Reflecting back . . .

trying to recapture those days —

the events and more importantly the feelings, the emotions, the moods, the state of being . . .

Always moving —

to activities, to

class, to meals,

to the future,

to my goals.

But sometimes
confusion sets in
and there is a need to be alone and to think things through

Who am I?

What do I want to do with my life?

Yet sometimes there is a need to be with others to experience life.

And at other times

it all builds up,

and there is a need to escape,

to let loose,

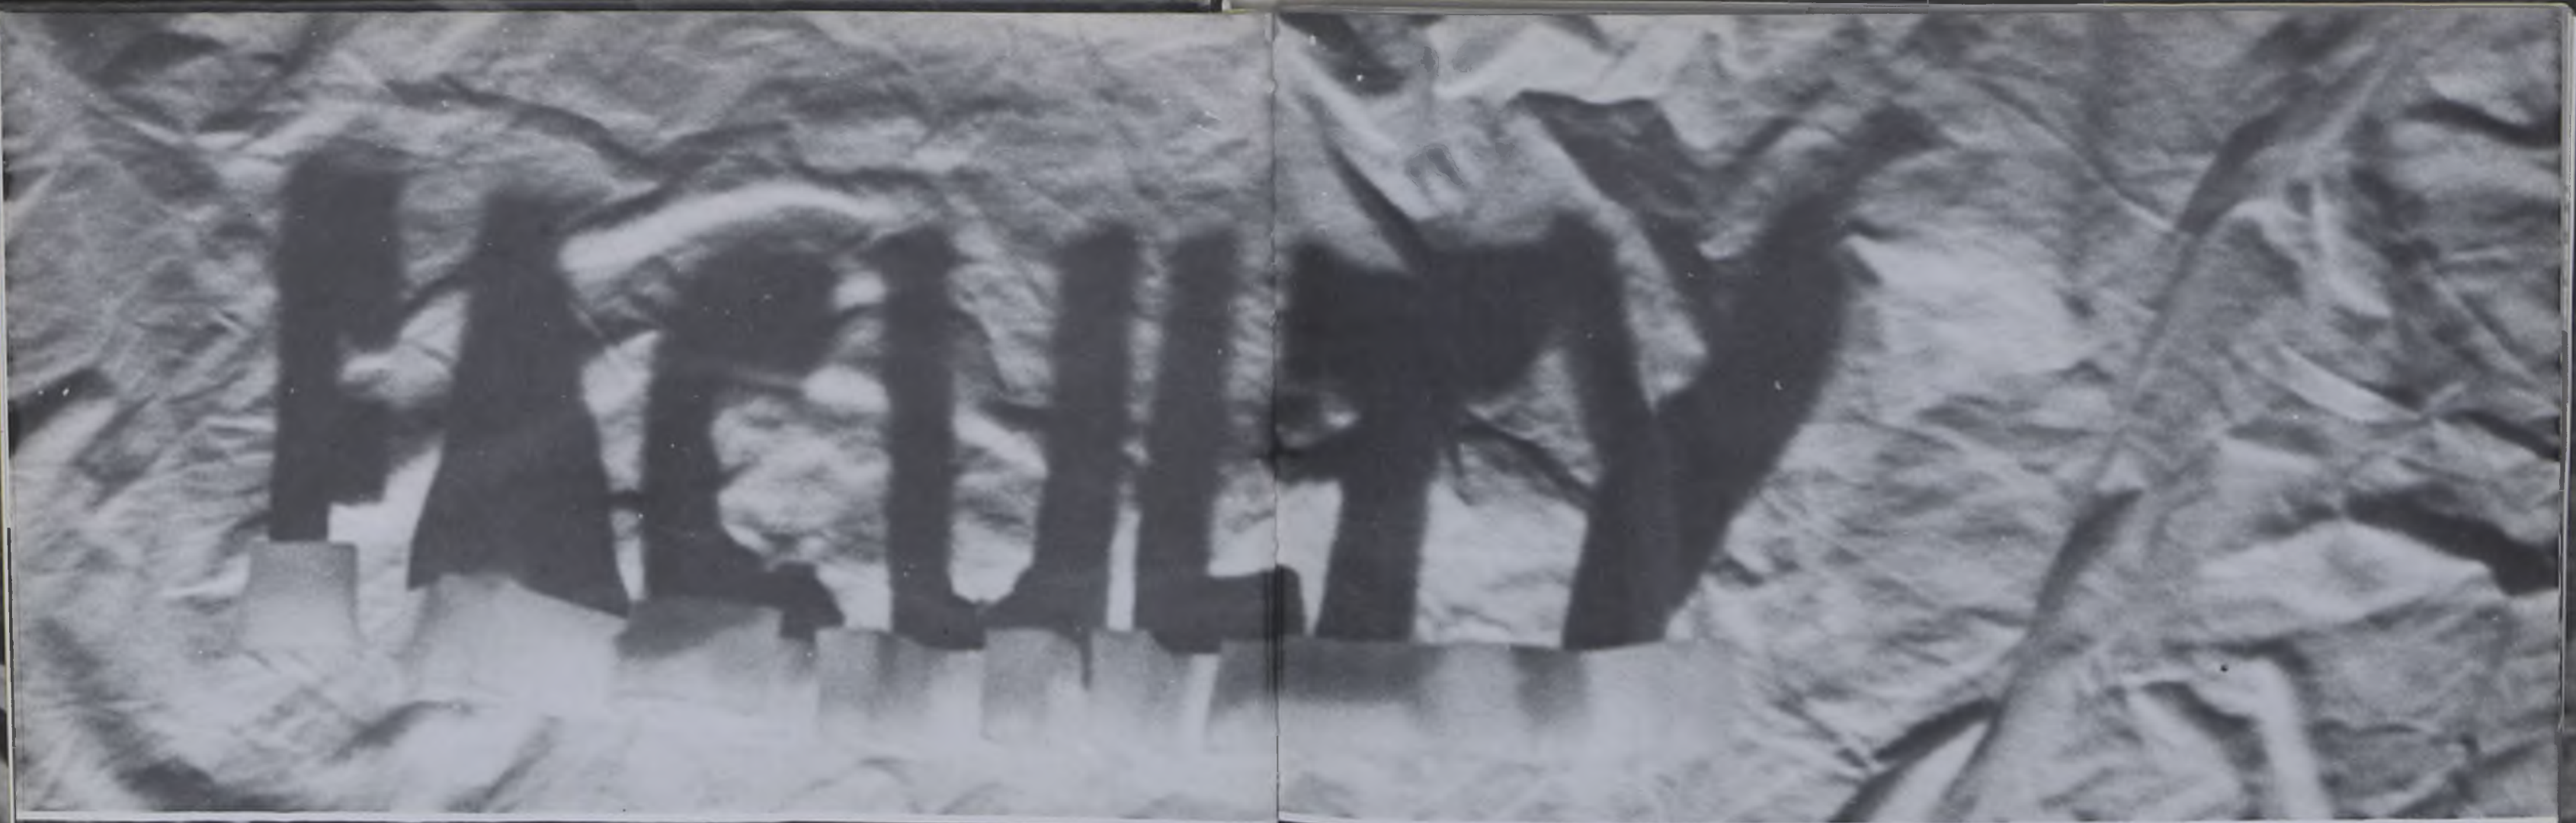

to have the freedom of childhood.

But the time
of all these feelings
is brief.

And soon it is time to go out into the world from which we have been sheltered for four years
no longer students
but now adults . . .
