Engle Wins Women's Extemp Contest Triple Tie For Second Place Honors

by Carol Blackman

Emily Engle placed first in the Women's Extemporaneous Speech Contest held in the Playshop last Thursday evening. Her speech, entitled "Is a liberal arts education the best preparation for marriage?" won the gold cup for her sorority, Kappa Kappa Gamma.

Miss Engle answered in the affirmative, stating that the liberal arts concern with educating the whole student includes education for the major roles which the married woman must play—those of companion to her husband and mother to her children. For the former, she explained, a woman needs to be able to talk intelligently and practice hostess-ship; for the latter, she must be able to understand her children, answer their questions, and "transfer" her experiences to them.

Second Place Tie

Tying for second place were Abbie DeLellis, representing Tallageewes; Diana Spaulding, Alpha Xi Delta; and Muriel Zulch, Alpha Gamma Delta.

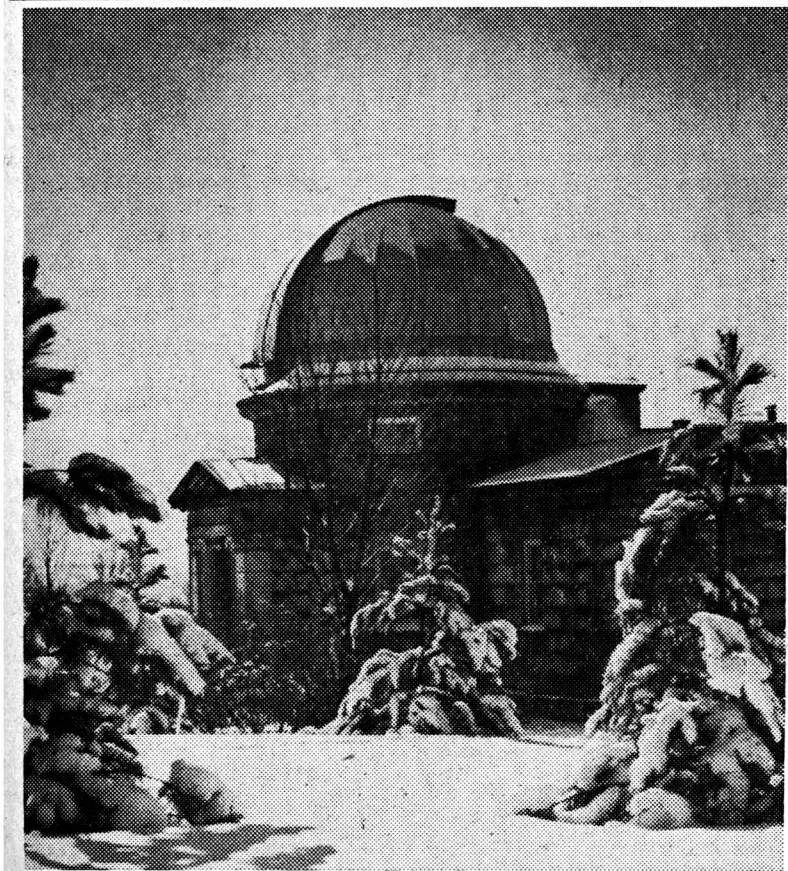

Miss DeLellis discussed the question "Is the college-educated girl a threat to society and the family?" The family is the place for the college-educated girl, since she can bring to her husband and children the knowledge and wide background.

5 Minute Limit Urged On Switchboard Calls

Due to an increasing tieup in telephone calls to and from the college switchboard, treasurer Allen B. Edwards has asked students to limit all calls to five minutes.

"In case of an emergency - it would be impossible to call into the college, especially during the late afternoon and around 10:30 p.m. The nine trunk lines into the switchboard seem to be in constant use during these times," he said. "We ask each student to cooperate in alleviating the situation," he added.

The annual Thanksgiving week snowfall again added its touch to the Meadville area on Sunday. Although it stopped short of last year's record downfall, it left its majestic covering on Newton Observatory for the fiftieth time.

VACATION!

The Campus has not scheduled a publication for the week following Thanksgiving Vacation. The next regular issue will appear December 6.

Any announcements or notices for that issue must be in The Campus office, Bentley basement, no later than Monday, December 3.

Music Group Plans Christmas Concert

The annual Sinfonietta Christmas Concert, under the direction of Dr. Herbert Neurath, will be held on December 6 at 8:15 p.m. in Ford Chapel. The thirty members of the group will present the following program, for which there is no admission.

I. Christmas Concerto by Corelli (two violin solos by Mary Ollman and Ginnie Johnson; a cello solo by Catherine Dodworth.)

II. Symphony No. 7, "Unfinished", by Schubert.

III. Prelude: Founded on a Welsh Hymn Tune by Ralph Vaughan Williams.

IV. From San Domingo by Arthur Benjamin.

V. Waltz from Masquerade Suite by Aram Khachaturian.

VI. Two selections from Rodeo by Aaron Copeland: Saturday Night Waltz and Hoe-down.

Allegheny Praised For Contribution To Advancement Of World Understanding

Allegheny College was cited yesterday for "outstanding contribution to the advancement of world understanding" by the Institute of International Education in New York City. Allegheny is a member of the Institute's "Educational Associates", a group of 120 American colleges and universities who are contributing to the support of the thirty-two-year-old Institute.

Praising the college's active participation in the student exchange movement, Kenneth Holland, president of the Institute, presented Dr. Louis T. Benezet with a special certificate for "bettering the foreign relations of the United States through the medium of the international exchange of persons."

According to Mr. Holland, there are now over 30,000 foreign students studying in American colleges and universities. "In this time of crisis," he said, "the act of bringing citizens of different nations into personal relationships, if carefully planned and skillfully executed, can be a concrete step toward world peace. Allegheny College, by welcoming students from other lands, has contributed immeasurably to this international movement. We are proud to be able to cite Allegheny for its leadership in international education."

The Institute is a private United States organization, administering exchange programs between this country and over sixty countries of the world. It cooperates with hundreds of American educational institutes in the selection and placement of exchange students. Roland Steinkoenig from Germany is attending Allegheny this year under the Institute's program.

Pan-Hel To Sponsor Intersorority Party Sunday, November 25

The Pan-Hellenic Council will sponsor an intersorority Cider and Doughnut party for all upperclasswomen at 11:00, Sunday night, November 25. Food will be distributed in all sorority rooms.

The party is under the direction of Nancy Tatem and participating Pan-Hel members include: Alpha Chi Omega, Corinne Ewing and Nancy Tolley; Alpha Gamma Delta, Sandy Lewis and Shirley Bird; Alpha Xi Delta, Ruth Wolf and Gretchen Neuenfeldt; Kappa Alpha Theta, Nancy Tatem and Kitty Crawford; Kappa Kappa Gamma, Marla Schneider and Jean Morse; Theta Upsilon, Nancy Felter and Lois Kottler; and Bonnie Ford representing the Tallageewes.

Women Will Have 1:30 a.m. Permissions For Annual Brooks Affair December 8

Art Mooney and his Orchestra has been secured for the annual Christmas formal according to an official announcement received by The Campus this morning. Student chairmen announced the arrival of the contract which will insure the appearance of the six foot, 36-year-old Irishman whose record sales of "I'm Looking Over A Four Leaf Clover" soared above the one million mark in 1948.

Art Mooney

Glenn Dunmire, AUC vice-president, and overall coordinator of student social affairs has announced that the dance will be held in Brooks Hall on Saturday, December 8 from 9 until 1. Women will have 1:30 permissions for the affair.

Bud Cooley, chairman, has reported that corsages will definitely be in order, and that refreshments will be served during the intermission period. There will be no admission fee.

Three sororities, Alpha Gamma Delta, Kappa Alpha Theta, and Kappa Kappa Gamma will feature open houses during intermission.

Jim Boddorf, AUC student activities board member in charge of securing the band reports that Mooney makes no pretensions about his goal in the music business. His aim is simply to play what the public wants.

Sensing the national appeal for music in the Glenn Miller mood, Mooney began to restock his book with arrangements by men like Jerry Gray, and Norm Leyden, both of whom at one time did arranging for Miller.

Band leader Mooney, whose mother was born in Ireland and whose father is a detective on the Detroit police force, began his climb several years ago after a successful stand at the Roxy Theater in New York City.

Song hits made popular by Mooney include "Peg 'o My Heart", "Baby Face", and "Blue Bird of Happiness."

Fraternities To Hold Sunday Open Houses

At the meeting of the Student Affairs Committee held Wednesday evening, November 14, the resolution was passed to permit fraternity men and members of Commons Club to entertain dates in the houses on Sundays between 7:00 and 10:30 p.m.

The plan, effective as of last Sunday, specifies that a responsible person must act as host at each party, which must be registered in Dean Ruth E. William's office by 11:30 a.m. the preceding Saturday.

Originating in the Student Affairs Committee, the resolution was discussed by AWS and IFC before the final vote was taken.

'The Curious Savage' To Be Presented By Valley Players; New Ticket Setup

The French Creek Valley Players, Meadville's community theater group, will open its third season with the production of "The Curious Savage" in the Playshop Friday and Saturday, November 30 and December 1.

Leads are played by Norma Cardert, Audrey Baldwin, Don Ladner, and Bill Hardenburg, all of Meadville. Also in the cast are Mrs. Howard Martin, Mrs. H. Douglas Pickering, and Jay Cherry.

The play is a fanciful comedy concerning a conspiring family which succeeds in placing the lady of the house in a mental institution.

The Valley Players, besides acting in the productions, also attend to the technical aspects of their plays. Mrs. Graham Bird is set designer and members of the Allegheny drama department direct the productions. William McMillen is directing "The Curious Savage."

The Allegheny Playshop has announced a new policy in student admissions. Starting Friday night Allegheny undergraduates attending the opening performance of a regularly scheduled community theatre or student production may receive two reserved seat tickets in return for one coupon.

Formerly each of the five coupons, which every Allegheny student receives at the beginning of the semester, was good for only one $1.25 admission. Under the revised system, each booklet of coupons may yield as many as ten admissions. To obtain this double ticket, however, the two admissions must be used for the same performance, and can be secured only on opening night. Other performances remain on a single admission basis.

AWS Senate Program Still To Be Approved

Joan Matthiesson, president of the women's senate, has released the results of the meeting held Sunday afternoon. Miss Matthiesson has stressed the fact that all rules passed by the senate must be approved by the administration before becoming effective.

Girls have been warned to keep Walker and Peifer doors closed after dark. On the nights of all-college dances, sign-in books will be found on either side of the front door, instead of all six books being on the counter by the switchboard.

Senate decided that Section 3 lounge of Caflich may be used for dates on Friday, Saturday, and Sunday, using the regular permissions for those nights. If a girl takes her twelve on Friday she is allowed to use the lounge for her extra hour.

A new rule concerning guests in the dorm was passed. It reads: "Guests in women's dorms shall be allowed three late minutes for the extent of their visits, but will be fined ten cents apiece for each additional minute late. The fine must be paid at the time the minutes late are taken."

The Loyalty Program In Perspective

Within this article is a statement of our nation's present attitude towards democracy as seen in the government's loyalty and anti-subversive campaign. The statement is made by one of our editors who was a member of the Allegheny delegation which attended an American Friends' seminar on the subject of "Freedom and Security". We print this discussion as representative of last week's discussion of our "silent generation."

We feel that we can no longer remain silent to the weakening of our system. Having been brought up in a world separated from the tyranny and chaos of fascism and communism, we are prone to become unaware of the strength which a democratic system must develop in order to fight the systems which would nullify liberty and personal security. The strength to which we refer is not that of armed power, but is the power which emanates from a free people peacefully sharing and choosing the best of the diverse opinions presented by its free citizenry.

The Star Chamber is once again in action; the inquisition courts are again flourishing. Where? In the United States Government. In 1947 President Truman established the Federal Employees Loyalty Program, a program to keep undesirable people, i.e., Communists, out of government service. The executive order which established the program stated that equal protection would be offered to both the Government and to the individuals questioned. The latter were to be protected from being falsely accused.

There is one hitch in the program. FBI agents have been sent around the nation to collect data on suspected government employees. In gathering information, the FBI has found it necessary to keep the names of its informants out of the public eye, in that manner keeping those sources open for further information. This means that a government employee, when brought before a loyalty board, is presented with a number of statements concerning his or her associations with Communists. The accused is allowed to deny the charges, but if he asks who has made the statements or asks to cross-examine the informant, he or she is told that the Government is sorry but it cannot reveal the names of its informers.

An individual, according to the Government, may be called disloyal, and may be dismissed from the Government's employ without having had the rights of due process of law afforded to him.

Today we are in the midst of the greatest purging of our political body in our history. The Government is demanding loyalty, loyalty to the guiding principles of the Constitution. Loyalty is a positive feeling which encompasses all that is to be found in patriotism, both of a militant and theoretical nature.

Disloyalty is a punitive label. To deny this is to negate the meaning of loyalty. To view a citizen who has been charged with willingness to aid an enemy of his nation in a manner which would endanger his own nation, and then to state that such an individual has the same stature in society as does any other citizen is to abuse the value of patriotism.

The Government refuses to recognize this. The Government feels that disloyalty is not a punitive charge. What it is, then, we cannot say. The loyalty program was created to strengthen the nation. In order to achieve this end it has resorted to secrecy and non-conformity with the traditional procedures of fairness. All of this might be excused in view of the present danger, were it not for the warped view of disloyalty implicit in the protection. Because the informers of the FBI have to be protected, disloyalty has been denied any punitive or stigmatic meaning.

The Government must have loyal men working for it, but the present procedures are not satisfactory. The nation, in attempting to maintain its security, has abridged the rights of its citizens. The right to know the charges, the right to test the evidence, and the right to cross-examine the witnesses are the elements of fair play which should be included in a loyalty program. If the Government is forced to take a few risks in protecting its security they are more than justified by the resultant preservation of the democratic process.

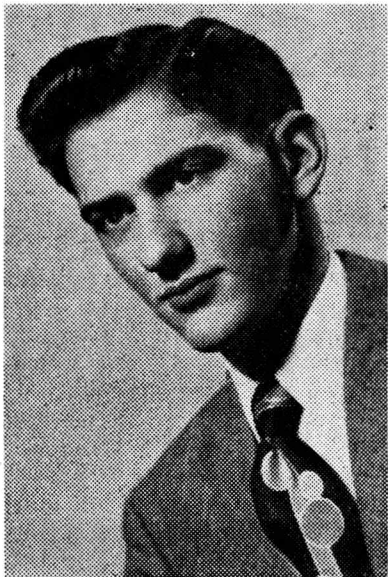

Senior Sketch .

"The thing I've enjoyed most at Allegheny has been working on the publications," said John Karras, of Cleveland, Ohio, when we interviewed him the other day. As editor of this year's Literary Magazine, on which he was a member of the editorial board last year, and as a former member of the editorial board of The Campus, he has had quite a bit of practical experience with his major, English literature. He is now employed by the college in its Publicity Office and is advisor to the freshman news page in The Campus. Last year he was co-author of the junior class skit for "Listen, My Children."

Asked about his plans for the future, John said, "I hope to go to graduate school, possibly at Columbia or N.Y.U., and after that I'll probably starve. Seriously, though, I'd like very much to be able to go to Europe and teach there or work for the government, but that's still a pretty nebulous idea."

In answer to our stock question about hobbies, he claimed to have none, adding, "The only reason writing is a leisure time activity is that I can't devote all my time to it."

"I have no favorite author," he said, "but I like Hemingway and Huxley, as well as Robert Penn Warren and Dreiser, although I haven't read too much by the latter two."

John Karras

Next to publications work, John has found the Playshop one of the most interesting activities on campus. He played the lead role of Peter Stuyvesant in "Knickerbocker Holiday" last year, and had a part in "Lute Song" the year before. He also played the flute in the band one year.

Pins 'n Sins

What do you use for an early morning pickup? Coffee? Sauerkraut juice? Hum? A kiss is the stimulant employed by two members of our freshman class.

The A.W.S. certainly got a treat at their harvest dinner when the Phi Deltis provided after-dinner singing . . . Congratulations to Snip Engle for her winning performance in the Playshop last Thursday evening . . . It seems every one wants to know who the two bears were that crashed the freshmen circus dance Friday—"We'll never tell!" . . . The highlight of last Saturday's PDT party was the pledging of Joe Canine.

The Phi Psi house was gaily festooned in sweet blue and blue for the Kappa pledge dance . . . The Chi Rhos' formal was a great success and paved the way for the pinning of Mopsy Nicholson and Austin Swanson . . . Sweet music and lots of fun characterized the Alpha Xi Pledge dance and everyone enjoyed the refreshments.

The Phi Psi and Alpha Chi pledges got together Sunday morning early and the net result was quite a shock to Nat Kenny and Corrine Ewing. After all, how would you like to wake up and find a goat on your dresser?

Latest reports from the Infirmary—Blue pills selling two to one over the reds.

Question of the week—We wonder if the green pills will heal Hub Ocamb's wrist?

Attention, cool music lovers! Billy Eckstine and George Shearing will appear in Erie at the Gannon College auditorium on Tuesday, December 4. We suggest you procure your tickets immediately, 'cause they're going fast. Heah, cats?

We're told that quite a time was had by those attending the over-night outing at Bousson last weekend. not only were charades and square dancing enjoyed, but a glorified German "spin the bottle" game as well. One of Roland Steinkoenig's subjects was Pat Tanton.

Weather permitting, it won't be long before we have our first good meal in months. Well, therefore, hither to and in as much, we leave you with this one thought—have fun at those wonderful "Half past the Dawn" parties. Just imagine, no 12:30's for four whole days . . . Here we go.

WEEKLY AUC REPORT OF EVENTS

AUC president Arnie Lewis requests all students with suggestions or criticisms of the problems cited below to notify their representatives after vacation.

1. An allotment of $425 was granted to the newly-established Public Affairs Committee.
2. Student Affairs approved the proposal of the Sunday evening open houses held in the fraternities and Commons Club.
3. Treasurer Bob Blomquist met Tuesday with treasurers of organizations which receive money from AUC to outline the system inaugurated to strengthen the handling of student funds.
4. The Foreign Students Committee is seeking the answer to the problem, "How can Allegheny induce more foreign students to enroll with less financial aid in the future?"
5. Approximately 100 Kaldrons are still missing. Those students who received two are requested again to return one to the AUC office in Bentley.
6. Following Thanksgiving vacation, AUC will discuss the problem of the annual spring fund-raising campaign.

Film Calendar

November 21-30 (Academy) An American in Paris, with Gene Kelly, Leslie Caron, and Oscar Levant. An ex-G.I. painter falls in love with a shop girl in Paris. Technicolor.

"A brilliant combination of Hollywood's opulence and technical wizardry with the kind of taste and creativeness that most high-budgeted musicals notoriously lack . . . The technicolored result is smart, dazzling, genuinely gay and romantic, and as hard to resist as its George Gershwin score . . . Throughout, the film breathes the buoyant spirit of Gene Kelly . . . The script . . . bounces wittily along under the direction of Vincente Minnelli . . . An American in Paris is a product of many talents and a triumph of teamwork."—Time

November 25-26 (Park) Let's Make it Legal, with Claudette Colbert, Macdonald Carey, and Zachary Scott. A light comedy about a middle-aged couple's divorce and their eventual reconciliation.

"Let's Make it Legal is a frothy comedy package . . . Gags and mildly amusing situations abound in the ecrypt, but they're never genuinely effective . . . stresses characterization and background effects . . . Throughout it all director Richard Sale speeds the yarn on a merry pace with scarcely a letup. However, his breezy touch is not enough to offset the triteness of the tale."—Variety

November 27-28 (Park) He Ran All the Way, with John Garfield, Shelley Winters, and Wallace Ford. A smalltime hoodlum takes part in an armed robbery and shoots a policeman. He hides in an apartment of a girl he has picked up, holding her family as hostages, while he tries to work out a get-away.

"The picture's rumpled sets, James Wong Howe's shadowy photography, the lower-middle-class characterizations, are all well-keyed to a note of squalid realism . . . The script gives the hoodlum some depth as well as menace; he is stupid, confused, worried, and for all his bitterness and bullying, wants eagerly to be liked . . . The acting is first-rate . . . Individual scenes are uncommonly taut . . . But what trips He Ran All the Way well before it has run its length is a far-fetched romantic gimmick. It asks the moviegoer to believe that the girl, devoted to her parents and younger brother, is lonely, frustrated and moon struck enough to plan running off with the criminal whom she has known only during the day or so he has spent terrorizing her family."—Time

THE DUSTBIN

by Ann and Marge

Here we go with our second attempt to give out with the freshman gossip. Our first duty is to congratulate our new class officers. We know that Skip, Phyl, Gwen, and Graham will keep pulling to make our freshman year a good one! The campaigning surely emphasized all the class spirit that has been shown in such things as that wicked snowball fight, all our dances, and the overnight at Bousson last weekend.

Right now, the event most of the kids are still talking about is the rugged life we put up with at Bousson. The night was mighty cold, even though Roland Steinkoenig didn't seem to think so. It's a good thing he didn't keep that window open or we probably all would have frozen to death. Dick "Bubbles" Cohen and Terry Szmagala kept the crowd laughing with all their clowning, and John Biekarc and Marty Reichle put their woodchopping and sawing abilities to good use. Hank Fisher asked for a small mention of his brown shoes that disappeared sometime Saturday night. If any one got the wrong pair, he'd appreciate hearing from them.

Class Dance

The dance sponsored by our class last Friday was also a big success judging from all that's been said about it. Susie O'Connor and Tom Duff and their committees deserve a lot of credit for the affair.

Congratulations are also due all the kids who have appeared in the various playshop productions. There is one so far undiscovered in our class, though. She modestly displayed her talents in front of Section 5 last Thursday to a very responsive audience, and rumor has it that Cookie Carlino will soon be starred in a future Playshop presentation. Be sure to watch for this event!

Thursday Talent

Other talent was displayed Thursday night by the Cochran boys led by Doc Thoburn. Their torch-light serenade to the freshman girls was one of the most enthusiastic so far. Thursday night also featured the Annual Harvest Banquet in Cochran and Brooks. Sylvia Rudolph and Elsie Hocking deserve credit for supervising

Freshmen Elect Class Officers

Allen "Skip" Yahn of Cochran was elected president of the freshman class Friday, November 16, at the final balloting for class officers. 220 of the 260 freshmen voted in the elections, 67% of the men and 95% of the women.

Other officers are: vice president, Phyllis Stewart, Section 3; secretary, Gwen Locke, Section 1; and treasurer, Graham Dunlop, Tarbell.

Dean Charles W. McCracken extends his congratulations to the newly elected freshman class officers and to the members of the class on the manner in which they conducted the election.

He hopes that the class will continue to display the spirit and unity it has shown in the past, especially exemplified by the freshman-sponsored all-college dance held last Friday night.

The need for easier communication and better class unity has been felt since the end of Orientation Week. After much discussion on the part of the freshmen and advice from upperclassmen, it was agreed that this page in The Campus was to be set aside for the use of the entire freshmen class.

This page is to be an outlet for our opinions, questions, criticism, and announcements. A similar need has been felt by other classes in the past; we are the first class, though, that has had the opportunity for campus-wide publication.

In the future, you will find announcements from faculty advisers, notices of questions before Freshmen Cabinet and class representatives, and publicity concerning freshmen programs.

Here is our chance to express our ideas and ask our questions. Send your contributions to the freshman editor at The Campus office.

Brooks decorations, and Blanche Vanis and Mary Lou Robinson for creating the Thanksgiving atmosphere at Cochran. The candlelight and the Phi Delta Double Octet really made the evening complete.

By now you're all pretty well set for your Thanksgiving vacation, so all we'll say in closing is have a real good time and enjoy yourselves!

VIGNETTE

Dramatics has held the brightest spotlight of Miss Jean Mill's interests; simply to keep life from becoming boring though she has gotten involved in everything from writing out sugar ration stamps to teaching wireless in the RCAF. As a child she enjoyed working out shows with friends, on a little stage her father built. This interest evidently kept sprouting and growing so that she majored in drama in Minnesota College, and now, of course, teaches it. The teaching is only a part of her present drama work. She enjoys working with summer theater groups, directing productions, and supervising a children's theater. As is the "fate" of most drama personnel, Miss Mills also teaches in the speech field. This year, she is part of the "G" program, teaching some communications sections.

She feels that the integrating of information and potential knowledge found in the "G" course program is, in idea and theory, wonderful. She is waiting to see how it works out in practice, hoping it may steer away from divided minds. "this section for math and this section for history and this section for..." Learning should be one united process, she seems to feel.

Miss Mills likes to regard students as being in college because they have a real thirst for knowledge, not simply because their parents have sent them. She feels that if this thirst does not exist, it is up to the teacher to instill it in the students. It would be nice to have the desire for knowledge such that tests would not be necessary, but this is idealistic. No tests can be absolutely accurate tests of knowledge since so many factors influence learning processes. Yet her belief is that people also must be able to adjust... that "I. Q.'s" are not everything!

THANK YOU!

To the Class of '55:

We, the officers of the freshman class, wish to thank you for the honor we have received.

Having thought quite often about an opportunity to relive some years, I have the feeling that Miss Mills would do much the same as she has done, but would add a few items. She would have pursued further training along artistic lines such as art and dancing. Also she thinks she would have benefited from more expressive training in her early life.

Philo-Franklin Set As Speakers' Goal

The Philo-Franklin Speech Union is a goal for which freshmen interested in public speaking or debating should strive. Freshmen are not eligible for membership in Philo-Franklin, but at the end of the year, those freshmen who have shown interest and proficiency in public speaking and debating are elected to it.

The Philo-Franklin Union conducts all speech activities on campus including the Men's and Women's Extemporaneous Speaking Contests, the Wakefield Oratorical Contest, and the Freshman Oratorical Contest. The Men's and Women's Extemporaneous Contest and the Wakefield Oratorical Contest, which are held once each year, are open to everyone. The Freshman Oratorical Contest, to be held next semester, will be open to freshmen only. Besides these three activities, the Philo Franklin Club also sponsors all debates on campus, working with the debating coaches. Anyone who is interested in any phase of public speaking may contact Miss Isherwood or Mr. Howard Martin.

Allegheny Defeated By Dickinson In Grid Finale

Red Devil Offense Proves Too Much As Gators Suffer Sixth Setback, 31-13

by Jack Hill

One of the most disappointing Allegheny football seasons in recent years came to an end last Saturday when the Gators were defeated by Dickinson 31 to 13. This was the sixth loss of the year for the Blue and Gold as against one victory and one tie.

After spotting Dickinson a touchdown in the opening minutes of the game, the Gators bounced right back to take the lead.

After returning the kickoff Herrmann passed to Myers for fifty yards to the Dickinson twenty-four yard line. On the next play Watson covered the remaining distance for the touchdown on an end sweep. Clyde Rickard booted the extra point putting Allegheny ahead, 7 to 6. At this point it looked as if the locals were playing the brand of ball witnessed the week before at Westminster and would have little trouble winning their second game of the year, but late in the second quarter Dickinson scored again to take the lead 13 to 7 at half-time.

Outscored, as Usual

In the second half the poor Gator pass defense was responsible for the remaining Dickinson touchdowns. Failure to break up enemy passes has hurt the Blue and Gold all season and has been responsible for more than one defeat. The Gator offense never really got started again after its initial spurt. But the team did manage to push another touchdown over in the third quarter, but by that time the Red Devils of Dickinson had pulled well in front 25 to 13. In the fourth quarter Dickinson scored again to make the victory assured and it was all over for the Blue and Gold. The final score was Dickinson 31, Allegheny 13.

Great Expectations

The 1951 version of Allegheny football was a team of great expectations. The only trouble was that the expectations never materialized. The beginning of the season saw a student body full of optimism with a veteran squad back and the outlook great. But after the first few losses due to bad breaks, poor blocking, poor defense, etc., the student body suddenly lost its enthusiasm . . . the team, as well as the coaches, lost their spirit, and the result was disaster.

Eight Graduate

The Dickinson game saw the departure of eight veteran seniors from the local grid scene. Gone are quarterback Carl Herrmann, half-back Jerry Watson, workhorse full-back Monk Myers, defensive half-backs Skip McIndoe and Jack Sapper, guard Ray Pawlak and defensive ends Deem Schoenfeld and Tom Ballish. These men have played on a Gator grid team that won every game but one and also on a team that lost every game but one. Their loss will mean a lot to future Allegheny teams.

Well, maybe next year.

GIRLS' SPORTS

Girls' ping-pong and volleyball tournaments will begin the Monday after Thanksgiving vacation, according to Miss Marjorie Kirk, head of the girls' physical education department. Schedules for both contests will be posted in Brooks gym.

Practices for volleyball were held Wednesday, November 14, and Monday, November 19, and actual play will begin on November 28, from 7:15 to 10:00.

The ping-pong tournament will be an elimination contest played at the College Union. Participants are urged to play their games when they are scheduled.

INTRAMURALS

Because of prevailing weather conditions, the championship of the interfraternity football league is as yet undecided. The playoff game, between Phi Kappa Psi and Phi Delta Theta, was originally scheduled for Friday, November 16, but was postponed until Monday, November 19. A foot of snow necessitated a further postponement, the date not yet set.

Phi Psis Down Delts

The Phi Psis assured themselves of the tie by downing a scrappy Delta Tau Delta outfit last Wednesday by a 20-0 score. Phi Psi end Jack Lehman tallied all three Green touchdowns on passes from Steve Graffam and Gordie Black. The Phi Psis added a safety in the last five seconds of play when Delt back Jack Wine was caught in his own end zone.

Sigs Blank Chi Rhos

The SAE gridders completed their schedule Thursday afternoon by blanking the Chi Rhos 12-0 on touchdown passes from Dad Best to Dale Versaw and Ray Roppel.

Two scheduled games have yet to be played or forfeited, these being Theta Chi—Chi Rho and Theta Chi—Commons Club.

Following are the standings to date:

Women's House Council Add New Improvements

Janet Koehler, chairman of the women's house council, has announced the actions taken by the council since the beginning of the current semester.

A notice box has been initiated in Brooks lobby, an extensive quiet hours campaign is being planned, and a survey is being conducted to determine the need for an automatic washer in Brooks, according to Miss Koehler.

Dr. Brown has announced that the new phonograph will be installed within the next few weeks in the Pine Room, she said, and all dorm needs and complaints are handled this year by Miss Shirley Townsend, director of residences.

Broken Engagements?—7 Suggestions Listed For A Quick Recovery

Do girls suffer more than men from broken engagements? How long does it take to recover from a broken engagement? Is there a painless way to end an engagement?

There is no painless way to end an engagement, but the majority of individuals recover in less than six months, Clifford R. Adams reports in the November Ladies' Home Journal.

To help speed recovery, Dr. Adams, a psychologist at Pennsylvania State College, gives seven suggestions offered by people who know best—those who have suffered from a broken engagement themselves:

1. Don't feel sorry for yourself. Statistics prove that you can love many people—there is no one and only. Next time you may be able to choose more wisely.
2. Objectively review the past courtship. When you analyze misunderstandings, disagreements and incompatible traits, you will realize that the present course of action is wisest.
3. Cut all ties with your ex-fiance or fiancée—return letters, gifts and pictures.
4. Consider similar experiences of friends, those now happily married or engrossed in a career. Your problem is not uncommon. A recent study of a thousand engagements shows that more than four in ten failed to result in marriage.
5. Resume former social activities. Accept invitations, look up old friends. Get some new clothes, put on a smile and start stepping out.
6. Don't be bitter about your broken engagement. Keep any explanations to your friends simple, dignified and fair.
7. Fill your days with constructive things to do. A job, volunteer social work, study or hobby will

AAUP Will Hold Meeting Monday

The Allegheny chapter of the American Association of University Professors will hold a dinner meeting on Monday evening, December 3, at New Gray's Restaurant.

Three Allegheny professors will participate in the program. Dr. Horace Lavery will speak on "The purpose of the Association of University Professors in a small liberal arts college;" Dr. Charles Miller will talk on "The history of the AAUP chapter at Allegheny;" and Mr. Deane Carson will give an address entitled "What the new faculty expect of the chapter here."

Following the program, Dr. Harold M. State, president of the chapter, will conduct a short business meeting.

November 29-December 1 (Park) His Kind of Woman, with Robert Mitchum and Jane Russell. A sultry action-thriller about a professional gambler and his lady-friend.

"His Kind of Woman is a somewhat lumpy blend of slapstick comedy and dead-serious melodrama . . . Director John Farlow, apparently as puzzled by the script as any moviegoer, ends the film with a comedy rescue . . ." —Time

"Action is brisk, dialogue sharp and the plot has an adventure quality that provides nifty escapism. In addition to the action phases, the yarn ties in plenty of angles that won't hurt its chances in playing to regular audiences. John Farrow's direction has a lot of sock in establishing a taut mood of expectancy and suspense . . . Story draws an obvious parallel on Lucky Luciano." —Variety help give you a bright outlook.

And remember: a broken engagement is preferable to a broken marriage. Best of all, Dr. Adams says: "Out of your experience may emerge a deeper sympathy for others, a greater insight into yourself, a richer challenge in the months ahead."

Delinquent Grades Ready November 26

Dean of Instruction Julian L. Ross has announced that advisors will have all delinquent grades on or about November 26. Students will also be notified by mail.

"We urge the delinquent student to have a conference with his instructor or the counseling staff to clarify any apparent difficulties," said Dr. Ross.

Freshmen may obtain all their grades from their advisors.

X-rays—Okay!

Results of the X-rays taken October 16 and 17 have been announced by Robert J. Byers, college physician.

"There is only one suspicious case," he said, "and that person has been notified." He added that the men who took the X-rays reported the Allegheny group the "healthiest they had seen."

Pommer Elected Head Of Local Music Group

Dr. Henry F. Pommer was elected president of the Civic Music Association at a meeting last Thursday, November 15.

The association, which has approximately 700 members, is planning a drive in January to result in bringing outside artists to Meadville later in the spring. Last year the association and the Meadville Orchestral Society were one organization.

Philip M. Benjamin and Herbert Neurath are on the Board of Directors of the CMA.

Freedom And Security Next IRC Radio Topic

"Freedom and Security" will be the second in a series of timely news topics to be discussed by the International Relations Club every Thursday at 8:30 p.m. over WMGW.

The next broadcast will be held on November 29 with Paul Davidoff, Pat O'Connell, Dean Titus, Ann Boyer, and Fred Brown composing the tentative panel.

Anyone interested in participating in these programs is asked to contact Paul Davidoff, president of IRC.

Engle Wins Speech Contest

ground she has received from college, stated Miss DeLellis. "When you educate a man you educate an individual; when you educate a woman you educate a family," she concluded.

"Why not a woman for president?" was answered by Diana Spaulding. A woman is physically and emotionally stronger than a man and she is at least his mental equal, she said, adding that a woman's curiosity enables her to find better solutions to problems. But, she concluded, a woman will probably never be president because men form a larger percentage of the voting population; because both men and women have to consider the masculine ego; and because in all probability no woman would want to assume the responsibility.

Better Knowledge

Muriel Zulch discussed "What has been or is the place of woman's pressure groups in legislation?" She stated that the development of these groups is a result of woman's use of the "glasses of human values." Women want to help the nation "humanly", said Miss Zulch, and they have been active in such areas as morality, health, and economic affairs. In conclusion she voiced the opinion that women possess a better college and general education to back their judgments than do men.

Other Speakers

Ann Harmony, representing Alpha Chi Omega, spoke on "Anna Rosenberg—woman in a man's job." Representing Theta Upsilon, Pat Alston discussed "Woman's concept of the ideal man." Harriet McCafferty, Kappa Alpha Theta, discussed the question "Should women rebel against impractical fashions?"

Judges for the contest, which is sponsored annually by Philo-Franklin Speech Union, were Miss Blair Hanson, Dr. Herbert Picht, and Dr. Julius Turner.

McCracken Inaugurates Campus Art Displays

At the suggestion of Dean Charles W. McCracken, a long term plan is now in effect to better acquaint Allegheny students with contemporary art circles.

Beginning with the glass-encased exhibit on the landing of Brooks dining hall, the display will be expanded to the alcoves between the Pine and Green Rooms and eventually to other buildings on campus, according to H. Douglas Pickering, who supervises the project.

The majority of the work displayed will be that of students, but reproductions of professional works will also be shown.
