Mr. H. J. Heinz graduated from Yale university with the degree of A.B. in 1931, and did post-graduate work at Trinity college, Cambridge, England. He received his LL.D. at Bowling Green university in 1941. He has worked in sales departments in American, British, Spanish and Australian branches of the H. J. Heinz company, was appointed assistant to the president in 1938 and elected to his present position in 1941. Since its establishment in 1942, Mr. Heinz has been president of the United War Fund of Pittsburgh which is used to entertain service men and to relieve civilian victims of war from twelve foreign countries. He also serves on the board of directors of the Community Fund which supports 82 charitable institutions in Pittsburgh. He was elected president of the Federation of Social Agencies of Pittsburgh and Allegheny county, an organization which sets up the budgets of all social agencies in the community and co-ordinates their work.

Dr. C. B. Ketcham received his A.B. at Ohio Wesleyan in 1913 and his D.D. there in 1932. In 1918 he was ordained a Methodist minister and received the degrees of B.D. at Drew university and A.M. at Columbia university. He was elected president of Mt. Union college in 1938. Dr. Ketcham served as a chaplain in the A.E.F. in 1918-19 and has taught religion in many midwestern schools and colleges. His daughter, Dorothy, will be remembered by many Alleghenians as president of A.W.S. last year.

One of seven outstanding artists chosen for the past winter season by the Pittsburgh Concert society, Miss Marjorie Casanova is an accomplished organist. The recital which she gave for the society was very well received by critic and music enthusiasts alike. Her versatility and expression at the organ are well known to everyone who has heard her play.

The films of Allegheny life have been taken by Mr. John Hulburt and others and will include school scenes, student activity and army life. Featured on the program will be some old Pathe News films, just discovered, of the Centennial pageant at Allegheny in 1915. At the Alumni luncheon, which is also the annual meeting of the Alumni Association, seniors will be welcomed to the alumni ranks. All seniors, parents, alumni and students are invited to the Senior dance Saturday night. Gene Parlette will provide music for entertainment and dancing. There is no charge for admission.

Orchesis To Dance In Festival

The Allegheny college Spring Festival will have its grand opening Friday, April 28, when Orchesis, the honorary dance club, presents "On With the Dance," in the Playshop at 8:15 p.m.

Under the direction of Miss Mary Morison, the following program has been planned:

March, from "The Love of Three Oranges"—Prokofioff.

Interlude, Dance of Cygnets from "Swan Lake"—Tchaikowsky.

"So soon my body will have gone Beyond the sight and sound of men

And though it wakes and suffers now

It's sleep shall be unbroken then."

From Boris Godounov.

Mazurka and Holtz, "Les Sylphides"—Chopin.

Intermission.

The Chinese Nightingale—Vachel Lindsay.

"Oh History fail me not;

from chaos peace shall rise again."

Capriccio Italien—Tchaikowsky.

"The March," a short humorous dance, will be presented with music by Prokofioff. A solo, "Interlude," by Ruth Blodgett will be danced to the "Swan Lake" ballet music by Tchaikowsky. This will be followed by a dance of death depicting first the rebellion of the spirit and the final acceptance of the inevitable. "Les Sylphides," a light dance to music by Chopin, will immediately precede "The Chinese Nightingale."

Vachel Lindsay wrote the poem "The Chinese Nightingale," which will be read by four persons, each reader accompanying one of the four dancers who interpret the fantasy of Old China and a Chinese laundryman in San Francisco. The dancers will follow the rhythm and beat of the poem as they would music.

"Capriccio Italien" by Tchaikowsky will be the music for the last number on the program, a dance portraying the idea that although war's suppression is uppermost in the world now, age-old tradition will not die.

The members of "Orchesis" participating in the program are Ruth Blodgett, '47, Sally Lou Connor, '47, Jane Gauger, '46, Angela Giallombardo, '47, Janet Hartman, '47, Jean Linnert, '47, Barbara Monroe, '46, Jane Morgan, '47, Irene Mszanowski, '47, Marjorie Mussen, '47, Patricia Patchen, '47, Marion Reichelderfer, '47, Joan Robertson, '47, Martha Jane Sector, '47, Jean Singley, '47, Dorothy Smallman, '47, Gloria Stedfeld, '47, Winifred Sutter, '47, Mary Lou Sweet, '46, and Gloria Westphal, '47.

John R. Schultz, William E. Schultz Will Receive Degrees

President John Richie Schultz will return to his alma mater, Culver-Stockton college in Canton, Missouri, where he will be granted an honorary degree of doctor of laws at the commencement exercises on May 1. His brother, Dr. William Eben Schultz, chairman of the division of humanities and professor of English at Illinois Wesleyan university, will at the same time receive an honorary degree of letters.

The brothers have principal parts in the commencement exercise of their alma mater. On Sunday evening, April 30, Dr. W. E. Schultz will deliver the baccalaureate address, while on Monday morning Dr. J. R. Schultz of Allegheny will deliver the commencement address. His subject will be "Oh! What a Beautiful Morning."

The Schultz brothers have had parallel careers, first attending Culver-Stockton college, then Yale university, where they secured their M.A. and Ph.D. degrees in English. Both had fellowships at Yale and later became instructors in the English department.

Later they both became department heads in colleges and have advanced to their present positions in their respective institutions. Both are listed in "Who's Who in America."

The first bell for dinner will ring at 5:50 p.m. and the second at 5:55 p.m. Girls are asked to wear formal dresses, but guests may attend informally if they wish. It is requested that no one leave the dining room until the queen and court have gone out. The faculty guests for the dinner are Mr. and Mrs. F. F. Seely, Mr. and Mrs. John W. McMahan, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Schultz, Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Long, Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Lively, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Younger, Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Way and Miss Laila Skinner.

The Intersorority Sing will take place at 8:00 p.m. in Brooks hall, followed by the formal dance from 9:00 p.m. to 11:30 p.m. Mr. and Mrs. F. F. Seely and Mr. and Mrs. John W. McMahan are the faculty guests. The A.W.S. committees, headed by Marianne Kocher and Helen Creeger, '46, and Miss Miriam Brubaker of the Allegheny Advertising Agency are planning an elaborate spring garden theme.

On Sunday, April 30, the Spring Festival will come to an end with a tea and reception for the queen and her court, to be held from 3:30 p.m. to 5:00 p.m. in the Green room, Brooks hall. Nancy Altman, '46, is in charge of the tea. Girls are asked to wear hats and gloves.

The entire Spring Festival is being sponsored by the department of physical education under Miss Mary Morison and Miss Dorothy Deach, and the Women's Athletic Association, whose retiring president is Phyllis Campbell, '45.

The Schultz Collection, started in 1920, is the gift of J. R. Schultz, '05, and W. E. Schultz, '06, in honor of their father, John C. Schultz, who was a student at Culver-Stockton during the years of 1868-69 and 1870-71. It now contains over eight hundred volumes relating to literature and the associated arts.

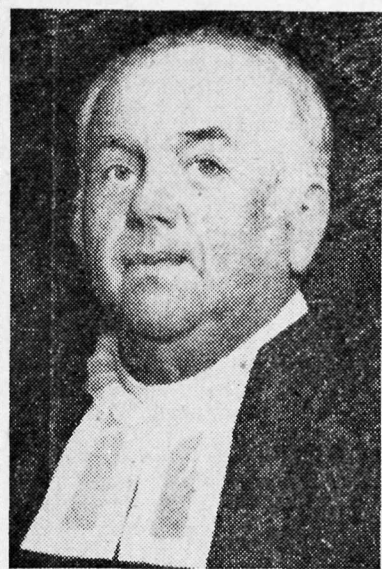

Class Day To Be In Chapel Next Week

Class day will be held next Thursday, May 4, by the class of May, 1944. The ceremony will be held in the chapel at noon with President John Richie Schultz presiding.

The program includes the ladder oration by the senior class president, Caroline Emerson, and the response by William Dickey, president of the class of '45. Students who have been elected to Phi Beta Kappa will be announced, and other prizes and awards will be given, the class flag will be presented to the seniors, and the valedictory address will be given by the valedictorian.

All students and faculty members are invited to attend the class day exercises.

All college bills must be paid before final examinations. Each student should call at the treasurer's office after May 1 to secure an examination permit stating that his bills have been paid. No student will be admitted to an examination without showing a permit bearing his name.

William Bentley

Portraits of Bentley and Alden Presented

Founder's day was celebrated last Tuesday in Ford Memorial chapel with the presentation of portraits of Timothy Alden and William Bentley.

The academic procession, accompanied by Miss Marjorie Casanova at the organ, was followed by the reading of the scripture and a prayer by President John R. Schultz. The Allegheny Singers directed by Mr. Morten J. Luvaas, contributed two anthems.

Mr. Philip M. Benjamin, principal speaker, defined the theme of the whole program as "Again we flame our torches at thy shrine" from Alma Mater Beatissima. After outlining a history of Allegheny and enlarging upon the lives of some of the most prominent men in her early days, Mr. Benjamin presented portraits of Timothy Alden and William Bentley. Details of the Alden portrait were published in the Campus of March 2.

That Allegheny was able to procure the portrait is through the generosity of an Alleghenian and his wife, William Preston Beazell, '97 and Gertrude Isabel Howe Beazell, '96 (whose brother Frederic C. Howe, '89, has contributed to Allegheny his books and a fund for supplementing the collection).

The portrait which was secured last fall by Mr. Benjamin from Clarence Brigham, director of the American Antiquarian Society, is a copy by William Southward of one of three original portraits by Frothingham.

William Bentley was one of the foremost men in New England in 1800 and was once addressed by John Adams as "Doctor of Physics, Doctor of Philosophy, Doctor of Laws, and D.D." To him was offered the presidency of the New University of Virginia, which he had just established.

A devoted friend of Timothy Alden, Dr. Bentley gave all his valuable books, manuscripts and rare curiosities to Allegheny at a time when the college needed both material benefactors and spiritual backing.

Bentley hall was erected in 1820 in his honor and has remained one of the finest examples of colonial architecture today.

Other great leaders honored by Mr. Benjamin were Isaiah Thomas, James Winthrop, Frank LaBounty, Dr. William Stidger and Dr. William L. McKinney.

The Summing Up

In this, the last issue of the Campus, we want to say good-bye to the seniors, to give credit to those to whom credit is due and to reiterate those standards upon which the Campus has operated this year and which we shall earnestly attempt to continue next year.

The Campus is a student publication, but, as with most student benefits, there are obligations, too. Our aim is to keep the Campus accurate, up-to-date, interesting and complete. In order to do this we must have the co-operation of everyone in giving us correct information and in letting us know when events will occur. Contributions are encouraged, and all will be given equal and fair consideration. We ask both students and faculty to give us constructive criticism and advice. We shall give our support and encouragement to worthwhile plans, drives and events. Those who wish to express their opinion on any reasonable phase of campus life will be given the opportunity, as always, through the columns of this paper. Our aim is constant progress toward a better Campus, and we ask for your sincere co-operation.

There is one department of the Campus which merits particular recognition, the service circulation. It has done a fine job this year in keeping contact with Alleghenians in the service.

To all the others who have worked so willingly on the Campus staff this year we extend our sincere thanks: to the reporters, the typists, those who have wrapped copies for mailing, those who hand them out weekly at chapel, our regular columnists, those who have contributed feature articles from time to time, the faculty members who have been so co-operative and helped us over rough spots on many occasions and last, but far from least, those fellows who have faithfully taken the copy to the printer every Monday and Tuesday night of the year.

The new staff will do its best to carry on where these left off, and we pledge to each reader of the Campus to do our best in fulfilling our obligations. Again we say, "Good luck, seniors." We hope that your return to Allegheny will find us still going forward to better things.

"Again We Flame Our Torches At Thy Shrine"

Honor was paid last Tuesday to those who were so instrumental in making Allegheny the college it is today. The Founders' day program was an impressive and intensely worthwhile event.

With the Allegheny Singers and the organ music forming a background, the academic procession was indeed a sight. But one of the most interesting features of the program was the main speech in which some of the little-known (among students) history of the college was presented. The examples set by such men as Timothy Alden, William Bentley, William Henry Crawford and many others were ones of loyalty, devotion and tireless effort in furthering the best interests of the college. The remarkable progress and change which has come to Allegheny over the 129 years of her existence is a tribute to all of these men, and is an inspiration to us who build the future.

Our one regret for the whole occasion was the poor student attendance. It was felt that a program of this type should not be compulsory, but there seems to be a quirk in the students' philosophy. Even if there is a program we want to attend, if it is not compulsory, we're so overjoyed or relieved that we think it is wonderful not to go.

However, as is so often the case, the absentees suffered more than the program by their non-attendance. The program really fulfilled its purpose, that of paying tribute to our founders, and in the process brought some of Allegheny's fascinating history to light.

Thoughts From Abroad

In the true manner of college students—that of doing work ahead of time—we were redding (Pennsylvania colloquialism) out our drawers to prepare for the Exodus soon after exams. They were in the usual chaos but yielded remembrances good and bad A pile of snapshots: Rosebud going into a dance, freshmen in hula costumes, Pierce and Emerson in harmony, a cadet (How did he get in here? Oh, that was before I learned he was married, and we stopped going steady). Then, dumped on a heap on the checked bedspreads were a piece of suit material from the freshmen pants fight with Speedo, a snapshot of Frank Sinatra belonging to Frankie Wallace, notice for chapel overcuts, some Hulings silverware, quiet slips in chronological order, a puppy of Jerry Albright's—quite dead—he had missed his two o'clock feeding, some lettuce for Daws' Wham Bam, 20 nurse's excuses for Betsy Pfeleger dated 1945. Getting tired now, we dumped the rest on the floor. There, nestled under a pink straw hat, was an old Brownie camera. Now there is only one thing a camera, even an old Brownie camera, brings to mind—pictures. Leaving everything in the middle of the room and on the checked bedspread, we set out on a photographic expedition. At the moment we were ready to leave we glanced out of the window of our Pfeifer tower (oops!—pardon me, Brooks) and saw (heavens!) legs, legs, legs. Odds-bodkins, we thought, pin-up girls. Glamour! We found Kay Reed who had been there three days without food or water. Under one blanket in the southeast corner was Marie Hill counting freckles. As we passed, she asked us if she should put an h on the end of Hallenburgh. Ginny Douglass looked very heroic in an Indian blanket. The sun had left and so had the legs and glamour. Nothing now but cold winds, cloudy skies and the sound of chattering teeth. A strongly developed reflex next carried us to the grill. The only persons there were Sam Kossiter dozing in a corner while Willard Davidson was giving his speech on prohibition for the fourth time that day. We passed the sign, "Men at Work," on the rustic bridge without a second glance—pure farce. As yet we had no snapshot of George's. George's is a little rendezvous out the road apiece where fine barbecues are served. To get there, turn left from Brooks and follow the first Phi Gam who comes along. We followed Jim Jenkins and tarried there till it was quite late. We were back just in time to hear the interfraternity sing. Girls were leaning from all balconies and fire escapes, hoping to fall off. Martha let us in, smiled cheerfully, and said, "You are 22 minutes late." Our last snapshot was of Miss Morison putting in her earplugs, preparing for the nightly parties.

Editor's Note: As the new Campus staff for the coming year takes over, we say adieu to the "arsenic" of "arch's friend" which has filled this column this semester. Due credit should be given to its author, Mary Pierce, '44.

FAMOUS ALLEGHENIANS YOU SHOULD KNOW

By Marian Stanger, '47

FRANCIS HARRIS PIERPONT
1814-1899

Morgantown, W. Va
Pittsburgh, Pa.

Francis Harrison Pierpont grew up on a farm near Morgantown, helping with the farm work and in his father's tannery. After receiving his A.B. from Allegheny in 1839 he taught school in Virginia, for a year in Mississippi, then returned to be admitted to the bar. In 1848 he became the local attorney for the Baltimore and Ohio railroad.

As a Whig adherent, he was actively interested in politics, ardently anti-slavery and a fervent Lincoln supporter. When Virginia decided in favor of secession, he organized a mass meeting in Wheeling; here the Unionist western counties banded, and with Pierpont as provisional governor, drew up a constitution and formed the state of West Virginia, which was admitted to the union in 1863.

Meanwhile Pierpont became governor of "restored" Virginia. He set up his capital at Alexandria and, on the fall of the Confederacy, moved into Richmond. He continued to conduct the affairs of the state under Johnson, but in 1868 the Reconstruction Act went into effect and he was replaced by a military commander. He then quietly retired to his West Virginia law practice. In 1910 Pierpont's statue was added to the hall of fame in the United States capitol.

Outstanding Air Student

The final issue of the Campus this year and of this column presents A/S Howard M. West as the outstanding aviation student of the week. Lt. Chandler made this selection chiefly because of his rise to the post of flight lieutenant.

Born in the notorious section of New York known as Brooklyn, he emphatically denies that he holds any affection whatsoever for the Dodgers. While still young he moved with his family to Long Island, his home until he entered the Army. Being graduated from the Valley Stream High school, he was active in athletics, playing varsity football for three years at end position and varsity basketball for four years at center position. He was also president of his chapter of Omega Gamma Delta, his high school fraternity. These fraternities are not permitted in New York city, but are organized secretly and are stronger here than almost anywhere in the United States.

After high school Howard worked for an insurance company, but his job as a clerk didn't thrill him particularly, with the result that he left within six months. While with the insurance company he was a volunteer member of a fire department and became a lieutenant on the rescue squad in a short time. Running a bulldozer for an excavation company down south followed. In 1940 he went to work for the Sperry-Girer company, which makes bomb sights. Remaining here until he enlisted in the Air Corps, West became payroll supervisor at the plant.

On October 3, 1943, A/S West enlisted in the Air Corps and took his basic training at Greensboro, North Carolina. On December 14 he entered Allegheny, which he now likes very much. Howard's ambition is to become a navigator.

"After the war" plans are still rather hazy for A/S West. He would like to return to the Sperry-Girer company and technically has been promised a job with the company, but the demand for bomb sights will probably be quite low after the war and his chances at this company he believes are mighty slim. Right now, though, his greatest concern is doing his best to become a good navigator, and we wish him all possible luck in this undertaking.

Meet the FACULTY

By HELEN HOUGHTON, '46

CHARLES WILBUR UFFORD
Professor of Physics

I invaded Wilcox this afternoon. It was my first time, and even all the talk hadn't prepared me. I'm afraid I looked right through Mr. Ufford; at any rate I was testing the highest chair when I noticed him standing patiently in the doorway. Then I apologetically climbed down and followed him into his office to take a crack at legend number 2.

Every college has a professor whose love for the unusual and the humorous makes for interesting table conversation and bull sessions. Allegheny's is Mr. Ufford. There's his car for instance:

"Oh, you can't get to heaven in Ufford's car, Cause the darned old thing won't go that far."

That he heartily denies, his present model being of rather recent 1931 vintage. He doesn't depend too greatly on the automobile, evidently, 'cause he's had a bike for something like fifteen years—the same one, of course. Any curious visitor to Wilcox will probably stumble over it in the hall—I speak from experience.

Someone has no doubt whispered in your ear that Mr. Ufford speaks nothing but German to his children, which is perfectly true—but you needn't bother notifying the F.B.I. He wanted them to learn the language and could think of no better way to do it. It's kept him in practice, too.

Then there's his rather striking wardrobe—his blue-stocking cap, for instance, which more than one pledge has been sent after. He was noted for his clothes even in his Cambridge days where he graced the campus with a mackinaw (purple, pink, red and a few other assorted hues thrown in for good measure. There was so much comment—even the paper protested publicly—that he finally had to dye it brown.

I asked Mr. Ufford what colleges and universities he had attended, and while he told me, I had plenty of time to regret my unprovokedness in shorthand. First there was Haverford, then followed Cambridge, M. I. T., Union, Harvard, University of Munich, University of Leipzig, University of Zurich and Bristol university. Then he taught at Harvard, Princeton,

The Social Whirl

By MARTHA TAWNEY

Mothers . . . mothers . . . everywhere, as five of the sororities on campus entertained on a whirlwind scale.

The Alpha Chi's began their festivities with a luncheon at the Lafayette hotel on Saturday afternoon with Miss Skinner and Miss Suzanne Brewer as their guests. The gifts of the girls to their guests were gardenias. Saturday evening they entertained at an open house and on Sunday morning served breakfast in the rooms.

Alpha Gamma Delta announces the engagement of Marjorie Jenkins, '44, to Jack Crouse of the United States Army, a former Sigma Chi at Bucknell. Florence Graham, '46, and Elizabeth Mills, '46, have accepted social privileges from the Alpha Gams.

Beginning their mother's weekend on Friday evening with an informal gathering in the rooms, Alpha Xi Delta also engaged in a gala program. Saturday night they held a buffet bridge and wound the affair up with a sing followed by an impromptu discussion by the mothers—subject, the daughters.

A sing and feed in the rooms heralded Theta weekend activities on Friday night. Saturday evening a dinner was held at Venango Inn, climaxed by a bridge party in the rooms afterward. Corsages of roses and snapdragons were given to the mothers. A breakfast on Sunday morning concluded the affair.

Kappa Kappa Gamma entertained the mothers first at a tea on Saturday in the rooms. Saturday night a spaghetti dinner at the Willows preceded an informal bridge party at which corsages from the girls couldn't be missed. A breakfast in the rooms on Sunday morning brought the weekend to a close.

T. U.'s gaiety got off to a good start Saturday evening with a buffet supper followed by a breakfast on Sunday morning. The new Mother Patrons of Theta Upsilon were initiated in the afternoon and a tea ended the weekend highlights. Esther Ebenhoe, '43, was a recent guest. The marriage of Arlene Fegley, '44, and Quentin C. Sternbergh of the United States Army, formerly from Reading, Pennsylvania, on Sunday afternoon, April 23, at Fort Benning, Georgia, was announced.

The Independents held elections for the coming year Monday evening. The new officers are Helen Houghton, '46, president; Jane Gauger, '46, vice-president; Ellen Chipman, '46, secretary; and Jane Jacob, '46, treasurer.

Friday night Phi Gamma Delta went all-out on their Fiji Island party—a real tradition at Allegheny. Girls in hula skirts and leis accompanied by swarthy native escorts really converted Ridge house into a jungle of fun. Mr. John Hanby and Miss Miriam Brubaker were guests for the evening's party.

At their chapter party on Saturday night, the Phi Deltas celebrated with Mr. and Mrs. John E. Cavelti as guests. Jerry Albright's masterpiece drawing of the Phi Delt crest on the mirror caught the attention of everyone, and the blue, dreamy atmosphere enveloped the whole crowd as the flavor of pre-war social doings crept back to Allegheny.

Recent guests and former Alleghenians now in the service seen here and there included Jack Keuntz, ex '47; Jim Jenkins, ex '46; Ray Bieber, '43; Nova McMillan, '43; Alan Chambers, ex '46; Brad Broughton, ex '46; and Chester Hardenburg, ex '45.

A compulsory meeting of all sorority women will be held Friday afternoon at 4:30 p.m. in the chapel.

back to Harvard, and finally came to Allegheny in 1933.

As far as travel goes (and I'm beginning to sound like Paul Robeson doing "Ballad for Americans") he's been to England, Ireland, Germany, Switzerland, Greece, Turkey, and so on far, far into the night. There's the time back in '29 when he lost a game and as forfeit had to dive off the top deck of the steamer into the Aegean Sea. He borrowed a pair of trunks from a stoutish gentleman, who later turned out to be his wife's cousin, and dived. It wasn't long before he reappeared before a greatly fascinated audience. The pants had been too big, it seemed. And there was also the drunken customs' official at Adrianople and the hotel with the oft-before-slept-in beds . . .

When you first meet Mr. Ufford he doesn't look like a legendary character at all—rather like the very nice, very distinguished college professor that he is. I wish he'd stay around to create a few more legends (and incidentally to lend me his bicycle pump), but he's off to another university—University of California this time—come June.

Three New Exhibits
Displayed In Library

Demi-tasse cups from all over the world have been on display in Reis library this week. Arranged by Miss Berneice Prisk, those exhibited are a part of a larger collection by Miss Laila Skinner.

On high school day, drawings, paintings and handicraft done by undergraduates in the various art classes will be displayed by the art department, under the direction of Miss Miriam Brubaker.

The circulation department of the library has been collecting books and pamphlets on Russia which will be on display next week. Another feature will be the exhibition of the prize-winning photographs of the Meadville Camera Club.

Skinner To Confer
On Post-War Troubles

Miss Laila Skinner, dean of women, will leave next Wednesday for the conference on "War and Post-War Employment and its Demands for Educational Adjustments" to be held on May 4 and 5 in Washington, D. C.

Sponsored by the Institute of Women's Professional Relations, the conference will deal with immediate and post-war problems for trained personnel as a matter of general occupational outlook. To define public policy on post-war employment will be one of the aims of the two-day program.

Allegheny Team Won

The affirmative was represented by Sophie Morrow, '47, and Rae Marsteller, '47; the negative by Joan West, '47, and Robert Tidmarsh, '47.

After the debate the Allegheny students were taken on a tour of the buildings and campus of the university, including the newly constructed nationality rooms, the chapel, and the Stephen Foster Memorial.

The purpose of this letter is to let you know of the change of my whereabouts. I have been transferred from school—Yale of all places—to Fletcher General Hospital at Cambridge, Ohio. I wish you would hereby correct your address book to this effect so I might get my campuses sooner. They are one of the few ties I have left directly to Allegheny.

Please pardon this awful writing and English. I'm sure if Dr. Swartley would see this he'd wonder how anyone could have gotten by in this condition. You see, at the present I am a ward boy on a 12-hour shift—at nights, and I get awfully tired about now and can't think or write straight.

Keep the Campus coming. I appreciate it greatly.

My regards to everyone on the campus and may Allegheny go on forever. I hope to come back some day.

Italy
April 7, 1944

This bit of "info" is really for the books. I met Lt. William LeRoy Schneck (ex-'41, just plain Schneck to those of us who knew him well) in New York before coming overseas. Since then I have seen him quite often, both in Africa and in Italy where the hospital to which he is assigned is close by.

Just the other day we learned of the whereabouts of another one of the Brothers. So we tracked him down. Last night we had a three-some Phi Delt reunion—Lt. Edgar Scott Wood (ex-'40), Schneck, and I. It was almost like the good old bull sessions we used to have at the Phi Delt House at Allegheny.

During the course of the evening, we told of meeting various other Alleghenians overseas and of our experiences in the various countries in which we have been.

At present we are in Italy. Don't let anyone kid you, all three of us would be in heaven if we were home with our wives and families. But, there is a war to be finished, so—

I know that Schneck and Ed share my feelings and wish to express their gratitude for sending the Campus and Allegheny Alumni Bulletin to us. No kidding, it brings back so many pleasant memories.

Well, that's about all for now. If anything new develops, I shall let you know.

Sincerely,
William J. Barner (ex-'43)

Despite my altered address, I'm still "somewhere in Italy," which means plenty of mud and mountains, but as long as there's lots of good G. I. company I can't complain.

I was interested in Sgt. Carother's remark in his recent letter, (Campus, Jan. 13) in which he mentioned that the women's place is in the home. It seems to me that the nurses serve an important purpose in the war, but the WACs and the Red Cross girls sure look helpless over here. I'm probably prejudiced, though.

According to the latest Campus, the Bond Drive is really going good, and the other activities at Allegheny are showing that it's the same lively, worthwhile place as ever, and I certainly appreciate getting my Campus and thus being able to keep up on all the many recent changes.

Thanks again and my best wishes to everybody.

Sincerely,
Cpl. DeForest A. Matteson

The Stars and Stripes Editors of the Campus:

How you've done it I don't know, but in spite of negligence in reporting those changes of address you've kept better track of me than the family. I have not missed a copy yet and for that, thanks very much. The copies get a real workout here for everyone, whether he's an Alleghenian or not, reads them during the break in the training program. One of the questions in the company's mind now is, whether or not a woman should be allowed to manage politics, and there's a strong faction for both sides of the battle.

I've been especially interested in reading the letters you've published from other camps. Wes Donaldson and I visited Hank Gardner shortly before he went across and he said then that we would probably be hearing from him through the column. I've been grateful for those addresses, too, for it's easy to lose contact with the fellows when we're constantly getting moved around.

Allegheny can be thankful that it has Aviation Cadets. The dismissal, or shall we say scrapping of the A.S.T.P. left the Delaware social schedules a little flat. All the men in my training outfit are former A.S.T.P.'s and where we were formerly using our brains to get ahead we are now using our feet. Which may answer the question, "Where did the A.S.T.P. go?"

Thanks again for the constant supply of college news, it's really appreciated. I might say that the Kaldron came my way while I was still at Delaware and it circulated too. The sorority pages are a bit worn: more Kaldrons, say one per Post Exchange, would increase the Allegheny enrollment no end.

Gratefully yours,
Pvt. Cal. Schaffner

I want to thank you for the many copies of the Campus which you sent to me while I was at Hobart. Now I am separated from Alleghenians completely and it "does me good" to hear from the school and the fellows I knew there. My new address is as follows:
