Women Debaters Are To Broadcast Over Erie Station WLEU

The women debaters will have their first clash of the season when they debate against the Allegheny men on the subject, "Socialization of Medicine", at Ridgeway next week.

Dorothea Ely and Helen Walper will oppose Edward Karney and Seymour Smith in the debate which will be held in a Ridgeway High School assembly.

The second event will be the first of a series of radio debates over the Erie station, WLEU. Betty Elliott and Aileen Rockenbach will argue the resolution: "That the United States should protect its citizens in foreign war zones." This broadcast will occur next month.

General plans are also being completed for trips to Ohio, and the southern states, Maryland and Virginia. Debates have been scheduled with Ohio Wesleyan and Wooster on March 12 and 13. Wooster will debate at Allegheny March 23.

The chief question of this year's debating will be: "Resolved, that Congress should be empowered to override by a two-thirds vote, any decision by the Supreme Court that declares acts of Congress unconstitutional."

The members of the debate group are: Betty Elliott, Dorothea Ely, Helen Walper, Henrietta Cutter, Aileen Rockenbach, Elizabeth Osbourne, Marguerite Dye, Marion Henry, Helen Lusch, Elizabeth Brady, Emma Ruth Burkhardt, Patty Hart.

Student Leader Urges Stronger Youth Movement

The need for unification in the student world and for "brilliant leadership by our teachers so that youth in America can be wielded as a powerful, intelligent force" was voiced by an American student leader returning from a seventy-day study of youth movements in various European countries.

Robert A. Klein, senior at Washington Square College, New York University, is president of the Day Student Organization, Day Student Council, and the new pre-law students' Justinian Society.

Klein was one of a group of American students who made a tour this summer through Germany, Italy, the Soviet Union, England, France, Austria, Finland and Denmark. "Everywhere in Europe youth is a vital factor," Klein said. "Every nation abroad tries to contact her young people and draw them closer together. Their vast political importance cannot be over-emphasized."

"The Youth Movement in America has not gained the strength or position that it has in Europe. We have thirty million students but they don't seem to realize the vast political influence they could exert."

"If we had more organizations like the National Student Federation of America, which aims to develop student opinion on national and international affairs, we could bind our young people more closely."

Many Hulings Hall Shemales Celebrate Hectic Hallowe'en

A motley assemblage of riotous celebrities, eccentric individuals, and notorious figures from the world's headlines attended the annual Hallowe'en dinner and revel in Hulings Hall.

The Dionne quintuplets were there, en masse, as were the Volga boatmen, senoritas, colonial damozels, leering hags, and querulous brats.

During the evening's revel, masqueraded college women trumpeted and tooted vociferously; later, groups of agile performers presented original stunts, cavorting merrily in grotesque ceremonies until the witching hour approached.

At the ominous hour of eleven o'clock, shades of Meloch, the hatchet woman, and incorporeal beings invaded Hulings Hall.

Sophomores To Rally At Bousson Farm On November 12

Languishing class spirit of the sophomore group will be remarkably revived Tuesday, November 12, when all Sophomores will be expected to journey to Bousson farm and there participate in an exclusive "Frankfurter Incineration"—i.e. a weiner roast.

Strictly limited to Sophomores, who are importunately requested to refrain from converting this spirited class rally into an economical expedient for dating, the party will depart promptly at 5 o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

Transportation to and from the Bousson farm will be supplied by the Cwens and Outing Club, sponsors of this unique project.

Remarkd the chairman of the Sophomore weiner roast: "Not since the social gathering at Conneaut Lake during the early weeks of our Freshman year has the Class of 1938 staged such a social reunion. This meeting will provide an opportunity for pleasant diversion which has been conspicuously lacking in our formal gatherings in lecture and exam periods. A savory luncheon will be served and an entertaining program has been scheduled. Of course, every Sophomore will be there."

Reservations may now be obtained from any member of the committee comprising: Myra June Bankin, chairman; Betsey Robinson, Beverly Sims, Jack McFarland, Phi Gamma Delta; Cedric Spence, Phi Kappa Psi; William Clark, Sigma Alpha Epsilon; Joseph Phillipbar, Phi Delta Theta; Rex Malmquist, Beta Kappa; Roy Robinson, Alpha Chi Rho; Carl Von Senden, Delta Tau Delta, and Sam Ziskind, Independent.

An assessment of 25 cents, a necessary evil, will be levied to defray transportation, entertainment, and food costs.

Tarbell House Holds Hallowe'en Radio Party

Residents of Tarbell House entertained about eighteen couples at a Hallowe'en radio party held at the house Saturday, November 2. The house was decorated in true Hallowe'en spirit, with witches and ghosts adorning the walls. An interesting program, consisting of a "ghost walk", apple-bobbing, and other Hallowe'en stunts, was enjoyed by those present.

The committee in charge was composed of Lillian Grove, Katharine Brazel, and Betty Boltz. The chaperones were Miss Marian May and Mr. Paul Cares.

Phi Beta Phi Initiates Eight Members Into Club

Initiation for Phi Beta Phi, honorary biological fraternity, was held Wednesday, Oct. 30. The new members are: Velma Briggs, '37; Sara McVey, '39; Donald Hook, '36; James Campbell, '36; Leon Gregg, '36; William Hershelman, '36; George Rung, '36, and William Taft, '36.

The club reports much progress on its cabin at the Bousson farm. The walls are completed and work on the roof will probably begin next week. The foundation for the fire place is laid and the drilling of a well is under way.

Proctor's List Names Twenty Hall Residents

Announcement of the first Proctor's List, for recognition of those Freshmen residing in Cafisch Hall and Annex who have maintained a standing above 75 percent in all subjects, reveals that 20 students have achieved this status.

Issued yesterday, the first Proctor's List is based on grades received in the six-week exams.

English Debaters Given Reception By Philo-Franklin Union

C. J. M. Alport and John Royle, visitors from Cambridge, England, were the guests of honor at a formal dinner in Cochran Hall Friday evening, November 1. The other guests included President and Mrs. William P. Tolley, Mr. Hurst Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick W. Haberman, Betty Elliott, Aileen Rockenbach, Annabelle Broomall, Margaret Strobe, Jane Stover, Lois Slocum, Jane Gleason, Ruth Myers, Arthur Vangeli, Robert Dennis, Walter Jacobson, Mishell George, and Rex Malmquist.

After the debate the Philo-Franklin Union honored Alport and Royle at an informal reception at the Phi Delta Theta house. Among the guests were the members of the debating classes, the Senior Court, and faculty members of Delta Sigma Rho.

Members of the Senior Court and the Union were in charge of refreshments which consisted of coffee, sandwiches, cakes, and mints.

Alfred Wellons Addresses Vespers On India Education

Alfred Wellons, '38, spoke on "Education in India," to the group attending the vesper services at Hulings Hall on Sunday evening. Mr. Wellons, the son of American missionaries, has lived in India for several years and has attended the American Mission School of Woodstock, located at Lucknow.

Wellons explained that there are two distinct types of schools, those for Indians and those for the English and Anglo-Indians, both controlled by the British government. Discussing both classes of schools, the speaker pointed out that the natives have made remarkable progress when one considers their handicaps.

Kappa Delta Epsilon To Study Customs Of Countries

Kappa Delta Epsilon announces its program for the rest of the year. The general topic will be "Woman's Status in the Educational System." A program will be held each month at which time the customs of various countries will be considered. Committees for each meeting have been appointed who will be in charge of securing the speakers and planning the programs. They are:

November, France, Lois Slocum and Mary Lou Brown; December, Russia, Laura Beebe and Beulah Burch; January, Germany, Esther Dawson and Mariana Rall; February, Italy, Helena Mumaw and Dorothy McDowell; March, Denmark, Jane Gleason and Sally McGranahan; April, South America, Jean Morrow.

Organ Music Presented In Chapel By Dr. Church

A program of organ music was presented by Dr. Henry W. Church during the regular Chapel period Friday, November 1. His program consisted of Boccherini's Minuet; two movements, Chorale and Andante con Moto, from Mendelssohn's Sonata No. 5; Salome's Offertoire; and Wagner's Introduction to Third Act of Lohengrin.

Allegheny-Cambridge Debate Proves Highlight Affair

Initiation Held By Outing Club At Bousson Farm

Hallowe'en festivities formed an appropriate background for the Outing Club party and initiation held on Thursday evening, October 31, at the Bousson farm. The event took place in the barn.

Dressed in old clothes, the group left the gym at 7:15, and were taken in carloads out to the barn on Bousson farm. The new members were assembled behind the barn, lined up and put through an inspection to determine if they had brought all the articles which they had been ordered to bring. Among the odd assortment of articles were whiffle-trees, ox-yokes, horse-collars, rubber nipples, a cow-slip, a woof 'n poof bug, and a rooster.

Blindfolding of all new members started the initiation. They were then led to a string which they were instructed to follow. They stumbled through the house, reaching to the ceiling, then crawling along the floor, ever trying to follow the elusive string. The string led them up to the top floor, then to the grain chute. Soothing sound effects were furnished along the way, much to the distress of those blindfolded. They were forced to climb down a ladder through the small, narrow grain chute. At the bottom, they crawled out from under the chute into a manger. There, they were instructed to knock upon a door. As the door opened, they were genially welcomed by a hearty handshake (of a human hand, with part of the flesh missing, and not attached to the rest of the human anatomy). After this ceremony, the blindfolds were removed and the new members were taken into the main room where the party was being held.

As they lined up in single-file, they drew from a bucket, small paper witches, bats, owls, and cats. After standing at one end of the room and showing the articles which they had brought as per instructions they separated into four groups determined by which Hallowe'en personages they had drawn from the bucket. Different members of these groups participated in the various events, ducking for apples and the like. Dr. Tolley excelled in the marshmallow tug-of-war. Dr. Scott Hall was able to drink milk from a bottle with a nipple faster than any of the other contestants, and won that event. In one game which was rather surprising to the victims, two people were given clean white marshmallows with which to feed each other. They were then blindfolded, and given marshmallows covered with charcoal, in place of the others. As they tried to find each others' mouths, they left nicely blackened faces.

This was followed by dancing, with good old-fashioned square dances and Virginia Reels included. Music was furnished by Barney Halperin and his boys.

Refreshments were served from various sources.

Large Crowd Witnesses Debate With Team From English School.

In one of the most entertaining attractions ever offered on the Allegheny campus, and one that brought considerable honor and recognition to this college, Cambridge University and Allegheny College met in a debate encounter in Ford Memorial Chapel on Friday, Nov. 1, at 8 p. m.

John Royle and his fellow student and countryman, C. J. M. Alport, of Cambridge University, upheld the affirmative side of the question: "Resolved, that a written constitution is a hindrance rather than a safeguard to social progress." Two Allegheny seniors, Arthur Vangeli and Robert Dennis, upheld the negative side.

Mr. Royle opened the affirmative brief and Mr. Vangeli led the negative side of the issue. Mr. Alport, second speaker for Cambridge, and Mr. Dennis, of Allegheny, completed the case. The debate was concluded with an affirmative rebuttal presented by Mr. Royle.

Various aspects of the issue, each worthy of consideration, were introduced by both teams. The contentions of the affirmative were: that a written constitution provides insufficient flexibility necessary to cope with arising exigencies; that the possibility of an oligarchical Supreme Court may undo all progress by deeming social legislation unconstitutional.

The affirmative pointed out further that not always can framers of written constitutions be farsighted enough to provide exactly for all the arising necessities of their posterity. As Mr. Alport expressed it, "Can the people of a century ago know what is best for their modern grandchildren whose problems are so different, and whose problems they cannot foresee?"

Counterpoints of the negative were: the inflexibility of the written constitution is a decided advantage in that it enables the lawmakers to sift the laws thoroughly before they are put into use; and that it permits the emission of the destructive legislation which may be done on the spur of the moment by a supreme legislative body. Furthermore, the Supreme Court does not have the powers to overthrow the will of the people, because the constitution sets forth the ability of the people to change anything they wish by indirect vote. In this the written constitution is a definite safeguard of the rights and liberties of the people.

Of particular interest to the audience was the revelation of the different viewpoints held by each country towards their respective constitutions. The English have the outstanding example of the unwritten constitution while America's is the foremost example of the written type.

The National Federation of Students of the United States is sponsoring the tour of the Cambridge debaters. They were brought here under the auspices of the Philo-Franklin Union.

Dr. C. F. Ross, Registrar of the College, acted as chairman, opening the debate.

Radio Party Radiates Terror To Tarbell House Damozels

Tarbell House—abode of witches and bleary-eyed crones during Hallowe'en festivities only—did not neglect to celebrate Hallowe'en, although communion with the goblins and demons of the Allegheny College campus was deferred until Saturday, November 2.

Originality in fiendish bedevilment furnished the keynote for the radio party, attended by 18 couples who were pleasantly persecuted by ingenious inquisitors.

As a preliminary, party guests were required to demean themselves by writhing through a basement window.

Blindfolded, encumbered by pasteboard boxes hobbled to their locomotory appendages, the visitors were led up the fire escape; thence, by devious means, they were directed through labyrinthian tunnels and secret passages.

Climaxing the night's ghost walk, guests were sent careening down the bannisters into a cluster of balloons. Sound effects ensued.

These more spectacular acts of terror completed, Tarbell residents were entertained by more innocuous methods.

The principles of the pendulum, as discovered by Galileo, were objectively demonstrated when ambitious swains bit promiscuously at oscillating doughnuts.

All aspects of Archimedes' principle of buoyancy were scientifically investigated as others bobbed for apples.

The committee in charge of these diabolical diversions consisted of: Lillian Grove, Katharine Brazel and Betty Boltz.

The chaperones were Miss Marian May and Mr. Paul Cares.

SCHOOL SPIRIT

(From the St. Bona Venture)

That intangible thing called 'School Spirit' is before the eyes of the students again. Before the Niagara game the spirit seemed to have died, but suddenly it broke out as it has never been seen before on this campus; there was the peppiest pep meeting that the school has ever had and one of the liveliest parades. Everybody caught the enthusiasm of the leaders and everybody joined in the fun.

But the fact remains, that it took an almost artificial stimulation to get things going. This is due to the times: college men today think twice before they take a night off from their books. They have to, for they know the sacrifices that are being made at home to keep them in school. And, furthermore, they realize that their own futures do not depend on their cheering the other fellow.

School spirit can not exist without a substance in which to adhere and that substance is the student body. The Spirit does exist here at St. Bona's. If circumstances seem to deaden it remember that it is in a latent state and it only takes a few words to call it forth. But do not make it necessary that those words have to be said again.

The hospitality which Allegheny extends to representatives of other colleges is to be commended in some fields and to be criticised in others.

Visiting debaters are treated royally. A case in which the treatment of debaters is shown was that of the Cambridge debaters who were guests of the college last week. A luncheon in their honor was held at a hotel in a neighboring town, a tennis match was arranged for them. They were entertained in a typical English custom, tea; they were guests of honor at a banquet in the evening. After the debate, a reception for them was held. The college in general and especially the Speech Department is to be commended to the highest degree. The Englishmen said that they would remember Allegheny. It is our opinion that they will.

In another field we, as college students, and the college in general, should hang our heads in shame. This is in regard to visiting athletic teams. Allegheny's lack of hospitality was brought to the attention of the members of the soccer team when they were guests of the University of Rochester last week. Upon arrival the team was escorted to its dressing room. After the game a tour of part of the campus and several buildings was conducted by an assistant manager. After the evening meal the Allegheny caravan was guided to its hotel down town by several members of the student government.

In New England schools even more is done along this line. Assistant managers are assigned to visiting teams to carry bags, to dry uniforms, and pack equipment in addition to the above mentioned courtesies.

At Allegheny we find none of this. A team may be shown to its dressing room, but after that it is forgotten.

One of the best means of advertising is the athletic teams which play here at Allegheny. The members of the visiting team return to their school and quite naturally talk about the college which they have just played. The courtesy which they were shown is one of the chief topics of their conversation. The reputation of Allegheny spreads.

We are regarded as a cultured and highly reputable school. Surely the treatment of visiting athletic teams should be consistent with our reputation in other fields.

RADIO

TID-BITS

Favorites with Alleghenians, Tommy Tucker's musical aggregation is gaining more and more national recognition. With his distinctive and original theme song, Tommy and the lads are on the noon spot practically every day from Cleveland or Cincinnati stations. Emily Lane has been such an attraction with this group, that the versatile leader decided to do the unusual by adding another female singer, and so the addition of Gail Huston. . . That band is a swell bet for some of Allegheny's bigger dances, and they are inexpensive. . . Ina Ray Hutton's group of Melodears who have most of the male population raving is now at the Stanley in Pittsburgh. The "keen dresser" and her band were in Meadville for an engagement this summer. . . Some inquire as to whether Guy Lombardo plays his violin on the air or not. His story is that he can't; that he only paid $12 for it in the first place, and that now it has only one string. . . H. V. Kaltenborn, a graduate of Harvard, has been on the air for 15 years, which is something of a record. . . Ray Perkins, who has quite a following for his Sunday night amateur programs, has hit upon another one of his eccentric ideas, and seems to be intent upon carrying it out. He is now starting a canvass for a group of the best "bath-tub singers" in America, to compete for a national grand prize on an amateur program. According to Perkins he "intends to ransack the bathtubs of the country to uncover talent which has so long been hidden by curtains and hot steam". He is so steamed up about the idea even that he has published a book on it. . . On that Lucky Strike dance parade, "Dancing Cheek to Cheek" was returned the favorite of the nation for the sixth consecutive week. The question is raised as to just who selects these winning tunes when that number comes out on top so often, especially with a "Top Hat" representative on the program. If it was popular, they certainly won't help it any by thus playing it to death. . . After all Ozzie Nelson's refusing to take part in a picture unless his wife, Harriet Hilliard, be included, it now turns out that Harriet gets the lead in a picture,

Cop Plays Very Important Part; Motorist Rules

Rules published recently for autoists numbered ten. They were all right, but they needed amendment. Here's the way they should read:

1. The cop is always right. Don't sass him.
2. Never crowd a truck to the curb.
3. Never sass a cop.
4. Never run over a crossing cop's feet.
5. Never sass a cop.
6. Steer around the lamp posts in the middle of the boulevard.
7. Never sass a cop.
8. Always give a woman enough room to change her mind.
9. Never sass a cop.
10. Try to avoid running into the mounted policeman's horse.
11. Never sass a cop.
12. When given a summons, make it a point to appear. Judges appreciate this.
13. Never sass a cop.
14. Never race a fire engine to the crossing. Picking you up will delay the firemen.
15. NEVER SASS A COP!!!!

and Ozzie is left out in the cold. . . Of interest to Alleghenians, when Ozzie was at the Dreamland Ballroom at Conneaut Lake this summer, he drew the largest crowd present in that ballroom in many a year. Many students from here vacationing at the lake certainly took advantage of hearing his collegiate rhythms.

'Gators Overwhelmed By Powerful Dickinson Eleven

Red Devils Overpower 'Gators By 40-0 Score in Crushing Defeat.

Unleashing a veritable maze of trick plays from the triple wing formation, the Dickinson Red Devils swept aside Allegheny's 'Gators Saturday on Biddle Field 40 to 0, to register their third straight win. The defeat was the third successive for the Blue and Gold, after winning their first two games.

Dickinson scored three minutes after the game opened on a 38-yard march as the result of a series of reverses, forwards and laterals. The Red Devils drove 25 yards for the second touchdown in the second period. Larson passed to Koevar on the 15 and as the Dickinson back was hit he flipped a lateral to Shore who dashed over the goal line to fumble, with Binder recovering for the score.

Dickinson held a 14-0 lead at half time and then resumed hostilities with a bang in the second half to trample the Lawrence men. In the first half the Red Devil offensive was repeatedly set back on its heels by the courageous 'Gator eleven.

Dickinson tallied thrice in the third quarter. Four plays netted 42 yards for the third touchdown with Welmer skirting left end on a double reverse for 15 yards. Larson added his third extra point. A few minutes later Dickinson marched 36 yards on five plays for another six pointer. Kiehl cracked the center for the final yard. Larson's attempted placement was blocked. The Red Devils, on a sustained drive of 40 yards scored a few minutes later when Shore went across from the one-yard bar.

The last touchdown came midway in the fourth period when Harold Adams, Red Devil sophomore, thrilled the crowd when he romped 51 yards on a double reversal for the only score made in this quarter.

J. Lavelly, Widman and Horn played a stellar game on the defensive for Allegheny, while Clark and Blasdel displayed flashes of power to make short gains. Dickinson made 14 first downs, and Allegheny 3.

The 'Gators put up a plucky battle for two quarters, but were forced to give into the battering of the overpowering weight advantage of the Red Devils. The Lawrence men were outclassed by a much heavier, trickier eleven with which they were unable to cope.

Kiehl, the flashy Dickinson fullback, proved to be a thorn in Allegheny's side for the third straight year. While Ackerman, husky tackle, also proved his former games against the 'Gators were occasions which he is competently able to repeat.

Theta's Cop Archery Tourney Over Alpha Chi Omega

Kappa Alpha Theta was victor in the archery contest which was held on Monday, Nov. 4; Alpha Chi Omega and the Non-Sorority group were runners-up.

The highest personal scores were made by Betty Heath, Alpha Gamma Delta, 72; and Sally McVey, Kappa Alpha Theta, 71.

Each sorority was represented by six girls, and each girl shot sixteen arrows.

The contest scores were as follows:

Kappa Alpha Theta	162
Alpha Chi Omega	252
Non-Sorority	240
Alpha Xi Delta	172
Kappa Kappa Gamma	162
Theta Upsilon	86

Finals Of Women's Tennis Tourney To Be Played Soon

The finals of the tennis tournament will be played off this week by Elizabeth Blackwood versus the victor of the match between Edith Greene and Hazel Dixon.

Elizabeth Blackwood won her finals position by defeating Virginia Cook, 6-2, 6-2.

The completion of the semi-finals has been delayed because of inclement weather conditions.

Boots And Saddle Club Elect Nine New Members

The Boots and Saddle Club announced nine new members elected to the organization Tuesday, Nov. 5.

The new members are: Myra June Bankin, Betty Meiers, Polly Anne Denney, Betty Rehtmeyer, Ella Darling, Mary Lou Waha, Elvira Pfeffer, Edna McClure, and Betty Krimmel.

'Gator Booters Meet Grovers Here On Friday

After a lapse of three weeks the soccer team returns to its home field for the fourth engagement of the present season when they clash with Grove City Friday afternoon at 2:30. In the first encounter between the two teams at Grove City on Oct. 25, Allegheny was the victor, 3-0. This was quite the opposite of last year when Allegheny was handed two defeats, 7-1 and 2-1.

Last week the soccer team journeyed to the University of Rochester where they were subdued by a superior foe to the tune of 4-1.

'Gators To Meet Thiel Saturday

Allegheny's football 'Gators will be faced with their season's fourth straight loss this Saturday when they take the field here against the battling Tomcats of Thiel College.

Until this past week-end the Stoerberman had rating among the ten unbeaten teams in the east, receiving mention in press stories in all papers. Saturday, however, they fell from that select class when they were forced to give in to a much stronger team from Waynesburg College, though only by a 20-0 score. Waynesburg had earlier in the season held the famous Pitt Panthers to a relatively low score.

Whereas Allegheny eked out only a slim 7-0 margin over the Clarion Teachers in the season's opener, Thiel overwhelmed them with a dazzling attack and romped off with a 42-0 victory. Bethany, which took a Homecoming win from the 'Gators by a 13-0, was taken over by the Greenvilleites by an 18-6 score.

A comparison of those scores alone proves the superiority of the Tomcats over the 'Gators. The Blue and Gold will be taking the field in the distinct role of the underdog.

After a completely submissive battering received at the hands of the ramming Red Devils of Dickinson last Saturday, it is hard to forecast the shape in which the 'Gators will take the field. Practically every man on the eleven that got into action that day now bears the effects of the pounding received at the hands of the overpowering Dickinson eleven. Coach Lawrence was forced to use practically every man taken on the trip, substituting more in that game than in any game to date.

In the ancient rivalry between these two institutions Allegheny holds a big edge. Of the 16 games played, here and at Greenville, Allegheny has been returned the victor 14 times. The first loss did not come until 1927 when Thiel eked out a 2-0 win when a 'Gator back fumbled on his own one-yard line. Last year's game counted for the second Tomcat victory when they literally smothered the 'Gators for a 30-0 win, in which they completely crippled the Allegheny lineup. This record, however, holds no bearing on what's in store Saturday.

The outstanding causes of last year's defeat, two backs by the names of Strimer and Snyder, happen to be still present in the Thiel lineup, and have been continuing their habits of rambling off long runs for touchdowns. With these two men still around, the 'Gators will be presented with an extremely different problem. Last year the two were among the high scorers of eastern collegiate football wars.

Phi Psis Defeat Sigs For Football Championship

Rochester Downs 'Gator Booters On Last Tuesday

Allegheny's soccer team journeyed to the University of Rochester at Rochester, N. Y., where they were defeated by a score of 4-1.

Rochester scored three goals in the first half and one in the last. Allegheny's lone score came in the second half.

The Allegheny team was very much off form and were outplayed by Rochester.

Derby, of Rochester, was the outstanding player for Rochester, while Dain, Barackman, Clarke, Hutchison, and Gilmore played well for Allegheny.

Rochester's team was composed of experienced players, although this is their first year of intercollegiate soccer. Many of the New York team's players come from Rochester High schools where soccer takes the place of football.

Smith College Students Trace Old Shore Line

Smith College students have this summer traced the boundaries of a sea that was once in the interior of the United States. This work was carried on during a geology field trip to western South Dakota and eastern Wyoming directed by Professor Howard A. Meyerhoff.

By ferreting organisms out of the strata, they have uncovered information concerning the inundation in the Cambrian period of geologic time, linking the shallow waters which covered the Great Plains with a contemporaneous sea spreading from the Great Lakes to the Gulf of Mexico.

At Ohio State a machine which automatically corrects and grades papers has been invented.

At Earlham College freshmen must attend all football games at home. We should use this system at Allegheny.

At Marshall college girls do their knitting right in lectures.

All men interested in basketball are to report to the Gym on Thursday evening, November 7, at 7:30.

CAMPUS CLIPPINGS

A professor at the University of Southern California recently gave an unusual assignment to his class. One of the students, disgusted, said, "Who invented work anyway?"

"You should worry, you will never infringe on his patent," retorted the prof.

A horde of freshmen was being shown through the Bucknell Library the other day, when a solicitous librarian noticed one bored youngster hovering around the edges of the throng.

She approached him and inquired, "Have you been around?" With a coy glance, the freshman replied, "Yes, I've been around. Have you?"

In an exam book at Maryland this was found: "Dear Professor, if you sell any of these answers to the humor magazines, remember I want a cut."

Rules for campus dances at Purdue:

1. No dancing on the ceiling.
2. Don't hang feet out of the window.
3. Don't boo chaperones.
4. Don't retreat to the lounges unless you brought her.

College students do have such a delightful sense of humor, even if their wit does not consist of puns piled one pun another. For example:

Do you drink beer?

No.

Well, what are you carrying that mug around for?

Any girl can be gay

In a little coupe!

In a taxi—a girl can be jolly.

But the girl that's worth while

Is the girl who can smile

When he's taking her home on the trolley.

We just found out that a telephone operator's job is neither a trade nor a profession. It's a calling.

According to the R. P. I. "Pup" most girls don't mind being on thin ice with a man, providing he's a good skate.

If girls look old, they're young.

If girls look young, they're old.

If girls look back, follow them.

When a millionaire swallows a girl's line, he generally coughs up plenty.

Take Two Straight Games In Finals to Cop Second Straight Championship.

Phi Kappa Psi fraternity added their second straight championship to their quest for the interfraternity plaque Monday when they defeated the Sigs for the intramural touch football championship.

Coupled with their winning of the golf championship, the winning of the football tourney gives them undisputed position of first place in the chase, and a wide lead over their opponents.

Scheduled for two out of three games, the Phi Psi made quick work of the football finals by crushing the Sigs in the first two games.

With a sure fire passing attack, they took the opener last week 18-12 in an overtime game. Starting out as if on a massacre, they scored twice before Sigs could muster themselves. But before the end of the game, the Sigs came back and pushed two touchdowns across the line to tie up the score and send the game into an overtime period. The Phi Psis then copped the game by pushing across an early score and holding the Sigs well at bay. Ray Shafer and Linn Meyers led the Phi Psi attack which gained consistently on short passes.

Second Game.

Phi Kappa Psi won the second game by a score of 30-24. The game started with a touchdown for the Phi Psi's. After a short drive down the field, Myers threw a pass to Shafer for the first score.

Late in the first half the Sigs advanced the ball within scoring distance. A pass from D. Shields was intercepted by Myers on his own goal line. He started up the field and threw a pass when he was about to be touched. Irwin intercepted this pass, recapturing the ball for the Sigs and advanced the ball to the Phi Psi one-yard line before being tabbed.

For four successive downs the Sigs tried to put the ball across but failed. The Phi Psis got the ball on downs and punted out of danger as the first half ended.

Shortly after the start of the second half the Phi Psis were penalized 15 yards for holding. On the next play, a triple pass, Myers to Jones to Streib, was good for 35 yards and a touchdown.

A pass from D. Shields to Dennis resulted in the first score for the Sigs. The Phi Psis were quick to retaliate and after a quick drive scored, Jones to Myers.

The next Phi Psi tally came as a result of a pass from Myers to Henninger, putting the ball close to the Sig goal. A short pass to Streib by Myers put the ball over for a score.

Returning the ball on the kickoff, Wayne Shields and Bantley returned the ball close to the Phi Psi goal line. Dennis again took the ball over for the Sigs on a pass from D. Shields.

As the game drew to a close Jones threw a pass to Shafer, placing the ball on the Sig 20. The next play was a pass to Henninger, who caught the ball over the goal line, but was declared over the sidelines. Shafer took the next pass to tally the final score of the game, 30-12.

"Yale News" Conducts Public Speaking Course

Yale University's course in public speaking will this year be conducted by "The Yale News" since it has been dropped from the regular curriculum as an economy measure. Classes will be held in the Alpha Delta Phi house where a room has been rented by the "News".

Professor Hubert Greaves, of the Yale Divinity School, who has conducted the speaking course in the past, has agreed to serve gratuitously after the "News" arranges transportation for him and his assistant from the Divinity School to the campus.

Despite a storm of protest, the authorities abandoned the course because they did not feel the budget could carry the added expense of offering this subject for which no academic credit is given. The "News" acted in response to undergraduate demand and it is expected that at least 175 students will enroll this semester.

Mrs. Henpecked (sarcastically—"I suppose you've been to see a sick friend—holding his hand all evening." Mr. Henpecked (sadly—"If I'd been holding his hand, I'd have made some money."—Jester.

One Week

One of the events of interest that took place on our fair campus this week was the question the debaters from across the waters brought up on just how to greet the student body. It seems that they had seen too many American movies and wanted to acknowledge the applause by the prize-fighters two-handed salute. You know, Hi! Mom and Pop, I done it for the kids! . . . Some of the more energetic young blades had the unique idea for solving the traffic congestion on the rustic bridge by placing signs to the effect of limited parking. Surely this unselfish action was motivated by altruistic designs . . . The Cochran Theta sojourns to Pittsburgh almost every week-end to look after her Sig interests. Perhaps that pin needs polishing. Who knows? . . . The Fiji's have a dog added to their household. This one walks on four feet . . . Then there is the story about the senior who gets up at five in the morning so he can sleep all day in the woods . . . The Outing Club draws no color line. They even get the higher-ups to smear their faces with marshmallows and charcoal . . . The freshmen at Cafisch have found the Raven quite a place to spend Saturday night. Anyway when one of the profs come in to admonish them about the noise at two o'clock in the morning he warned them of lighting matches for fear of an explosion . . . The football men quite resent signal practice at night. Especially when they have to practice in their street clothes on a muddy field . . . One of the Phi Gams (they must feed them but once a week) was so hungry at the Outing Club party that he almost drowned ducking for apples . . . The Sophs have been busy sharpening up the barber shears. They made a feeble attempt the other night, but the freshman was a little too tough for all six of the brawny sophomores . . . By the way, freshman dinks are getting to be as scarce as hen's teeth . . . The bugle was heard to blow on the diamond last week, but the trouble is none knows the guilty (?) party . . . Congratulations for the B. K.'s for staging the best party on the hill so far this year. No doubt bowery make-up will set a new mark for the Phi Delt . . . The Sig aspirations for the touch football title have gone up the well-known creek. What they needed was more of the Men's Senate, himself . . . Not so famous sayings of not so famous people. A Phi Psi: "I got love and a dime (?) and a Ford. A second-front Theta: "Oooh, my fellow was hurt again in the game this afternoon." Another Theta: "Hi, ba-by". Second front Kappas: "Everybody is just SICK about the whole thing!" Phi Psi house: "Big drops" . . . This week-end has been most quiet. Perhaps it is a relapse from the exams or maybe it's the economic situation . . . What Kappa-from-town blushes every time she passes either a Phi Delt or the Phi Delt house . . . Just heard about a girl who had taken an overnight in town . . . Wouldn't have been so bad if we hadn't happened to know that the people at whose house she was spending the night were week-ending in Pittsburgh . . . It has been rumored that Cochran Hall suffers from technological unemployment. Too many dumb waiters. Probably it's because they're not Emily Posters . . . Those English lads were a jolly sort, by Jove! Even one of our more sedate debate coaches could not repress a laugh when, upon offering a cigarette to one of them, he was answered, "Oh—no thank you, old thing!" And here are a couple bouquets for our representatives, who showed up in no unskilled fashion against tough opposition . . . It seems that a Phi Gam Austin met its match on the road to Erie last Saturday. A big car overshadowed its hurry to get home to see—her . . . Congratulations to the House of Seely—Hither and thither and yon travels the tale of the T. U. Jean-Bean who has so much faith in cold-shots that she is wandering about without her coat.

Allegheny-Cambridge Debate

program with a short welcoming address.
In accordance with the rules of the evening, it was a non-decision debate. Following the debate there was an informal reception held at the Phi Delta Theta house in honor of the two guests from England. During the reception there were informal discussions on many current affairs of mutual interest.
On Saturday the two visitors, Mr. Royle and Mr. Alport, left for Detroit, which is the next stop in their itinerary of American schools at which they will debate before returning to England in early December.

ious stalls, and consisted of cider, marshmallows and doughnuts.
The party, which was planned and executed cooperatively by all the members of the Outing Club, had an appropriate finishing touch to a grand evening, in the exit, a slide from the first floor where the party was held, to the basement.

Following the closing of Swain Hall, University of North Carolina commons, the Student Council has initiated an investigation of the price and quality of food now served in Chapel Hill. Eating conditions at State College and Duke University will be looked into and compared to Chapel Hill standards.

New Freshman Course Instituted At N. Y. U.

100 lucky freshmen at N.Y.U. have been selected to take the new "unified course" which leads to a comprehensive examination at the end of the second year. Until then students chosen for "superior preparation" will be given individual guidance through a course designed to stimulate "broad cultural appreciation of values in all significant phases of contemporary life."
The program will dovetail into the regular liberal arts course. The first year it will include the fundamentals of the physical sciences; the history of Western culture; art or music and one elective, with special attention on the languages.
In the second year there will be courses in biology and psychology, analyses of the social sciences, social and community problems, literature, philosophy and an elective.

September 24—Came back to school to look over the old diggings. Some of my buried bones from last year are missing. Suspect that mutt from the fraternity house.
September 26—Practiced with the squad, barking signals. Have to give that quarterback a few lessons.
September 29—Head coach makes long talk on economizing. Says they must cut down expenses this year.
September 30—Found parts of old headgear and uniforms ground up in my feed. Must speak to Coach about this.
October 1—Saw Professor Smith's high hat French poodle today. Disgusting! Acts like a damned female impersonator.
October 3—Noticed excavating machine on campus. Must ask them to dig a few extra holes for me.
October 4—Spent day sniffing around stadium. Things are not up to snuff this year, I'd say.
October 6—Was measured for a new jacket today. Hope they put pleats in back. Boy, will that make that poodle sore!
October 8—Saw that fraternity mutt chumming around with my best girl friend. Always sticking his nose in my business.
October 10—Listened to radio orchestra this morning. Heard "Trees" played five times.
October 12—Overheard players talking about that new quarterback sneak. And is he a sneak!
October 14—Rumors about minstrel show true. Must look up this Mr. Bones.
October 16—Have decided to transfer to rival college. Heard they are transplanting fifty trees for new walk.—R.P.I. "Pup".

I think that we should always josh A student, lowly as a frosh,
A student, lowly as a frosh,
Who goes to Olean to play;
Who wears a sign, carries matches,
And gets his daily mail in batches;
Upon whose chin, one whisker hair
Begins to grow with pampered care.
A frosh who always crams his maw
With lemon 'cokes' sipped through a straw.
Poems are made by fools, by gosh,
But any dame can make a frosh.

SOCIETY

B. K. Bowery Brawl.

The Streets of New York came to life at the annual Beta Kappa Bowery Brawl, Saturday night, November 2. Everything had the air of the Gay Nineties—including the Bar where cider and pretzels were served.
Music played by the B. K. Dixie Cavaliers, with about thirty-five couples present. Dr. and Mrs. H. W. Church were chaperones. The committee in charge was composed of Robert Shinabarger, James Brunner, and Erskine Myers.
The guests were Paul Odell, Ben Raskin, Roy Robinson, Art Swanson, Art Cobb, Harry Davis, Cleveland, Frank Schott, Kenneth Schott, Barney Halperin, Bill Filer, Gilbert Jamison, and Bill Ellermeyer.

Radio Parties.

Delta Tau Delta held a radio party in the chapter house last Friday night, November 1st. About twenty-five couples attended. During the latter part of the evening doughnuts and cider were served. The chaperones were Mr. Cary March and Miss Webb.
Phi Delta Theta entertained about twenty-five couples at a radio party held in the chapter house Saturday night, November 2. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Haberman were the chaperones.
Last Saturday evening, November 2, Phi Gamma Delta held a radio party in the chapter house. About nineteen couples were present. Cider and doughnuts were served. The chaperones were Mr. Albert E. Ogilvie and Mr. Martin Howes.

Chi Rho Initiation.

Alpha Chi Rho announces the initiation of two men on Sunday, November 3. They are Jack L. Spittler, '38, of Wilkesburg, Pa., and Joseph M. Kobylanski, '38, of Meadville, Pa.

Harvard University formerly required students for an A.B. degree to be able to translate the Bible from its original form into Latin.

Harvard will celebrate the three hundredth anniversary of its founding in 1936. It is the oldest institution of higher learning in the United States.

Playshop Announces A Postponement Of Production

The Allegheny Playshop announces the postponement of its first regular production of the current season, "Men must Fight", from November 15, 16 and 18 to the following week-end, November 22, 23 and 25.
The name of Dorothea Ely was omitted from the cast as printed in last week's Campus.

Der Deutsche Verein To Start Activities This Evening

Der Deutsche Verein will begin its activities for the year 1935 when it holds its first meeting this evening at 7:45 in Cochran Hall.
Tentative plans have been formed for the year's activities by the executive committee. Invitations for membership have been sent to all students eligible for membership and the first meeting will be in the form of an initiation for new members. A program has been prepared to follow the initiation.

Second In Series Of Faculty Dinners Held

Eighteen faculty members were present at the second in the series of faculty dinners held last night in Hulings Hall. It was sponsored by the social committee of the Associated Women Students. The faculty members present were: Dr. Irwin R. Beiler, Miss Antoinette Chevreton, Miss Edith Rowley, Mr. Philip Benjamin, Dr. and Mrs. Julian L. Ross, Dr. and Mrs. Dale Thomas, Dr. and Mrs. Guy Buckingham, Dr. and Mrs. Armen Kalfayan, Dr. and Mrs. Louis J. Long, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Beisel, Mr. Henry Boetcher, and Mr. Weldon.
After dinner an informal reception was held in the Gold Room of Hulings Hall.

The pompous judge glared over his spectacles at the prisoner before him on a charge of vagrancy.
"Have you ever earned a dollar in your life?" he asked in scorn.
"Yes, your honor" was the response.
"I voted for you the last election."
