

Dr. Tolley Inaugurated Friday

ADDITION TO LIBRARY IS DEDICATED AT IMPRESSIVE CEREMONIES SATURDAY

In a beautiful sunlit outdoor setting at the foot of Library Hill, Mr. A. A. Culbertson, Chairman of the Board of Trustees, on Saturday morning accepted for the College an enlarged and remodeled library, the gift of William Edward Reis, '69, of California.

The library, doubled in size and possessing greatly improved facilities as well as a number of modern innovations, such as the latest Sneed stack installation and lighting, a "browsing room," research cubicles, and reading alcoves, was presented by Dr. William H. Crawford, President Emeritus, in behalf of the donor, who was unable to be present.

After the rendition of a selection by the college band, followed by an invocation by the Rev. Bruce S. Wright, D.D., of Buffalo, Dr. Crawford addressed the thousand assembled students, alumni, and friends, relating in his talk, "Two Gifts," the story of Mr. Reis' gift, in 1901, of the original library, and again in 1930, of the new addition.

Mr. A. A. Culbertson then accepted the Keys of the structure, after which he presented them to Miss Edith Rowley, College Librarian. At this point Miss Rowley was in receipt of a beautiful bouquet of roses.

The Allegheny Singers then made their appearance, rendering two selections. Following this, William Warner Bishop, Litt.D., LL.D., Librarian of the University of Michigan, and chairman of the Carnegie Foundation committee on libraries, delivered the dedicatory address, "American College Libraries of Today," touching on the deplorable lack of provision for expansion characteristics of many college libraries.

The ceremony closed with reading a telegram of thanks to the donor from Dr. Tolley, and the singing of "Near the Vale." Immediately thereafter the building was opened for inspection. Hundreds availed themselves of this opportunity during the day and on Sunday, commenting upon the beauty of the interior, enhanced by a dozen or more large baskets of flowers, the gifts of the business firms, contractors, and workmen interested in the construction and furnishing of the building.

In addition to those on the platform who took part in the program, were C. W. Balton, architect; A. A. Wishart, general contractor; Charles Franklin, superintendent of construction; and A. L. Porter, resident architect. A number of celebrities were present in spirit. Among those from whom congratulatory telegrams were received were: Mr. Carl H. Milan, secretary of the American Library Association; Wharton Miller, Director of Libraries at the University of Syracuse; Mr. Asa Don Dickinson, Librarian of the University of Pennsylvania;

Mr. Edward A. Henry, Director of Libraries at the University of Cincinnati; Walter C. Green, Cleveland Public Librarian, formerly Librarian of the Unitarian Theological School; and Mr. Julian Alvin Carroll, Librarian of William and Mary College, and Dr. Melvil Deney, formerly of the N. Y. State Library at Albany.

Dr. Crawford in his presentation address, reviewed in detail the history of the building, relating how he was in 1901 moved to seek a much needed library to take its place with the newly donated Chapel and Observatory.

Postponing his sabbatic leave, he prepared a list of six men whom he might ask to share the burden of cost. The first two, one of whom was Frank A. Arter, even then secretly planning the gift of an endowment fund, were unenthusiastic. The third, Mr. Reis, himself contributed the whole of the required sum, and when additional funds were later needed, again came to Dr. Crawford's aid.

For nearly thirty years the building successfully served its purpose; then rapidly increasing demands made expansion imperative. Again Dr. Crawford, commissioned by the Board of Trustees, was the emissary of the College, and again his request was answered with a substantial gift, making possible the improvements to the library just completed.

Dr. Crawford closed with a tribute to the man who stands second upon the list of those who have contributed large sums to the welfare of the college: "We honor him for the rich contribution he has made to the welfare of his Alma Mater. And we honor him for the fine spirit of modesty in which he has done it. We gratefully place his name in conspicuous place on the honor roll of the generous donors to the College."

Dr. William Warner Bishop, in his learned and pointed dedicatory address, "American College Libraries of Today," introduced his subject with a discussion of the enormous diversity of American colleges, with their professional, vocational, and scientific courses, only vaguely in keeping with the spirit of the liberal arts college.

Not unlike the haphazard arrangement of college courses has been the lack of planning in the development of college libraries, often inferior to the laboratories in the same colleges.

The investigations of the advisory group of the Carnegie Corporation, in selecting colleges to which grants of books might be made, have revealed that of 200 colleges, only a minority possess one quarter of a list of 14,000 books listed by an authority as being desirable for a college library. "It is desirable for a college library." "It is desirable for a college library." "It is desirable for a college library." Continued on page 3

INTERESTING PROGRAM AT INAUGURAL DINNER

The Inaugural Dinner given last Friday evening in Hulings Hall in honor of President Tolley proved a very successful ending of the inaugural events.

Toastmaster Frank P. Miller began the program with several humorous remarks concerning the academic procession. As he watched the Academic procession from the Library steps, he was unable to decide whether it was a funeral procession, a run on the bank, or a bread line. His opinion was that it bore the greatest resemblance to the latter.

President Tolley was congratulated by Chancellor Flint of Syracuse. Mr. Flint went on jokingly to show that Dr. Tolley is not exceptionally young to hold this position as President by giving a list of achievements of men of the same age. Then, getting to the serious point of his talk, he proceeded to show the enormity of a presidential post.

The next speaker was Dr. Coss of Columbia, at which school Dr. Tolley earned his doctor's degree. He said that the curse which God had put on Adam and Eve, that of work, was really a gift, and that hard work would bring a portion of that lost garden to Allegheny.

Bringing greetings from the Department of Public Instruction, of which he is the head, Dr. Rule remarked about the position of woman students in Pennsylvania colleges. Finally he said that the need for the small college is great and that Dr. Tolley could be of invaluable aid.

A graduate of Allegheny, Miss Ida Tarbell, now a noted writer, was the next speaker. She said that co-education was an experiment and that the proof of success was what it had done for the individual. Material success has been over-emphasized and the final test of the value of a college education will be judged by what it has accomplished for the home.

The final address was given by Ernest H. Wilkins, President of Oberlin College, and President of the Association of American Colleges. His address dealt with the great change in the entire network of colleges. This change is one of vital growth, not revolution. During the past century three major changes have occurred. The first is a great addition to the extent of the curricula. Co-education, with both men and women taking the same courses, is the second. The third change is the rise of extra-curricular activities. In the past ten years many changes have occurred, the most important of which is the tendency toward making the first two years general and broad in scope, reserving the final two years for specialization and mastery in a chosen field. However the greatest thing in American colleges, the search for and the use of Truth, has not been changed.

Toastmaster Miller closed by stating that the pressing need today was not smaller problems but bigger men and women.

CAST FOR "ARMS AND THE MAN" ANNOUNCED

All Characters Not as Yet Selected. Play Will be Presented in November.

Miss Spaulding, the Director of the Student Playshop, and her assistant, Mr. Hulbert, announce that the following students have been selected for the cast of "Arms and the Man," the first full-length production of the season: Jane Blair, L. Bramer Carlson, Jack Fallon, Louis Haberman, Jean Holman, Earl Kohn, Virginia Slacum.

The play as yet has not been completely cast, but the remaining characters will be selected within a few days and rehearsals will begin immediately. A stage crew has begun work on a model set, and the actual construction of the set will be under way as soon as the model is completed.

No definite dates for the performances have been selected but it is known that the play will be presented sometime around the 15th of November, before the Thanksgiving recess.

"Arms and the Man" presents several interesting problems from the standpoints of both production and acting, and if these are successfully worked out the production will be an outstanding achievement in the history of the Student Playshop. It might be noted that "Arms and the Man" is the libretto of the light opera, "The Chocolate Soldier," which Strauss set to music from Shaw's successful play.

Prof. Luvaas Expects Outstanding Season For Famous Singers

Professor M. J. Luvaas already has his famous "Allegheny Singers" well organized this year and in doing this he has instituted a new group which will be designated as "The College Singers."

"The College Singers" is like an athletic second team, its purpose being to season people for the more experienced singers. There are 76 students enrolled in this new group. As far as possible, the same music will be used by both organizations, and as the new men become routinized to choral work, they will be advanced into the older chorus. Thus Prof. Luvaas has a check on the advanced unit. "The College Singers" meet every Wednesday afternoon at 4:00.

The Singers enjoyed the rare privilege of singing "Near the Vale" before the Fox News microphone on Friday afternoon. Then they sang for the new president at his inaugural banquet the same evening. Their program was: Peasants' Wedding March—Sodermann; Cherubim Song—Glinka; and Czech Slovakian Dance Song—Kibalschick.

Saturday morning brought them again to the fore with their appearance at the library dedication. They sang: Beautiful Savior—Christiansen; and Gospodi Pomolul—Lvovsky.

MANY ALUMNI RETURN FOR HOMECOMING DAY

Inauguration and Dedication of Library Features of Annual Event.

The multi-featured celebration of Homecoming Day last week-end attracted a large number of alumni to renew "old acquaintance." Many graduates who had attended the inauguration of President Tolley on Friday stayed over for the events of Saturday.

The Homecoming program opened in the morning with the dedication of Reis Memorial Library, with its recently completed addition and the complete alteration of the original interior. Dr. Tolley presided at the dedication, at which President Emeritus Dr. W. H. Crawford and Dr. W. W. White of Michigan were the speakers.

The alumni were guests of the college at a buffet luncheon in Cochran Hall at noon, and in the afternoon the entire Allegheny body assembled in Montgomery to witness the inspiring triumph over Westminster which the home team obligingly provided for the occasion.

The Trustees and their wives met later in the afternoon at a tea served by Dr. and Mrs. Tolley. All the fraternities, as well, entertained extensively for numerous guests after the game.

For many the climax of the evening was no doubt the Allcollege dance in the gymnasium, where about 175 couples gathered to enjoy the music of Kress' Olympians, with the decorations left from the inauguration ceremony on the preceding day as an effective background. Chaperones were Mr. and Mrs. Harley Morris, Mr. and Mrs. H. Paul Way, and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Daniels. Homer Moody was chairman of the committee.

Men enrolled in undergraduate schools believe there are too many dances at Pitt. Coeds think that more dance events could be added without crowding the social calendar.

NOTICE

The hours for taking individual pictures for the Kaldron have been slightly revised. The new schedule is as follows: 10 A. M. to 12 noon, and 1:00 to 5:00 P. M.

The schedule of the fraternities is as follows: Oct. 19 to the 23rd, Phi Kappa Psi, Delta Tau Delta, Phi Delta Theta, and Kappa Kappa Gamma; Oct. 26 to the 30th, Phi Gamma Delta, Kappa Alpha Theta, Beta Upsilon, and Theta Upsilon; Nov. 2nd to the 6th, Beta Kappa, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Alpha Chi Rho, and Alpha Gamma Delta; Nov. 9th to the 13th, Delta Alpha Theta, Alpha Xi Delta, and Alpha Chi Omega.

Letters have been sent to the fraternities and sororities reporting the general information about them. Non-fraternity and non-sorority seniors can come at any time during the above period.

DISTINGUISHED VISITORS ARE PRESENT FOR GREAT INAUGURATION CEREMONY

Dr. William Pearson Tolley was formally inaugurated as the 13th president of Allegheny College in the presence of 1,000 persons at impressive inaugural ceremonies in the College Gymnasium Friday afternoon, the official charge and oath of office being administered on behalf of the Board of Trustees by Andrew W. Robertson, of Pittsburgh.

Administration of the oath to the 31-year-old executive was followed by President Tolley's inaugural address on "The Liberal College Looks to the Future" and preceded by a personal charge given in an aspiring address by Dr. Ezra Squier Tipple, former head of Drew University. Andrew A. Culbertson, of Erie, chairman of the Board of Trustees, presided, the invocation was delivered by President W. H. McMaster, of Mt. Union College, and the benediction by President Emeritus William H. Crawford, of Allegheny.

Dr. Tolley, who came here from Drew University where he had been dean of Brothers College, is one of the youngest college presidents in the United States. He was elected to the position by the Board of Trustees on March 13, this year, and took up his residence in Meadville on July 1.

Friday's inaugural exercises began in the gymnasium after the 166 visiting delegates, members of the Board and of the College faculty, together with Dr. Tolley and the speakers, filed in academic procession from Hulings Hall to the seat of the inaugural between long lines of Allegheny College students.

A dramatic note was injected into the impressive procession when it reached the gymnasium doors. Six trumpets selected from among the students sounded a series of clarion notes, written especially for the occasion by Morton J. Luvaas, musical director of the College.

The long processional order of several hundred persons was headed by the Harvard University representatives. Behind came delegates of other colleges and universities in the order of founding of the institutions, representatives of learned societies, members of the College Board of Trustees, members of the faculty, the students, Dr. Tolley and the inaugural speakers. As these entered the gymnasium, the orchestra played the "Coronation March" from Folkunger, by Kretschner.

Inside the large building, as the ceremonies opened, Dr. Tolley, the speakers, the delegates, the faculty and the trustees were all seated on the large platform. The students occupied bleacher seats to the right and left, with other spectators on the seats on the gymnasium floor and in the balcony.

The interior of the gymnasium was an unforgettable picture, after the ceremonies had been opened. With the delegates and others attired in academic robes, many with colorful insignias of their educational status, on the platform and every seat on the floor, in the bleachers and the balconies occupied, the decorative effects added to the beauty of the sight.

At the east end of the building, high above the balcony, was a large blue banner with the words, "Allegheny College." Blue and gold bunting hung from the lower part of the balcony and American flags were draped about the upstairs walls. The space at either side of the speakers' rostrum, immediately in front of the platform, was filled with palms.

With Mr. Culbertson presiding, Dr. McMasters gave the invocation as the exercises opened. Dr. Tipple, former head of Drew University, from which Dr. Tolley was graduated in 1925 and where he served as Dr. Tipple's assistant from 1925 to 1928, had an inspiring message as he delivered a "Personal Charge" to the youthful college executive who, only six years ago, was a student under him.

"The Task of a College President" was the title of the address given by Dr. Tipple in making his personal charge to Dr. Tolley. The concluding excerpt from it—the personal charge—being as follows:

"Today, President Tolley, your trustees through their distinguished representatives, will give you your badge of authority, your faculty have already given and received a ring, a pledge of loyalty to true learning; you yourself have written a book which is both evidence of knowledge acquired and a purpose to share it with others; and now I give you what has been in my heart since I first knew you, unbounded confidence and affection, the assurance of my constant prayers for your ever-increasing success, and my blessing."

Mr. Robertson chairman of the board of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Co., and a member of the College Board of Trustees, then delivered the official charge and administered the oath of office that made Dr. Tolley one of the youngest college heads in the entire country. Both the charge and the oath were administered briefly, but with impressiveness.

The official charge of Mr. Robertson was a brief address in which the trustees' representative outlined the responsibilities of the position, especially in an historic liberal arts college such as Allegheny, rich with tradition and marked, withal, by progressive development over more than a century.

Administration of the oath followed immediately. Mr. Robertson asked Dr. Tolley:

"Do you swear in the presence of Almighty God and the assembled witnesses that you will discharge with fidelity and to the best of your ability the duties of the presidency of Allegheny College and that you will support the Constitution of the United States and of the Commonwealth of that for your stewardship of time and talents in the leadership of this Christian College, you shall, in the last analysis, be accountable to the Great Teacher?"

Dr. Tolley answered, "I do."

President Tolley's incisive, interesting address on "The Liberal College Looks to the Future" came as the feature event of the exercises. The (Continued on page 3)

FRATERNITIES SELECT SPEAKERS FOR CONTEST

The following men were chosen by the fraternities and the non-fraternity group to compete in the annual Interfraternity Extemporaneous Speaking Contest to be held on Friday, October 16:

Charles Shaw, Phi Gamma Delta; Jack Fallon, Phi Kappa Psi; Frank Helfrich, Delta Tau Delta; Bramer Carlson, Phi Delta Theta; Donald Williams, Sigma Alpha Epsilon; George Johnston, Alpha Chi Rho; Arthur Crawford, Beta Upsilon; Jack Worrall, Beta Kappa; and Paul Tesman, Non-Fraternity.

The contest is being sponsored by Delta Sigma Rho, honorary forensic fraternity. Each contestant is required to appear by eleven o'clock in the Oratory of the Chapel to draw for topics.

Five of the fraternities will be striving to obtain a second leg on the trophy which must stay three years in the possession of one chapter before it can be permanently held. The trophy is now in the possession of Beta Upsilon, the cup having been awarded to William Boetcker last year. Previous winners have been: Van Osler Hammett, Phi Gamma Delta; Bert H. McGill, Delta Tau Delta; Robert F. Rutherford, Phi Delta Theta; and Howard N. Plate, Alpha Chi Rho.

One week after the men's competition, Delta Sigma Rho will sponsor a women's contest. This will be the second intersorority contest, the first one having been held last year with Miss Adele Ely, of Alpha Chi Omega, being awarded first prize. The cup awarded to the women will also go to the sorority which wins the contest three times.

The rules governing both contests will be the same. Each Greek-letter group and the non-fraternity and non-sorority bodies are limited to one representative, who must not be a member of Delta Sigma Rho. One hour before the contest, each competitor will be given his exact topic, all of which are to be concerned with local campus problems. After one hour's preparation in a room where only writing materials are available, each contestant will be permitted to speak for three minutes.

IMPRESSIONS OF THE WEEKEND.

October 9 and 10 will go down in history as two of the most auspicious days in the history of Allegheny College. Correct and enjoyable in every detail were the events on the program, inspiring enough to thrill every son and daughter of the college for years past.

Many persons deserve commendations for their conspicuous part in making the event a success, but the greatest part of our praise goes out to the Student Senate for its excellent cooperation and spirit. The manner of its conduct reflects considerable glory upon the student body of Allegheny and made it possible for the undergraduates to consider themselves a real part of the celebration.

The inauguration was inspiring to every spectator. The excellence of the addresses, the mighty spectacle of the audience, and the efficient conducting of the ceremonies will remain a part of our memories for years to come. The message of President Tolley in his inaugural address is to be classed as a significant one in the educational world.

Further proof of Allegheny's reputation was found in the eagerness of the representative of a large newsreel company to record the whole event and flash the scene before theatre-goers throughout the country. When at times we are somewhat dissatisfied with the college, we should realize our position in the consideration of the outside world and forget our petty troubles.

Allegheny took another step forward with the dedication of the vastly improved Reis Library. Modern and comfortable in every detail, the building will afford to the students unlimited opportunities for study and research that have been denied them before. The praise for this excellent work cannot be too lavish when one considers the type of construction done. We are hoping that this is just one of the steps in the building program of the future.

The football game speaks for itself when eleven inspired Alleghenians completely humiliated the highly-touted Westminster team in the first major game of the season. The players deserve praise, yes—unlimited praise, but we cannot let the students and the cheerleaders go unheralded after their commendable feat on Friday and Saturday. Reviving the dying spirit and injecting new life into the students, they brought out thundering cheers at every opportunity. We see an undefeated Allegheny team this year if the leaders—and we know they will—continue the good work of the last weekend.

The celebration was brought to a fitting close by one of the best dances in years. When one considers the stupendous task of the committee in planning all the arrangements with no compensation other than the gratitude of the student body, he will realize how some are working for the betterment of the college.

Perhaps it will seem from what has gone before that we have been too lavish in our praise after some of the other type of writing that has appeared in this column. But we are sincere in every sentence and believe that credit should be given where it is due. We have maintained a critical policy, thinking that some of the evils will be eradicated and a better school will result from such action. If we have offended or criticized unjustly, we are sorry and ask that all comment be received in the spirit it is given. With such a college for our Alma Mater, there is no room for contention. Instead every student should work for the betterment of the school by becoming imbued with the correct Allegheny spirit.

Forensic Fraternity Held Annual Meet at Evanston in June

Delta Sigma Rho, honorary forensic fraternity, held its national convention in Evanston, Illinois, June 22, 23, 24, at the North Shore Hotel. There were delegates from Yale, Dartmouth, Minnesota, Mt. Holyoke, Stanford, and many other colleges and universities. Allegheny was one of the smallest schools represented, Miss Vera Dawson being the delegate.

Several changes were made in the national constitution, the more important of which are as follows:

1. Chapters may now initiate members at any time during the junior year.
2. An instructor in public speaking who is not eligible to membership will be admitted to all rights in local membership. That is, he may attend meetings, assist in initiations, etc., except wear the national key of Delta Sigma Rho.
3. A five year survey plan is to be undertaken by the Executive Council which plan will include investigation of all chapters. The best chapters will be visited this year.

On the third day of the convention, the famous "negro question" was maneuvered to the floor after much strategy on the part of Yale and Ohio Wesleyan. Extremely heated discussions followed. The discussions were so intense that the president was afraid that the southern chapters would secede if it was decided to allow negroes to become members of the organization. On the other hand, Cornell threatened to secede if negroes were not admitted. Yale upheld Cornell. The convention was very interesting at this point, but no decision was reached. It was necessary to amend the constitution in order to allow a vote to be taken at that point, and the amendment was not carried. After more lengthy discussions, in which the speeches were limited to three minutes, it was decided that each chapter should vote this fall upon the question and should send its vote to Miss Duggan, the national secretary.

TRUSTEES IN MEETING BEFORE INAUGURATION

With 31 members in attendance, the Allegheny College Board of Trustees held a brief meeting in the Chamber of Commerce rooms Friday morning, in connection with the inaugural and homecoming weekend of the college.

A. A. Culbertson, chairman, of Erie, presided, with Hon. F. J. Prather, of Pittsburgh, as secretary.

The Board discussed several matters of business having to do with the College, referring these to committees and taking no formal action on anything of importance.

The participation of the trustees in the Friday afternoon processional and inauguration exercises was discussed, and final plans for this being drawn up. The meeting, which opened about 11 o'clock, adjourned at noon.

PI DELTA EPSILON ISSUES NINE BIDS

Bids have been extended to nine men by Pi Delta Epsilon, national professional journalism fraternity. It is probable that action will be taken on these bids at a meeting some time this week, after which announcement of the new members should be forthcoming.

At a recent meeting held in the Latin and Greek Seminar in the Library, plans for the year were discussed. Tentative plans call for an initiation banquet on October 21. While it has been true in the past that membership in Pi Delta Epsilon has been purely honorary, it is the intention of the members that Pi Delta Epsilon assume a more active part in campus affairs this year.

The officers of this organization are: Charles Shaw, President; John Werle, Vice-President, and Charles Mills, Secretary-Treasurer.

Dr. H. L. Donovan, President of the Eastern Kentucky State Teachers College, has charged that selling of teaching appointments and giving them to relatives exists on a large scale in the state.

'GATORS OVERWHELM WESTMINSTER IN HOMECOMING DAY FOOTBALL CLASSIC

The Allegheny grid team celebrated Homecoming Day by scoring a decisive 39-7 victory over the Westminster eleven in one of the most colorful games seen in recent years at Montgomery Field, notwithstanding the lopsided score. From the opening kick-off to the final whistle the game was featured by the fighting spirit, clever passing, consistent gaining, and above all, the brilliant headwork of the Blue and Gold's offensive drives, and by the stubbornness of its defensive wall. Westminster was completely outclassed in every phase of football art, securing but four first downs of which three were obtained in the last half by forward passing, while the Alligators accumulated sixteen.

The "breaks" went against the 'Gators in the first period. Taking the ball on the kick-off Allegheny hammered the Westminster line back to the twelve yard line, only to lose the ball on a fumble. A few minutes later they were only twenty yards from a possible score when the Titans recovered another unlucky fumble and kicked out of danger to mid-field.

The 'Gators opened up the second quarter by scoring a touchdown on the first play, a long thirty yard pass from Berger to Garbark who snared the ball from between two would-be interceptors and outran them on a twenty yard sprint to the goal. Varano's placement kick was blocked. Westminster elected to kick, and after a few exchanges of punts the Blue and Gold machine started on a sixty yard drive down the field, making three consecutive first downs by means of three cleverly executed passes of from twelve to fifteen yards each, then hitting the Westminster line for another first down five yards from the goal, over which Berger plunged on the second play. Varano converted the point this time, making the count 13-0, and the half ended a few minutes later.

The third period started with Allegheny receiving, but through a twenty yard loss in penalties Berger was forced to kick behind his own goal line. Westminster returned the ball to Allegheny's seventeen yard line, hit the line for their initial first down, and managed to summon enough strength to push over a touchdown in the next four plays, and make the extra point good. The Titans never again threatened during the rest of the game, but the Alligator came back with surprising energy to score twice in this quarter. The first came when Cort blocked a kick deep in Titan territory and Garbark, surrounded by Westminster men, caught it and rushed twenty yards for his second tally. The point was made good. The second in this period came a few minutes later when Berger intercepted a Titan pass and reached the twenty yard line before he could be stopped. A pass, Berger to Garbark, placed the ball on the seven yard line from where Berger gained five through the line, then Varano crashed through center to put it across. He also converted the extra point. Late in the quarter Allegheny caught the victors off guard by kicking on a first down and Brown managed to nail the ball on Westminster's one yard line. Westminster punted, but Garbark returned it to the thirty yard line, from where a pass to Garbark netted twelve yards. Two line plunges placed it on the five yard line and gained another first down as the quarter ended.

On the second play in the last period Berger found a hole in the opposite line and registered his second touchdown. From this time on the Blue and Gold eleven was composed mainly of second string men, but the machine was still as strong as before. Roblee ended the scoring by snaring a Westminster pass and making a wide fifteen yard run to the scoring line. The Titans earned their third and fourth first downs by an aerial attack late in the period, but could not get beyond the center of the field.

ALLEGHENY HARRIERS LOSE TO PITT TEAM

Allegheny's cross country team again met defeat for the second time this season, this time at the hands of an exceptionally strong Pitt aggregation. For the first time in the history of Allegheny's cross country teams, a rival team succeeded in making a perfect score.

The Pitt team, composed of four veterans and one of last year's championship freshman team, finished in a group, all five tying for first place. The order of the men as they finished is: tie for first, Thiel, Pitt; Smoyer, Pitt; Watkins, Pitt; Clise, Pitt; Mazzei, Pitt; sixth, Lubic, Allegheny; seventh, Ish, Allegheny; eighth, Marks, Allegheny; ninth, Boiler, Allegheny; tenth, Morgan, Allegheny.

GILBERT REPRESENTS ALLEGHENY AT MEETING

Interfraternity Council Sends Delegate to Pittsburgh Conference.

Harmon H. Gilbert, representing Allegheny College, met with representatives of Carnegie Tech and the University of Pittsburgh at an Interfraternity Conference held in Pittsburgh, Friday and Saturday, October 9 and 10. This conference was held for the purpose of fostering better interfraternity relationships, and of discussing problems that are common to all fraternities.

The program opened Friday evening with a banquet held at the University Club of Pittsburgh. F. A. Goodfellow presided over this affair, and R. P. Ayars acted as Toastmaster. Dean R. C. Clothier, of the University of Pittsburgh, extended a speech of welcome to the representatives. Cecil J. Wilkinson, the National Secretary of Phi Gamma Delta, gave an address on an "Ideal Fraternity" followed by an address by Dr. F. Shepardson, the National President of Beta Theta Pi, on "Interfraternity Fellowship."

The following morning the officers of the different fraternities attended a series of Round Table Conferences, which were divided in five groups as follows: President's Conference, Alumni and Faculty Representative's Conference, Pledge Master's Conference, House Manager and Steward's Conference, and Treasurer's Conference.

Saturday afternoon the representatives witnessed a football game between the University of Pittsburgh and the University of West Virginia and in the evening attended a ball given in their honor.

Guests of the Conference were: Dr. F. Shepardson, Beta Theta Pi; Alvin E. Duer, Delta Tau Delta; Norman Macleod, Delta Tau Delta; Lewis M. Fushan, Phi Epsilon Pi; and Cecil J. Wilkinson, Phi Gamma Delta; Dean Arthur R. Priest, the National Secretary of Phi Delta Theta, was to have been a guest speaker, but was unable to attend.

Pennsylvania College Presidents Convene Here Friday Morning

A special meeting was held here Friday of the Association of College Presidents of Pennsylvania, gathered at Allegheny in honor of Dr. William P. Tolley, whose inauguration as President of Allegheny College took place that day.

The Association was addressed by James N. Rule, new State Superintendent of Public Instruction, who outlined the scope of the present activities of the Education Department and referred to the new 10-year programme for development of public education, planned for Pennsylvania, and by E. Warren Brown, of Chicago, ex-Secretary of the Liberal Arts College movement who spoke on "The Case of the Small College." The Association also heard readings from Walter G. Clippinger, of Otterbein College, Westerville, O., a member of the committee of 15 on the national Liberal Arts Movement who is active in work of the Association of College Presidents of Ohio.

The Association came to Meadville from Grove City, where it was present at the dedication of the new chapel and science buildings of Grove City College Thursday.

DISTINGUISHED VISITORS

"These prophecies may not be at all accurate," President Tolley said. "Certainly the steady increase in the strength of the liberal college would lead us to believe that the educational prophets are unduly pessimistic. It might be well for us to examine the American college more critically to see what purpose it serves what task it has and what distinctive contribution it can make in the continued growth and increasing influence.

The new president then presented a summary of the development of liberal arts colleges, telling how, after starting with vocational aims they came after a few decades to training and more and more for a purely intellectual and cultural ideal. "He continued his address by 'looking into the future,' first declaring that the 'whole man, the whole boy, who is mind, body, character and soul all in one,' will not be lost sight of by the liberal arts college of the future. This attitude has led to much criticism, however, Dr. Tolley said, quoting critics who said that the 'class rooms, the playing fields and the chapel, instead of helping one another along, got in one another's way."

President Tolley affirmed that "the introduction of courses in music and the history and appreciation of art, the development of little theatres, the attention given to correct speech and posture, the giving of faculty rank to all athletic coaches, and the increasing importance attached to golf, handball, swimming, archery, fencing, tennis and other sports that may be played all through life are surely steps in the right direction."

The liberal arts college is "desperately needed" as a center of culture as well, Dr. Tolley declared; "If the people of our Nation come to yearn for something more than circuses and jumping jacks, and sooner or later they must, they will find it in the liberal college."

He concluded the address with the firm declaration that the liberal arts college of the future will face religious problems in a courageous manner. "It will not hesitate," he said, "to apply the teaching of Jesus to the problem of racial and international relationships. It will not hesitate to tell the truth about militarism and our war system. It will not hesitate to advocate sweeping social and political reforms, and it will remind its students in a thousand ways that the demands of ethical religion are to do justly, and to love mercy, and to walk humbly with their God."

Following President Tolley's address, President Emeritus Crawford pronounced the benediction, and the delegates, faculty members, speakers and trustees filed out of the building in recession to the strains of "Anthony's Triumph" by Gounod, played by Lord's orchestra. The recession ended at Hulings Hall.

ADDITION TO LIBRARY

(Continued from page 1.) lows," stated Dr. Bishop, "that teaching in our colleges has been starved for the want of necessary books." The building themselves, the speaker continued, are in great measure inadequately planned for future expansion. Money for library endowment, too, is often insufficient though greatly needed. Dr. Bishop stated, "I cannot too strongly emphasize the need for further endowments for college libraries, and for book funds and the service which they render. Few benefactions will yield more ample results in the course of centuries."

The remedy suggested by the speaker for difficulties encountered by present day college libraries is careful future planning. "It is," he said, "for us, the librarians, and for you who are administrators to study this problem together so that the American college library in the future shall far surpass and outshine the American college library of today."

The building committee, of which Professor Lee D. McClean is chairman, had given much time and study to the problems involved in enlarging the building. Dr. John Richie Schultz, chairman of the Library Committee, succeeding Dr. W. A. Elliott, who was abroad during the erection of the building, together with the members of the entire Library Committee, was also in large measure responsible for the success of the building. Mr. McClean, Mr. Porter, and the Librarian made many trips to some of the best library plants in the country studying these newer buildings. The results are clearly seen in the advanced engineering and many conveniences found in the Reis Library. The Executive Committee of the College has also been of great assistance in the carrying out of the plans; and the interest and support of the Trustees has enabled the project to be carried forward to completion.

Dr. Bishop, who, made a careful examination of the building, was enthusiastic in his praise of the way the problems had been met and the old and new parts made into a unit, both useful and beautiful.

ALLEGHENY TO MEET THIEL AWAY SATURDAY

Stiffer Opposition to be Encountered at Greenville This Week.

Fresh from its third straight victory which climaxed Homecoming Day and eager for new foes to conquer, the Allegheny Alligator is snapping its jaws in anticipation of the encounter with Thiel College at Greenville this coming Saturday, October 17th. Despite the fact that Thiel has met defeat in its three games thus far, Allegheny can expect a real battle from start to finish.

Thiel opened the 1931 season by succumbing before the onslaught of the "Battering Rams" of Fordham by a 28 to 0 score. This score does not appear so one-sided when one considers that Fordham has one of the most formidable gridiron aggregations in the East. On the following Saturday, Thiel fell the victim of St. Bonaventure by a 21 to 0 count. Then the Greenville boys met Geneva; Geneva was fortunate to eke out a 7 to 0 victory. Sizing up the comparative strength of the two teams it is found that Allegheny has rolled up 111 points in three contests, while Thiel has not tallied once. However, Thiel will present a defense that should aptly test the Alligator's smashing offensive power. Allegheny will enter the fray favored to win, but remembering the tie scores of '28 and '29 and the close 6 to 0 victory of last season, it is apparent that the Blue and Gold must give everything it has to confirm predictions.

Few tennis matches have been played in the last week due to the rainy weather. For this same reason the time limit for the first round matches was extended to Monday, Oct. 12. Even with this added time, however, the results have been very slow in coming in. To date only two more matches have been played. The results were: Peterson defeated Bair 6-0, 6-0 in the third round, and Dunkle defeated Anderson, by a default in the second round. With the help of good weather all second round matches should be played by next week.

TURKEY RACE TO OPEN ALL ATHLETIC EVENTS

Volleyball begins Monday, Oct. 26; Swimming Meet after Thanksgiving.

Beginning with the Turkey Race on October 23, autumn intramural athletics embark upon an extensive schedule which will continue until the middle of December. A marked interest is being shown in the interfraternity cross-country run or the Turkey Race, so-called because a turkey is offered as a prize to the fraternity which cops first place. The report of the starter's gun which will send the contestants on their course will be heard at 4 o'clock Friday afternoon, October 23.

On Monday evening, October 26, the volleyball season swings into action with two games, the first to be played at 7:30 and the second following immediately. Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons, October 27 and 28 at 4 o'clock will see the football punting trials for eligibility in Sigma Delta Psi, the new athletic fraternity. Each person trying out will be given three attempts to punt the football 40 yards. After the Thanksgiving recess, the interfraternity swimming meet will be held.

The schedule for the first week of volleyball is as follows:

October 26—Beta Upsilon vs. Phi Delta Theta; Sigma Alpha Epsilon vs. Phi Kappa Psi.

October 27—Phi Gamma Delta vs. Alpha Chi Rho; Beta Kappa vs. Delta Tau Delta.

October 28—Non-fraternity vs. Beta Upsilon; Phi Delta Theta vs. Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

October 29—Alpha Chi Rho vs. Beta Kappa; Non-fraternity vs. Delta Tau Delta.

October 30—Phi Gamma Delta vs. Phi Kappa Psi; Sigma Alpha Epsilon vs. Alpha Chi Rho.
