My dear Miss Tarbell:

At the present, I have no reason to believe that we shall be able to carry on the magazine beyond the January number.

I wonder if we couldn't take what you might call the "high spots" of the last three chapters to print in the magazine, if that would be possible?

Faithfully yours,
