Miss Ida M. Tarbell,
120 E. 19th St.,
New York.

Dear Miss Tarbell:

I spoke to the Ladies Home Journal about "Lincoln and Youth" but found they thought they had had too much about the past in their magazine and were more inclined now to concentrate on the present, so I tackled Mr. Bigelow of Good Housekeeping. He expressed interest in the idea, said he thought it would depend somewhat on how many cases you had of Lincoln's influence on youth, and I thought perhaps you would be willing to talk to him about it. He is going away till Monday and then he is moving his offices up to 57th Street, so that he suggested we let it go till the week after next. I can invite you and him to lunch with me, if that would suit your plans, sometime in the week beginning April 25rd. Let me know. Or, if you prefer, you can have him come down and lunch with you - whichever is easiest for you.

I tackled Mr. Graeve of the Delineator on the other articles and he put them up to Mr. Moore and then wrote me that they didn't think they had better go in at the present time. I am tackling somebody else on those.

Yours sincerely,

Paul R. Reynolds
