Debaters On Air From Cleveland This Afternoon

Corcoran and Green Debate
Western Reserve Speakers
Over WHK.

The Allegheny Speakers figure in another radio broadcast experiment this afternoon at 3 o'clock when Earl Green and John Corcoran oppose Western Reserve University debaters over WHK, in Cleveland.

Last week the Cleveland station invited the Allegheny and Western Reserve men to conduct an hour's broadcast on the question, "Resolved that governmental control of industry as exemplified by the N.R.A. should be made a permanent feature of the United States government".

The program will begin at 3 o'clock with Green and Corcoran advancing two nine-minute arguments for the affirmative, followed by a nine-minute rebuttal from the Western Reserve representative. After a half hour's intermission between 3:30 and 4, the debate will be resumed with the Western Reserve debaters delivering two nine-minute addresses on the negative, followed by a nine-minute refutation by Earl Green.

The broadcast is new to and the highlight of the annual trip which the Allegheny debaters make to Ohio. John Corcoran, Earl Green, and William Unverzagt left Meadville this morning for the series of debates in which they will meet, in addition to Western Reserve University, Oberlin, and Ohio Wesleyan.

Paul Cares will coach the team during its debates, which will all deal with the N.R.A. question. The men plan to return on Sunday.

Friday Broadcast from Erie.

The Allegheny Speakers will hold their third radio debate this Friday afternoon at 1:30 over WLBW in Erie.

Robert Maytum and Arthur Vangeli will discuss the question: "Should the principle of collective bargaining be extended throughout American industry."

Wooster Debates Here Friday.

Wooster College will send its representatives here on Friday to debate with Allegheny College on the N.R.A. question. Robert Dennis, William Olson, and Arthur Vangeli, will uphold the negative for Allegheny.

Freshmen Meet Penn State.

In their first debate of the season Allegheny's freshman debating team engage Penn State last Monday afternoon. The freshmen, represented by John Sampson, Robert Shinabarger, and Robert Smith, defended the affirmative side of the N.R.A. question.

Virginia Campbell, '37, Weds Beaver Falls Man Monday

Miss Virginia Campbell, '37, was married to Mr. Thomas Barber, of Beaver Falls, at Wellsburg, West Virginia, on Monday afternoon.

The bride is a member of Kappa Alpha Theta sorority, and her home is in Rochester.

At present the couple are staying at Hotel Nixon, in Butler.

Yes, the "Lit" article, "In Defense of Chapel", was a satire.

Oratorical Contest Set For Saturday Definitely Cancelled

William Olson announced yesterday the cancellation of the Pennsylvania Intercollegiate Oratorical Contest which was to be held at the Playshop this Saturday.

When Gettysburg College wired at the beginning of the week that they would not be represented in the state contest, plans for the project were abandoned because that college's withdrawal left only Grove City, Allegheny, and Muhlenberg in the competition.

As chairman of the Intercollegiate Oratorical Society in Pennsylvania, Olson hopes to enlarge the membership so that such an emergency will not arise next year.

Edward Stainbrook had been scheduled to speak for Allegheny on the subject of "Death Speaks to Life".

College Women Talk On Student Activities At Symposium Here

Women debaters from four Pennsylvania schools presented a symposium on Women's Student Government, last Thursday evening in Hulings Hall.

Visitors from Penn State, University of Pittsburgh, and Westminster, together with a representative of Allegheny, presented a picture of women's activities in each of the schools to an audience of 250 women. Miss Helen Morrow, Allegheny senior, was the chairman of the meeting.

The topic for the four discussions was "Women's Student Government at My College". Each speaker presented a clear picture of the conditions at her school.

In speaking on the initiative shown by women students at Penn State, Miss Margaret Bernard, of that school, asserted that the women there conceived of the idea of building a cabin in the mountains to be used by the women exclusively for recreational purposes. She pointed out that the different women's organizations of that school are now using the cabin.

In telling of Westminster's work, Miss Virginia Booth called attention to the lack of initiative on the part of the women there in extra-curricular and student government activities. She asserted that the lack of initiative was found in many schools, and pointed out the program now under way to correct this fault.

Miss Freda Goldstein, representing Pitt, explained the method in use there, known as the "unit system". Each freshman there is given a period of guidance by some upper-classman, and then placed in some extra-curricular "unit" for several weeks.

The situation at Allegheny was explained by Miss Betty Bright. She called attention to the new Board of Women Students which gives directions to all activities through its various committees.

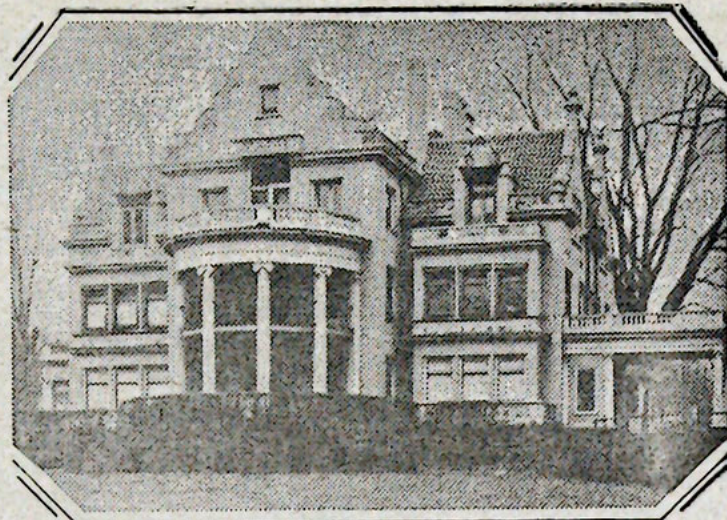

Newspaper Article Pays Tribute to Ida Tarbell

A recent issue of the Sunday magazine section of the New York Herald Tribune contains a two page article entitled "Ida Tarbell—a Spirited 76" by Gove Hamblidge, author of "Thine to Live".

Miss Tarbell, a graduate of Allegheny in 1880, is pictured in the article as a woman who "refuses to bow before the advancing years" and who "challenges age by zestful living".

Dr. W. S. Learned, of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching, was a guest here yesterday.

Sophomores to Take Comprehensive Test

By PRESIDENT W. P. TOLLEY

Education has at least three aims. It tries to open new doors of interest and appreciation by introducing students to the fields of Art, Literature, Philosophy, the Social and Physical Sciences, Religion, and other branches of learning and culture. It aids students in the perfecting of skills, particularly in reading, writing, and organizing materials and thoughts. It also makes possible the assimilation of accurate usable information that is significant either for historical, cultural, or vocational reasons.

In every program of education two groups of people are tested,—the students who are learning and the instructors who are teaching. The introduction of Survey Courses, for example, not only tests the ingenuity of the faculty in organizing the teaching materials, but also tests their ability to teach such courses successfully. The entire burden cannot be placed on the shoulders of the faculty, but they have a responsibility as well as the students. The comprehensive examination which will be offered in June for the first time will, therefore, be a test of good instruction as well as of successful learning and the results of this examination will be as important for the faculty as for the students.

The comprehensive examination ought to help us find out how much our students are learning in the first two years of college. It ought also to tell us findings that will be of value in co-ordinating and unifying the work of the lower level. We believe, moreover, that the comprehensive examination will serve to raise scholarship standards by emphasizing greater thoroughness of academic preparation. Instead of cramming for semester examinations with the consciousness that the subject matter may be forgotten once the examination has been passed, students will now be required to retain their knowledge of subject matter at least to the end of their sophomore year. It is hoped that this will check the tendency of intelligent students to earn simply passing grades. To the same degree that it discourages cramming it ought to emphasize the importance of thorough day by day preparation.

The comprehensive will also help us to recognize the students who are not yet ready for the work of the last two years of college. The end of the sophomore year is the end of the lower level and there are many students who ought to bring their college course to completion at that time. While the comprehensive examination will not

Playshop Preparing To Give "The Fan" On March 24 and 26

Try-outs and rehearsals are being held this week, and work on scenery and costumes has been started by the production staffs for "The Fan", a three-act comedy to be presented on the evenings of March 25 and 26.

The coming production is the work of Carlo Goldoni, termed "Father of Italian Comedy", and was first presented in Venice in 1760. The author's life consisted of a picturesque series of adventures which he has retold in his "Memoirs". Although he was a practicing lawyer for some time, Goldoni was a prolific playwright, turning out some 300 comedies, tragedies, operas, and scenarios.

Negotiations were under way last week to secure an appearance of the Allegheny Players at the Erie Playshop. Professor Spalding received a communication from Mr. Henry Vincent, director of the Erie Playshop, inviting the college players to produce "Candida" there next week. Action on the matter was deferred until later in the spring, however, since the Allegheny alumni of Erie are anxious to sponsor the project in conjunction with an Erie "Allegheny Day".

Five Allegheny Students Attend K. P. K. Convention

Five Allegheny men attended the national convention of Kappa Phi Kappa, men's education fraternity, at Cleveland on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday of last week.

The student delegates were William Olson, Richard Porter, Stanley Vollmer, Francis Leopold, and George Maynard. Professors Henke and Buckingham were also in attendance.

Each of the five Allegheny men were active on committees transacting fraternity business. Professor Henke, national treasurer of the organization during the past year, was re-elected to that office.

A vote to admit a new chapter of Kappa Phi Kappa at Louisiana State University brought the total number of chapters in the organization to 46.

The highlight of the convention was a banquet at the Carter Hotel on Friday evening.

About 125 Couples Attend Men's Senate "Radio" Dance

One hundred and twenty-five couples danced to the music of the Melody Weavers at an all-college dance, Friday night, March 2, in the gymnasium.

At intermission a program was given featuring Betty Caldwell in a tap dance, accompanied by Ruth Meyers at the piano; Sam Musoni playing the accordion; and Ray Robertson, Keith Hutchison, Robert Byers, and George Robie, in a Canlis quartette, accompanied by Clark Leydie.

The dance was planned by the Men's Senate and was in charge of a committee headed by Dave Smith and Fred Kiebert. Proceeds of the dance were used to buy a radio for the men's lounge in Cochran.

Prof. and Mrs. Paul H. Giddens, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick F. Seely, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Finney were chaperones for the affair.

Since the Phi Deltas placed first in scholarship last term, they seem to believe that everyone connected with the chapter should attend classes. After their dog had been removed three times and entered the class room the fourth time last Saturday, Professor Giddens said, "I guess we will have to let him stay. It seems that they all want to come."

Phi Deltas Close Negotiations For Huidekoper Place

Remodeling Begins on Historic Mansion; Expect to Occupy May 1.

May 1, traditional moving day, will have especial importance on "the hill" this year, for on or about that day Phi Delta Theta fraternity will move from its present house on Highland Avenue to the old Huidekoper mansion on Terrace Street.

For two years talk has been current about a new home for the Phi Deltas, and after several weeks of negotiations, final arrangements for the purchase of the Huidekoper house were completed on Monday, March 5. The sale was announced by Phi Delta Theta officers and real estate agents Gelvin, Jackson and Starr.

Construction Work Under Way.

The work of repairing and remodeling the house has already been started and present plans call for its completion before May 1. Mr. James A. Bortz, '11, of Pittsburgh, has charge of the construction work; and Mrs. William Dalzell, wife of William F. Dalzell, '12, of Moundsville, W. Va., will select the furnishings.

With but few changes the house can be made into an ideal home for a fraternity. The structure itself contains 14 bedrooms and 9 baths, in addition to several large hallways, parlors, reception rooms and other divisions. Besides this building the Phi Deltas gain title to the 150 by 200 foot property which contains a two story stone cottage and the old brick flower garden.

Interesting Historical Background.

The old house has an exceptionally interesting historical background, which dates back to the year 1807. At this time the original north wing of the structure was built by James "Tanner" White, who was the first tanner to establish a business in Northwest Pennsylvania. This was the first brick building west of the Alleghenies and north of Pittsburgh, and was made from home made brick.

The second owner of the estate was Octavius Hastings, prominent Meadville business man and one time sheriff of Crawford County. After occupying it for several years Mr. Hastings sold it to William Reynolds, whose eldest daughter, Frances L. Huidekoper, purchased it about 65 years ago. The estate has remained in the possession of the Huidekoper family until the death of Mrs. Huidekoper two years ago.

In 1899 the location of the old north wing was changed and the present house was built around it.

Eminent German Professor To Lecture Here March 18

"The Religious Situation in Germany Today" will be the subject of a talk to be given in chapel at 4 o'clock on Sunday afternoon, March 18, by Prof. Paul Tillich, one of the distinguished German students who have fled the Hitler regime to become affiliated with American colleges.

Dr. Tillich was professor of philosophy at the University of Frankfurt, Germany, until he fell into disfavor with the Hitler hegemony. Now he is lecturing at Union Theological Seminary and acting as a visiting professor at Columbia University.

The philosophy of religion and social ethics has been Professor Tillich's specialty, and in it he is a recognized authority. A student of Ernest Troeltsch he is a leader in thought opposing the followers of Barth. "The Religious Situation", translated from German by Niebuhr, is one of the better known among many books which he has written.

For several years of the World War Professor Tillich was a chaplain in the German army.

President Tolley Visits Two Alumni Organizations

President Tolley attended an Allegheny alumni banquet at Hotel Corington in Philadelphia Friday evening and on Saturday was present at the inauguration of Dr. Joseph M. Gray as chancellor of the American University, at Washington, D. C. Saturday evening Dr. Tolley was a guest at an Allegheny alumni dinner at the Hotel Admiral, in Washington.

Mr. Merrill Maitland, of Franklin, was elected president of the Venango County Alumni Association at a dinner held in Oil City on February 23.

ON EATING GREEN APPLES.

Just now when the last of the fraternity initiations are being held, it might not be a bad idea for the proper instruments of student government to begin considering how they expect to deal with the problem of "rushing" when it looms up next fall. Or will another orgy of shaking down green apples be followed with the usual aches and pains?

The two articles which appeared in last week's Allegheny Literary Magazine certainly offer little encouragement to crusaders for reform. The author of the anonymous letter to Editor Corcoran pessimistically declares that there is no way of solving the problem; and Miss VanAken, in her article, advocates a return to a system that has already proved decidedly bad.

Miss VanAken certainly has a point in declaring that the deferred rushing experiment which marked the opening of this school year only muddled instead of remedying the situation which it sought to reform. The whole idea of attempting to keep fraternity and sorority upperclassmen from conversing with freshmen for the first few weeks on anything but the weather, the faults and merits of the faculty, and the high price of eggs is utterly ridiculous. Even an elaborate and odious detective system cannot make satisfactory a plan which so invites infringement.

In our opinion, however, Miss VanAken is wrong in dismissing the possibility of a solution in deferring rushing for a whole term instead of for a mere two or three weeks. There seem to be two objections to this plan: (1) that the upperclassmen would be subjected to just that much longer period of storm and stress and (2) that a lot of freshmen still wouldn't know their own minds and "might not join any fraternity at all."

In clearing the ground to attack the first of these two objections, one must make some sort of statement of the rules to be involved in an experiment which defers formal rushing and pledging until February. There is no reason why there need be any restrictions on freshman-upperclassman social relationship during the first term. The fact that promises of pledging are a violation of the fraternity's agreement and are in no way valid should be impressed on the freshman class at the outset. If the new Alleghenian wants to cheat with a cheating fraternity, no rules by the Pan-Hellenic or Interfraternity Councils can stop him. Penalties? Yes, but the fraternity gets him eventually, and the penalties are only trouble-breeders and admissions of weakness in the system.

Upperclassmen who would want to keep up the glad-hand front and entertain extensively for five months should assuredly not be denied the privilege. We believe that even the best fraternity man or woman would, after that long a period, allow his loyalty to be overcome by his common sense and his natural reluctance to pretend he holds in high esteem a confused freshman who more or less bores him. It is futile to ignore the obvious fact that even plebeian brains really could acquire valuable orientation if given a semester's time in which to get adjusted and view from a more sane perspective the whole fraternity situation. And of course it's going over old ground to say that the fraternities would be able to choose the type of member they wanted much more accurately—in fact they'd even have the first term's scholastic records of the freshmen. If scholastic records make any difference to the Greek gleaners.

The second argument—that the freshman "might not join any fraternity at all"—is far more amusing than it is serious. The freshman who decides, of his own accord, that he can do without the fraternity atmosphere is certainly entitled to the right to make that decision. For the Greek letter societies to consider the world at sixes and sevens because some attractive prospects decide that they can get along quite well independently is something of a confession of smugness. Isn't it?

be the sole basis of admission to the upper level, it will be one of several. The intelligence rating of the student, the degree of his application, and his scholastic record for the freshman and sophomore years will be other factors of importance. No student will be admitted to the upper level whose total record including the comprehensive examination is not satisfactory. Students whose scholastic record on the lower level has been of passing grade, but whose work on the comprehensive is unsatisfactory, may by vote of the faculty be continued as students in the lower level and given an opportunity to take the comprehensive at a later date. Such students may be admitted to upper-class courses by action of the department involved. As a general principle, a student who has earned a grade of "B" in a particular lower level subject will be allowed to take upper level work in that subject. A grade "D" in a lower level subject will probably bar a student from taking advanced courses in that particular department as long as he remains a lower level student.

The comprehensive examination will be given on June seventh and eighth. According to the present plans of the Committee it will require a total of from six to eight hours. The examination will test not only the ability of the student to apply his knowledge and organize his material, but also his ability to write and to think. The examination will also test the information of the student in the field covered by the required courses of the freshman and sophomore years. While it is not expected that the students will remember all the detailed information they learn in the required courses, the questions will assume a command of what might be called residual information—that is, the kind of knowledge that they may reasonably be expected to retain.

The faculty and administration recognize the experimental character of the examination and the difficulty of reaching all of our objectives at once. It may take several years to work out the most desirable type of examination. Constructive suggestions will therefore be welcomed from both students and faculty. Within the next week the Curriculum Committee is hoping to release a series of typical questions so that sophomores may know the kind of questions that they may expect. An announcement will also be made concerning the final examinations in the sophomore required courses. It seems probable now that the final examination in Religion, Dramatics, Art Appreciation, and the second semester of the Social Science Survey will be given during the last recitation period of the semester.

He had served churches in Knoxville, Meyersdale, Springdale, Blairsville, Johnstown, Arrick, and Arnold.

The first championship match on match each team took one game by a fairly safe margin. In the third game, which decided the match and the Allegheny Trackmen Busily Conditioning For Spring Meets

After a lapse of one year, Allegheny will continue its varsity track program. The schedule for the spring season includes three engagements, to take place on May 5, 12, and 19, with Clarion Teachers, Washington and Jefferson, and Grove City.

Since February 9, the 'Gator track men have been following a winter training schedule which has helped considerably to condition them for the meets this spring. Work-outs have been held three times a week.

Beginning this week, the men are to be divided into groups and work-outs will be increased in intensity.
Emphasis will be centered in the starting, form, and other points of technique. Coach Daniels will have charge of the field men, while Coach
Way will instruct the runners.

There are only three lettermen back from the year before last, Wolfe, Vanaman, and Lubic, but Allegheny should be represented by a snappy outfit this season, as there is a great variety of new material.

In long distance events Frost and Wilson have shown up favorably, while Keck, Wolfe, and Duncan make promising materials for the middle distance runs. Grow, and Zurlo have mastered the hurdles quite well, and Vanaman is expected to uphold his record in field events.

Prize-Winning Bowlers.

Laura Beebe took the women's prize on the Cochran alleys Saturday with her total of 129, which edged out "Gwen" Patterson, who had led the field with an 121 until Saturday. Will Berger rolled 176 to take the first prize for men.

THE JOY OF GOOD TASTE

And good taste is one great pleasure you find in every Lucky Strike, for only the finest Turkish and Domestic tobaccos are used in Lucky Strike... and only the center leaves. They are the mildest leaves, the most tender. Every Lucky Strike is fully packed . . . always so round, so firm—no loose ends.

NOT the top leaves—they're underdeveloped—they are harsh!

The Cream of the Crop
"The mildest, smoothest tobacco"

NOT the bottom leaves—they're inferior in quality—coarse and always sandy!

Always the Finest Tobacco
