

THE STRAIGHT OF IT.

CONCISE STORY OF CLASS CONTROVERSY.

All Ends Well and Everybody Happy.

In an adjourned meeting Wednesday afternoon the College Council, after square and liberal investigation, decided that in place of a Cane Rush there should be substituted a class scrap in which each class tries to tie up with ropes as many of their opponents as possible, the class finally tying up the greater number winning. Several rules governing the contest were adopted. The first was that a man is to be considered "tied" when he is bound hand and foot and carried to a marked-off enclosure at the end of the field of combat. After being tied, the man is considered out of the combat and may not enter again.

The second rule was that no knives are to be used in the contest, nor is there to be any slugging. Any breaking of this rule in regard to slugging eliminates the offender from the contest and he is to be considered the same as tied by his opponents and is to be counted in the end as one tied man.

The contest is to last one hour. The upper classes are referees to watch for slugging, etc. Any dispute will be settled by a committee of five upper-classmen, consisting of three Seniors and two Juniors, said committee to be appointed every year by the College Council. The Council appointed for this year being Elkins, Aiken and Lewis, Seniors, and Wilds and Stidger, Juniors.

Instead of remarking editorially upon the above action, because of its extreme importance we print it on this page and combine the story of the affair with a square comment, hoping thereby to make all see in a good light the situation.

The story is this: The Freshmen and Sophomores presented a petition to the Seniors and Juniors asking that they be allowed to substitute for the Cane Rush a Tug-of-war. The two upper classes refused this petition. In commenting editorially upon this refusal, we termed it "arbitrary," and thus it was the under classes looked at the matter. However, we termed the action "arbitrary" wrongly, because we did not exactly interpret the sentiment of the two upper classes. These classes did not object to an abolishment of the Cane Rush. In fact the entire school seems to be agreed on that. What the upper classes did object to was the substitution of a "Tug-of-War." Their grounds of objection were that it would not employ the entire membership of the classes and it would not be exciting or interesting enough to perpetuate itself and become a tradition. These objections upon reflection will be found solid.

Thus a rather unpleasant situation resulted. Naturally, the under classes were indignant. They had a right to be. A committee was sent to Dr. Crawford and he naturally referred them to the College Council as final authority in all disputes.

When the same petition, which was before the upper classes, was presented to the College Council, the sentiment at first was to grant the petition. Then a full discussion of the matter proved that this would leave a bad atmosphere, because of the fact that it would be decidedly reversing the decisions of both upper classes, when a compromise would make good feeling on all sides and a better Allegheny spirit, which every person wants or they shouldn't be here.

The compromise was this tying "stunt," and a Sophomore representative in the Council stated that he thought his class would be glad to accept it, their chief wish being to abolish the Cane Rush. The matter of compromise was put before the two under classes. The Freshmen accepted and the Sophomores refused to accept the proposition. Knowing that the matter had been fairly considered, the Council gave the Sophomores 24 hours to challenge the Freshmen for the above-mentioned contest. If the Sophomores failed to challenge within the specified time, the Freshmen were to offer the same challenge. If this was refused by the Sophomores, the fight was to be awarded to the Freshmen. As the situation stood, in order to bring a long-drawn-out matter to a close, this was the only method of procedure open to the Council, and it was done, not arbitrarily, but with all fairness and a hope that the trouble would end with good feeling and the establishment of a good tradition.

The Sophomore class, since the above article was written, was held a meeting and decided to challenge the Freshman class, the contest to take place on next Wednesday. There was some objection to the length of the fight (one hour) but this can easily be settled by a council of the two classes, followed by a petition to the College Council for the time length desired. It is with pleasure that we note this general harmonious ending of the matter.

A COURT OF FINAL APPEAL.

The question has risen several times during the past week as to just what the authority of the College Council really is. The following makes that matter clear:

Article III., Section 1. It shall be the function of the College Council

DR. LEE'S EXPERIMENTAL CHEMISTRY.

"The best work of the kind in any language," says Dr. J. H. Mathews, professor of physical chemistry at the University of Wisconsin, which is a characteristic criticism of that most remarkable book recently written by Dr. E. E. Lee, "A Text-Book of Experimental Chemistry." Dr. Lee has not only been placed in the foremost rank of chemistry instructors by those who have reviewed his work, but has added, in untold measure, to the prestige of the institution of which he is a faculty member.

The unbounded success which the book has already attained is somewhat appreciated when we are apprised of the fact that this work, published in August of this year, is already in use in a number of the

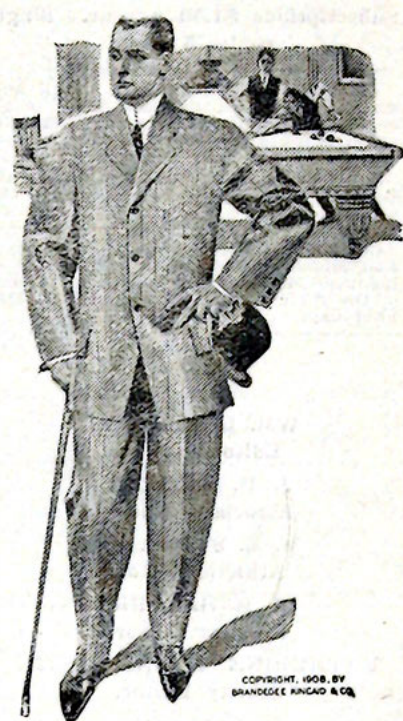

NEW ATHLETIC FIELD DEDICATED WITH A VICTORY.

Hiram Succumbs to Onslaughts.

The entire, enthusiastic student body and many townspeople crowded the side lines last Saturday, in the warm sunshine of a perfect Autumn day and saw Allegheny in her first game on the new athletic field, when she met and defeated Hiram, the final score being 5-0.

Throughout the entire contest the Allegheny gridiron warriors displayed an abundance of that fighting spirit which has always been characteristic of the athletes of Allegheny. Every man on the team went into the game with the determination to do his part towards making the game a victory and these efforts were not in vain. Perhaps the enthusiasm became a little slack at certain periods of the game, but it was soon brought back by the loud and long cheers of the lusty rooters lead by Ford.

This was especially manifest at the beginning of the second half. The first half of the game had come to a close without either side scoring, and it was with a new determination that the second half was begun. At least this was true with respect to the team with this new ginger infused in them, a touchdown was to promote the general welfare of the undergraduate body in all its different activities; acting as an advisory mediator between faculty and students when occasion demands, and constituting the court of final appeal in all matters pertaining to the undergraduate body.

Article II., Section 1. Every student organization (including each fraternity, sorority, and boarding club of the college) shall be entitled to one representative.

The young ladies not members of the sororities shall be entitled to the same number of representatives as the sororities. One of said representatives shall be a non-resident of Hulings Hall.

Young men residing in the city, not members of fraternities, shall be entitled to one representative.

The faculty shall be entitled to two representatives.

Section 2. No undergraduate below the rank of Sophomore shall be a member of this body.

The first regular meeting of the Council will be held in the oratory of Ford Memorial Chapel at 4 p. m. on Thursday, October 15, 1908.

THETA SIGMA PLEDGES.

The Theta Sigma Sorority had its bidding party at the Saegertown Inn on Monday evening, October 6. Five invitations were issued and the following are pledged:—

leading western universities, including De Pauw university and Beloit College. Such was the demand on the publishers that the complimentary copies of the first edition had to be sold for class-room use.

In reviewing Dr. Lee's book, it is noticed that the author states in his preface that the book "grew originally out of a personal demand for a text-book which would embody: (a) a clear, accurate and comprehensive presentation of the fundamentals of the science; (b) specific directions for laboratory work, coupled with such questions as lead the student to observe, compare and generalize, and would therefore provide a method for the scientific development of the principles under discussion; (c) a sufficient amount of discussion and application of the principles involved in the experiments to foster the interest and to direct the observations that energy may not be spent indiscriminately, and (d) those physico-chemical generalizations which are essential to the explanation of much of the phenomena of inorganic chemistry. * * * It is designed to provide, primarily, an experimental course in general chemistry, and by the use of "descriptive notes" and questions vitally relate it to the lecture-room work."

The text-book has met all these needs, which proved to be not only the author's "personal demand" but a universal demand. This opinion is enforced by Prof. Mathew's statement, which, in commenting further in regard to this general demand, easily made after eight minutes of play in the second half.

There was as great a difference between the first and second halves as could possibly be. There was nothing spectacular or of a phenomenal nature during the first part, but during the latter half the men made daring tackles, long runs and in every way demonstrated their superiority over Hiram.

In tackling, Firestone displayed himself to the utmost, accepting every chance during the second half. Abbot, Minor, Benedict and Ruhling all did good work in this feature. Stewart was at his best on offensive work, making many long runs and always figuring prominently in the interference in the half-back end runs.

Systematic Cheering.

The cheering by the student-body played a prominent part in the success of the team. It was ably lead by the regular cheerleader, Ford. The rooters were many and strong.

OUR OWN ORGANIZATION.

There is, unfortunately, a sentiment in one of the lower classes that the College Council in the present trouble is a crowd of upper classmen arbitrarily running things to suit themselves. There could be nothing more unfair than an opinion of that character. In the first place it must be understood that this body is a representative body of the students themselves to settle just such disputes as the present one. We should like to ask who would settle situations like the present unless there was such a body? They would never be settled.

In the second place we want to say that we do not blame the Sophomores entirely for their feeling of resentment. We have learned that they misunderstood entirely the attitude of the College Council. They did not know that Sophomore representatives were on the Council and that the Council freely and carefully and liberally discussed the situation in regard to the class scrap. It was not the arbitrary action of a few upper classmen, but a fair and broad-minded decision. We do agree with the said class that one hour may be too long a time for the scrap. But that matter is easily settled by appeal to the Council. If the students want to grope around in the dark in such crises as the present let them abolish the Council. Or abide absolutely by its decisions in every matter, with no complaint. It's our own body.

A STENCH.

We understand that an upper classman has made a remark something like this: "The College Council isn't worth a d—m." A man who would make a statement like that in the first place is a vulgar sot. In the second place, the sentiment expressed in that statement, creating as it does the atmosphere of anarchy, is either the expression of a fool in his most demented moment or else it is the real feeling of a sane man who has not the least love for his college or its institutions. Especially when he makes such a statement to a crowd of under classmen. Such a man has no right within a thousand miles of Allegheny; he is an absolute foreigner and if he had any respect for himself or regards for his neighbors he would go off to some desert and stay there until the stench blew away from his dead self.

THAT LAST HALF.

We believe fully in that sentiment expressed in the lines, "The faults of our brothers we write upon the sands; their virtues upon the tablets of love and memory." Hence we talk in this editorial only of the last half of Saturday's game against Hiram. We talk of it because at intervals all through that half the team gave positive signs of its possibilities both on the offensive and the defensive work. There was undoubtedly better offensive work at times than for several years, although at other times Hiram's back field went through the line as though it were only warm air. The coach might well try out some new men along the line. The back field worked well and by the end of the week will be able to show W. & J. some things on the forward pass. If they all had the stuff that Captain "Benny" has there would be gravel scattered.

WHEN WE FIGHT.

The past history of Allegheny's athletics shows that it is when our teams are "up against it" that they fight hardest and bring best results to the trophy room. As examples we quote two State games, one 25 to 6 and the other 24 to 0—of course in favor of State. Another of 24 to 6 in favor of W. & J., and another of 12 to 0 against W. U. P. and in favor of Allegheny, meaning the famous "moonlight game" of several years ago. Because of this we expect Allegheny's foot ball team, as usual, when foes come who are worth while, to do her best fighting. And we expect a good showing today at W. & J.

MORE HOPE FOR HIM THAN—

We heard a man Saturday acknowledge that he had played "a rotten game." At first we were inclined to feel a little disappointed at such a frank confession, but upon deeper thought we decided that a man who realizes his faults and tries to mend them is a hundred times better than the man who does not realize them. So, good luck to you, man, you've taken the first steps to learn!

WE REGRET.

We take this time to express our deep regret that W. G. Fixel has been compelled to drop out of college at least for the year. College life in general and the oratorical and debating phases in particular will miss the man who captained the team last year which defeated W. & J. and who this year would have been a decided strength to these interests.

THE RIGHT SPIRIT.

We are glad to commend the true Allegheny spirit shown in the action of an old foot ball man who has decided to give up his time every afternoon to coach the scrubs. Others ought to follow his example. If your work is arranged so that you are unable to play you can at least help in the coaching.

HARDLY FAIR.

In view of the fact that the two under classes fought hard and long in the first scrimmage around the tree in front of the library. It was hardly square to say that they were quitters.

NOT "MONTGOMERY FIELD."

In a short Chapel talk on last Tuesday morning, Dr. Crawford explained briefly why the down-town papers had made a mistake in calling the new athletic field the "Montgomery Field." The president in his opening remarks made all feel very forcibly his sincere respect and love for Dr. Montgomery, deceased, but that just at this time, if the field is to be completed, it will likely have the name of a man who is at present hovering around in the background waiting—we hope for Dr. Crawford to come.

Two years ago Dr. Crawford suggested that it would be a beautiful tribute for the Alumni to build the field and give it the name of Montgomery, but the Alumni didn't seem to respond very liberally, as only the small sum of $100 came forth. Hence the aforementioned necessity to get money elsewhere. Suffice it is to say that Dr. Crawford is "busy" and the field will soon be completed and paid for.

FRESHMAN EDITORIALS.

When we established this Freshman Editorial column we never dreamed that such masterpieces of true literary worth and conglomerations of philosophic insight should come to our desk, but the following baillies description and must be read slowly and carefully to be interpreted scientifically:

GIVE THE FACULTY A VACATION.

Our illustrious and even famous faculty are, at the present, in dire need of a rest. They show this, everyone of them, by every line of their faces through the tired and worn-out expressions. True enough, the school year is but fairly begun, but what of that? To go on with the work under the existing conditions would be unjust to the student-body and more than that to the members of the faculty.

The interruption of the school year would most certainly be an inconvenience to all, and especially to the students. The latter, however, we think would be willing to sacrifice a week's work for the good of the faculty. It would, indeed, be beneficial to the students, for anything which benefits the faculty is good for students as well, so closely are the two allied to each other.

Perhaps the only other disadvantage would be to get the "Profs." in a mind to take a vacation. It is a well-known fact that they are so enraptured with the work that a trip away, no matter how beneficial to the physical health, is like drudgery, when contrasted to the college work. This objection, however, might be overcome in several different ways. A little strategy would do the work in many cases, the subjects being handled much like the inmates of an insane asylum. For instance, they could be deluded into the idea that a new position awaited them at one of the eastern universities and thus be lured to the east. Various methods of this kind could be tried, and if all failed, then violence could be resorted to, and would doubtless be successful.

We think it would not be a bad idea to give a vacation of a week or so to the faculty every few weeks, or say at the end of every month. It would certainly produce results which have heretofore been unknown to the college.

OUR POLITICS IN ALLEGHENY.

With the hypothesis that this paper is to the deepest depths third party in politics, i. e. Allegheny, we note a certain condition as to the politics of the outside world because there are many students who will vote this fall. A careful canvass shows that Taft might get a good support on the hill. Cochran hall seems, judging from the pictures in front windows, to be a veritable nest of Taft boomers. Taft buttons also are appearing on numerous lapels. We simply remark this situation with no comment—because as we have said, we are third party boomers—Allegheny!

"HARD RUN" THAT DAY.

The captain of the track team came swaggering down the way. He passed the "Gym", on by the "Lab.", to where the ladies stay. With faultless taste (?) the captain wore his coat, his vest, his tie, His socks were right, his linen bright, But here we heave a sigh.

For:

The pants he wore, upon his legs, old Sol Levi had bought Ten ears before, one cold June day, when fire had wrought its havoc to a brother Jew, who sold his stock to Sol. The stripes were red, the bars were green, In them—no wool at all.

The captain of the track team came swaggering down the way, And as he passed with colors loud, he heard a Freshman say: "Oh, captain dear, you must have been a long way off from pay When you got those PANTS I judge you must Have been HARD RUN that day."

"The girl looked good enough to eat—and I guess she did once in awhile."

SOCIETY BRAND SUITS AT MENDELS

DR. CRAWFORD'S FRESHMAN LECTURE.

A very interesting feature of President Crawford's second lecture to the Freshman class, given in the oratory last Tuesday, was his quoting of extracts from the 77 letters he had received from the New Alleghenians. These letters, which were the result of Dr. Crawford's request, purported to set forth the reasons why Allegheny was the college they had chosen to direct them in their search for knowledge and truth. The information given was very instructive and valuable. The statistics given showed that 12 religious denominations were represented, while one-half of the class were "instructed in the doctrine" which Allegheny especially represents.

Dr. Crawford again sounded the keynote for the year, originally expressed by one of last year's Moving-Up Day orators,—"A Better Allegheny."

ONE HUNDRED THIRTY-FIVE FOR MISSION STUDY.

Notable success in Mission Study this year in the college, strongly foreshadowed by the splendid work done last year under Dr. Smith's direction, seems assured. Last Wednesday evening A. J. Nelson, chairman of the Y. M. C. A. Mission Study department, outlined in detail the very active part Allegheny College has taken in recent years in College Mission Study circles. The statistics so favorably ranked Allegheny with other leading institutions that great enthusiasm was created and the student body felt the vital relation of this phase of college life to the ultimate development of splendid college spirit.

Dr. Smith, in very ably presenting the cause, showed in an unusually pertinent manner, that while colleges still disagree as to the place of Oratory or Athletics in college life, all the institutions in the United States and Canada were universally agreed that Mission Study had a very important place. A good index to the enthusiasm with which this work is being received is the fact that already 55 young women have enrolled in the class, while the signatures of 45 men have been received, and after further canvass there will no doubt be 30 or 40 more names secured, swelling the total membership to about 135.

The first text that will be used will have a double interest to the class since Bishop Thoburn is the author: "The Christian Conquest of India." After the Easter vacation, Home Mission Work will be studied, Howard B. Grose's "Aliens or Americans" being the text.

WHAT THE CAPTAIN THINKS.

Captain Benedict was a little disappointed that the team didn't pile up more scores on Hiram. He believes that the two worst defects in the playing were the line weakness on offensive and the interference on defense. The interference would start off all right, but the first player on the opponent seemed to be able to penetrate or dodge these fore-runners and get the man carrying the ball.

F. L. LA BOUNTY WRITES.

The readers of the Epworth Herald were pleased to find on the front page of the copy issued August 8, 1908, an interesting article written by F. L. La Bounty, '07, entitled, "The Growth of College Tradition." The story is an account of the removal of the remains of Timothy Aiden, the founder and first president of Allegheny College, from Sharpsburg, Pa., to Meadville. It is illustrated by two engravings: one a half-tone from a photograph which was recently found of Timothy Aiden; the other from a photograph of the new bronze tablet placed in Bentley Hall by the Class of 1908. These two cuts in connection with the story are strong illustrations of the growth of college tradition.

The article is a valuable one, not only to the writer, since he was well remunerated, but to Allegheny College, since the accomplishments of our students and alumni are her greatest advertisement.

GET DATES EARLY.

For handy reference when a fellow wants to get an engagement with his girl several weeks ahead, because there are several aspirants, we are going to publish every week a schedule of the games and their dates. Here it is:

Oct. 3.—Geneva 0-0.
Oct. 10.—Hiram 5-0.
Oct. 17.—W. & J. at Washington.
Oct. 24.—Carnegie at Pittsburgh.
Oct. 31.—Mt. Union at Meadville.
Nov. 7.—Grove City at Meadville.
Nov. 14.—Westminster at Sharon.
Nov. 21.—W. R. U. or St. Bonaventure at Meadville.

THROUGH THE MILL.

Since the last issue of The Campus came out, many of the men pledged to fraternities have gone through the trying ordeal of initiation and are now wearing the insignia of full-fledged Greeks. The following have been initiated:—

Phi Kappa Psi—Paul McKay and G. Lloyd Singley, of Meadville; Leroy Peterson, of Kane; Wesley E. Abbott, of Sugar Grove, Pa.; Karl N. More, Batavia, Idd.; Ira B. Gorham, Minneapolis, Minn.

Phi Gamma Delta—Ross Root, Cambridge Springs; W. O. Forman, Townville, Pa.; O. C. Nichols, Girard, Pa.

Delta Tau Delta—H. T. Lavelly, Falconer, N. Y.; Karl Krag, Butler, Pa.; E. M. Hamaker, Meadville; H. W. Rowe, Myersdale, Pa.; Gerald Canfield, Cambridge Springs.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon—James and Charles Love, Vandergrift; S. S. Townsend, Peropolis; Arthur Nodine, Titusville; R. T. Thomas, Conneaut, O.

DR. CRAWFORD BOOSTS ALLEGHENY.

Dr. Crawford, president of Allegheny, spent the latter part of last week in West Virginia, speaking at various places in the interests of the college. On Friday night he made an address on "The Problem of the Christian College," before the West Virginia Conference in session at Moundsville, W. Va. The next morning, before the same assembly, he spoke on "Social Service." On Sunday morning he preached in the First M. E. Church at Wheeling, W. Va., and in the afternoon was the chief speaker at the laying of the corner stone of the new Y. M. C. A. building. His subject at this time was, "The Problem of Christian Progress and the Part the Y. M. C. A. Has in It."

On Thursday of this week, Dr. Crawford spoke before the mid-year gathering of the Central Pennsylvania Conference at Phillipsburg, Pa., on "English Wesleyan Mission Halls." Yesterday he was at Haverford College at a celebration of the 75th anniversary of its founding. Today the president is in Philadelphia attending to some business for the college. Tomorrow he is scheduled to preach at State College. When Dr. Crawford makes these lecturing and preaching trips away from home, it always means a big boost for Allegheny.

"He was a cipher with the rim entirely removed."

MR. BAVE FRIEND OF SCRUBS.

Mr. Bave, of Cochran Hall, has instituted a new scheme, a most commendable incentive to the scrub foot ball men. He is going to present each faithful scrub who sticks to the work throughout the year with a solid silver foot ball as a reward of his faithfulness. Mr. Bave brings this action from the larger eastern institutions with which he has been connected. Mrs. Bave, who was matron of several foot ball teams at Princeton, has several beautiful solid gold, diamond-laced foot balls of this character.

SCIENTIFIC CLUB FORTUNATE.

Through the efforts of Professor Breed the members of the Scientific Club had the pleasure of listening to a very interesting talk given by Dr. P. E. Raymond, of the Carnegie Institute, at their second meeting Thursday evening.

Dr. Raymond is a man well known as a collector of vertebrate fossils, and his experiences in the Bad Lands, related so vividly by him, were of especial interest to everyone at the meeting and the new specimens he exhibited were looked over with much curiosity on the part of his hearers. Dr. Raymond said in closing that the region about Meadville is especially interesting because of its many specimens showing transitions from one form to another.

TO COACH SCRUBS.

Cole, one of the team's pillars of strength, came to school too late to register in time for foot ball and as a result the team loses this mountain on the line. However, Mr. Cole is not going to loaf all season, but has consented to coach the scrubs during the season. It is the desire that all old players who are able to spare the time shall come out even if they cannot play, and assist in the coaching.

HEARD BISHOP THOBURN.

Bishop Thoburn lectured last night in Ford Memorial Chapel to a large crowd of interested hearers, on the subject, "Fifty Years of Moral and Religious Progress." Bishop Thoburn was at his best, and though now an old man, he presented these great missionary truths with a force indicative of more than a human genius behind them.

NEW ATHLETIC FIELD

DEDICATED WITH A VICTORY.

As the "Alleghenian" resounded over the field the inspiration to the players was decidedly great. Between the halves, Ford lead the rooters about the field in a single-file parade. For five minutes or more they ran about in the form of a figure eight and just before the intermission was up gave several loud yells in the middle of the field.

The main attack of our aggregation was around the ends, which proved to be Hiram's weak spot. Nevertheless, Fullback Leffer made many good gains through the line.

One thing which was noticed and remarked upon by many was the fact that Captain Benedict's men were not the ones who were knocked out frequently as were Hiram's players. But few times during the game was an Allegheny player knocked out, and then it was only for a short time, while it was a frequent occurrence for the Hiram men to be wounded or have something or other wrong to delay the game. This is caused by the excellent training which Allegheny's men have been keeping.

The President's Telegram.

Before the game, while the men were yet in the gymnasium, a telegram from President Crawford was handed to Captain Benedict. It wished him and his team success in the game, which was emphasized as being the first on the new athletic field. The telegram was from Wheeling, W. Va. The message was a strong inspiration to the team.

The Details.

Shortly after 4 o'clock Referee Curtis called the game. Leffel, for Allegheny, kicked off to Smith, Hiram's right half, who received the ball on the 10-yard line and advanced it 15 yards. After three downs Hiram lost the ball on downs. Starting with the ball on the 35-yard line, Abbott made 3 yards around left end. Then Benedict circled right end for 5 more and Leffel made 2 through the line. Quarterback Stewart then lost several yards on an end run and Captain Benedict tried a field goal, but was unsuccessful. Hiram thus got the ball behind the goal line and, as prescribed in the rules, kicked from the 25-yard line. Miner received the pigskin on the 40-yard line and gained 10 yards. He then made 25 more on a sensational run around left end. A forward pass from Benedict to Abbott made 10 more yards and things began to spell touchdown. Allegheny retained the ball and made continual advances until the 15-yard line was reached and Hiram held them for downs.

Hiram was unable to make any advances and punted on the 40-yard line. Stewart received the ball, advancing it 10 yards before being downed. The ball was now exchanged several times by punts without any material advances. With the ball within 25 yards of their goal, Craig, Hiram's quarterback, attempted a drop kick, but it was beautifully blocked by Abbott. Allegheny then recovered the ball and Captain Benedict made 30 yards around the end. This was followed by an unsuccessful forward pass, whereby Hiram obtained the ball. At this juncture of the game, time was called for the end of the first half.

Second Half.

Hiram kicked off to Ruhling, who received the ball on the 30-yard line and advanced in 5 yards. Abbott gained 5 yards around the end and Benedict added 20 to it. Miner made 7 more and Benedict again made a big run, making 15 yards. The ball was advanced to within one yard of Allegheny's goal and there was forfeited on downs to Hiram. After Hiram's punt, the back field made steady gains until Leffel carried the ball over the line, making the only touchdown of the game. Benedict failed to kick goal.

Leffel kicked off to Hiram, Smith receiving the ball. Firestone now broke up several plays of the Ohio men by his phenomenal tackling. Towards the end of the game there were no sensations, the ball remaining the while near the middle of the field and changing hands frequently.

The best playing for Hiram was done by Craig, the quarterback, who figured in many long runs and daring tackles.

The summary follows:

Allegheny—5. Hiram—0.
Firestone l. e. Hall
Kennedy l. t. Shannon
W. Ball l. g. Linton
Riblet-Lavely Porter
Piper r. g. Mitchell
Ruhling r. t. Bradshaw, Capt.
Abbott r. e. Carroll
Benedict, Capt. l. h. Cox
Leffel f. b. Luther Miner r. h. Jones
Stewart q. b. Craig
Time of halves, 25 and 20 minutes.

Referee—Curtis.

Umpire—Waterman.

Touchdown—Leffel.

says that "Dr. Lee has covered the ground fully and logically." Prof. T. W. Richards of Harvard University says: "Dr. Lee is a good man and a clear thinker. * * * It is the greatest amount of original data ever published in one paper."

P. Blakiston's Son & Co., the publishers, in a front page ad. in the last issue of "Science," quote the following comments made by prominent instructors:

"It is modern, well balanced, and sufficiently complete for its purpose. I believe it will prove an excellent hand-book."

"We are much pleased with the book, and expect to introduce it in our classes in the university."

"The book is full of valuable information, and is worthy of a place in every chemical library as a reference book. It is certainly unique in that it is a combination of text and laboratory manual, a brief encyclopedia of valuable chemical facts with which every student of chemistry should become acquainted."

"I am much interested in the arrangement and general plan of the book and admire the method used to induce original investigation."

"It is most comprehensive. It seems to cover the whole ground and to be very carefully written."

"I find much to recommend in the book; its recognition of the importance of theory, of study and reflection on the part of the student, and of system in one's laboratory work. Also the very valuable and condensed information contained in the numerous and wisely selected tables."

STUDENTS GOVERN COCHRAN HALL.

The "student government system" is the method to be used for regulations in Cochran Hall. This decision was made definite last Wednesday when President Crawford called an assembly of the roomers in the new Commons. Elkins, Morgan and Barkley, the committee appointed to consult with the students and mold their suggestions into some definite shape, reported and the following rules were adopted:

Rule I.—Piano may be played in the forenoon until 1:30 p. m.; from 5:30 p. m. to 7:30 p. m.; all day Saturday and Sunday.

Rule II.—Quiet hours 1:30 p. m. to 5:30 p. m.; from 7:30 p. m. on—except Saturday and Sunday.

Rule III.—Entrance door must be locked at 11 p. m. After this hour, residents must ring for admittance.

Rule IV.—Committee of five, consisting of two Seniors, one Junior, one Sophomore and one Freshman, shall be held responsible for the enforcement of these regulations.

The mass meeting for the Oratorical Association, held in the Chapel Wednesday morning, did much to create a good spirit for Oratory and Debate, and already the dollar tickets are receiving the attention of the student body. Oratory has a decided place in Allegheny and it is interesting to note what a great interest the alumni take in this branch of college life.
