

June 24, 1939

Dear Mr. Robertson:

How good of you to take the trouble to write me that you like "All in the Day's Work." I prize your opinion very highly. Think the book could hardly have done better than to have enlisted you as one of its friends. I let it go out with many misgivings and it is a real consolation to have my friends like it.

I was sorry I did not see you again at the Trustees Meeting. I wanted to tell you how successful I thought your hobby exhibits were. I talked with several of the boys and girls that were exhibiting, as well as with those that were simply visiting, and found a real enthusiasm over the collections. It is one of several heartening things that I saw about the College. As a matter of fact my month there, busy as I was, greatly encouraged me. Allegheny certainly is growing and it seemed to me such a happy place and so increasingly beautiful. It is good to belong to it, and particularly to belong when it has a Chairman like the present one of the Board of Trustees and a President like Dr. Tolley.

My mail brings me a courtesy card for the Westinghouse building at the World's Fair. Thank you so much. I am going down as soon as possible. The sinking of your capsule is to date the most exciting thing that I have known about Mr. Whalen's show.

Thanking you again for your letter,
dear Mr. Robertson, believe me

Faithfully yours

Mr. A. W. Robertson
306 Fourth Avenue
Pittsburgh, Pa.