

6 Février, 1914.

Madame

I am sending by this post 2 copies of "Notre Gazette" in which appears the first article of your delightful work.

I received the March number safely, but it does not contain any portraits. Were there not photographs to go with this number? If so, it would be a great help and would add to the interest of the story. May I ask you to send on any that you have?

I regret so much that the editor neglected to give credit to the American Magazine, but it was an oversight. The next number will have the mistake rectified.

Later, I hope to have it come out either as a book complete, or as a continued story in other magazines.

With my excuses and my best thanks and compliments, believe me, chère Madame,
to be
yours very sincerely.
