Large Crowd Of Alumni Return For Homecoming

One of Largest Assemblages Participates in Various Events of Program.

Allegheny College campus was the scene of much activity and celebration on its annual Homecoming weekend. Several traffic snarls had to be unwound due to the many extra automobiles driven by the returning alumni.

The program began on Friday afternoon with a soccer game between Allegheny and Slippery Rock. The Allegheny team was defeated 1-0 by the visitors.

In the evening the students gathered about a large bonfire behind Arter Hall and held a pep meeting with many cheers and songs. As the fire began to die down a snake dance was started. After winding around the campus the students were led downtown by various side streets to the Park Theatre where they all witnessed the motion picture "This is the Life."

A Memorial Service was conducted on Saturday morning for the late Dr. William A. Elliott, who died Aug. 27, 1935, after serving Allegheny College for a period of fifty years. The address was given by the Rev. Samuel L. Maxwell, '15, pastor of the Grace Methodist Episcopal Church, of Oil City, and a close friend of Dr. Elliott.

The alumni attended a buffet luncheon which was followed by the football game with Bethany. After the first half the freshman class participated in a snake dance forming the letters "A" for Allegheny and "B" for Bethany and in the meantime giving several yells and songs.

Although a large crowd attended the All-College Dance held in Montgomery Gymnasium, the Playshop was also crowded with a much interested audience. Two one-act plays, lasting about a half hour each, were presented. The first, entitled "The Happy Journey to Trenton and Camden," by Thornton Wilder, was an interesting portrait of an American family. The second play was a satiric comedy, "The Dollar," by David Pinski.

The final event was the Union Church Service Sunday morning at Stone Church. President William P. Tolley, President-Emeritus William H. Crawford, and the Allegheny Singers participated in the service. The topic of the sermon by Dr. Bruce S. Wright was entitled, "God Gives Us Windows to Open."

Women Delegates Chosen To Attend Annual Conference

Annabelle Broomall, '36, and Mary Virginia Jones, '37, will represent Allegheny College at the twenty-eighth annual conference of the Women's Intercollegiate Association for Student Government to be held at Beaver College, Jenkintown, Pa., Oct. 26-28.

The general theme for discussion at the conference is "The Ideals of Student Government". The Allegheny phase of the topics will be "The Honor System".

Among the speakers who will address the assembly are: Dean Crawford, University of Pennsylvania; Dean Ruth Pope, Hood College; Dean Dorothy Stimson, Goucher College; and Dean Ruth L. Higgins, Beaver College.

Annabelle Broomall is president of the Associated Women Students. Mary Virginia Jones is a member of the Activities Board as Social chairman.

The conference of last year was held at Allegheny College.

Spanish Club Discusses "Mexico" At Monthly Meeting

"Mexico" was the subject of the discussion at the regular meeting of the Spanish Club held last Thursday evening in the "Gold Room" of Hulings Hall.

Different phases of the subject were presented by Jane Stoner, '39, Eliza Jane Anderson, '36, and Jean Morrow, '36, following which a general discussion on the subject ensued. This particular topic is one of a series of travel talks being presented on the Spanish speaking countries of the world.

"Vogue" Offers Open Contest To Graduating Women

One year's employment in the Paris and New York offices of Vogue magazine is offered as first prize in a career contest announced this week by Edna Woolman Chase, Editor-in-Chief of Vogue. The contest is open to all college women of the graduating class of 1936 who are interested in the fashion angle of publishing, merchandising, or advertising as a career.

"The arts have their Prix de Rome. Fashion now has its Prix de Paris," said Mrs. Chase in announcing the contest. Vogue's Prix de Paris differs from most prize awards in that it offers the winner a definite job with salary attached, as well as an opportunity for the best kind of training—actual experience. She will spend at least six months in Vogue's Paris Office, attending the famous openings of the great salons de couture and learning at the very source how fashions are created. In the New York office, she will study fashions from the American angle and, through Vogue's trade connections, learn the methods of distributing and merchandising fashion. As second prize, Vogue is offering six months' employment in its New York office.

"Some people," said Mrs. Chase, "are apt to look upon fashion as shallow, a waste of valuable time. They forget that Sociologists rely on it as one of their most important signposts to human thought and behaviour. The greatest artists revelled in it; to be able to paint the portraits they did, such men as Velasquez, Titian, Goya, had to have a strong fashion sense and an intimate knowledge of the clothes of their time. Scholars forget that a sense of beauty is as much to be valued in feminine clothes as in architecture or sculpture or any of the visual arts."

Of more immediate interest to seniors, who are now making important career decisions, is the fact that outside of rare movie opportunities or even rarer stage chances, fashion work offers to women more pay and more future than any other business occupation.

"Instinctively, employees look with most hope at the college girl with a degree. There are plenty of very intelligent girls who have never been to a university; but, on the other hand, four years of training do leave their mark—reliability, control, in organized thinking. If, in addition, the college girl has an innate fashion sense—a sense of the excitement of clothes, of their fitness, of their fantasy, of their color and feel and cut, above all, a sense of their timeliness—she has every chance to succeed."

Pamphlets outlining the rules and form of the contest have been received in the office of The Campus where they may be obtained on request.

World Famous Tenor To Be Featured At Next Concert Number

One of the world's most famous tenors, Mr. Paul Althouse, will be featured as the next attraction on the Community-College Concert-Lecture Series Course. The concert will be held in the High School Auditorium on October 29.

Born in Reading, Althouse obtained his education at Bucknell University. Later he went to New York for vocal study and received comprehensive training in concert, oratorio, and opera.

Making his debut with the Metropolitan Opera Company in the role of Dmitri, in the American premiere of Moussorgsky's "Boris Godunov," he was the first tenor ever to be introduced by that famous opera house in a leading part without having either studied or sung abroad. His notable concert career has taken him throughout the entire United States, season after season, and to Canada, Mexico, the Antipodes, and Europe.

His career has stamped him as superlatively fit in voice, interpretation, and histrionism, to rank among the foremost tenors of today.

Tickets for the remaining numbers of the course are still available, and may be obtained from members of the committee.

Class Of 1915 Places Circle Of Trees Here

15 Trees Donated By Class Placed in Circle on Campus.

Shades of the class of '73 cast their spell over the Allegheny campus last week as two of the 15 trees planted by that class 62 years ago were encompassed by a new "circle of pines," donated in an Arbor Day planting by the 1915 graduates.

Fifteen Norway spruces were planted in the form of a circle between the chapel and observatory by the 15 members of the class of '73 in the year of their graduation. They then invented the legend that as the trees died one by one, the members of the class would then slip away, one by one, to their eternal rest. Today, by strange coincidence, 13 of the trees have died and been cut down, while at the same time 13 human beings which they represented have departed this life.

The two members still living are Alfred D. Bedford, a physician of Colton, Calif., and Henry M. Miller, of Chicago, Ill. Rev. Harry Snow Bates, an M. E. clergyman and painter, of Massillon, O., died recently.

The 15 trees set out in a circle of 50 feet diameter last week were of the red pine variety. They are to serve as a joint memorial of the classes of '73 and '15.

Last week's planting is in keeping with a policy originated as early as 1836, when the board of trustees, realizing that a campus is no more beautiful than its trees, issued an order for a planting programme. However, around the middle of the century, to it remained for President Barker, initiate a real effort to beautify the college grounds, which he did by arranging for the transplanting of saplings from the forest to the campus. The wisdom of that policy can easily be seen by comparing a picture of the denuded and barren campus of that day with the modern campus, often referred to as one of the five most beautiful in America.

Famous Trees On Campus.

One of the oldest and most famous trees on the campus is the "lyre-tree", a beautiful elm planted in front of the spot now occupied by Ruter Hall, by the famous Jonathan Hammett, '39, when he was a student.

Near the walk between Ruter and Reis Library stands a famous cluster of poplars traditionally known as the "seven sisters." One of the trees was blighted and died early, giving rise to the romantic legend that seven maiden Hammadryads dwelt in the trees, one of them being drawn from her dwelling place by the love of a student, forgetting to return to her sisters before dawn. With her departure, the tree died, but the spirit of the sister still wanders about the campus on moonlight nights, the legend says.

Another famous tree is a silver poplar in front of Hulings Hall known as the "hand of knowledge." It derives its name from its shape, with one branch pointing like a finger across the walk at Bentley.

Many other trees occupy prominent roles in campus history, among them an ancient sycamore in front of Bentley Hall. There are a great number of varieties, including hickory, red and sugar maples, elms, sycamores, pines, spruce, and poplar on the campus.

Score Calculation Contest Sponsored On Campus

A contest to guess the scores of the Allegheny-Thiel and the Pitt-Army football games of November 9, is being sponsored on this campus by the Old Gold Cigarette Company.

Attractive prizes are being offered with the first two closest entries being awarded with cash prizes, and two other prizes of quantities of cigarettes will be offered to the next two entries. Ballots and ballot boxes have been placed in the Allegheny Inn and in Wirt's Drug Store, N. Main Street. Calculations on the scores must be written on the back of Old Gold Cigarette packages.

Further details of the contest will be found on a sample ballot in this issue of The Campus.

Results of the contest will be announced in the issue of the paper on the Wednesday immediately following the Thiel game.

Tribute Paid To Late Dr. Elliott By Alumni Group

Tribute was once more paid to the memory of the late Dr. William A. Elliott, in a memorial service held in Ford Chapel Saturday noon. Many alumni and present students of the college heard Rev. Dr. Samuel L. Maxwell, of Oil City, deliver an address honoring the man who meant so much in the lives of thousands who have attended Allegheny College.

As the service opened, the academic procession of the faculty in their dark robes entered the chapel, adding a dignified air fitting to the occasion. The call to worship was given by President William P. Tolley.

In opening his address Rev. Maxwell declared that he had to come to do honor to the memory of Dr. William A. Elliott but that all had come for their own sake to meditate upon the varied beauties of his colorful spirit; to listen to the music of a rarely harmonious personality; to sit together in contemplation before the canvas of a great character.

"As a teacher Doctor Elliott was extraordinary," said Rev. Maxwell. "He was a great teacher because he taught how to study and how to think. He was a great teacher in that he was a mental disciplinarian, intolerant of bluff, impatient of shoddy work, satisfied with nothing but the best from his students. He gave much to his students and expected much from them."

The second chapter referred to in Dr. Elliott's life was "Elliott as a Christian statesman." Few Methodist-Alleghenians know what an important part he has played in their own denomination. He attended five general conferences in succession and exerted a powerful influence on the policies adopted by the church at large.

In the third chapter of Dr. Elliott's career, Dr. Maxwell referred to his creative ability. "He was not an author," he said, "a sculptor, a composer or a painter. His creative ability was in another field." He then went on to tell of visiting the tomb of Sir Christopher Wrenn upon whose tomb was inscribed the words, "Lector, you ask me where my monument is? Look around you." He compared this to the tomb of Sir George William, founder of the Y.M.C.A., upon whose tomb were inscribed these words, "My last legacy, and it is a precious one, is the Y.M.C.A. I leave it to you, the beloved young men of many countries to carry on and extend it." Sir William, he said, never created a thing yet he wrought more enduringly than many others in the history of man.

In closing Rev. Maxwell gave a tribute which was close to the hearts of all Alleghenians. He said, "Allegheny will not be the same without you, Doc Bill. We, your former students, know it. With your going, we feel the Old Allegheny has also gone. And we pray for the New Allegheny that in leadership and faculty there may be that same high conception of their task, that same emphasis on spiritual values, that same Christian conception of human being, that same loyalty to the great basic virtues, that same humble following of the Lord and Master of us all, that we found in you."

The Allegheny Singers presented two numbers, "Lamb of God", by Declus, and "Before the Dark", a Norwegian folk tune. President-Emeritus William Henry Crawford read the scripture lesson following which Rev. Charles T. Greer, '08, offered a prayer. The benediction was given by Rev. Dr. Bruce S. Wright of the Stone Church.

Faculty And Trustees Are Guests At Tea Held Monday

A tea for the faculty and trustees was held in Hulings Hall, Monday, October 21.

Mrs. J. R. Schultz, Dr. Evelyn Miller, Mrs. O. P. Akers and Mrs. C. A. Darling poured. Helena Mumaw was in charge of the tea. She was assisted by various women students. Alice Church and Lorene Bott played the piano throughout the tea.

NOTICE

There will be a meeting of the business staff of The Campus Tuesday evening, 7:30 o'clock, in Ruter Hall. Freshmen interested should attend.

Two Debaters Are Chosen For English Debate

Vangeli and Dennis Chosen For Debate With Cambridge University Here.

Robert Dennis and Arthur Vangeli, senior men prominent in forensic activities, have been chosen to represent Allegheny in the Cambridge debate, Nov. 1. The Allegheny speakers will uphold the negative of the question, Resolved: That a written constitution is a hindrance rather than a safeguard to social progress.

Dennis, president of the Philo-Franklin Union, has been a leading member of Allegheny debate teams. Representing Sigma Alpha Epsilon, he won the Delta Sigma Rho extemporaneous speaking contest last year. Dennis has also participated in two Wakefield Oration Contests, as well as the Philo-Franklin Oration Contest in his freshman year.

As president of the Men's Senate, Dennis is a member of the Student Relations Committee. He also belongs to the History and Political Science Club.

Vangeli, also a member of the Philo-Franklin Union, has taken part in Wakefield Oration Contests, the extemporaneous, speaking contests, and the Philo-Franklin Oration Contest. He has represented Allegheny in many intercollegiate and extension debates in the past three years.

One of the most prominent men in school, Vangeli was president of his class last year and is a member of Omicron Delta Kappa, honorary activities fraternity for senior men. He has won second honors for his scholastic work for three years.

Vangeli is president of his fraternity, Phi Delta Theta. He also belongs to the Men's Senate and the History and Political Science Club.

James Cuthbert McCall Alport and John Royle, the Cambridge speakers, will come directly from New York, for Allegheny is to be their first stop on the debate tour.

The debate will take place in Ford Memorial Chapel at 8 o'clock Friday evening, Nov. 1. There will be no admission charge for the college students. Tickets for townspeople may be obtained at a nominal price.

Players To Present "Men Must Fight" In Playshop Soon

The Allegheny Playshop announces as its first regular production of the present season, "Men Must Fight", by Reginald Lawrence and S. K. Lauren. Three performances will be given on November 15, 16 and 18.

"Men Must Fight" is a contemporary drama written by two rising young dramatists. Mr. Lawrence is co-author of a current Theatre Guild success, "If This Be Treason". Current international political developments give this play a burning significance at the present time, when the threat of a general European war is added to the imperialistic struggle in Africa. For this reason the Playshop has moved up its production dates for the play.

As the selection of the cast has not yet been completed, announcement of the persons appearing in this production will be withheld until the next issue of The Campus.

Reservations for tickets may now be made at the Playshop box office at Arter Hall, or by calling 1386.

Parents Entertained At Tea By Associated Women Students

Associated Women Students entertained one hundred parents at a tea in Hulings Hall on Sunday, October 20.

The receiving line was composed of Dr. Miller, Miss Pepper, Miss May, Annabelle Broomall, Miss Spalding, Dr. Spann, Miss Rowley, and Miss Chevreton.

There was continual music, played by various girls. Presidents of the various sororities served as hostesses along with members of the Activities Board. The tea was planned by Jane Stoner and Mary Virginia Jones.

A circle of trees is now seen on the campus. The arc, surrounding two large pine trees between the observatory and the chapel, is a gift of the class of 1915, as a memorial.

The donation of that class tends to improve the beauty of the campus, and also reflects the spirit of our "old grads" who still hold a great interest in their former "stamping ground". Our hearty appreciation is extended to the class of 1915.

What happened to the Allegheny student body during the Homecoming activities? Less spirit was shown on the campus than at any time during the past four years, when Allegheny spirit was known to be at what was considered its lowest ebb. Even during the lean football years when Allegheny teams were just starting their non-subsidization policy, the Homecoming games were at least "revival times" for spirit. And yet this year, with a team victorious in its first two conflicts, the evidences of any campus spirit were "nil". Friday night's attempt at a pre-game pep meeting was practically a "flop". In other years a freshman bonfire has been a thing looked forward to, for week before the occasion, by that class. This year, two days before the event, the frosh were still unenlightened as to the usual program. Usually a two-hour session is held around the bonfire, a previously planned ceremony is performed, and as a finale a show is "CRASHED". This past week-end, every thing appeared to run in a haphazard manner. Even though the student body finally turned out for the pep meeting, some had too be so "gracious" as to attempt to "disagree in harmony" with the cheerleaders, who at least were trying to make a go of it. That may be spirit, according to those few participants, but not the kind needed around Allegheny.

At the game itself this poor spirit was even more noticeable. The team may have been losing, but that should always be cause for a little more "pep". No team can win all the time. Because ours was behind the first half is no reason why there should be such a letdown in the backing during the second half, or why part of the stands should leave before the game was completed. It must have been an inspiring sight to the football team to see how the stands acted while they were playing their first losing game. The alumni must have gone away with an excellent opinion (?) concerning our present student body.

Credit should go to the frosh class for the only show of interest during the time. Their display of enthusiasm between the halves, on the field, was one bright spot.

Our almost complete failure on Homecoming Day doesn't speak well for our attitude. But at least we might try to raise the level of our backing to a higher plane for the remainder of the season. This way, we might give ourselves some satisfaction even if our alumni received none.

After a year's storage, packed with moth balls, the cigarette question is once again brought forth.

One year ago, cigarette advertising in "The Campus" was forbidden, taking away the main financial prop of the paper. Now another campus publication appears here with this form of advertising. If one publication can use them, why a ban on the other publication? They are both "on the campus".

All students except the freshman class remember the difficulty encountered in this respect. Now another publication makes use of the ads for financial support. Why cannot this paper use the same?

Alumni And Students Dance To Melody Weavers Saturday

Over 200 couples of alumni and undergraduates attended the annual Homecoming dance of 1935, which was held Saturday evening, October 19, in Montgomery Gymnasium. Barney Knapp and the Melody Weavers furnished the music for the dance, which was sponsored by the Men's Senate.

The chaperones were Dr. and Mrs. William P. Tolley, Dr. and Mrs. J. R. Schultz, and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph M. Harre. The committee in charge of the affair consisted of Robert Dain, chairman, Jack Hickernell, and Richard Rushmore.

"And squinting eyes
Like grains of rice
That gaze at you
Like beads of ice.

"And speech that leaves
You weak and reeling,
Devoid of thought
And human feeling.

"Though Peggy is
An awful sight,
I always treat
The girl all right.

"She makes me boil,
She makes me blister,
But gosh, she has
A gorgeous sister!"
—Duke.

Alumni Visitors Witness Players In Performance

Before a typical Homecoming audience of alumni, faculty and students, the Allegheny Playshop presented two one-act plays last Saturday evening, October 19th.

The first play was "The Happy Journey to Trenton and Camden", written by Thornton Wilder, the author of the well-known novel, "The Bridge of San Luis Rey". The subtitle, "A Portrait of an American Family", best describes the play. It pictures a typical family journeying to visit a married daughter in Camden. Mr. Wilder's realistic representation of such a journey was thoroughly enjoyed by an appreciative audience. Its appeal lay in that all the emotions of family life were displayed in the brief course of thirty minutes. At the same time novelty was added in that the stage was bare of suggestive scenery, and the stage manager was also the player of several parts. The cast of characters was as follows:

Stage Manager Edward Carney
Arthur William DunLany
Caroline Dorothy Ely
Ma Kirby Marian McCardell
Caroline Dorothea Ely
Beulah Esther Goodwin

The second play of the evening was a satiric comedy by David Pinski entitled "A Dollar". Through the medium of an itinerant theatrical troupe in czarist Russia, the power of the Dollar is symbolically demonstrated. The starving actors find a dollar and fight among themselves over its possession. Then, when they decide to share it equally among themselves, the Dollar is stolen from them by the person whom they ask to change it. Worthy of note in this production was the painted backdrop which served to place the scenic location of the play.

The cast:
The Comedian Joseph Macedo
The Villain Philip Jacobus
The Tragedian Donald Murray
Actor who plays "Old Man" role Joseph Phillipbar
The Heroine Phyllis Freeland
The Ingenue Helen Hahn
Actress who plays "Old Woman" role Helena Mumaw
The Stranger Ben Raskin

Other students assisting in the productions were: Business manager, Eugene Wasson; assistants to the director, Dale Beatty and Myra Bankin; production manager, Dale Stoops.

These two one-act plays will again be given by the Playshop later this year.

Reels Of Pictures Shown As Feature In Course Number

A series of travelogue pictures photographed and presented by Captain Burr Nickle, head of the educational division of Pathe News, was featured as a third number in the College-Community Concert-Lecture Course. For this third entertainment the Meadville High School auditorium was well-filled by an attentive audience last Wednesday night.

In his introduction Captain Nickle told of the hardships and difficulties which are encountered in visiting and photographing in reality the remote regions of the world to which he was sent by the department of anthropology of Harvard University.

His first reel showed the lives of the Arabs and Mongolians in central Asia. Although their houses must be well-built to protect them from severe storms they must also be easily portable because of their nomadic existence. Frequent moves are necessary because of the scarcity of pasture.

Captain Nickle's second reel began by visiting the thieves market in Mexico City. This market which is protected by the government is most convenient because anyone whose house has been robbed may go there and be sure to find any missing property.

From Mexico the expedition traveled westward stopping on San Martin Island which is the sanctuary of countless loons. A visit was also paid to the last retreat of the elephants on Guadalupe Island.

Borneo was the scene of many hazards through the prevalence of gnats, leeches, leprosy, and malaria. While hacking his way through a wilderness never before traversed by a white man he was rewarded by the opportunity of photographing natives who slept in the tree-tops for protection from wild beasts.

The final scene was of the inside of a sacred temple not previously entered by a white man. Sinners walked barefooted across a bed of red hot coals and those who escaped injury were said to be forgiven.

A smoker was held last Friday evening at Cochran Hall in honor of Coach Karl Lawrence.

There were ping-pong and bowling games in progress during the evening and refreshments were served.

Soccer Team Loses Opener 1-0, To Slippery Rock

Teachers Eke Out One Goal Margin Over Local Soccerites.

In a fast, thrilling game, the Allegheny College soccer team lost its opening encounter to a strong Slippery Rock aggregation Friday, 1-0.

The single score came mid-way in the second quarter. Shafer threw in the ball from the sidelines and in the ensuing scrimmage, an Allegheny man kicked the ball over his own goal line, giving the visitors a corner-kick. The kick placed the ball directly in front of the goal and Mallon, lanky left wing of the visitors who played a brilliant game throughout, booted the ball through the goal for the only marker of the game.

The game was nip and tuck all the way, with the invading team carrying the ball into the 'Gator territory constantly. Getting away to a slow start, neither team had opportunity to score until Lytle, of the Green and White, booted one just over the goal posts to miss the point. Just after this, Allegheny came very close to scoring when after working the ball down the field, Robertson bounced a kick off the goal post. This was the only serious attack of the Blue and Gold during the first half, the invaders making a concentrated attack on the Allegheny goal culminating in a score in the second quarter.

The second half was packed with action and spills, Allegheny making a determined effort to score. Time after time, the 'Gators had the ball in scoring position only to be stopped by an air tight defense. Hutchison, goalie, made a beautiful stop of a hard-booted ball in the third quarter, when three Slippery Rock men advanced without opposition for the goal. In the last few minutes to play Allegheny, by clever footwork and short accurate kicks, advanced the ball down the field, only to have the ball booted back by Wynnicks' long kicks. The game ended with an unsuccessful free kick and with it went the last opportunity of an Allegheny score.

Even though the 'Gators were on the defense for the most part, they showed a decided improvement over last year. The defense showed up exceptionally well, with Shields and Acker booting the ball deep into the invaders' territory on several attacks attempted by the opposing team. On the offense the locals lacked the accuracy of the visitors, yet they displayed abilities which should prove potent in coming encounters. Dain, Clark and Barackman were big factors in the offensive drives of Allegheny. The Lineups were:

Soccer Team Meets Two Opponents This Week With Two Trips

The soccer team will get into full swing this week with two games to be played.

On Friday the team journeys to Grove City to play our ancient foe. Last year the two teams met twice with Grove City coming off on the long end of the score in both of the games. On Tuesday the booters travel to Rochester, N. Y. to meet the University of Rochester team. This is the first time the two teams have met, it being an added game to the schedule.

With last week's defeat under their belt the locals should at least get an even split in the two games. The lineup for the two games will probably be the same as the one that stacked up against Slippery Rock.

Women Athletic Teams Emerge On Top In Contests

Eleven Allegheny women athletes were victors, with two wins and a tie, at a Fall Sports Day, Oct. 18, held at Grove City College, Allegheny, Grove City, Thiel, and Geneva Colleges participated.

The women who represented Allegheny were: Hazel Dixon, '37; Elizabeth Blackwood, '38; Blanche Alls-house, '37; Bette Williams, '37; Virginia Dalrymple, '36; Sally McVey, '37; Doris Dougherty, '39; Elizabeth Brady, '39; Beverly Sims, '38; Ruth Stafford, '39; Edith Green, '39.

After registering, the women were taken on a tour of the college, inspecting the new football field, the dormitories, and the chapel. The sports program included hockey, volleyball, deck tennis, and swimming.

When the various games had been played, the women were entertained at a picnic supper held in the Grove City Community Park. A riding exhibition was given by students of Grove City College during the meal.

Following are the scores of the various games:

Hockey—Allegheny 4, Grove City 0; Geneva 0, Thiel 0.

Volley Ball—Allegheny 2, Grove City 0; Geneva 0, Thiel 2.

Deck Tennis—Allegheny 2, Grove City 2; Geneva 2, Thiel 1.

Alice Larson, of Grove City, was chairman of the sports day.

'Gators To Meet Ancient Foe With Grove City Battle

The most important grid battle on Allegheny's schedule will be fought this Saturday, when the 'Gators travel to Grove City to meet the Grovers, who always appear formidable when the time for this game rolls around.

Still stinging from their Homecoming loss to Bethany the Blue and Gold are pointing towards this game, with the idea of redeeming themselves. The contest is always the high spot on a 'Gator football schedule.

Thus far the Grovers have participated in two games, earning an even break. In their opening contest of the year, they were swamped by a rejuvenated Washington and Jefferson eleven, 69-0. But in the second game they regained their form and outclassed a strong Morris-Harvey College team, 7-0. Fully recovered from injuries sustained in the W. & J. game, the Grovers will be at full strength for the important clash Saturday.

The 'Gators will go through an exceptionally hard grind during the week in preparation for the game. With the exception of Blasdel and Eberle, who received a bruising Saturday, the squad will be in almost top shape.

To date in their long series in the ancient rivalry, the 'Gators and Grovers stand equal in the number of wins. Each has won 13 games and tied 3. Last year's surprise 6-5 win for the 'Gators tied up the record. The rivalry is one of the oldest of collegiate football warfare in this section of the country.

Grove City in all probability will present a lineup consisting of Bibric and Bruntin at the ends, with Ashwood and Madalena at tackles, White and Pearce at guards, Bream at center, Mathis at quarter, Wilson at fullback, and Bingham and Shook completing the lineup at halfbacks.

The two teams will stack up against each other fairly even, with any advantage, if any, going to the Grovers because of their improved showing in their last game. But last year the underdog Blue and Gold upset a previously unscored upon, unbeaten Grove City team that was considered a sure bet. So advance dope on this game means practically nothing. To the team that can capitalize on the breaks will go the decision.

A great number of students from here will probably journey to the rival city to see this outstanding contest which is always well played regardless of the previous encounters of the season.

Gregg Is Elected President Of New Photography Club

Officers of the Photographic Club were elected at a meeting of the organization held last Thursday evening. Leon M. Gregg, '36, was elected president. Other officers are: Vice president, David Abel, '38; and secretary-treasurer, Helen E. Miller, '37.

At the meeting held in Carnegie Hall, members unanimously voted to accept the report of the constitution committee. Robert Muir read the report in the absence of Dr. C. A. Darling. Following the adoption, 18 of those present signed the constitution.

Immediately following the business meeting, Kurt C. Glaubach gave an illustrated lecture on the correct methods used in amateur photographic work. Mr. Glaubach demonstrated his talk with modern equipment and explained the different purposes of each type of camera.

Three standing committee chairmen were also elected. They are: Dr. John Heller, program chairman; Robert Muir, membership chairman, and George Thornton, property chairman.

Loosely Played Game, With Blocked Punts Causes 'Gator Loss.

Allegheny's football 'Gators suffered their first defeat of the current season before a Homecoming crowd of 1200, bowing to Bethany 13-0. The defeat brought the series between the two schools up to even terms, each has a victory with a tie game on the ledger.

A blocked punt enabled the Bisons to score in the second quarter and they came back in the fourth quarter to score again just after the Blue and Gold had passed up an excellent chance to tally.

With the exception of the Bisons' scoring gesture in the second period the game was virtually all-Allegheny for the first three quarters. After that Bethany knocked the 'Gators around for the closing minutes of the game.

The serial attack of the 'Gators failed to function with any degree of consistency and they were continually harassed on their sweeping end plays because of Klevin, who time after time smeared the interference and nailed the runner.

Bethany had pushed Allegheny back to the 20-yard line early in the second period when at least three men crashed through the line and blocked Len Blasdel's kick. The ball rolled over the goal stripe where it was recovered by Wickham for a score. Klevin converted making the score 7-0.

Tommy Clark started the Blue and Gold on a threatening march early in the third session that was stopped after a first down had been registered on Bethany's three-yard line. With Clark clicking off runs of seven, nine and 10 yards and a forward-lateral pass between Blasdel, Horn and Clark, netting 11 yards, Allegheny moved the ball up to the three-yard line. There Bethany not only held the 'Gators but threw them back 17 yards to pull out of danger.

Doepkin's punt to the Allegheny one-yard stripe at the outset of the fourth period paved the way to the Bisons' second touchdown. Blasdel's return punt was taken on the 29-yard line and a pass, Doepkin to Klevin, garnered 12 yards and started the Bethany drive.

The 'Gators made a determined stand within the four-yard line but Mumpher crashed through tackle on the third down for the score. Haumner failed to convert the extra point and the score was 13-0.

From this point on Bethany had complete control of the game. The game ended with Bethany in possession of the ball and in the midst of another touchdown drive.

In the way of statistics on the game Allegheny outgained Bethany 102 yards to 87, and Bethany had 6 first downs as compared to Allegheny's 5.

First Round Is Completed In Women's Tennis Tourney

The first round of the women's tennis tournament and two matches of the second round were played off during the past week, leaving Virginia Cook, Vera Aronson, Elizabeth Blackwood, Edith Green, Julia Ferguson, and Hazel Dixon in competition for the championship.

In the first round, Virginia Cook, '39, defeated Betty Brooks, '38, with one game, 7-5, the second game was defaulted; Vera Aronson, '36, defeated Marion Miller, '38, 6-2, 6-2; Jean Stewart, '38, defeated Betty Rehtmeyer, '39, 6-2, 6-2, 7-5; Elizabeth Blackwood, '38, defeated Elvira Pfeffer, '38, 6-1, 6-1; Barbara Burns, '37, defeated Cornelia Hockensmoth, '39, 6-8, 6-4, 6-3; Edith Green, '39, defeated Phyllis Freeland, '39, 6-2, 6-4; Julia Ferguson, '37, defeated Ruth Pratt, '39, 6-2, 6-1; and Hazel Dixon, '38, defeated Eleanor Keefer, '38, 6-1, 6-2.

In the second round Elizabeth Blackwood was victorious over Jean Stewart, '6-1, 6-3, and Edith Green defeated Barbara Burns, 6-2, 6-4, 6-4.

The remaining matches will be completed within the next week or two to determine the holder of the championship now held by Hazel Dixon who won the tourney last year.

The University of Virginia has a late-date system for students with "double trouble". The rules are that a girl goes out with a fellow from 7 p. m. to 11 p. m. She may then bid him "Good night" and stay out until 3 a. m. with her second escort.

Speaking of co-eds. A co-ed holds a regular berth on the polo squad at Cornell.

CAMPUS CLIPPINGS

Here's a little ditty presented in the "Juniatian" by a financially blue student:

Oh, it's money, money, money every place you go,
And it rolls away like water till your funds are low,
Then it trickles out your pocket while you look the other way,

So it's gone before you know it and you're broke again today.

Yes, it's money, money, money till your pockets shrink,
Why it's money for your honey and the gin you drink,
It's a dollar or a shilling every time you turn around;
I'll be damned if I can keep it so to hell with every pound

In an editorial in The Tattler, newly hatched publication of Rutherford College, N. C., is the following statement: "Then we've known students who were incorrigible. To them, their instructors were tyrants, ogres, cannibals. Either of these conditions is not conducive to success." It is extremely difficult to imagine a cannibal successfully teaching home economics.

Butler University, the college which pioneered in marriage courses, is now offering a course in the "Art of Staying Married."

An Adelbert College sophomore lost his pants one night at E. 105th Street and Euclid Avenue, second busiest corner in Cleveland.

He was waiting for a street car when 30 young men appeared. He little thought they were Adelbert freshmen, for they wore the best of clothes.

They waded into the sophomore. There came the sound of tearing cloth. They retired, and there, blushing to the roots of his hair, stood the sophomore. The fiends had removed his trousers.

He pulled his sweater down as far as he could. It was quite elastic. He sighted the Eleventh Precinct police station about 150 yards away. He made it in 8.7 seconds according to one witness, which is remarkable when you consider that he had to hold the sweater down with both hands.

"You lost your pants, eh?" said the alert police.

"I did," replied the soph, grimly. "The flag rush is tomorrow. The frosh are slightly premature." That's the way all sophomores talk.

Police trousers wouldn't fit the 118-pound soph. Eventually a group of his classmates arrived in a car.

The victim walked out with them, head up, sweater down.

In the opinion of Dean Virginia Gildersleeve of Barnard College, the voices of most girl students are very bad, and just to prove it to them, she is making each one of her charges record her voice on a phonograph record and then listen to it.

The dean then expects to have the girls go about correcting the unpleasant things about their speech.

The alumni seemed to have enjoyed themselves this week-end. One of the more energetic groups did a very smart job in the way of decorating the campus. The idea is not original, but nevertheless it is effective—and cheap . . . The boys at the riverside mansion were conspicuous by their lack of cooperation at the pep meeting Friday night . . . What good-looking Kappa was afraid to trust her brother with any of the co-eds for the dance. Perhaps that broadening influence would be the reason why boys leave the farm . . . Cochranites have done much to boost the standing of the Phi Psi's singing . . . The Phi Dels have an old dunking custom which seems to be still in evidence with the Reynolds' fish pond. If the fish aren't particular, well you're welcome and dunks again . . . The famous Sig is setting the fashion for the fall wear in gloves. Many thanks for showing the right time and usage for all this . . . Our sympathy goes out to the Phi Gams for having to relinquish their tennis courts which they have boasted about to the prospective pledges for so long . . . One of the Kappa's has so influenced a Phi Gam that he has taken the Phi Psi nose cut that he might better promote his stock. Now she is in quite a dilemma as to which of the boys she should give the extra date . . . The Hookless has its influence even at Allegheny. One of the terms of derision now to be heard at Cafisch is "You misplaced scoop" . . . The freshman hurt in the game Saturday caused a lot of worry in the second front of Hulings . . . The baby-talk Theta has her senior walking on his heels . . . Among the many things the undergraduates don't know at Allegheny is their Alma Mater song—well, come to chapel and practice it . . . This bow tie business is quite a problem, but a new one came up the other day, when one of the Singers had to use a trench coat belt as a substitute . . . What is Allegheny College? At least the gentlemen who called at the Tarbell dorm the other day had no idea. Trying to sell some wood (why he picked that place is beyond comprehension) he was told that he would have to see the college about that, because the girls had nothing to do with that. To which the gent replied, "who, and where is he" . . . The dog population of the college seems to increase in proportion to the student population. We welcome to our campus the Sig canine, McTavish, Phi, and Phillipbar's "Poodles" . . . That Delt senior from Erie seems to be in on the ground floor as regards club movements. It must be that Irish personality . . . The campus was overcrowded with couples after the dance Saturday night, but all available nooks had waiting lists . . . The Chi Rho house has, according to statistics, more Phi Beta's and more pins out per capita than any house on the hill . . . The latest pin hanging from that place is still getting its notoriety, what now . . . The red-headed Alpha Chi proved to be as charming as ever on her return during homecoming . . . The frosh Sig-Kappa couple is on the verge of dissolving, too much upperclass pressure. Hint to the frosh, use paint instead of whitewash on the swastika—The Duzzies don't seem to be as much in evidence this year as last, is the Phi Gam influence lessening? . . . As we end this column we think of the old Quaker saying "everybody is queer but me and thee, and even thee is a wee bit queer at times . . ."

In The Purdue Exponent we found this bit of revealing information on night life in the far North.

In the Eskimo language, "I love you" is Unifgaernaburenalfingunagiou-regaifoes. Perhaps this will clear up that old question as to why the Arctic nights are so long.

Down at V. P. I. they claim that since the new stone barracks have pedestrians along the sidewalk in been inhabited by cadets the female front of the barracks have increased nearly 100 percent.

Statisticians at Georgia Tech recently compiled a list of 2,500 English cuss words.

For those saving pennies — When Vincent Kelley registered at the University of Nebraska, he offered 3,600 pennies which took him seven years to save. They weighed 23 pounds.

Ida M. Tarbell Is Dinner Guest At Tarbell Monday

Allegheny women students honored Miss Ida M. Tarbell at a formal dinner in Hulings Hall, Monday evening, Oct. 21. Dr. and Mrs. C. F. Ross were also guests.

In introducing Miss Tarbell after the dinner, Dean Evelyn Miller spoke of her as "a member of the Board of Trustees; Allegheny's most distinguished alumna; but, best of all, beloved by all the girls who know her." Miss Tarbell spoke for a few minutes telling of her appreciation and fondness of Tarbell House. She reminded the girls of the "precious heritage" they had in Allegheny College—a heritage of which they should be proud.

In the freshman hour following, Miss Tarbell spoke to the freshman women on her experiences in college. Dr. Ross also talked to them on the history of the school.

While in Meadville, Miss Tarbell was the guest of the girls in Tarbell House, staying in the guest suite made especially for her use during her visits.
