Dear Miss Tarbell:

In the March Course for 1932, at the Little Theatre, I want to give your Story of Lincoln,- I want to make it a big evening! You know how much that story has meant to audiences, and what a Light it has been in my own life.

Would you allow me to announce the evening on my circular as a celebration of your seventy-fifth anniversary? I know that November 5th is the date,- but that leaves only two months for 1932, and my course is always given at the theatre in March and it will be 1933 unless we celebrate in March 1932.

I wonder if you can realize what a joy it will be to us all to have the privilege of a celebration for your dear self.

Love & Joy
to you,
Ida B. Judd
