'Moving-Up Day' Set For Tuesday, Changed To New Serious Program

Speeches and Awards Will Take Place of Old Humorous Program

In attempting to make the graduating exercises more impressive, this year's "Moving-up Day," scheduled in chapel Tuesday, at 11:00, will be keyed in a serious rather than a comical vein as has been the case in the past. Instead of the regular humorous skits and speeches, a serious program, including senior speeches and announcements of awards, will be substituted.

This move was decided upon by an A. U. C. committee working in conjunction with President William P. Tolley. It was planned in order to do away with the events that clutter up commencement and combine them into one major academic program.

As planned, the program will begin with an academic procession. This will be followed with selections by the Allegheny Singers. Addresses by the valedictorian and salutatorian, before part of the class day program, and the presentation of the class gift and flag is also included in the program. David Robertson will present the gift, the Bentley Tower light, on behalf of his class and President Tolley will accept it.

Announcement of the Phi Beta Kappa elections will be made by Mr. Julian Ross, and the year's prizes will be awarded by Dean Schultz. Both of these activities were formerly part of the commencement function. The ladder oration will be given by David Robertson and the junior response is scheduled for Robert Welday. After singing the "Alma Mater Beatissima," the audience will remain standing for the recessional.

The program will take an hour and a half and will begin at 11 o'clock. Classes during the morning will be shortened as follows: 8:00-8:40; 8:50-9:30; 9:40-10:20; 10:30-11:00.

In connection with the program the chapel will be specially decorated, arrangements being under the direction of John Hulburt and Philip M. Benjamin of the faculty.

Working with President Tolley on the program are Thomas Cort '41, chairman, David Robertson '41, William Robertson '44, Donna Ochsenhirt and Howard Gibbs both of '41.

The workshop will provide teachers, administrators, and those of college level, with the opportunity to work individually and in groups on the solution of problems arising in their own school situations.

The tuition charge for the course is $30 and in addition, there will be a workshop fee of $7.50. Three hours of academic credit will be given to each participant.

RE: THE LADIES

Editor of the Campus.
Dear Sir:

Recently I was talking to a prospective Allegheny student who had just come from a tour of the campus. She was very much impressed with the college until she visited the girl's dormitory. About this she spoke reluctantly. Here I quote: "It seems that all the girls in the dormitory do is swear, smoke cigarettes, slam doors, yell and run around n-k-d.

An interested alumna,
Marian M. Ramsay '39.

This communication was rather startling and we were half way over to the dormitory to investigate for ourselves before we decided, thinking swiftly, that things were perhaps not so bad as they seemed in the letter.

Those poor girls, we said to ourselves—they don't get half the praise that's due them. After all, they are under such constant scrutiny they ought to be allowed a bit of freedom at home. The building program's sure making it tough for them, too.

They are bearing up nobly under the strain of living in such insecure quarters, we mused. After all, they can't tell from one day to the next where they will be staying. Walls are being torn down all around them. Valiant troopers all, they carry on with scarcely any complaint.

Then, too, we thought to ourselves, they still manage to command interest. Queues of males still form at the dormitory before dances.

What the heck, just as long as they don't act like that out in the open it's all right with us. We never lived in a dormitory that was being remodeled and rebuilt, but if we should have to we might possibly take up smoking ourselves or even bang a couple of doors just out of sheer devilry.

CHEERFUL NEWS

CLASS OFFICERS for next year have been chosen. Members of the undergraduate council have taken the places which they will hold next year. New leaders in all the campus organizations have been selected. New editors of the three student publications have been named.

Work on the new dormitory is speeding. Plans for the new campus have been completed. Eberhart field is being prepared for use. A new coach, to succeed Karl J. Lawrence is being sought. New courses have been planned for the coming year.

The college is going forward with its plans for next year without interruption. Nothing, not even threat of American involvement in the war, is keeping the college from its ordinary pursuits. Plans for education are going on without interruption.

There's something cheering about news like that. Somehow it seems to spell defeat for the forces that haven't paid much attention to freedom and unrestricted learning. Dictatorships and all the things they stand for can't buck an enlightened people. Allegheny, and the other colleges and universities, are continuing to build an enlightened people. It's cheerful news.

ANOTHER YEAR

ANOTHER SCHOOL YEAR is almost ended and the Campus closes down for the summer. This year, however, it's not so easy to stop. There are a great many things to think about.

First of all, there's the possibility that the United States may be at war when the next issue makes its appearance. Then, too, even if war is not declared (assuming the United States is old-fashioned enough to declare war), the college will still lose a great many students under the selective draft.

Living conditions will be changed. Everything will be going toward a tremendous armed force. We will all feel the pinch. There'll be more sacrifice then.

We don't know what to suggest. We don't know what will happen. There is one thing of which we are certain, however—everyone should act and think and live intelligently. Everyone should work, and work hard. It is almost certain that a great effort on the part of the people will be required, war or not. A preparation for those times will be a great aid toward making them pass more swiftly.

A resolute people, a strong people will be more ready to defend America, but it will take work and sacrifice. By becoming strong now we can be ready for anything.

The A. W. S.

Student Government for Women started at Allegheny shortly after the World War, around the 1920's. At this time the organization was known as the Women's Student Senate, a name which was retained until 1934 when it was changed to the Associated Women's Students. During these twenty-one years student government has changed and progressed greatly in its aims and purposes—certainly our system is more liberal today and (we feel) much more beneficial to the officers of the government and to each individual girl. However, many of the ideals remain the same and much of the original spirit still prevails.

The following is the inscription found on the back of the first women's student government manual which emphasizes the above fact:

"In your life at Allegheny you are asked always to remember that for the time this is your home and that in the way you exercise its privileges the women of the college will be judged. If you do not take advantage of the opportunities offered you for the enrichment of your life through contact with many and various people, or if, on the other hand, you accept these opportunities in such a way as to establish a social autocracy within its walls, then you make of your college home merely a building without life and spirit. If, however, you show a spirit of pride in the gift which is yours, cherishing it and observing carefully those regulations which have been laid down for its best use, exercising its privileges in the spirit of democracy, then are you establishing the traditions which will go down through the years to make rich and gracious the life of the women of Allegheny College, for generations and centuries to come."

The regulations in this first manual show the difference in our approach today and the shift in emphasis—then student government tried to make as many regulations as possible and as a result the rules were very strict. Today we aim to develop individual responsibility and our regulations are made accordingly.

Original Rules

Following are a few of the regulations in the original hand-book.

1. Residents of the hall are not expected to be with men during recitation hours.
2. Residents of the hall are not expected to accept invitations from men for social functions except with permission from the Dean.
3. Residents of the hall are not expected to walk with men in the country except in parties, and then only with permission.
4. Freshmen are not expected to have the escort of men students during the first term.

Our present form of government was drawn up in 1936 when the whole system was revised. Today the Associated Women's Students is made up of these bodies—The Senate, The Senior Court and the Activities Council. The purpose of the organization is to foster student activities and to govern the conduct of women students.

The Senate consists of the elected officers of the association and representatives of the dorms chosen according to population. The duties of the Senate are to act as a governing body of the A. W. S. In this capacity they deal with any problems concerning the A. W. S., formulate rules subject to the approval of the A. W. S. and enforce these rules. Members for senate are selected by popular vote. Slates are presented by the presiding senate which include the names of girls who are capable, have a thorough knowledge of A. W. S. rules and have special qualities of leadership.

Senior Court

The Senior Court is the judiciary body of the A. W. S., and has disciplinary power over all offenders. The court attempts to maintain a continuity of policy, considering cases individually, and at the same time, referring to the records of past decisions. When cases require it, follow-up work is done, either by members of the Court, or someone appointed by the Court.

Members of the Court are chosen for their knowledge of A. W. S. rules, their insight and understanding, and their ability to judge objectively with the welfare of the whole organization in view. Members elected for 1941-42 are: Helen Shaffer, Harriet Anderson, Jane Rouss, Nancy Martin, Ruth Godley, Gloria Sherman.

Activities Council

Believing that the A. W. S. has the obligation to provide a well balanced social and cultural program in addition to its governing responsibilities, the activities council has been created for this purpose. The council coordinated all social activities and through its committees develops qualities of leadership and cooperation in the women students. It consists of one representative from Junior Advisors, one from Cwens, one from the Athletic Board and one resident girl selected by these organizations respectively.

CAMPUS CAMERA

Around the Campus with ESSIE CAMPBELL

There's a new building going up right outside my window, and now I know who's responsible for getting me awake at 7:00 every morning. It's Mr. Kraft—or at least the men under him. He's head of the Grounds and Buildings Department, with h.s. offices on the ground floor of Bentley.

For the last three years he has had nothing to do except his routine job—keeping up the grounds and buildings around the campus. He has kept every door, window and bush in working order, and from the praises muttered about the campus, he seems to have done a wonderful job. All this was very pleasant, too.

But along comes the rush for a new dorm, and Mr. Kraft is caught right in the middle of it. He went over the blueprints, helped to hire workmen, and in general has taken over. He seems very satisfied with the whole set-up, stating that the new dorm is "first class—one of the finest women's dorms in the country." He is a little

The house chairman, social chairman, music chairman, publicity chairman, and program chairman are also members of this council.

The following people were appointed to these positions by the president for the year 1941-42.

Social chairman, Catherine Cavelti; publicity chairman, Louise Parsons; house chairman, Dorothy Ketcham; music chairman, Marjorie Miller; program chairman, Mary Louise Harrison.

Working in close cooperation with student government are the Junior Advisors. This group renders valuable assistance throughout a girl's freshman year in orientating her to college life and to the entire women's program. (See story elsewhere in this issue).

mixed up about the various and sundry names for it, because Hulings, isn't exactly Hulings's any more. It's half Brooks and half Hulings, and it rather stumps the expert. However, whatever its name, it will be finished by September 1. Construction was somewhat retarded at the start because of bad weather, but now it's "full steam ahead."

Mr. Kraft himself is interesting. He graduated from the University of Michigan, and was apprenticed to an architect for several years. He enjoys his work immensely—"It's always fun to watch things go up"—and he shows an almost fierce interest in it. He is business-like over a phone, but when he relaxes during a conversation, he is very pleasant and stimulating. He takes the whole complicated business of the new building in his stride, which shows his imperturbable efficiency at its best. He overlooks nothing—from Arter to the smallest flower bed.

So the next time you find yourself standing and looking at the ravine for no good reason at all—except maybe that it's beautiful, just remember Mr. Kraft, who deserves a good part of the credit.

TABLE TALK

By DAVID KINZER

When I started Table Talk last September I had every intention of making it a literary kick in the pants. I had caught on with that general cry of the pre-war days which said that the younger generation was "shallowly indifferent" and "selfish" and "lazy," and I wanted to jolt my fellows out of their wretched condition.

I looked with some alarm on the very obvious fact that most of the enthusiasm at Allegheny was expended on "beer and basketball," and that very little was used on the books. What I thought we needed was plenty of hot, intellectual debate on such topics as "the value of democracy" or "the meaning of liberty" or "the significance of our science" to displace the stupid discussions of sex and sports at our dinner tables.

Intellectual View Fails

I was suggesting a completely intellectual view of life—that we should allow our education to influence all the decisions we must make in our fraternity houses. And I was naive enough to believe that if I kicked everyone in the pants once a week with this column I could at least shake some of the lazy stuffiness out of them. It didn't work. For all the hot-headed invectives I scribbled out once a week for twenty weeks all I got was a chance to run away from a band of freshmen who half-heartedly "had it in" for me.

I was an idealist, because I believed I could stimulate an excited, interested state by creating it in my writing.

As you know, my column culminated in a problem—King Tolley's problem. Forgetting the allegory, you can call it this—how to eliminate the almost direct opposition between the intellectual and the social life on the campus. Or, in other words, how can you make it so that the minute you pass the portals of your fraternity house the atmosphere does not become discouraging to study.

Reluctant Retreat

This final problem was the end of a slow, reluctant retreat which had been forced upon me every week. It was the retreat from dogmatism. I had the profitable but hard experience of seeing most of the "truths" I believed in shattered by the few people who were kind enough to be interested. Each week there was one matter I was less sure of, until at last I hit what I thought was rock bottom in my final installment of Adolencia Suspensia. I thought I had hit the core of the problem with this idea of opposition between the two phases of student life. I thought that it was impossible for the student to go half way between the intellectual and the sensual without producing a weak and wholly unsatisfactory result.

Then I let my decision hang fire for a while. I wanted to be sure, and, besides, I wanted the people who read this thing to think about it.

I weighed my decision very carefully. I read several books and mused over the notes I had taken from them. To my surprise, with each passing day I moved farther and farther away from my answer. I became very skeptical as to whether there was any really workable solution.

Enthusiasm Fizzles

Then my enthusiasm for the whole

Looking at the RECORD

by DOUGLAS WHITNEY

One of the up-and-coming orchestras is the one headed by Alvino Rey and supported by the Four King Sisters. We have been receiving Rey's recordings for some months and each succeeding one is better than the preceding platter. In this day and age of "assembly production," constant improvement must be applauded. The newest Rey contribution is an old favorite, "Hindustan," dressed up in jump tempo. The reverse is "Everything Happens To Me." On the former side, the King Sisters take the chorus while on the latter, Alice King does a solo.

ALVINO REY AND THE KING SISTERS (BLUEBIRD)

The vogue of movie theme songs seems to be cropping up again. Raymond Scott, the modern composer and bandleader, has waxed "The Band Played On," from a recent Cagney film. As always with Scott, he dresses up his tunes with smart, sophisticated and always musically "hep" arrangements. His is a band to be watched. Clyde Burke adequately handles the vocal. The flipover is "Let's Get Away From It All."

RAYMOND SCOTT (COLUMBIA)

The trouble with Art Kassel is that he doesn't make enough records. His music has been a long time favorite of ours and it seems that his platters are released too seldom. Maybe it isn't Kassel's fault but the recording company's. At any rate, this is an official complaint. Dedicating his newest to the ladies, Art has cut "Bless 'Em All" and it is the newest song written around Army life. The Kassel Trio is pleasantly audible. Another military tune, "Where's the Captain's Hat?" is the mate. Marion Holmes is the vocalist.

ART KASSEL (BLUEBIRD)

We forget who originally began using themes from the classics and giving them new titles but whoever the person or persons is or are, record collectors are indebted to them. Frankie Masters has snared a tune from "Scheherazade," dubbed it "In The Hush Of The Night!" and with Marion Francis caroling the vocal, it is a standout record. Discmate is "In Apple Blossom Time," another oldie with the Swingmasters, a choral group adding their talents.

FRANKIE MASTERS (OKEH)

Jan Savitt, the "Stokowski of Swing," presents as one of the new records he is cutting for Victor, "Manhattan Sunrise," an original mood study set in dance tempo. It is embellished by outstanding brass teamwork and the dulcet tones of Allan DeWitt. "The Things I Love" is the coupling piece.

JAN SAVITT (VICTOR)

Tommy Tucker is another of the newer crop of maestri on the ascension. "Time and Time Again" will please the present legion of Tucker fans and it will develop many new ones. Amy Arnell adds a catchy vocal. On the "B" side, "Minnie From Trinidad," from the film, "Ziegfeld Girl," has plenty of hot licks. Amy Arnell is again heard, this time singing with plenty of oomph.

vital question suddenly fizzled and went out. That was alarming, because I had felt all year that the pleasure and stimulation I got from the writing of this excused its inadequacy and made it worth while. I was faced with the astonishing conclusion that the means I was using, this intellectual plan of life I was promoting as a way to enthusiasm, was the very thing which had killed it.

Thus, I find that I have no real answer to my problem—only a dilemma. It is this: Intellectualism is a symptom of the very disease we are endeavoring to combat, because attempts to justify life are good evidence that we are losing our faith in it.

After a year of slowly digging down to the roots of my problem, I find that the heartiness, the vitality, and the enthusiasm which I have missed too much in my intellectual life simply don't belong there.

Thus, I find that the dualism of Adolencia Suspensia, the opposition between the sensual and the intellectual, becomes the opposite between intellectual pessimism on the one hand and enthusiasm on the other.

I like what I have gotten in college, but I like my enthusiasm, too. Some may be able to fit them together, but I must confess, I can't.

The softball schedule is complete except for two games, Alden Men—PDT and AXP—PKP. The play for the last week shows many creditable scores. In the year's championship game, the Alden Men defeated the Phi Gams, 2-1, Hank Frye getting a narrow margin over Al Brandt in a well-played game. The Independents thus moved into undisputed possession of first place by the space of ½ game. However, a loss in their last game with the Phi Deltas would drop them to a tie with the Pijis. It seems rather unlikely that this might happen since the Phi Deltas are tied for last place, having won their first game last Monday. Thus the title may well be conceded to the Independents and their stellar pitcher, Hank Frye. In winning five straight games, Hank allowed an average of less than four runs per game. Three of his victories were by one-run margins, so Henry has really had to bear down all the way along.

Actually, however, Al Brandt's pitching record has been consistently better this year than Frye's. Brandt has allowed an average of 3.5 runs per game to Frye's 3.6, a slight difference to be sure, but Al's opponents never got more than 5 runs in a game. All in all, one would be fairly safe in choosing either of the two as the outstanding pitcher. The Chi Rhos' Nasta came in with a rush toward the end of the season to pitch the only two shutouts of the year, but his record for the whole season does not compare with Frye's or Brandt's.

In the only tennis matches played last week, the Phi Gams won two more, over the Alden Men and the Phi Piss. The Alden Men defeated the Tau Deltas, to leave but one match unplayed in League B. Four still remain to be played in League A.

LAWRENCE REGRETS LEAVING, SEES GATOR PROSPECTS BRIGHT

Coach Karl Lawrence in the Campus interview this week, expressed his regrets at leaving Allegheny this spring to take up his new coaching duties in the fall at Colgate University.

Lawrence stated that he has enjoyed coaching the boys who have come under his tutelage here and has found them an eager, responsive group with which to work. He emphasized the fact that the school boasts a high type of student, one which he found well-adapted to athletic competition, especially basketball. He pointed out that the quality of the student is just as important in athletic as well as scholastic achievement.

Lawrence feels that Allegheny's prospects in intercollegiate basketball should be very bright. He emphasized the fact that there is no lack here of fast, speedy, smart boys of a type well adapted to the cage sport and these assets, along with a good basketball temperament, should insure the school strong cage quintets from year to year.

In his new position, Lawrence succeeds Paul O. Bixler and will serve as head basketball coach and assistant football coach to Andy Kerr. In addition he will assist in physical education work at the university which emphasizes athletics for all with an intramural and varsity program touching more than 90 percent of the 1,000 students.

Lawrence will take over his Colgate post September 1 after completing his third summer of graduate work at Columbia University. In previous years he had received degrees from Concordia College and Springfield, Mass., College, has studied at eight coaching schools in Superior, Wis., Lubbock, Texas, Minneapolis, Minn., Evanston, Ill., and is now completing work for an advanced degree at Columbia.

In addition to holding membership in half a dozen coaches and physical education groups, Lawrence is a member of the rules committee of the Eastern Basketball Coaches Association.

The fine records Lawrence's basketball teams compiled here at Allegheny in the last two years in winning 21 of their 29 games have attested to his ability as a coach and were no doubt important in his selection as the new Colgate mentor. He received the post over 114 other aspirants, the majority of them with some college experience.

Records of Lawrence's cage team at Allegheny are as follows:

W. & J., Last Year's Winners, Place Second With 333; Gators Take Sixth

A Slippery Rock State Teachers College foursome paced the field last Friday in the college Invitation Golf Tournament with a score of 327 to wrest possession of the cup from W. and J., last year's winners of the tourney.

Church Wilson of W. and J. was the tourney's medalist with a 5 over par 75, one stroke ahead of Hiram's Baker who carried a 76 for the Conneaut Lake course. Wilson succeeded Bob Lane, also of W. and J., and last year's medalist, and retained some of the President's prestige. Ted Bukowski of Slippery Rock was the only other entrant to break 80 when he turned in a 78 round for the day and lead his Rocket teammates to the cup.

The Allegheny foursome, composed of Bud Klein, Bill Pierce, Bill Robertson and Ray Peterson, placed sixth behind Grove City, Hiram and Carnegie Tech. Klein shot the lowest round of the Alleghenians with an 86. Pierce followed close behind with an 87, Bill Robertson toured the 18 holes in an 89, and Ray Peterson in 91. The Allegheny aggregate totaled 353, 26 strokes behind the winners and about midway between the fifth and seventh place schools.

W. and J. placed second as a team in the contest, 6 strokes behind Slippery Rock with 333 total. Grove City, over the W. and J. score with a 334. Hiram was close behind with a 336 and Carnegie Tech, playing in the tournament for the first time, secured the number 5 berth, with a 4 round card of 348.

With the Gators in sixth place the Edinboro State Teachers College foursome shot a 359 round to place them seventh. Westminster's 370 was high for the day and relegated the Titan representatives to eighth place in the field.

The Slippery Rock squad, led by Bukowski with his 78, included Philip Nocera, who carded an 81; Alex Dutkin, who also shot an 81; and Andy DeFassio, who had an 87. The 6 stroke margin of victory they enjoyed was a contrast to the result last year when W. and J. and Grove City were forced to play an extra hole before the Presidents emerged victorious.

Chuck Wilson's card as medalist was as follows:

Out—442 454 346—36
 In—554 335 554—39—75.

Gator Cindermen Top Kenyon in Close Meet Staged Here Saturday

Last Saturday afternoon, in spite of a gusty wind and occasional bursts of rain the Allegheny track team sped to a 66-60 win over the Kenyon college outfit from Gambier, Ohio. The local contestants obtained a slim advantage in the running events, and it was this which proved the winning margin.

Allegheny had several entrants who supplied double victories to the total score, and as usual, Larry May ran to comparatively easy wins in both the (continued on page 4)

Grove City Here For Two Tests Saturday

Traditional Rivals Expected to Stage Close Meet Saturday; 6 Seniors in Final Meet

The final track meet of the current campaign will be held Saturday afternoon in Montgomery Field at 2:00, when the local cindermen meet their ancient rivals from Grove City college. Although the natural rivalry between the two teams would promote the anticipation of a lively contest, the fact that both contingents are nearly equal in ability will add zest to the encounter, and it is expected that the largest crowd of the season will witness this last athletic event of the Allegheny year.

The Grovers have a dash man, Penar, who is expected to be the toughest opposition that Gator star, Larry May, has met all season, and it is predicted that to beat Penar, May will be forced to equal the college records in both the 100-yard and 220-yard dashes.

The teams parallel performances in the 440-yard dash, and both hurdle events, but results from past meets would indicate that Allegheny should have firsts in the mile and half-mile runs. In the grueling two-mile grind, Grove City men have posted better times than has any Gator.

Comparative scores in the field events show that Hartwell, Allegheny captain, should win in the shot put, and that the locals are favorites in the broad jump. The javelin event will probably be very close, but the visitors are conceded the edge in both the discus, and the high jump departments.

It is possible the Bill Pierce, soaring sophomore sensation, will set a new pole vault mark for Allegheny in the coming meet, for during practice the past week, he cleared eleven feet, seven inches, one inch better than the best previous mark. If he repeats in the meet, the mark will be officially recognized.

Saturday's contest will be the last time that several outstanding Gator athletes will be wearing the Blue and Gold. The track team will be losing six three-year men by graduation, most of whom also participate in other sports.

George Hartwell, track captain, has shown steady improvement in his three years on the team, and has demonstrated winning ability in each meet this year. Hartwell is a field man, and enters in three events: pole vault, high jump, and shot put.

Larry May, who has won every race in which he has competed this year in intercollegiate competition, will be another valuable man lost to the squad for next year. May, a consistent point getter, has come within a very small margin of breaking school records in both his events.

Bud Saylor, co-captain and center of last season's Gator football team, has developed into a valuable sprint man who supplies the second places to May's firsts. Saylor planned this season to devote his efforts to field events, but was drafted for the dashes, and has well demonstrated the sagacity of such a switch.

Topping his last row of hurdles for Allegheny this week, will be Don Starr, who has displayed top form in his specialty the high hurdles this season. His constant hard work for improvement has reaped definite results, and with his graduation, there will be a large vacancy in the high hurdle spot in next year's team.

Dave Kinzer, veteran miler and half-miler, who has made himself a winner through diligent effort, will leave behind him a string of brilliant wins this past season. Kinzer has unusual chest development, and his running is characterized by his strong finishes which have pulled several races out of the fire.

Andy Singleton is the last in this group of graduates, primarily because his performances have not had the spectacular appeal which those of the others have had. Singleton has steadily improved in his three years of varsity competition, and his points, although not firsts, have often been the margin by which a meet was won.

One other man connected with the track team will be engaging in his last

Netters Face Western Reserve in Contest Here Today; Grovers End Season

The Gator net squad opens its last home stand of the current season today when it plays host to Cleveland's Western Reserve racquet-wielders at the Calfisch courts.

Slated for 2:00 p. m. the match was moved to today as a result of the Clevelanders scheduled invasion then.

No reliable advance information was available on the Ohioans but they are understood to have a well-balanced squad set for the invasion. They may be expected to give the Gators a busy afternoon if they compare favorably with the other Ohio schools.

The locals should be in fine shape for the encounter and be ready to score another victory over their Buckeye state opponents.

Saturday the Gators close the season with a return match against Grove City at the local courts. In their first match this year the Grovers topped the Gators 6-3 in a contest played at Grove City.

The Alleghenians will have a two-fold incentive to win this final encounter in that they will be seeking revenge for their earlier defeat and will be attempting to close the season above the .500 figure.

McCloskey, of the Grovers, will face McEwen in the number 1 match of the day and will team with Hulton to face the McEwen-Caravacci combine in the top doubles match of the day. Both encounters should display a fine brand of tennis and set the pace for one of the Gators best matches of the year.

Netters Top Mt. Union Succumb to Oberlin On year's Final Trip

The Allegheny court squad finished their year's campaign on foreign soil last Monday and Tuesday when they won 1 and lost 1 to their Ohio opponents, Mount Union and Oberlin.

The 7-2 victory which the Gators scored over the Mount Union netters marked their initial victory of the season away from home and was a welcome reversal of form over the defeats suffered in the four previous encounters. Summary for the match was as follows:

Singles—
 McEwen defeated Ritz 6-0, 6-3.
 Blank defeated Schroeder 6-1, 6-0.
 Caravacci defeated Yohe 6-1, 6-1.
 Boster defeated Flint 2-6, 6-2, 6-4.
 Fauver defeated Brown 6-2, 6-2.
 Brokas defeated Dunmire 6-1, 6-3.

Doubles—
 McEwen and Caravacci defeated Yohe and Ritz 6-3, 6-1.
 Flint and Blank defeated Brown and Dunmire 6-3, 6-2.

Boster and Schroeder defeated Brokas and McVey 6-4, 6-3.

Against Oberlin, the Gator faced probably the strongest tennis team in this section of the country.

The summaries for the 8-1 match were:

Singles—
 Cecil defeated McEwen 6-1, 6-2.
 Le Fevre defeated Blank 6-4, 6-2.
 Daggit defeated Caravacci 6-1, 6-2.
 Blanchard defeated Flint 6-2, 6-4.
 Hanson defeated Fauver 6-2, 6-1.
 Bronsley defeated McVey 6-2, 6-3.

Doubles—
 Cecil and Blanchard defeated McEwen and Caravacci 6-3, 7-5.
 Le Fevre and Hanson defeated Flint and Blank 6-4, 6-0.
 Brokas and McVey defeated Martin and Ives 2-6, 6-2, 6-1.

athletic event for Allegheny on this Saturday, and that is Coach Karl Lawrence, who has nursed Gator teams through several wobbly seasons, but whose record shows a fine won-lost percentage. His going will probably be felt more keenly than that of any of the others mentioned.

The contest with the Grove City team, will be a grand finale in many respects, and the teams are both aiming for a victory which should guarantee an exciting afternoon.

THE WORM-GETTERS

Phi Kappa Psi may write into their "Shield" that this year they won top-honors in the field of parties—what with Sadie Hawkins and the five a. m. party, Saturday. That, incidentally, opens up a new time-area for frustrated social chairmen. If the week-end evenings are too cluttered up, throw your formal from five a. m. 'til 7—depending on what classes the participants have that morning. But don't ask McCurdy-Barnes for a recommendation. Saturday night they looked like the Golden Triangle after the flood.

"I'd like to catch the guy who thought of that breakfast party!" observed Bernice.

Charles Johnston, Bernice.

APRESLES DELUGES

Everybody had a good time at the sing. While each Greek letter organization sang, the members of the others wandered restlessly about clapping with strained sportsmanship and muttering libelously. "Yah—the Whatnots hired an outside director. Lookit all the Alumnae with that bunch!" Wehr of Phi Delta had it tough. Besides not being able to find his pitch-pipe, Neal was beleaguered by the tenor section for pitching the songs too high. Before the tenors were satisfied they were singing baritone and the basses were scratching about in a ne plus basso profundo.

The Thetas did nicely after being arranged properly. Whole volumes of Disneyesque swallows poured out from nowhere to twitter an accompaniment. I half-expected to see thirty armored baritones on white chargers gallop in to sweep the Thetas away to towered castles.

For a while Phi Gamma Delta was somewhat reminiscent of Abe Lincoln's tale of his predicament when he forgot the command to get his soldiers past a fence but Fijis came through nicely after all.

And why don't they keep that awful dog of theirs home!

HANDY INFORMATION

Acid turns red (or blue) litmus paper blue (or red). That's hard to hold onto but here's the way to remember it. Don King, in the course of dye study in Carnegie, dyed a shirt red (or blue). Later, some acid fumes came in contact with the shirt and as any chem student might guess, the shirt turned blue (or red). In a trice King was surrounded by delighted Carnegians who began throwing more and more acid on him to make his shirt bluer and bluer (or redder). King had to run for his life to escape the base acid designs of his colleagues and I don't know what turns red (or blue) litmus blue (or red).

THE CIRCUS

The Darling Shop this week is using the Circus motif for its window dressing. Gay, colorful print dresses against a mural background of elephants and clowns. For a short time it had even a skin show in the person of an undressed, well-figured but headless, legless mannikin. With becoming decency, however, the lower anatomy was covered with wholly unexciting knit woolen Munsingear.

Which brings to mind the carnivals which afflict Meadville each spring. Every crap-shooter in school will have lost at least one allowance before graduation. Their "games of skill" look like sure wins but don't try it. The only way to profit by them is to be hired as a professional "winner" to bring in the suckers. The prerequisite to being hired as such is to have that dull, honest look about you. I know.

SIGN OF SUMMER

The middle-spring sentimentality is now turning into hard-crusted, early summer pornography. The reference is to the surge of lusty unprintable limericks on this hallowed Hill. It's a handy emotional tone for the summer, however, this unillusionment.

100 and the 220-yard dashes. The other men who scored twice in the blue ribbon divisions were Bill Pierce, who won the pole vault and broad jump events, and George Hartwell, who placed first in the shot put, and shared first honors in the high jump with two other men.

Although the Gators were outscored 28-26 in the field events, they led Kenyon to the tune of 40-32 on the cinder paths to snare a six-point decision.

Dartmouth College officials hurriedly replaced the campus flag after a student reported it contained only 45 stars.

For almost 20 years automobile privileges at Hamilton college were limited to seniors but President W. H. Cowley recently extended the privilege to juniors.

Anna Cloyde Brooks hall, the new women's dormitory, has been two-thirds finished up to this date but the time of the completion of the building is still indefinite. However, it is expected that the dormitory will be ready for use by next fall.

The work at present consists of roofing, sheet-metal work, and installation of ventilating, plumbing, and heating systems throughout the building.

The new dormitory, named after the wife of Colonel Charles A. Brooks, a member of the college board of trustees, will make up the center section of a large dormitory into which rebuilt sections of Hulings hall will be incorporated. The new units, together with the rebuilt sections, will accommodate 250 women students.

The new dormitory will feature, in addition to rooming facilities two dormitory libraries, and the entire fourth floor will be devoted to sorority rooms and sewing rooms. A total of 450 students can be accommodated in the dining halls, which will plan to serve cafeteria style breakfasts and lunches and formal evening dinners.

Fireproof staircases and fire-resistant corridors, and the installation of new bath and laundry rooms and new heating equipment are included in the remodeling of the present sections of Hulings hall. The exterior will be remodeled so as to fit in as a unit with the new hall and the projects will culminate in an up-to-date residential hall, harmonizing with the early American architecture of Bentley, Arter and Ruter halls.
