Regulation of - Boston seems to have attempted it - could be done by law for in 1633 it forbade men as well as women buying or making clothes with more than one shade of sleeves and in back, it forbade embroidery & decorations generally for six years later - it forbade wearing a half length sleeve - expressing the fear - also that hereafter no person what ever shall make any garment for women, or any of their sex, with sleeves more than half an ell wide in the widest place thereof. And proportionably for larger & smaller persons.

LEFAND STAFFORD JUNIOR UNIVERSITY

OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT

A WHITE WOMAN'S BURDEN.

(From the London Chronicle.)
 Mr. Grant Ramsey thinks that if dumb animals were forced to carry such burdens as the large hats now affected by some ladies, protests would be made in the name of humanity. Women were even more overburdened in mid-Victorian days.

According to Herr Otto Fischel, whose "Costume in the Nineteenth Century" is written with German thoroughness, "about 1855 a lady of fashion wore a flannel petticoat, an under-petticoat 5 1/2 yards wide, a petticoat wedged to the knees and stiffened in the upper part with whalebones, a petticoat with three stiffly starched flounces, two muslin petticoats and then a skirt.

Even if all these were made of light stuff, the weight and discomfort of such a quantity of material was so great that the idea of a steel crinoline was greeted enthusiastically, and the inventor cleared £20,000 out of it in a fortnight."

Many of the queerest & most-apparently most meaningless fashions may have originated like this - for balance was not the high price to carry headless, mil-really at receipt - a skin pressure.

Has not women's costume followed her attitude towards the male - 25. Modesty direction, openly smiling - the crowd much repellent.
