

no. 22.)
Relics of Ann Rutledge.

A lock of Ann Rutledge's hair, and a piece of black veil and white silk bow once worn by her, are now in the possession of her namesake at Petersburg--a second cousin, the daughter of Jasper Rutledge, a full cousin of the lamented girl. The color of Ann Rutledge's hair, as shown by this lock, was a dark auburn.