations.

A measure supporting the Peace Corps program was tabled for Council's consideration during spring vacation. Dean McFall, meanwhile, will attend a Corps conference at Washington, D.C., and will prepare a report on the program.

The other resolution tabled was one by Richard "Doc" Borrison urging that AUC oppose the endorsement of candidates for student government posts by representative groups. Borrison argued that such an endorsed candidate might feel obligated toward his backers. It was argued in opposition that persons and groups should be allowed to endorse or not endorse as they see fit.

The discussion was promoted by the recent backing of McFall for AUC president by the Interfraternity Council. McFall later told the Campus, "I can't become excited over accepting or rejecting that support. No matter what the intent, there is an implication that the person endorsed is obligated . . . it's a fine line."

One measure which was approved by AUC was the increase of the Allegheny Student Government secretary's salary from $50 to $75.

Council also heard a report from a representative of the World University Service on that organization's purposes and accomplishments, including the support of Algerian refugee students. The Allegheny Fund Drive, with fund drives on other campuses throughout the country, underwrites the service's work.

April 18 was set as the day for new AUC, ASG and class officers to begin their terms.

In other business, Council heard the following committee reports:

1. Activities committee reported plans for Greek Week and the May Day observance, the latter scheduled for May 5. Greek Week festivities will include music by dixieland and dance bands at a cost of

7. College Union staff members disclosed plans to paint the North Dining Room oyster white with lemon yellow trim and to furnish the room with bright green furniture. Woodwork will be painted to avoid the larger expense of refinishing.
