

2/2
"They do not have that bitter feeling that they otherwise would have, and they become friends and do not believe everything they hear about each other, and it is very beneficial. It is like meeting a number of men at a club, you know. If I have any cause of complaint against one of my competitors who has done something to me I do not mind speaking to him about it, and often find that I have been lied to. It makes a better feeling and is very beneficial."

Report of the Industrial Commission on Trusts and Industrial Combinations. Vol. XIII. 1901 Page 136

Prove mumplei anti-Gott - Reg.
Luttrell - Stauder - Bayler -