

Feschke's Grand Hotel, Bad Nauheim.

Bad Nauheim, den 31 Aug. 1932

Dear Miss Tarbell,

Charles Stone sent me your life of Owen Young to the Steamer, when I sailed, and it has been on my desk all summer. I think you have done a good job in it. It was fine to bring out his loyalty to his old work and his home town. It must be very difficult to write the life of a living man and particularly of a man who keeps on doing such good things. As you say in your preface it is hard not to make of such a life history a eulogy. I do think he slipped a cog in the bonus matter and his name has been used in this instance to bolster a bad cause.

It is so long since I have seen you and I would so enjoy a talk with you. Perhaps when I get back to N.Y. in October I may intersect your orbit.

Yours sincerely,

For many years

Some time I hope you will write the biography of George Keenan
