

Reserves Play Today.

Scrub Team to Play Slippery Rock Normal This Afternoon.

The members of the Reserve football team, who have been showing excellent spirit lately in the manner in which they have been giving the first team practice, are being rewarded today with a trip to Slippery Rock, where they play the Slippery Rock Normal team this afternoon. A squad of thirteen men, accompanied by the assistant manager, W. F. Galbraith, left for that place this morning. This same team was played last year and the Reserves were defeated by the score of 5-0. However, the men on the Reserve team who are to play there this afternoon have determined to wipe out this defeat and make the tale a different one this year. The following men took the trip: W. F. Galbraith, Horn, Doran, Brooks, Baker, Deemer, Graham, Dotterer, Daniels, Thoburn, McKay, MacGowan, Kahle, Ramsey, Keightlinger.

R. W. Thomas Editor.

Kaldron Electoral Board Selects R. W. Thomas and K. R. Kightlinger as Pilots.

The members of the Kaldron Electoral Board chosen at the election last Saturday were as follows: A. C. Nodine, Miss Clara Hutchinson, J. D. Van Horn, Miss Wilhelmina Anderson and Miss Margaret Megirt. This committee met on Wednesday afternoon and after some consideration elected R. W. Thomas, editor-in-chief and K. R. Kightlinger, '13, manager of the annual. This afternoon the committee, together with the newly elected editor, will meet to select the remaining members of the editorial board.

With the two men named as pilots of the book, Allegheny is assured of a representative Kaldron. The editor-in-chief, Mr. Thomas, has been active in literary work during his college course, being a contributor to the Literary Monthly, editor of the Students' Manual and a member of the Quill Club. He has also been interested in other college activities and is well fitted to produce a book which should compare favorably with those of past years. The financial part of the book is also in capable hands as Mr. Kightlinger is a hustler.

MANY SPEAKERS AT FORUM.

At the regular meeting of the Forum on Thursday, the inter-collegiate question of the recall of judges was once more debated. English and Koehler upheld the affirmative side of the question, while Hughes and Parmenter argued against the statement. The decision was awarded to the negative, after which an unusual number took sides on the question, making sixteen speakers during the afternoon. Preceding the debate the officers for the ensuing term were elected. The new officers are: Speaker, H. R. Hunt; speaker-pro-tem, C. S. Smith; secretary, H. W. Wells; and sergeant-at-arms, Donald Dunbar. The time of the next meeting will be Friday evening at seven o'clock.

A COLLEGE ORCHESTRA.

On Thursday a call was issued for a meeting in Cochran Hall of all the men in school who could play orchestral instruments. Ten men responded to the call and a start was made toward the formation of a college orchestra. At present there are six violin, two alto and two cornet players, but it is hoped that before long this number will be increased.

Two years ago Allegheny was represented by a very creditable orchestra but last year the organization was not revived. All through the year the need of such an organization at the various college functions was felt. To a certain degree the college band which was re-organized last year filled the place left vacant by the orchestra but there were many occasions when a band was not suitable while an orchestra would have been a decided help. It is with the intention of trying to supply this need that the new orchestra is being revived. It will furnish the music at all the college sings and will be present at all college functions where music is a part of the program. Practices will be held at stated times and notices of these will be announced regularly.

Moving pictures are being used as an advertising medium for the University of Missouri. It looks as if the Missourians must "be shown" even their own schools.

Geneva Defeated.

Crippled Allegheny Team Wins By Score of 11-0 In Well Played Game.

(Written by E. J. Hall, who played left guard throughout the game.)

With a badly crippled team which made the outcome very dubious, the Allegheny squad met Geneva at Beaver Falls on last Saturday, and by dint of hard work brought home an 11-0 victory. It was feared that the game would have to be cancelled as so many of the regular men were on the injured list. Captain Hawk had been kept out of practice the entire week with a bad arm. Wieler was unable to go along. Thomas had not yet recovered from his injuries received the Saturday before. Miller could not play the back-field. Erb had an injured leg.

But Coach Stewart, by working hard on several new men and by making shifts in the lineup was able to get together a team which gave a good account of itself. Miller was placed at Wieler's guard, while Longfellow took the place left vacant at halfback. Gilbert, a new man, was put at center.

Although the team work was somewhat handicapped by these changes, individually every man tried to do his best. The men especially in the new positions showed up well considering their lack of experience in their several places. Miller, who took Hawk's place in punting, easily out-kicked his opponent. Gilbert, at center, besides passing the ball accurately, was prominent in recovering fumbles and in getting down on punts. Longfellow played a consistent game throughout at halfback. Lavelly was, perhaps, the individual star of the game, he making both the touchdowns scored during the game, one of them being after a hard thirty-yard run through a broken field.

First Quarter.

The game was opened by Geneva kicking off to Allegheny. The ball was soon carried down into the opponent's territory. A punt by Miller was fumbled by the Geneva back and Robinson secured the ball. A series of line bucks by Abbott and Lavelly carried the ball over the goal line. Miller kicked goal. The quarter ended with the ball in Geneva territory.

Second Quarter.

In the second period Geneva came back strong and soon had the ball moving toward the Allegheny goal. Two forward passes and a line buck carried the ball to the five yard line. On the next play an attempt at a line buck resulted in a fumble which was recovered behind the goal line by Lavelly. The ball was put in scrimmage on the twenty-five yard line but the half was over before either team was able to get near the opponent's goal.

Third Quarter.

In the second half, Allegheny had the better of the contest most of the time. In the third quarter Lavelly, on an end run, got past the line and by dodging the secondary defense ran thirty yards for the second touchdown. Miller missed goal by an inch.

Fourth Quarter.

In the last quarter Allegheny resorted to a punting game and succeeded in keeping the ball at a safe distance from their goal. Hawk was put in near the close at end and made a try at a field goal but was unsuccessful.

Following is the lineup and summary:

Allegheny 11.	Geneva 0.
Robinson, Ball, L. E., Kelso	C. Dotterer, L. T., Patterson
J. Hall, L. G., Martin	Gilbert, C., Fee

Weekly Sings Were Begun Last Night.

College Men to Gather in Cochran Hall Each Week for a Sing.

Last night when the first college sing for men held in years took place at Cochran Hall a movement was inaugurated which is expected to greatly increase the spirit among the men which is at present lagging and also to create a better social relation among the men of the college. The sing last evening was typical of the ones which it is planned to have on Wednesday evenings from seven-thirty to eight o'clock each week. At this time the college songs will be sung, the various yells learned and an attempt made to form a better acquaintance with the men of the student body. The new college orchestra will be present each evening and will lend their assistance in the music.

The sing last evening was very well attended and the interest manifested in the venture seems to add proof to the fact that just such a movement is needed to create more spirit and a better fellowship. At this time the new orchestra, composed of eleven pieces, also made its first appearance and aided greatly in livening up the songs. All the old songs were sung and several of the new ones were learned. The yells were all rehearsed once more and an interest was started in the various college activities which is bound to mean an improvement in all lines. Further announcements of these sings will be made later.

FIRST SENIOR TEA.

The first of a series of teas, given by the Senior girls to the Senior men and members of the Faculty, was held yesterday afternoon in the reception parlors of Hulings Hall.

The Misses Helena Peck, '12, and Elizabeth Ling, '12, acted as hostesses, while Miss Celia McClure and Miss Barbara Deane poured tea. A musical program was given including several vocal and instrumental solos. An unusually large number of Senior men and members of the Faculty and their wives were present.

NEW FRENCH CLUB STARTED.

"Le Petit Salon" met for organization last Monday afternoon and elected the following officers: Chairman, Miss Elizabeth Ling, '12; secretary, Miss Helene Peck, '12, and treasurer, Miss Grace Prenatt, '12. Miss Ruth Dorworth, '12, Miss Elizabeth Lord, '13, and Miss Mary Patterson, '12, were elected to membership in the organization. The three officers, with Dr. Snively and Prof. Riddle, compose the executive board. Plans were completed for the recital of Mr. Marcus Kellerman, the noted baritone, in the Chapel on November 18.

"PAN" THIS EVENING.

The Pan-Hellenic Party, given every year by the three national fraternities in Hulings Hall, Kappa Alpha Theta, Kappa Kappa Gamma and Alpha Chi Omega, will occur this evening at Saegertown. All the girls of the Freshman class have been invited to the affair. The entertainment will take the form of a dance.

ANGUS LEADS Y. M. C. A.

An unusually large attendance was present at the regular meeting of the Y. M. C. A. on Wednesday evening in Cochran Hall. L. B. Angus was the leader and he based his remarks on the necessity of leading the Christian life. His lesson was taken from the thought of "Seek ye first the kingdom of heaven and all these things shall be added unto you." He brought out the fact that four things, purity, honesty, unselfishness and love, were necessary to the living of the real Christian life. At the close of the meeting a number of the men gave short talks on the thoughts of the lesson that had particularly appealed to them. President Letzel urged the men to be punctual and regular in attending the meetings.

Tech Here Today.

Good Game Is Expected at Athletic Park This Afternoon—Tech Working Hard.

The second football game of the schedule at home will be played this afternoon at Athletic Park when Carnegie Tech will oppose the Allegheny eleven. Both teams have been put through a hard week's practice in preparation for the game since the two schools are keen rivals in all branches of athletics. Two years ago the Tech-Allegheny game was played in Meadville in which the final score was 10-0 for the Pittsburghers. The team of that year was considered one of the best that ever represented the Carnegie institution and, hence, the score was considered to be a fair estimate of the playing of the Allegheny eleven. However, last year, Pittsburgh was given a chance to see the local line in action and the description of the game showed that the score of 27-0 for Allegheny was due entirely to the fact that they out-classed their opponents.

Carnegie Tech comes here with a record of three games won out of four played and with a determination to wipe out the defeat of last year. According to the newspaper reports Tech has a much stronger team than that of last year and is playing a much faster and better game. One thing is certain, that Tech will play their very best game here today. The coaches have been working the men hard especially for this game and it is very certain that they will have the Tech team primed to the minute for the game this afternoon.

In Carnegie Tech, Allegheny will meet a team which is different from any team she has met this year. They are better coached, play a more scientific game and are sure to have a system of better plays than any team that has been met thus far. Their team is coached by four high-priced coaches, all of them men who know football. The team is heavier than that of last year and has the added merit of being uniform. The men are all of about the same build; and they depend more upon speed and tricky playing than anything else. Consequently the game this afternoon will be a contest between two well coached teams playing almost the same style of game. The result is bound to be a good game.

Allegheny's chances for a victory are very good. The only means of comparison between the two teams are the two Geneva scores. Tech beat this team 5-0 while Allegheny defeated them 11-0. Furthermore, it is very probable that Captain Hawk will be back in the game. Miller will again be able to play in the back-field and Wieler will be in the line once more. A number of new plays have been developed also and if it becomes necessary Allegheny will be able to spring a number of these which are bound to bring results.

The Allegheny team will probably lineup as follows:

L. E.—Hawk, McWhorter.
 L. T.—C. Dotterer.
 L. G.—Hall.
 C.—Thomas, Gilbert.
 R. G.—Bodenhorn.
 R. A.—Weller, Erb.
 R. E.—Townsend, Robinson
 L. H.—Miller, Longfellow.
 L. F.—Abbott.
 R. F.—W. Dotterer.
 R. H.—Lavelly.

Manager's Talk

All students who have not already handed in their subscriptions for THE CAMPUS should see the manager at once and give him their names with one dollar, the subscription price for the year. If this is not paid before the first of January, the price is fifty cents additional. The manager is anxious to have all the names in as soon as possible that he may know just how many copies to get out each week. Of course, it is understood that only those will take a copy at the Chapel each Saturday morning who are already subscribers or expect to become such. This being the case, the sooner your name is handed in to the manager the more satisfactory it will be both for yourself and for him.

At the meeting of the College Council held on last Friday afternoon, the proxies of at least three fraternities were refused in College recognition by the president, ing officer whose action was substantiated by a sufficient number of the body to be enforced. That is, in the necessary absence of the official representatives of the Phi Gamma Delta, Phi Delta Theta and Delta Tau Delta fraternities, the men sent by these fraternities were not recognized by the Council, with the result that a very important measure, the constitution of Central Finance Committee, was adopted as a whole; whereas, if the votes of these fraternities had been allowed, the measure would at least have been considered article by article. And there is no reason why these representatives should not have been recognized. The constitution of the College Council makes no provision whatever for such cases. However, in previous years proxies have been properly and willingly accepted in the absence of the regular delegates. Therefore, since there is no provision in the constitution to provide for these cases, ought not precedent to decide in favor of allowing the votes?

It is said that the question came up before the body last year and, after some discussion, it was decided that proxies would not be recognized. This may be true, but the College Council is a constantly changing body and is made up of different people each year, which condition makes it unjust that a mere motion made by one body should govern the actions of another. It was all very well for the Council of last year to decide that it would not accept proxies, having that understanding among all the members, but the old Council is far over stepping its power in attempting to govern by a motion the Council of the present year. It would have been vastly different if an amendment had been made to the constitution stating that proxies would not be accepted; but no such amendment was made. Therefore is it not the height of illegality and injustice for the College Council to attempt to rule out proxies during the coming year, without having taken any action on the question before the meeting in which the alleged rule took effect? The boldness as well as the lack of judgment in the affair is more clearly evident from the fact that already in this very year proxies have been accepted without any objection. It was not until the meeting of last Friday that any objection was made. It must be remembered that if the Council wishes to make a rule for the government of such cases, the rule cannot have effect in the meetings in which it is made. If the action of the body at the last meeting was not to accept proxies, it could not legally take effect at that meeting.

The adoption of the Central Finance Committee constitution cannot be legal under such conditions. A meeting of the College Council should be called in which all bodies supposed to be represented have the opportunity of having a representative present. At such a time, and not until then, can the Central Finance Committee constitution be legally considered.

The action of the College Council is the more provoking because of its unusual desire to adopt a injustice long and complicated con- to Duzer stitution as a whole, while Du. the more ordinary and better method, almost without a motion to do so, is to consider any proposed measure, article by article. It would seem that this is the fair thing to do, even if there is but one person who wishes anything changed.

One reason why it was desired by some that the measure be considered article by article was that the provisions for the government of the Duzer Du Dramatic Club might be changed. Under the proposed system this club is to have the first fifty dollars and half over that amount in profits, and is to stand the first fifty dollars loss and half of all over that, if there is any. And right there is a big point. It is very improbable that Duzer Du will ever lose any money on its performance. On the contrary, it would likely be the largest and most consistent contributor to the central sinking fund, unless perhaps the Glee Club would give more. But it is right that the Glee Club should have some such check as this upon it. The profits of the Glee Club go to one individual man, while the money made by Duzer Du is not taken by any man or by any body of men. Not a cent of the money made by Duzer Du has ever gone for the personal use of the members. The manager of the Glee Club can pay his board bill with his profit but the manager of the dramatic performance or the members of the club cannot get a cent of the money for personal use. It must be seen that in this respect Duzer Du and Klee-o-Kleet are different from all the other organizations included in the proposed system. It is true that there is no provision anywhere stating that Duzer Du cannot personally appropriate this profit, but it has generally been understood in this way and always would be. But the members of the Club would willingly submit to having such a rule placed over them: that they may never appropriate any of their profit personally.

Although Duzer Du, during its three years' experience, has had a hard struggle, it has always been generous in helping the cause of athletics and other needy college activities. More than once special performances have been given for the benefit of athletics or other worthy causes. This spirit of generosity would in all likelihood always be shown by the members of the club, but it is extremely distasteful to them to be told that they must come into this Central Finance Committee along with a number of individual managers who are very properly being checked from working their way through college on the students. It is likely not known to many that Duzer-Du has never been recognized officially as a college organization. And yet in the light of this, it is asked to join the Central Finance Committee!

It is said that the Central Finance Committee is merely a means of protecting the student body and of bringing back to them the money put into college organizations. Very true. But is it generally known that a majority of the patronage received by Duzer-Du comes from town people and not from college students?

It seems that the only proper and fair thing to do is to remove the provisions relating to the Duzer-Du club and to impose upon them the requirement that no money made shall be used personally. Under such an arrangement the money would come back to the students just as surely as through the Central Finance system, the only difference being that under one method it would come back in the manner imposed arbitrarly by the College Council, and in the other case by the way in which the club would choose.

One way in which the student body can effectively help the football team is by going out to watch Watching the afternoon practices. Football This is of great value Practice to the team because it shows them that the students are interested in the work they are doing. If there would be a crowd of seventy-five or a hundred men out each afternoon to watch the practice there is no doubt that the team would be noticeably improved. The season is more than half gone but it is not too late to show the team that the whole college is watching them. To watch an afternoon practice is almost as good as a game anyway!

The Adventurer

It was late in the evening when the Adventurer found his way to the room of the Editor, showing a care worn expression in which discouragement was plainly written. Before a word had been said, the Editor knew that the copy which was long over due was not yet in readable form.

"Can't think of a thing to write! I guess we'll have to let her go blank this week."

"Oh, no, that would never do," said the Editor. "You can think of something easy enough." And after a moment's hesitation: "Here's what you can tell 'em if you don't know anything else. Give 'em a line of talk on what this Adventurer business means anyway. Of course the literary aristocracy, those who are up on a level with you need no explanation, but for the benefit of the common herd you might explain the idea over again in a little different manner than you did at first. Cautiously bring out the point that you are a budding genius in the field of literary art, and that you are doing your best to get the students of this noble institution to appreciate the value of real literature, and that for these reasons you are writing a series of little rambling talks each week, which are primarily valued for their literary merit, rather than for the thought they bring."

"No, no," the Adventurer said, with emphasis, "if they can't see through it yet, let 'em stay in the dark and flounder about as they will."

"Then if you think of nothing else, tell them some more about books and reading and writing. You are sure not to go far wrong there even if you don't know what you're talking about, for in all the large realm of literature there is sure to be some fool to back up what you say, no matter how ridiculous or far-fetched it may be. Of course that is true whatever you are writing of."

And then the Adventurer was filled with a powerful sense of modesty. He had been reading the letters of Lord Chesterfield and knew it was right to be modest. He said, "What, tell them something, I know nothing of myself!"

"Yes, certainly, and in so doing preserve the unity of the spirit in the articles."

The Adventurer was hurt and was about to leave the room when he was detained by the Editor's speech:

"Well, then, make it a talk on that stuff you were driving at me the other day, the philosophy on the shape of a man's head. That will be new and it is something everybody does not know these days. The fraternities will take to bidding men according to the shapes of their heads and, if your article is successful, candidates for the ministry and other professions as well will send with their applications several views of a well shaven head, by which their characters may be judged and their abilities estimated. Make your article comprehensive and show in detail, as you did to me, how the shape of the head affects the contents."

Before the Editor had finished, the Adventurer had departed in a grievously offended frame of mind; and it is doubtful if he will ever write anything again.

MISS BORK ENTERTAINS THE GERMAN CLUB.

On Friday evening, October 27, the members of the German Club and a few of their friends were delightfully entertained at the home of Miss Rosalie Bork, an honorary member of the club. The evening was devoted to an observation of the centenary of Liszt. A number of most interesting and instructive papers, dealing with the life of Liszt from boyhood to maturity and his wonderful achievements in music, were read by several of the club members, at the conclusion of which Miss Bork, being accompanied on the piano by Miss Charlotte Marboffer, sang a number of Liszt's most famous compositions in her charming and artistic manner. The musical part of the evening was concluded with several selections on the violin by Mr. Palma, who played well. Upon the conclusion of the regular program the guests were served with dainty and appropriate refreshments. During the evening the prevailing tongue was German and though no great knowledge of the language was manifested, the many attempts furnished much entertainment.

The next meeting of the Quill Club, which will be held on November 13, will be in charge of W. F. Maxwell and Miss Ruth Dorworth.

Bishop James M. Thoburn, '57, attended the Akron district meeting of the East Ohio Conference at Kent, O., this week, delivering an address Tuesday evening.

Owing to the fact that a college singing was held on Friday evening the Assembly period for this week was dispensed with and the regular Chapel service substituted.

Daniel W. Howell, '88, read the Scripture and offered prayer in Chapel last Wednesday morning. He also spoke to the students for a few moments, giving a few reminiscences of his college days at Allegheny.

The social and finance committees of the Y. W. C. A. have already begun to plan for the annual bazaar, which is to be held one week before the Christmas vacation. Committees have been appointed to take charge of the different booths and more definite plans will soon be made.

The college museum in Ruter Hall will be open to the public on each Friday morning, from 10:30 to 12:30.

At a meeting of the Junior class held last Thursday, the resignation of T. R. Fitzgerald as treasurer of the class was accepted and C. V. Sparling was elected to that office. Plans for a social affair to be held in the near future were discussed, and a committee composed of Miss Ethel Bayard, H. B. Storer and C. V. Calvin, was appointed to make further plans.

The Hulings Hall girls did not observe the usual custom of having a Halloween party this year, but all enjoyed a characteristic Halloween dinner in a truly weird and spooky atmosphere. The dining room was lighted only by small candles which were fastened into apples at each girl's plate. Bats were hung upon the window curtains and adorned the pictures on the walls. Much merriment was caused during the evening by the rivalry of various tables in singing ridiculous songs and in sallies of clever repartee.

The Y. W. C. A. meeting of last Sunday was in charge of Miss Elizabeth Lord, '13. In developing the subject, "Thoughts, the Test of Character," she observed that as we think in our hearts, so we are; and urged a quiet hour every day for the cultivation of good, pure thoughts. Miss Ruth Baldwin, '13, read Wordsworth's "She was a Phantom of Delight," and Miss Rose Williams, '13, gave a vocal solo. At this meeting the Freshman girls were formally received into the Y. W. C. A., Miss Mary Sowash, '12, the president, having charge of the initiation service.

THE GREEN POSTAGE STAMP.

The past week saw the appearance of the new Fall headgear ordered especially for the benefit of the Freshmen by the Senior class. The style worn this year is a decided change from that prevailing for the past few years, being an imitation of a real cap with a decided green color. Though not nearly so comfortable or serviceable as the caps worn in other years, nevertheless, they were received with avidity by the men of the class who present a very cute appearance with the postage-stamp effect perched upon the back of their heads.

The ladies of the class have not as yet received their distinctive creations for the winter, but promise that they will not be long in making their selection. The choice of the ladies' headgear has been left in their own hands and some curiosity has been shown as to what style of hat has been chosen. All that is known is that they have been ordered and may be looked for most any time.

NEW BOOKS IN LIBRARY.

The resources of the College Library have been greatly increased since last year. During the summer four hundred and ninety-one volumes of magazines were bound and are now in the Library ready for use. These include the completion of sets of Harper's Magazine, Century, Atlantic Monthly, Nineteenth Century, The Popular Science Monthly, and volumes of the North American Review from Vol. 120 to Vol. 192. The Harper Brothers have made a splendid record since 1850 by publishing magazines of the same size, so that when they are bound they make a uniform set.

In addition to the sets of magazines there are a large number of new books; a gift of thirty books from G. W. Walker of New York City, and the libraries of the Philo-Franklin and Allegheny Literary Societies. The books of the latter have been added to the College Library, and are now being catalogued. Labels will be put on the backs of the books indicating to which library they belong, so that any one interested may know the history of their origin.

An interesting book among those which were given by Mr. G. M. Walker, is a facsimile copy of General Washington's account of expenses during the Revolutionary War, in his own handwriting.

Following is a list of the new books for the different departments:

The most recent issue of the Epworth Herald has the following to say of Charles Edward Locke of the class of '80: "If you want to get a sane view of the insane thing known as Christian Science you will do well to read a little book from the hand of Dr. Charles Edward Locke of Los Angeles. It is entitled 'Eddyism,' and is from the press of the Grafton Publishing Company, Los Angeles. Dr. Locke takes up the pretensions of Mrs. Eddy with a vigorous hand and gives them the heroic treatment they deserve. We hope many of our young people as well as many who are farther along in years will secure the book and thus avail themselves of this opportunity to see through the too prevalent delusion of Christian Science."

Thoughts and Afterthoughts

So long as we love, we serve, so long as we are loved by others I would almost say that we are indispensable; and no man is useless while he has a friend.—Robert Louis Stevenson.

The lukewarm disciple is a good deal of a nuisance. About the only place where he counts is in the statistical tables; and he is usually of no account there.—Ex.

The man who will not try daily to live up to the possibilities that are wrapped up in him has begun to weave the tragedy of human existence.—Epworth Herald.

It is said that Dr. Hyde, who was formerly on the Allegheny faculty, was accustomed to saying that we always have time for the things we really want to do.

With the coming of the new consignment of Freshmen caps, a hundred more relics to be handed down from father to son have been created.

Dr. Cobern Gives Opening Lecture.

First Mission Study Class Is Held—Large Enrollment.

The initial meeting of the Mission Study Class was held in the Oratory of the Chapel on Thursday evening with one of the largest attendances that has characterized the opening meetings of the Allegheny classes. A large number had ordered the books and signified their intention of becoming members of the class but the capacity of the Oratory was taxed by the extra students who appeared. After the devotional exercises, R. W. Thomas, chairman of the missionary committee, outlined briefly the plans of the committee in regard to the conducting of the course, stating that current events dealing with the present political revolution would be given at each meeting and at the close of the course a pageant or Chinese dinner would be given illustrating the curious customs of the land.

Mr. Thomas then introduced Dr. Cobern as the speaker of the evening, who, in beginning his talk, suggested that a greeting from the first class of the year be sent to Dr. Smith, the founder of the Mission Study Classes at Allegheny. Then taking up the subject of China and her people he said in part:

"I think that before taking up the study of our book we ought to become interested in the people and find out about what we are going to study. The Chinese are a people as opposite to us as could be imagined, a people very odd in their customs. They wheel their ladies in wheelbarrows and their cows in carriages; they place their fore names last; their soldiers go to besiege a town with lanterns, being more afraid of the dark than of the enemy; there the old men fly the kites and the boys watch; they have visiting cards four feet long painted in red; with them the seat of honor is the left hand; their boats are drawn by horses and their carriages by sails; a young, pretty woman is a slave but an old, homely woman is highly honored; they eat to a certain tune, drink no milk but will eat snails; their mourning color is white and when they begin housekeeping, the first thing they desire is a rose-wood coffin and not a piano; dogs are a luxury but beef is abhorred; they prefer old eggs to fresh ones. In fact in every custom imaginable they are our antipodes and yet they have had a marvelous civilization.

"Now when we come to the country itself it is a great thing to realize what a wonderful country it is. They have a population in China alone of 407,000,000 and at least 25,000,000 more in the provinces. They are bounded by Russia for six thousand miles and by the Pacific for five thousand. So we find China a country five times as large as ours with an enormous territory of 150,000 square miles or as large as the Roman Empire.

"China is separated from the world by mountains and the sea. So after she had constructed her great wall in the North the only means of communication with the outside world was the sea. Their country, except for the last ten years, has been completely isolated. China, however, lies within the belt of power. When we look back upon the great countries of the world we find that they all lay between the zones of twenty and fifty degrees. The United States is in that zone and so also is China. All that is needed is an awakening and if China does awaken she will have five times as many students and five times as many soldiers as any other nation.

"In China there are still existing bamboo suspension bridges built before the time of Christ. They have a wonderful system of canals but these are being gradually replaced by railroads. Already they have 3,000 miles of railroad and have plans for 8,000 more. It has several large rivers but the one is a detriment, being subject to great floods and carrying in its wake disease and pestilence. This is the Yellow River. But they have other rivers which are put to a different use than anywhere else in the world. They float great loads of merchandise upon these and also support numerous families upon them.

"So far as the climate is concerned it is better than the usual southern climate. Their temperature varies from zero to one hundred degrees. Their rainfall depends greatly upon the

Holeproof Hose

What Our Six Months' Guarantee Really Means

Holeproof Hosiery is guaranteed to be as free from holes at the end of six months as it is the day you buy it. We give you this guarantee in writing so if any holes appear in six months you receive new hosiery free of charge.

Common hosiery has no such guarantee. It costs you just as much as "Holeproof," but at the end of six months it is worthless. You spend hours darning it when for no extra expense you can have "Holeproof" and do no mending. Why not have the best?

FAMOUS Holeproof Hosiery FOR MEN WOMEN AND CHILDREN

Insist on seeing the original Holeproof trade-mark. Many have imitated the guarantee but none have equaled the quality.

The makers pay 63 cents a pound for Egyptian and Sea Island cotton, but common hosiery is made from cotton at 12 cents a pound.

"Holeproof" uses 3-ply yarn in the body and 6-ply in the heels, toes and knees. Ordinary hosiery uses 2-ply throughout, yet costs you just as much as "Holeproof."

Stop in at our store and examine the hose. See how stylish and comfortable it is—soft, smooth and neat fitting. Learn the facts today.
