

September 15, 1934

Dear Mrs. Earnshaw:

I am sorry I have been so slow in acknowledging your letter of September 2nd, but I have been pretty well snowed under of late and neglecting correspondence.

Of course I am pleased that you and your Mother liked my little account of Bellamy's way out. It seemed to me particularly interesting just at this time. As for "Equality" I had read it long ago but I had not realized how much need there really is in it for a plan. What I like about it particularly is his recognition that in any improved state there has got to be the most severe discipline and training of the citizen body. He puts down a plan of training which I am afraid would be very unwelcome to most of the generation who are crying so loud for a Utopia.

I shall look with a great deal of interest for the Moughlin-Mifflin book. How fine that you should have found new material in the form of note books and journals. That will be a great addition.

Enclosed you will find the clippings which you were good enough to lend me. Please check up on them and see if everything is here.

With all good wishes to you and to Mrs. Bellamy, believe me

Very sincerely yours
