Dear Miss Tarbell:

As you may have noticed I have been appointed to the new industrial conference to meet in Washington next Monday, December 1st. I am sure your recent experience has enabled you to formulate your ideas along lines which would be helpful to those interested in the second attempt.

I would greatly appreciate a letter from you outlining your views as to how the conference might best proceed, what policies might wisely be adopted and what recommendations might be considered. Any thoughts you have on this subject will be helpful.

My address will be Hotel Washington, Washington, D.C.

Sincerely yours,

Julius Rosenwald
