Dear Mr. Cameron:

I have put on the enclosed sheet briefly the idea that I tried to develop, not very successfully I fear, at the luncheon of your Executive Committee last Monday.

I think I have stated it clearly here and if you can get me any suggestions + any experiences, which will help me out in undertaking an article, I shall be grateful.

It was pleasant to see you again and to know that as always you are devoting yourself so heartedly to this important matter. It is the people who carry on year in and year out that finally get the thing done.

Very sincerely yours
