Woman's Institute
Domestic Arts & Sciences, Inc.
Scranton, Pa.

April 2,
1920.

Miss Ida M. Tarbell,
132 East 19th Street,
New York City.

My dear Miss Tarbell:

Early in May we are planning to have a dinner and other appropriate ceremonies in connection with the celebration of the Fourth Anniversary of the founding of the Woman's Institute.

The Institute has become in four years by far the largest women's school in the world and is now giving instruction to more than 60,000 women and girls in domestic art and science subjects.

We would particularly like to have you with us on that occasion. Mr. Phillips, of the Red Cross Magazine, tells me that you are away on a lecture tour at the present time and he does not know where you will be in May, but I am writing now to inquire whether there is any chance that you will be in New York at that time and could arrange to accept an invitation to be with us. If you are to be in this part of the country and feel that it might be possible, I will let you know the definite date as soon as it is decided upon. We feel that our work would interest you greatly and we would appreciate the opportunity of entertaining you in Scranton and giving you an opportunity to become familiar with it.

Very truly yours,

G. Lynn Sumner

GLS/RG

Advertising Manager.

Digital Image, 2009. The Ida M. Tarbell Collection, 1890-1944, Allegheny College Pelletier Library