TWO SHUT-OUT GAMES IN ONE WEEK.

Lockwood on Saturday Shuts Out Pittsburg College Without a Hit, and Selkregg Sends Grove City Home Monday With a Goose Egg.

Allegheny 1, Pittsburg College 0.

On Saturday afternoon the Allegheny College baseball team showed both the Pittsburg College team and Allegheny's baseball admirers how the game ought to be played by defeating the Pittsburgers by a score of 1 to 0. A better game has not been seen for some time in Meadville, and it is doubtful if another like it will be seen for some time. The Allegheny boys could scarcely better the work of this game as only one error was made and that on a difficult play. Although the number of hits was not great the team batted in much better form than usual. Every player on both teams was "on his toes," as Coach Comfort puts it, from start to finish. The beautiful weather seemed to have a very good effect on them.

Lockwood cannot be praised too highly for the kind of pitching he is doing. If he keeps the pace already set by himself, he will make nothing short of a big league pitcher. Only two hits were made off his delivery last Monday, and on Saturday against the Pittsburg College boys, who came here with a good record, he accomplished the rare feat of pitching nine innings without being hit for a single base. Not an opponent reached third base and only two reached second.

While Lockwood pitched excellent ball, the playing of Allegheny's whole team must not be lost sight of.

The work of Heilman and Russell was particularly good. Heilman certainly captivated the hearts of the spectators by his quick, heady plays. He saved Lockwood from having two hits marked against him by running back and catching flies which seemed to the spectators impossible. Russell, too, played an excellent game, having five put outs, five assists, two hits, and the only run of his team to his credit. Besides this he was the central figure in a double play in which Heilman and Lewis took part. Mook played an exceedingly good game behind the bat, and Haas did good work with the bat, getting the only long hit of the game, a two base hit into right field, which brought in the winning run.

Collins pitched great ball for the visitors and would have won an ordinary game. He had all kinds of benders and succeeded in fooling some of our best batsmen. He seemed to have perfect control of the ball as he gave but one base on balls, permitted six hits, and struck out seven men. Murray and Hayes played their respective positions well.

Davin was the first batter up for the visitors, and he also proved to be the first victim of Lockwood's slaughter. He struck out. Keating did a little better, knocking the ball high into the air, but he too was doomed to meet with the axe, for the ball was caught by Wynn. Mook then retired Herrly by catching a foul fly retiring the side. No runs.

Turner opened the batting for Allegheny and he made it look as though the game would be an easy victory by knocking the ball on a line into right field where there was nobody. Selkregg strengthened Allegheny's outlook by hitting the ball hard in the same direction. Turner went to third on the hit, and on the throw to third to catch Turner, Selkregg went to second. Then when Daugherty muffed the ball, which had been thrown to him to catch Turner off base, Turner made a dart for home but was put out at the plate. Selkregg reached third on the play. Wynn then put a fly to Reihan, and Lewis put a similar one to Keating retiring the side. No runs.

Duffy being hit with a pitched ball took his base. He reached second and Murray reached first on Lewis' failure to catch the ball thrown from Lock-

Allegheny 7, Grove City 0.

Allegheny met and defeated her old rival from Grove City yesterday afternoon by the decisive score of 7 to 0. The visitors have made a splendid record themselves this season and came to town with the intention of winning. With the exception of one or two misplays they put up an article of base ball that under ordinary circumstances would have won from any team. To offset this, however, Allegheny played the same gilt-edged ball that has marked the work of every game this season. While the score would indicate that the home team had things much its own way, the game was not lacking in interest. On one or two occasions it looked as if the visitors might make enough runs to even up the score. At such times Selkregg pulled himself out of dangerous places in a manner deserving of much praise. The winning of the game was due to timely batting, as Allegheny was up against a pitcher who handled himself in a remarkable manner, giving the home team only five hits, one of which was very scratchy. The thirteen strike-outs recorded against the home team indicate more truly than anything else the effectiveness of his delivery. His southpaw delivery and puzzling curves, combined with his speed, proved an enigma to a number of our heavy hitters. Selkregg also pitched a masterly game, allowing only seven hits, two of which were Texas Leaguers just out of reach of the fielders.

Allegheny's scoring took place in the third and eighth innings. In the third, Upp could not get the ball over the plate and Heilman walked. Haas dropped the ball back of third just out of reach of the fielders and sent Heilman to third. Then on Galbraith's attempt to catch Haas at second, Heilman crossed the plate for the first run of the game. Mook reached first on the third baseman's fumble of his grounder. Turner got a base on balls. With the bases full Selkregg sent a pretty single to center, scoring Haas and Mook. Darling base running and Morris' fumble enabled Turner to score an instant later.

Allegheny scored three more runs in the eighth inning by good, clean hitting. Turner singled to left center. Selkregg reached first on balls. Comfort's attempted sacrifice forced Turner out at third. With two men on bases, Wynn put the ball down the third base line for three bags, scoring Selkregg and Comfort. Wynn scored on Russell's single to right center.

Things looked somewhat blue for Allegheny in the first part of the third inning. Baldwin reached first on a pop fly to short left, but was forced out at second a moment later by Sandles. Snedden then singled to left, and Galbraith's easy grounder took a bad bound as it neared Selkregg, allowing the runner to reach first. Elliot forced Sandles out at home and Businsky relieved the strain on the spectators by going out to Russell.

Three of the visitors reached first base in the ninth, but two of them were doubled up in short order by Haas and Lewis.

The score follows:

Tri-State Contest.

To Be Held in Waynesburg Tonight. Thompson to Speak on Oliver Cromwell—Oration Given in Chapel Saturday.

Frank M. Thompson left yesterday morning for Waynesburg to represent Allegheny College in the Tri-State Inter-Collegiate Oratorical contest to be held at that place tonight. He will speak in competition with orators from Muskingum, Geneva, Westminster, Waynesburg, Bethany and Thiel Colleges.

Mr. Thompson delivered his oration on Oliver Cromwell in the regular chapel service Saturday morning before the entire student-body. At the close of his address he was given an ovation. Through the efforts of the Quill Club the custom of having the college orator deliver his oration to the students before leaving to take part in the contest has been inaugurated and will doubtless be retained.

The oration on Oliver Cromwell is one of the most remarkable efforts which has been heard from an Allegheny student for years. It shows the result of long labor and application. It combines much investigation with good judgment and selection. The climaxes are forcible and eloquent. Mr. Thompson's delivery in itself adds to the power of the oration.

Allegheny has won the Tri-State contest on three occasions. It was first won by W. W. Youngson, next by Paul Weyand and lastly—two years ago—by R. G. Freeman. Mr. Thompson's masterly oration coupled with his delivery and presence makes him a strong candidate for the prize. Allegheny has the fullest confidence in his ability to bring back the gold medal.

Pan Heavenly Banquet.

Allegheny's Sororities Hold Their Annual Symposium at Saegertown. Lots of Fun With Jolly Good Fellowship the Rule of the Evening.

The annual banquet of the members of the Allegheny College sororities was held Friday evening at the Saegertown inn and the event was one of the most brilliant in college life held for some time.

Miss Edith Roddy was the toast-mistress of the evening and very effectively and entertainingly presided over the flow of good humor and fellowship that were characteristic of the evening.

The menu was all that could be desired and was interspersed with songs and yells for the fraternities of the college.

The toasts were all brilliant and witty and added much to the enjoyment of the evening.

The toast-list was as follows: Interfraternity Spirit—Mary Roberts.

"A sudden thought strikes me,—let us swear an eternal friendship."

Song, Alpha Chi Omega.

Dwellers in the Valley—Helen McClintock.

"Every valley shall be exalted and every mountain and hill shall be made low."

The Source of All Wisdom—Effe Millaren.

"Who mixed reason with pleasure and wisdom with mirth."

Song, Kappa Kappa Gamma.

The Light of Other Days—Ruth Townley.

"Fond memory brings the light of other days around me."

Our Sweethearts—Jess Crissman.

"O, what men dare do! what men may do! what men daily do, not knowing what they do!"

Song, Kappa Alpha Theta.

Alma Mater—Winifred Terry.

"To know, to esteem, to love—and then to part."

There are two hundred and sixty-six periodicals published by students in American universities and colleges. Of this number 150 are monthlies, 65 weeklies, 11 are dailies, 12 are quarterlies, 10 are bi-weeklies, 9 are semi-monthlies, 3 are semi-weeklies and 2 are bi-monthlies.

MACONDA SECURED.

The Famous Soprano Will Be Here to Assist in the Glee Club's Spring Concert.

The management of the Glee and Mandolin clubs is to be congratulated on having secured Madame Maconda for the commencement concert which is to be given June 15th. Madame Maconda was here two years ago and won the hearts of all music lovers. Since that time she has had a most successful career and is now one of the foremost American sopranos. The coming concert promises to be especially successful. The Glee and Mandolin Clubs are in better condition than ever before and the news of Madame Maconda's engagement will undoubtedly receive a hearty welcome from her admirers in Meadville.

The Football Schedule.

Allegheny Will Encounter Some Stiff Propositions on the Gridiron.

Manager Reynolds, of the '04 football team, has been hard at work on his schedule and after summing up innumerable difficulties is at last able to give it to the public. It is as follows:

Open—Sept. 24.
State College at State College—Oct. 1.
Hiram at Meadville—Oct. 8.
Western Reserve University at Cleveland—Oct. 15.
Westminster at New Wilmington—Oct. 22.
University of Syracuse at Syracuse, N. Y.—Oct. 29.
Geneva College at Meadville—Nov. 5.
Open—Nov. 12.
Case at Meadville—Nov. 19.
Westminster at Meadville—Nov. 24.

Princeton Seniors Will Build New Seats.

The cramped accommodations which have been a source of annoyance in recent years to the visitors who flock to Princeton during the commencement season will be materially helped by the construction of new seats for the canon exercises of class day. This is Princeton's most unique exercise attendant on graduation, one of especial interest to the class and visitors alike, but for which the accommodations have heretofore been very meager. The present seniors have started a fund for this purpose, and subsequent senior classes are expected to contribute their share until the seats are entirely paid for. There has been a general impression among undergraduates, handed down from year to year, that one member of the faculty has been peculiarly interested in these seats, and much hostile and severe criticism has been heaped upon the head of the unfortunate member. A committee of four prominent members of the senior class have carefully investigated the matter, and in a signed communication to the college "Daily" have exonerated the accused professor, attributing to him the entire credit for the "order and efficiency of the whole commencement" demanding that the classes now in college put a stop to such unjust criticism. That some professors are unjustly criticized cannot be doubted, but that some others earn their unpopularity is just as true.

PHI GAMS VICTORIOUS.

Baseball Team of Phi Gamma Delta Defeats the Willard Team.

Phi Gamma Delta Monday morning defeated the Willard club in a well played game of baseball. The battery work of Reynolds and Horn for Phi Gamma Delta and the pitching of Root for the Willard club were the features of the game. Score:

Phi Gams 1 2 5 1 0 2 2 2 0—15
Willard 0 0 4 1 0 0 1 2 0—8
Batteries—Reynolds and Horn; Root and Griggs.

Western Reserve University is to have a department of Political Science as a memorial to the late Senator Hanna.

Don't infer that our goods are inferior to the best makes, because they sell for less money.

Because the doctor found a harness under the bed he had no reason to infer that the patient swallowed a horse. We know we have today the strongest line of Union Made clothing in the city. This is talking big, but we have the goods and the prices to back it.

AN INNOVATION.

The traditions of Allegheny College has been a theme much discussed by the Quill Club of the college. It has found them sadly few in number and decidedly trivial in character.

Class distinction, too, is a mere name at Allegheny. As a general thing the Freshman classes, without any particular reference to the present one, are unambitious and uninteresting in a college way. Our Sophomore classes, upon whom fall largely the responsibility of making the spirit of the college, are as a general rule, slow and more self-centered than they need be. They manifest no interest in the welfare of the "Freshies" throughout the year; they make no objection when the "Freshies" try to run the college; they adopt no class insignia—they do nothing to display the grand and honorable fact that they are Sophomores.

In a similar way conditions might be exposed in the two upper classes, all revealing the utter lack of class distinction we have at Allegheny. To remedy this lack of tradition and lack of class distinction ought to be the work of the coming year.

In the line of tradition why should there not be inaugurated at Allegheny a "Moving Up" day? It would require sanction and co-operation on the part of the faculty, but we see no vital reasons that should stand in the way of the establishment of so charming a custom at Allegheny.

The general scheme of it is this: The day the Seniors are dismissed from chapel is made one of considerable importance. The class is formally dismissed with fitting ceremony, then the Juniors—next year's Seniors—file into the seats formerly occupied by the Seniors, the Sophomores into those of the Juniors, the Freshmen into those of the Sophomores. A program under the supervision of the Senior class is carried out, after which to properly complete the stunt the Freshmen ought to form a fantastic parade and with approsome symbol of their abnegation of Freshmen days and Freshmen characteristics.

Permission to make this change of seating would, of course, have to be obtained, but we see nothing which would stand in the way of its being granted those whose records make them eligible to "move up" into next year's classification.

He of the dead practical turn will object. What's the use of it? We are prone to admit that the college won't die without it, that it's adoption won't build any more buildings nor endow any more chairs, but all those who feel and appreciate our utter lack of observances at Allegheny which are strictly college-y ought to work heart and soul for the establishment of some such custom as this, and we believe the college authorities will eagerly welcome any efforts to infuse into our life more college observances.

The problem is for the Senior class. If it believes the scheme feasible let it appoint committees and immortalize itself by being the founder of "Moving Up Day."

DIRTY GRANDSTANDS.

While the attendance at games is not as large as desirable, the fact that so many students have turned out is an admirable tribute to their loyalty, considering the filthiness of the grandstands they have to sit in.

We can hardly blame men in light suits and women in light dresses for having an aversion to sitting down in seats covered with soot from the nearby railway; and it does seem as if more consideration might be shown those who attend the games than to compel them to sit in be-sooted seats would they see the contest.

Patrons are willing to make allowance for the fact that the building is a hard one to keep clean. But they ask that some attempt be made in that line.

It is hardly the duty of the managers to do personally the menial labor that will be connected with this. We don't elect them to slave—they get jolts enough as it is. But the Athletic Board ought to devote a little of its funds towards giving the grandstand a good cleaning and keeping it clean. The money it distributes is student money; the student body is furnishing it a base ball coach, thereby saving the association some two hundred dollars. Surely the student body has the right to ask that a couple of dollars of this money be devoted to cleaning up the grandstand so they may better enjoy the game. It is to be hoped the managers will assume the responsibility of having the work done before the next game.

Exchange Department

Several members of the cadet battalion of the University of Minnesota have started for Japan, with the intention of volunteering in the army of that country.

Brown University is to debate against Johns Hopkins this month, the subject being, "Resolved, that the attitude of the United States government toward the republics of Panama and Columbia was and is justifiable." A Japan club has been formed at Harvard. It was organized to further the interests of the Japanese in Harvard, and Harvard men in Japan.

One hundred and three men are out for the crew at Columbia, and the squad has been training for some time. Columbia, Harvard, Yale and Princeton, have forwarded a challenge to Oxford and Cambridge for a cable chess match to be played on six boards for possession of the Rice trophy.

The Dartmouth athletic council has engaged William R. Hamilton, the well known professional ball player of the Haverhill Club of the New England league, to coach the baseball team this season.

The number of girl students at the University of California is limited to five hundred. There are now four hundred and ninety-nine, and when the five hundredth girl is enrolled the gates of the university will be closed to the young women of California, until a vacancy occurs.

A number of institutions have recently incorporated a journalistic course in their curriculums. The University of Michigan took this step some time ago, and now the trustees of Indiana University have made the addition to the regular course.

Students at Yale University are seeing a grave danger to unified college spirit in the fact that groups of men are constantly leaving the campus to take rooms together at some hotel or private club. They claim if this condition of affairs continues Yale will lose her democratic spirit, so that various efforts are being made to stop the present tendency.

ALUMNI NOTES.

Among those called to the front in the Russo-Japanese war are Professor Okada, of the Anglo-Japanese College, Tokyo, who holds a captaincy in the Japanese army, and Mr. Arimatsu, also connected with the Anglo-Japanese College, who holds a commission. Both of these are Allegheny men.

Letter From Allegheny Alumnus in Korea.

The Rev. Wilbur C. Swearer, presiding elder of South Korea District, of Korea Mission, writing from Seoul under date of March 15 to Dr. A. B. Leonard, says:

"At the present time, in these disturbed conditions, we are working at the duties that are nearest at hand and are waiting for the issue of the conflict. When the tramp of armies is over we shall have to face the problem of reconstruction of our work in this country. In South District we have suffered in no wise from the war, but the church has rather received an impetus. In West District, though conditions are not quite so favorable, no serious disturbance has occurred, and no loss of any moment has been sustained. In the North—the Pyeng-Yang Province—the work has suffered severely, the people of whole villages fleeing before approaching armies. Chapels have been used for quartering soldiers. The reorganization of this work will require care and skillful management. Conditions in this part of the country are very quiet, and but for the groups of Japanese soldiers that we meet sauntering about on the streets we would not know that we were in the land of a belligerent.

"The Japanese soldiers are a sturdy lot: well built, active, and displaying great endurance. They are an orderly, sober, and well-behaved body of men. Most of the army has gone North, but a large guard is left here.

"From the present outlook conditions will radically change in this country at the conclusion of the war. Japan will probably establish such a protectorate over Korea as England has over Egypt. Japanese subjects will immigrate to this land in great numbers and will settle particularly in Seoul, Chemulpo, and the South. Already the problem of their evangelization has become too pressing to be longer neglected by us. I have, therefore, written to Bishop Moore and Japan Conference making a proposition that the two bodies co-operate in an effort to evangelize these masses in Seoul. A homogeneous mass of more than 5,000 people, among whom are a number of Christians and many others favorably inclined toward Christianity, and yet no pastor and no mission at work! Ten years more and the number will be 20,000 people, who are bound to exert a wide influence on Korea—politically, financially, socially, and religiously. We can use them as a stepping-stone to the evangelization of Korea itself. But if we neglect them we may sometime find them arrayed against us, a hindrance to our church work among the natives. I have made the proposition that Japan Conference send over one of its best native preachers to live in Seoul and to organize a Japanese church here, suggesting that the Conference pay half and we pay half of the preacher's salary, and that as fast as possible the church be brought to a self-supporting basis."

Allegheny and Pittsburg College Game.

wood. Things looked dark for Allegheny at this stage of the game. There were two men on bases and no one out. But Lockwood caught Duffy napping off second and Heilman. Russell and Lewis closed the inning by making a double play on Daugherty's bouncer. No runs.

Russell opened up the second inning for Allegheny by hitting the ball into right field. He reached second on an error by Murray. Here is where Collins' effectiveness and our lack of timely hitting came in. A man was on second and no one out. Heilman and Haas both struck out; and Mook hit an easy one to the pitcher. No runs.

Hayes received a free pass. Relihan struck out. Collins walked and Hayes advanced to second. Again there were two men on bases and only one out. Davin hit to Haas, who retired Hayes at third. Davin was forced out at second. No runs.

Lockwood was put out at first. Turner failed to hit the ball when he came up the second time. Selkregg reached first safely on Duffy's error. Wynn made a single advancing Selkregg. For the third time Allegheny had two men on bases. A hit meant two runs, but there was no hit for Lewis went out at first. No runs.

In the fourth inning Pittsburg went out in one-two-three order. Murray knocked a fly to Heilman, Daugherty knocked a similar one to Russell and Hayes was put out at first. No runs.

Then Allegheny scored the only run of the game. Russell batted out a base hit, Heilman struck out. Haas came forward with the hit of the day—a two base hit—and Russell was sent around the circuit. Mook and Lockwood were both put out at first. One run.

After this the game was void of interest as only one player reached second base and not another hit was made by either team.

Bransfield's Record.

Baseball, a game in which novel happenings and situations are always coming up, established a record last week which is liable to remain unbroken for many years to come. At that time "Kitty" Bransfield, Pittsburg's crack first baseman, turned the trick of pulling out seven assists in a nine-inning game.

The seven assists were acquired in this manner:

In the first round, when Pittsburg executed a triple play, Bransfield completed the trick by a throw to Wagner.

In the second inning, when Evers bunted, Branny ran in. Richey came down and stood on first, and Bransfield threw him the ball.

In the fifth, Kling was run down on the line, Bransfield getting a hand in on the play. He also fielded Chance out to Lee, covering first.

In the sixth, with Briggs on first, Slagle hit to Bransfield, who sent the ball to Wagner for a force play.

In the seventh, when Evers and Kling worked a double steal, Branny handled the ball, and got an assist even though the final play at the plate was a miscue.

In the eighth Ritchey covered second and took Branny's throw of McCarthy's grounder. And that was all for one day, thank you.

A Sound Mind in a Sound Body.

The false view of college athletics is the playing to win; for the college man is not primarily an athlete: the college man is primarily the scholar, the thinker, the gentleman, says the Saturday Evening Post. But the false view of college athletics is altogether too common and too strongly held in American institutions and in American society. Winning represents a positive result which one easily perceives and naturally rejoices over. It is a form of materialism which is a sign of a new civilization.

The true view of college athletics is that athletics represents a means and not an end. Athletics embodies the training of muscle the improvement of health, the discipline of physical force. These results, however good as results, are only methods and conditions for the enlargement and enrichment of every part of manhood.

If the true view of athletics could be made to prevail noble results would follow. The excesses which too often accompany college victories would cease; the undue attention on the part of college authorities and bodies of students would be eliminated; a more proper adjustment of all conditions of college life would be secured.

In England athletics are regarded more as a means than as an end. The English custom should prevail with us.

Pulitzer on His School of Journalism.

Some of my critics have called my scheme "visionary," says Pulitzer in regard to his school of journalism. If it be so, I can at least plead that it is a vision I have cherished long, thought upon deeply and followed persistently. Twelve years ago I submitted the idea to President Low, of Columbia, when it was declined. I have ever since continued to perfect and organize the scheme in my mind, until it is now accepted. In examining the criticisms and misgivings I have endeavored to do so without prejudice, anxious only to find the truth. I admit that the difficulties are many, but after weighing them all impartially I am more firmly convinced than ever of the ultimate success of the idea. Before the century closes schools of journalism will be generally accepted as a feature of specialized higher education, like schools of law or of medicine.

They object, the critics and cavaliers, that a "newspaper man" must depend solely upon natural aptitude, or, in the common phrase, that he must be "born, not made."

The "born editor" who has succeeded greatly without special preparation is simply a man with unusual ability and aptitude for his chosen profession, with great power of concentration and sustained effort. He is one who loves his work and puts his whole heart and mind into it. He is in the strictest sense an educated man, but he has merely substituted self-education for education by others, making up for any deficiencies in his training by the unreserved sacrifice of strength, energy and pleasure. Even in his case might it not be an advantage to have a system of instruction that would give him the same results at a saving of much time and labor?

Webster defines "buss," to kiss. Therefore he insisted that "Rebuss" is to kiss again, that "Buskin" is kissing your cousin; that "Blunderbuss" is a kiss administered to the wrong party; that "Omnibus" is kissing all the girls in the room and the fellow that does it is a regular "Buster."—Ex.

The following changes in football rules for next fall were made by the national committee at its Philadelphia meeting:

Goal from field to count four points instead of five.

Six men must be in the line of scrimmage at all times.

If seven men are in the line when the ball is snapped, the first man to receive the ball from center may run with it, providing he goes outside the second man from center—that is, the tackle.

Team which is losing can have choice of kick-off or the wind, but cannot have both.

The team which loses twenty yards by penalty is not to be given first down.
