WIENER SAENGERKNABEN

Vienna Boys' Choir will appear at high school auditorium Friday night.

MOZART OPERA FEATURE OF VIENNA BOYS' CHOIR

"Bastien and Bastienne", one of Mozart's shorter operas, will feature the program which the Vienna Boys' Choir will present to the first College-Community Lecture-Concert course audience of the year in the Meadville High School auditorium this Friday night at 8:15. Prominent also in the program are German folk songs, church chorales, and selections from Wagner's operas "Rienzi" and "The Flying Dutchman".

Come Direct from New York. Contrary to previous announcements the Saengerknaben are coming to Meadville direct from New York, where they are now appearing. From here they will continue to Pittsburgh and then west.

The Austrian boys will arrive here by special bus Friday afternoon. Professor Luvaas has been besieged with requests of faculty members and townspeople who are anxious to play hosts to the youthful singers during their stay in Meadville Friday night. Some of the boys will probably spend the night at Caffisch Hall. Instead of planning a set entertainment for the guests, Professor Luvaas intends to utilize the suggestions of the boys themselves.

Ticket Sale Closes Friday. The sale of tickets for the lecture-concert course has been rather slow, although many last-minute subscribers are expected to purchase tickets. The remaining five numbers on the program (two musical and three lecture) will be announced at Friday's entertainment. After Friday night, absolutely no course tickets will be sold, Professor Luvaas again emphasizes. The student ticket price is $1.50, and the outsider's $3.00. Professor Luvaas reminds students that there will be no tickets sold for individual numbers of the course.

Will Appear in Costume. Dressed as fine gentlemen of the Rococo period with periwigs and brocade costumes, or as ladies with hoop skirts, curly chignons, and slippers, the little Austrian boys will play all German Club to Meet.

Der Deutsche Verein will hold its next meeting Tuesday evening, November 14, in the girls' parlor at Cochran Hall. The officers of the club are presenting the first program which will include a talk on German scientists by Anne Strott, a political survey of Germany by William Hunter, and a discussion of the novelist, Thomas Mann, by Ruth Sundback.

In a list of newly initiated members which appeared in a previous issue of The Campus, the name of Edwin Olmstead was omitted.

PROF. WOODRING SPEAKS BEFORE BIBLE CLASS

President Tolley to Continue Discussion Next Sunday Morning.

Professor Warner F. Woodring addressed the Bible class last Sunday on the general subject "Is Religion a Necessity at Allegheny?" The class was held in Hulings parlor. About twenty students were present.

Announcement was made that President Tolley will speak before the class next Sunday on the same subject. On Sunday, Nov. 20, Prof. Woodring will again meet the class for a discussion.

The meeting Sunday was opened with a general discussion. Prof. Woodring then based his talk on the questions raised. His main theme was "Is Religion a Good Instinct and How Should it be Expressed?"

Professor Woodring said that although religion is perhaps not an instinct it is something real and pressing and earnest. It is the inner urge of man to tie things together, to give meaning to his life. Religion can not be organized, it is a personal matter which, like the appreciation of good music, is dependent on the individual, was Professor Woodring's conclusion.

DELTA SIGMA RHO CUP WON BY LOIS STARKE

Lois Starke, speaking for Alpha Xi Delta, captured first honors in the Extemporaneous Speaking Contest for Women which was sponsored by Delta Sigma Rho last Wednesday, November 2. Second and third places went to Jane Wright of Alpha Gamma Delta, and Dorothy Day of Kappa Alpha Theta, respectively.

The speakers, in the order of their appearance, were as follows: Winifred Strick, Theta Upsilon; Dorothy Day, Kappa Alpha Theta; Margaret Van Aken, Delta Alpha Theta; Edith Fox, Non-Sorority; Lois Starke, Alpha Xi Delta; Jane Wright, Alpha Gamma Delta; Edna Mae Bruggeman, Alpha Chi Omega; and Grace Ralston, Kappa Kappa Gamma.

Professors C. F. Ross, A. H. Spalding, and E. Miller acted as judges.

HOOVER POLLS LANDSLIDE WIN IN PRESIDENTIAL VOTE

JOHN A. LOMAX HERE FOR LECTURE MONDAY

Quill Club Sponsors Visit of Noted Authority on Cowboy Ballads.

The Quill Club will present Mr. John A. Lomax, Texan authority on cowboy ballads, in a lecture and song program on Monday night, November 14, announces Dean J. R. Schultz, Professor of English. Due to political activities in his state, Mr. Lomax was unable to make definite arrangements until last week to appear here. His lecture will be given in the chapel at 8:15.

Lomax, who studied American cowboy ballads, cowboy verse, negro "spirituals", and songs of the "worldly negro", has attained considerable reputation for his research in American ballads. He has published two volumes of songs: "Cowboy Songs" and "Songs of the Cattle Trail". For three years Mr. Lomax was the Sheldon Fellow for the investigation of American ballads; and he was twice president of the American Folklore Society.

By lecturing and singing, Mr. Lomax presents his subject material. He has appeared in forty-three states of the union and in nearly all the important universities. Carl Sandburg, one of the greatest living American poets, if not the greatest, says of Mr. Lomax's lectures: "I think no one delivers the cowboy songs with the reality, the truth to life, that is heard in the Lomax renditions. He gets their stride and stridency, and their rough tang."

PHYSICIAN EXPLAINS FIGHT ON DISEASE

Dr. Pruett, representing the Pennsylvania Tuberculosis and Health Society, spoke in chapel on Friday, November 4, concerning the work being done in this state at the present time in the fight against tuberculosis.

He first mentioned three outstanding men who have contributed to our knowledge, namely: Leeuwenhoek, the father of the modern microscope; Koch, who discovered in 1882, the germ which causes tuberculosis; and Roentgen, the discoverer of the modern X-ray.

More advancement has been made in the last fifty years towards checking this disease than perhaps in all the years previous to 1882, but the death rate from this affliction is still quite high, especially among high school and college groups.

Dr. Pruett finished his brief talk by saying that the fight against tuberculosis is not yet completed. Probably the hardest part is ahead, but with the cooperation of the scientific world and the public, great advancement will be made in the work of preventing and checking the growth of tuberculosis, he concluded.

Thoburn Club Meets Thursday

"Is the Christian religion practiced today?" will be the subject for discussion at the meeting of the Thoburn Club to be held tomorrow night at 7:00 in the library. The leader for the discussion is to be Robert Howe.

M'CARTNEY DELEGATE TO FRATERNITY COUNCIL

Will Attend National Conclave at New York During Week of Thanksgiving.

George McCartney, Interfraternity Council member of Alpha Chi Rho, was selected to represent Allegheny at the convention of the National Interfraternity Council to be held in New York during the Thanksgiving vacation. This selection was made by the members of the council at a meeting held at the Beta Upsilon house last Wednesday evening.

Other matters discussed at the meeting included a proposal for interfraternity purchasing of food whereby special prices may be had. It was announced that the Administrative Board of the college is ready to negotiate with each fraternity on the campus concerning the taking over of the deed on the house. In this way the houses will be recorded as college property, thus eliminating taxes and lowering various other financial obligations of the fraternities. This matter will be discussed further at a later meeting.

CLASSICAL CLUB REVIEWS GREEK AND ROMAN BOOKS

A meeting of the Classical Club was held Tuesday evening, November 1, in the Greek and Latin room at the Library. After the regular business of the meeting, the following book reviews were given: Maurice Hutton's "The Greek Point of View" by Dr. Elliott; Grant Showerman's "Rome and the Romans" by Dr. Ross; Tenney Frank's "Life and Literature of the Roman Republic."

Faculty Gives Thomas Slight Edge over President Hoover.

By RICHARD SMITH
Campus Political Writer.

A table of full statistics on the straw vote will be found on page 2.

Perhaps a Communist tossed a fire cracker under him—at any rate, the G. O. P. elephant went on a rampage Monday night, crashing all opposition in Allegheny's first presidential straw vote. Three hundred and seventy-eight student voters (about 63 per cent of the total enrollment) attended the final rally at the chapel; and of this number, 235 were for Herbert Hoover; 90 for Norman Thomas; 38 for Franklin D. Roosevelt; and 15 for William Z. Foster.

A survey of the chart appearing on the editorial page will reveal that Hoover led in every phase of the election but one—the senior men voted 15-13 in favor of Thomas. Among the 194 men voters, Hoover had 102 supporters; and among the 184 women voters, he polled the heavy figure of 133. Thomas, as was expected, drew almost twice as many male votes as female ones; his total backing consisted of 59 men and 31 women. The freshman class had the most voters at the polls (136), while the sophomores turned out to the extent of 104. Both the junior and senior classes polled 69 votes each.

Faculty Choose Thomas.

A faculty poll which was taken at the faculty meeting Monday afternoon and to which about 60 per cent of the professors responded showed the following results

	Male	Fem.	*S.N.I.	Total
Thomas....	9	2	8	19
Hoover	5	2	6	13
Roosevelt..	2			2

President Sends Wire.

One of the high spots at Monday night's rally was Professor Paul H. Giddens' reading of telegrams from President Hoover and from Norman Thomas. Hoover's telegram read as follows:

I will be obliged if you will extend my cordial greetings to the members of Allegheny College Hoover for President Club. I am deeply gratified by the many evidences of warm support from the students of our colleges and universities. The union of ideals and sound policies backed by the energy and enthusiasm of our younger men and women will be an invincible force in government and in the progress of the nation.—HERBERT HOOVER.

Norman Thomas wired:

Greetings to the Thomas for President Club. Get out a big vote for socialism on November 8th and then keep up the fight. Remember in this hour of the breakdown of capitalism that your place is with the workers in building the new world of peace and freedom.—NORMAN THOMAS.

Both of these telegrams will be placed on display in the library sometime this week.

If it can be judged from the display of enthusiasm produced, the final rally was a big success. With Joe Harre pounding the gavel (or to be more accurate slapping a ruler against the lectern), some semblance of order was obtained. Ten-minute speeches were given by the four campaign leaders: William Unverzagt, Democrat (pinch-hitting for Sanford Corcoran); Bill Boetcker, Socialist; Sturges Cary, Republican; and Harry Thomson, Communist. Harry Pore, editor of The Campus, announced the voting procedure, and the ballot was taken. The meeting then adjourned to the steps of Bentley Hall where the Men's Senate served cider, cigars, and cigarettes while the votes were being counted on

SHIFT CURTAIN RAISING FOR "JOURNEY'S END" TO NOV. 19TH

Owing to difficulties encountered in the acting and production of the Playshop's coming presentation, it has been necessary to change the dates of the play, "Journey's End," by postponing the Thursday performance to the following Tuesday night, making the performances fall on Saturday, Monday, and Tuesday nights, November 19, 21, and 22.

Burns Mantle, who each year puts out the yearbook of the best plays of America, tells the following story of how Mr. R. C. Sherriff conceived the idea for "Journey's End". "Mr. Sherriff was 17 when he went to war as a lieutenant with the East Surrey regiment. Out of the war he became an inspector of buildings for an insurance company. By way of diversion he played back on the Rosslyn Football club and rowed in the shell of the Kingston Rowing club. The Kingstons wanted to produce a play and Sherriff, who had long had an interest in amateur theatricals, agreed to try and write one for them. He thought to set down as simply as possible certain of his adventures and reactions at the front. The play, when finished, was sent up to London as a sort of speculation. None of the established managers could see anything promising in it. The Independent Stage Society, however, agreed by the margin of a single vote to give it a Sunday night hearing." Its dramatic worth was then proved and it was a sensational success in both London and New York.

Miss Jean Holman, the Assistant to the Director, who has had wide experience in production, is now assisting Miss Alice Spalding in the rehearsal of the play. The production is going rapidly ahead under a production crew headed by Robert Collins: Lighting—George Hoffman, Fred Zeigler.

Properties—Dorothy Ream, Clare Skinner.

Sound Effects—Gale Engle, William Clarke.

Costumes—William Taft, Charles Ferris.

Adam Bortz, Business Manager, states that there has already been an unusual interest shown in the play, and anticipates that it will be played before three full houses.

Reserved seats will be available to subscribers on Thursday, Friday and Saturday afternoons of this week. General reservations may be secured on or after Monday afternoon, the 14th. All reservations may be made by calling at the box office, or by calling the Allegheny Playshop, 1386.

THE HOOVER VICTORY.

The Campus is more than grateful to the members of the student body and to the faculty for the spirit of cooperation which they displayed during the local political campaign and especially that part of the campaign with which The Campus was directly concerned.

The results of the presidential poll, sponsored by The Campus, very clearly indicated that the campaign by words of the Democratic party, "a new deal" and "the forgotten man", passed almost completely over the head of the average Allegheny student, while the vigorous bill-posting campaign of the Socialists was almost an ineffectual before an inevitable Republican landslide.

In casting an overwhelming majority for Herbert Hoover the students of Allegheny College fell into line with student thought in practically every college and university in the country where straw votes have been taken. Practically every college newspaper which came to the exchange desk of The Campus during the past three weeks carried reports of Hoover victories.

Up until the very end of the Allegheny campaign the noise and placards of the Socialist party were mistaken for actual strength, an dthe Republican leader himself expressed the opinion that the battle would be a close one. His fears were evidently unfounded, for the majority which Hoover rolled up over Thomas was clear and decisive.

While the faculty gave Thomas a slight edge over Hoover, it was not so great as had been anticipated. Thomas has invariably made his appeal to the two extremes of American society — the comparatively ignorant, groping worker and the academic, idealistic intellectualists, professors and ministers. His support from the ordinary, everyday, middle class layman has been practically negligible.

The campaign was worth while from every standpoint. It afforded amusement, gave the student body an opportunity to gather together for a purpose, and incited interest in national politics. It is to be hoped that the enthusiasm which was aroused will not be permitted to die, but will be converted into a better college spirit and a loyalty to Allegheny as a genuine alma mater.

NOTE: The following editorial appeared in the Oct. 15 issue of the Harvard "Crimson".—Ed.

"ACCORDING TO MY BOND . . ."

Allegheny College, in experimenting with the re-education of its alumni, will open all its lectures and classes to graduates for a week without charge. Though only an experiment, which time alone can evaluate, it is distinctly an interesting and progressive step. Not to such lengths as Allegheny, other colleges have in one way or another supplied graduates with information through bibliographies, graduate magazines and bulletins, or by pamphlets reporting recent educational developments in colleges and technical schools.

The response from graduates is striking. In general, more than a third have eagerly taken advantage of the proffered opportunities. They have discovered in the reading lists and lectures a chance to renew acquaintances with long abandoned intellectual hobbies, and the news of modern educational trends has served to clear up their ordinarily muddled opinions on that subject. From his own point of view, the alumnus has found much profit even in the limited activities at his command.

Perhaps a more significant feature, however, is the advantage to both college and graduate accruing from the change of relationship effected by such services. At present, the alumni's interest in their university tends, all too noticeably, to be bounded by athletic jingoism and to find outlet only in class subscriptions or reunion dues. He knows little of the internal mechanism of the college or the trends of modern education. Encouraging the more useful graduate publications will not only establish a warmer contact between the college and graduate but will also aid the alumnus to a better understanding of college problems.

CAMPUS QUESTIONS

To the Editor of The Campus:

Contrary to the ballyhoo of the various fraternal organizations and of the athletes, one of the main functions of a college is giving an education. This is undoubtedly news to many, judging from current conversation and extemporaneous speeches, but it is the sad truth. One of the primary agencies in this dispensing of education is the class—obviously. The person who misses many classes may be able to pass the final examinations, but he most certainly does not know the work so well as he who has attended all his classes and obtained as much as possible from each. In other words, by cutting classes the student is missing his primary goal in college. Most of us have to pay the price of a moderately good automobile to come here. We pay this money with the understanding that we shall receive an education. But, since cutting classes means missing the primary goal in college, it is evident that the person who cuts classes is deliberately throwing away his money.

Recently the faculty has become rather excited about this matter of cutting classes—they think far too much of it is being done, especially when there is some good counter-attraction (football games in Pittsburgh not excluded). However, since it is really the student's affair if he wants to pay for education and then not obtain it, we wish the faculty would please cease this agitation. Though cutting is a bad thing, it is the student, not the faculty, who is really hurt by it—it is the students' right to cut their own throats if they want to. They'll learn better some day.

EDWIN H. OLMSTEAD.

Class of '32

What has happened to the class of '32? Here's a little dope we have managed to gather about some of them. We find Marty Bernard teaching in her home town of Farrell. Paul Cares remains on the Allegheny campus as an assistant in the history department. He is also spending some time in the district attorney's office in Meadville.

Charlie Shaw, former editor of The Campus, is working on the McKeesport Daily News.

Mary Mull and Harry Dennison are both working at the Hookless.

Peg Coughlin is in the laboratory at the State Hospital in Torrence.

Buck Forbes, after a summer spent with a dance band on a voyage to the Orient, is back in Meadville and playing with the Melody Weavers.

Winnie Ober is teaching school in Dawson. More school teachers, Muriel Parnell at Windber and Marjorie Poole at Ruffsdales.

Claire Rodkey is doing social service work in Pittsburgh.

Charles Mills and Earle Patterson are both going to Pitt. Pat is attending the law school and Charlie is in the medical school!

John Werle is attending the Wharton School of Commerce and Finance at the U of Pennsylvania in Philadelphia.

Bob Garbark is an assistant football coach here at Allegheny.

Here is a bit of encouraging news for the class of '36. The University of Omaha registrar's office ran out of its supply of failure notices after the midterm exams.

CAMPUS CLIPPINGS

Columbia's football players recently found employment as nursemaids to the young sons of wealthy New York families. The men owe their new occupations to the panic following the Lindbergh kidnapping.

Try it sometime—it's a circus. St. Mary's College defeated Southern California Herd, California Bear, Army Mule, Gonzaga Bulldog, Santa Clara Bronco, San Francisco Seal, and the Southern Methodist Mustang.

Since many students are busy with studies until late at night a series of "dawn dances" have been instituted at the University of Alabama. These early-bird hops run from 6 until 8 a. m.

At the University of Melbourne the men are asserting their superiority again. They have taken up knitting as a protest against the coeds who have adopted football as one of their major sports.

Silverware from the Stanford University dining room continues to disappear although the police constantly comb the fraternities for the missing articles. Some of the tableware has been discovered in the dining hall of a New England college and some in China.

A pledge of a University of Texas sorority stopped a streetcar, tied her shoestring on the steps, thanked the conductor very kindly, and returned to the chapter house.

CHOIR SCORES

Professor Luvaas received the following telegram from Washington, D. C., last week: "Vienna Saengerknaben tremendous success. Boys received ovation. Gave seven encores, audience remaining until after lights turned out. Have had requests for return engagement and think Sunday afternoon concert would be big success." This was the first appearance of the Saengerknaben in America.

Dr. A. Lawrence Lowell, president of Harvard, was in court recently, charged with driving on the wrong side of the street.

No raw tobaccos in Luckies —that's why they're so mild

WE buy the finest, the very finest tobaccos in all the world—but that does not explain why folks everywhere regard Lucky Strike as the mildest cigarette. The fact is, we never overlook the truth that "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—so these fine tobaccos, after proper aging and mellowing, are then given the benefit of that Lucky Strike purifying process, described by the words—"It's toasted". That's why folks in every city, town and hamlet say that Luckies are such mild cigarettes.

ALLIGATORS NOSED OUT BY OBERLIN GRIDDERS

A crippled Allegheny team scored its first touchdown of the season only to fall before Oberlin College by a score of 7-6. A missed placement spelled defeat for the Gators although they registered twelve first downs to Oberlin's eleven.

The game offered many thrills as both teams threatened to score on various occasions. Allegheny had two chances early in the second quarter, but both times lost the ball on fumbles. Oberlin threatened the Gators goal line in the 4th period only to lose the ball as Sams muffed a pass over the goal line.

The Ohioans were the first to score, crossing the Allegheny goal line just before the first half ended. Oberlin's march started after it had intercepted an Allegheny pass and had returned the ball to the 40 yard line. On the first play, a pass, Correl to Berry, placed the ball on the Gators 28 yard line. Successive line drives gave Oberlin a first down on the three yard line from where Sams bucked it over for the score. A pass, Brickley to Ruth, was successful, making the score 7-0 at the half.

Allegheny scored in the third period after it had lost the ball on downs on the Oberlin 13 yard line. The Ohioans punted out of danger and Berger returned the ball to the 42 yard stripe. Sutter on a wide sweep around end, gave Allegheny a first down on the 24 yard line. Three plays failed to gain. On the fourth down Berger threw a long pass to Waite over the goal line for the final score of the game. Balser's attempted placement failed and the score stood 7-6.

ALFRED TO TEST GATORS IN FINAL HOME CONTEST

The Allegheny Gators, now that they have broken into the scoring column, meet the Alfred University team next Saturday, November 12, here on Montgomery Field with high hopes of entering the winning column in this gridiron encounter.

Alfred comes here from southern New York state for their first game with Allegheny since the season of 1928, when they lost by a large score of 27-0. Apparently not much is known of their strength as compared with Allegheny's, as they play mostly teams which are not in local territory. Last Saturday they defeated the weak Hobart College outfit, 7-0. Hobart won their first game this year when they beat Rochester, another comparatively weak New York team. Much of Alfred's strength lies in its line, while its greatest weakness is in breaking up passing attacks. In defeating them by three touchdowns, Niagara found their line practically impregnable for any kind of line rush or end run, but Niagara easily rolled up the astonishing total of 23 passes completed out of 25 attempted. Niagara's three scores came as a direct result of their passing attack.

Since Allegheny seems to be about equally strong in both departments of the game, it would appear that the passing attack is the best means of winning. Allegheny has as good a chance as ever to win now, and probably rates the edge over its opponents.

Twenty radio controlled clocks have been installed on the Iowa State campus in an attempt to get the students to class on time.

BROTHER VS. BROTHER

It was brother against brother in the Oberlin game, when Ross Brown, veteran Allegheny end, came to grips with his younger brother, Roger, first string center on the Oberlin eleven. Ross was evidently determined to give little brother a few lessons in the manly game, for he played what many considered the best game of his collegiate career.

PRESIDENT FORESTALLS FROSH NIGHT RIOT

Anticipating the annual freshman night, the president of Washington and Lee gave them permission to do the following: to build a bonfire, paint the statue of George Washington red, paint class numerals on the sidewalks, and to see two shows free. This plan was conceived after the near riot they had in Lexington in 1931 when the fire department was called to disperse the crowd.

O. E. CARR, '00, VISITS ALMA MATER RECENTLY

O. E. Carr, Allegheny '00, City Manager of Oakland, California, visited the College recently. He had been attending a meeting of the National City Managers' Association in Cincinnati where he read a paper on 'Practical Means of Municipal Retrenchment.'

The University of California now offers an elementary course in fishing. Practice is held in the swimming pool of the University.

The University of California started its scholastic term three weeks ahead of the majority of colleges. Hence, its students are worrying over mid-term examinations instead of rushing, enrollment and future of the grid team.

Prof. Swartley Urges Students to Interest Themselves in Politics

Professor Swartley, in his speech in chapel last Monday, deplored the fact that the American people today are apathetic to the great number of serious problems confronting modern industry and politics.

Taking his cue from an article which appeared in the September Atlantic Monthly and which was entitled "At Forty-five" by James Norman Hall, Professor Swartley criticized the tendency to disregard public affairs which was expressed in Hall's statement that he had "irrecoverably lost his social and political-mindedness", and that he "seeks to escape the problems of the day".

Professor Swartley criticized Mr. Hall's viewpoint from three angles. First, he asked, "Is the attitude of escape a courageous one?" Men are not commended for running away from difficulties, he explained. Secondly the speaker asked "Is the attitude a fair one?" By running off to a quiet island in the South Seas, Mr. Hall leaves his fellow citizens to care for the critical situation at home. Professor Swartley's third question, "Is this attitude in harmony with the principles of a democratic government?" was also answered negatively.

American students are passive to national problems, while in England it is not uncommon for a young man to step from college into Parliament, stated the speaker. As a concluding suggestion he proposed that students begin to look upon politics as a career to be prepared for just as one prepares for medicine or law.

The great business of life is to be, to do, to do without, and to depart.—John Morley.

Chesterfields are Milder

Chesterfields Taste Better

You know how it is. If a cigarette is mild—that is, not harsh or bitter, but smokes cool and smooth—then you like it and don't worry about how many or how often you smoke.

And if it tastes right—that is, not oversweet, not flat—then you enjoy it all the more.

The right kind of ripe, sweet Domestic and Turkish tobacco...the right ageing and blending...make Chesterfields milder, better-tasting...They Satisfy!
