FERNANDINA, FLORIDA

March 17, 1926.

Miss Ida M. Tarbell,
care Stetson University,
DeLand, Florida.

Dear Miss Tarbell:

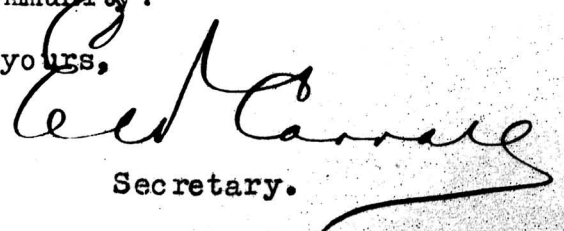

On behalf of our Chamber of Commerce, I wish to extend to you a most cordial invitation to include this historic and picturesque little city in your Florida itinerary.

A visit to Fernandina would disclose to you much of historic and romantic interest. The second oldest city in the United States, Fernandina is located on the northern end of beautiful Amelia Island, so named for the charming daughter of King George the Third of England. It is only about an hour's drive from Jacksonville.

Write me that you are coming so that I may arrange a yacht excursion with our little colony of winter visitors to "Dungeness," Carnegie estate on Cumberland Island; Jekyl Island, the home of 100 multi-millionaires; quaint old St. Marys, Ga.; old Fort Clinch, and through the six beautiful rivers in the vicinity of Fernandina.

In case you are unable to arrange your schedule to include Fernandina, may I have the privilege of mailing you some interesting material concerning the community?

Sincerely yours,

Secretary.
